CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Mary J. Welsh, 66 years old, blind for fifty years, returned to her home near Hillsdale, Mich., to see her eight children for the first time. She had been treated in Chicago for eleven weeks.

An operation was performed at Wesley Hospital by Dr. Brown Pusey, and several days later, when the bandages were removed from her eyes, she saw for the first time 'n half a century.

"Mrs. Welsh was overcome with joy," said an attendant at the hospital today. "Two days ago she was discharged as cured and she rushed home on the first train to get a glimpse of her eight children now grown, whom she had never seen. Mrs. Welsh's husband is an invalid and she supported the entire family for years by taking in washing.

Bryan Now Favors Protectorate.

Secretary of State Is Eager to Create Another Cuba in Central America.

Urges that Platt Amendments Be Added to the Pending Taft Treaty.

Wilson Approves Policy that Startles Turbulent Southern Republics.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Secretary of State Bryan laid before the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations today a proposal to establish by treaty what amounts to an American protectorate over the republic of Nicaragua.

The correspondent is able to give details of this important step by the administration—a step which not only affects Nicaragua vitally, but is significant in regard to the policy of the United States toward Latin America generally under the new administration.

Secretary Bryan proposed to incorporate in the pending treaty with Nicaragua three clauses of the so-called "Platt amendment" which will constitute the same effective control that the United States now exercises over the republic of Cuba.

The treaty with Nicaragua, to which the vital clauses of the Platt amendment will be added, was negotiated in the closing days of the Taft administration and provides for the payment by the United States of $3,000,000 to Nicaragua. In return Nicaragua cedes to the United States the exclusive right to construct an interoceanic canal across that country, thus foreclosing this route to any European powers and in addition gives the United States a naval base on the gulf of Fonseca and several important points on the Atlantic coast of Nicaragua.

Secretary Bryan, to the great surprise and disappointment of certain disturbing elements in Latin America several weeks ago, gave his enthusiastic approval to this treaty and now proposes to go still further by adding the vitalizing clauses of the Platt amendment. These clauses as they will read in the proposed Nicaragua treaty are as follows:

PROPOSED AMENDMENT.

"Article I.—That the government of Nicaragua shall never enter into any treaty or other compact with any foreign power or powers which will impair or tend to impair the independence of Nicaragua, nor in any manner authorize or permit any foreign power or powers to obtain by colonization, or for military or naval purposes or otherwise, lodgement in or control over any portion of said country.

"Article II.—That said government shall not assume or contract any public debt, to pay interest upon which the ordinary revenues of the country, after defraying the current expenses of government, shall be inadequate.

"Article III.—That the government of Nicaragua consents that the United States may exercise the right to intervene for the preservation of Nicaraguan independence, the maintenance of government adequate for the protection of life, property and individual liberty."

APPROVED BY WILSON.

To insert these clauses, identical with those of the Platt amendment in regard to Cuba, was Bryan's proposal upon which he today sought the advice and consent of members of the Senate committee. Bryan informed the Senators that he spoke for the President, who has given his wholehearted and enthusiastic support to the plan. Furthermore, the government of Nicaragua not only is agreeable to the proposal, but is, in fact, the originator of it.

It was at the request of special commissioners from Nicaragua that Bryan took the proposal under consideration and laid it before the President for his approval. This approval, it is understood, has been given without the slightest reservation by President Wilson.

Today's step is regarded as the keystone of the Wilson administration's policy toward the weaker Latin American states. It seems to indicate clearly that President Wilson and Secretary Bryan have reached a conclusion long maintained by the Taft administration, that the helping hand of the United States must be extended to Central American republics in the hour of their need.

DOLLAR DIPLOMACY IS REHABILITATED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 19.—It is understood the Nicaraguan government is willing to enter into the proposed treaty with the United States because of the stability it would give to the present Diaz government and to the proposed reorganization of the fiscal affairs of the republic. It is understood a refunding of the Nicaraguan debt, for which about $15,000,000 is required, does not form a specific part of the negotiations laid today before the Senate committee.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 19.—TExclusive Dispatch.] A dapper little man hopped from a Jackson Park train on the South Side elevated to the platform at Indiana avenue today and gazed about him in bewilderment.

"There goes your train," bawled the guard, pointing at a stockyards train about to start. "Now you've missed it, you bonehead."

It was then that the blood of the "Great Cardinal" spoke in the veins of his relative, Jean Armand de Chappelle de Jumilhac, Duke de Richelieu, Duke de Fronsac and Marquis de Jumilhac, as he stood on the sun-blistered boards of the elevated platform.

"You impertinent rummy," said the Duke, witheringly, turning his back, and the insult to the blood of the ruler of kings was wiped out.

In addition to adoring the tango, the Duke is a ragtime enthusiast and follows the movies with vigor. He is a lukewarm suffragist, can't see anything wrong with September Morn from where he stands, and sticks up for his countrymen in the matter of supplying our women with doubtful street costumes. His opinion of American women is shown by his decisive action last February when he married Miss Eleanor Douglas Wise, a Baltimore belle. She is with him in Chicago but did not visit the stockyards.

ENCOURAGED BY MAYOR "REDS" RUN AMUCK.

Rioting in Seattle Started by I.W.W. Agitator, Who, Under the Aegis of Cotterill, Encouraged His Anarchist Pals to Strike and Stab Sailors of Pacific Fleet. The True Facts of the Case.

BY C. B. BLETHEN,

Managing Editor of the Seattle Times.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mayor Cotterill of Seattle has during the eighteen months he has served as chief executive of this city, permitted the I.W.W.'s and the anarchist branch of the Socialists to flaunt their red rag and promulgate their outrageous doctrines to an extent unparalleled in any city in America.

The Seattle Times has, single-handed, led a fight for Old Glory against the display of anarchy's dirty emblem and against the dissemination of the red's horrible ideas.

As is well known, the Seattle Times building was destroyed by fire in February under exceedingly suspicious circumstances, though no success has attended the search for the probable criminals.

Seattle's midsummer Potlatch, closely allied to the New Orleans Mardi Gras, involves a great display of the country's colors and the attendance of American warships and troops. Thursday night a group of sailors and soldiers passing an anarchistic orator permitted on the streets by Mayor Cotterill, were assailed by a mob of I.W.W.'s at the instigation of the soap-box orator. They were brutally beaten and stabbed. The same night Secretary Daniels publicly proclaimed in our leading club his belief that the red flag should be eliminated from American cities. The Times was the only Seattle paper which displayed Daniels' utterances and condemned the I.W.W.'s.

The next night, Friday, a group of soldiers and sailors, absolutely sober and earnest, destroyed the contents and decorations of every red-flag den in the city. In a vain attempt to save himself from the disgrace of his un-American record and its results, the Mayor attempted to place the city under riot law and issued orders closing the saloons and forbidding the Times to publish this

Mayor Who Insists on Unbridled Speech for Enemies of the American Flag Tries in Vain to Choke the Editor of the One Newspaper There With Courage to Fight the Amazing Doctrines of the I.W.W. and the Socialists.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) July 19.—At dusk tonight the police expected to be able to preserve order in the streets through which the sailors and marines of the Pacific reserve fleet swept last night, wrecking the headquarters of the Industrial Workers and radical Socialists. The police had hoped that the saloons would be closed tonight, but a judge overruled Mayor Cotterill's order closing them.

A great number of men from the fleet were ashore, and with money, for they had been permitted to draw pa ytoday. With the sailors also came ashore a large patrol under command of one of the captains of the fleet, prepared to round up the men the moment any disorder was reported. A large number of extra police had been sworn in. A factor for quiet, too, was the fact that there were no more places to sack.

Industrial Workers of the World said tonight that they had received warning yesterday of a plot to wreck their establishments and that all their records had been taken away and their men warned to keep out of the way of the men when it appeared.

Public interest, after the debris of the Socialist and Industrial Workers wreckage had been swept away, centered in the unsuccessful effort of Mayor Cotterill to prevent the publication of the Seattle Times today and tomorrow, the Mayor alleging that articles in the Times were responsible for last night's rioting. Judge Humphries came to the rescue of the Times with an injunction and the city edition of the paper came out on time at 3 o'clock when the police guard which had been put over the mailing-room was withdrawn.

When the restraining order was served on Mayor Cotterill and Chief of Police Bannick they appeared before Judge Humphries with Assistant Corporation Counsel Ralph Pierce and protested against the issuance of ex parte restraining orders, and contending that the city was entitled to notice and opportunity to defend the action. They asked that the court hear them in opposition to the order, and were refused by the court. The Mayor then announced that the city would obey the court's orders, though under protest, and Chief of Police Bannick promptly telephoned to Lieut. Dolphin, who was in charge of the guard at the Times plant, to release the papers, which were already in the hands of newsboys held under police guard in the mailing-room.

The attorneys who obtained the restraining order for the Times were followed by a delegation of lawyers representing saloon-keepers, who obtained orders restraining the police from closing fourteen bars in the city. During the remainder of the afternoon Judge Humphries remained in his courtroom granting restraining orders, and by evening all the saloons were doing business as usual.

I.W.W. RUSE BY HAYWOOD.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PATERSON (N. J.) July 19.—William D. Haywood of the Industrial Workers of the World, who permitted announcement to be made that he had retired from active participation in the silk mill strike because of his physical condition, assumed leadership of the situation again last night. His return was prompted apparently by a resolution adopted by 2500 weavers at a mass meeting this afternoon urging that the strike terminate and that the operatives return to work at the best terms they could negotiate with their employers.

Haywood, Joseph Ettor, Adolph Lessig and George Speed, rebuked the strikers at a meeting for their action and urged them to continue the strike.

PUT A GUARD AT MONUMENT.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) July 19.—Sixteen Spanish-American veterans last night guarded the monument to the Second Oregon Regiment in one of the park blocks to see that the Industrial Workers of the World and Socialists did not desecrate the monument during the riot. The veterans have asked to be sworn in as deputy sheriffs. They were effective in breaking the mob organization at times, but gave no actual assistance to the authorities. Tonight's disturbance was the third in four days.

A WOMAN'S STORY.

SHE BLAMES THE SAILORS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Friends of Mayor Cotterill today got affidavits from witnesses of the street fight of Thursday night and of the rioting last night for the purpose of making a record of the events. Mrs. Annie Miller, who was addressing a street meeting Thursday night when several sailors and soldiers were beaten by members of the I.W.W. swore today that the row was precipitated when one of the sailors threatened to strike her.

Mrs. Miller, after telling that she is not a member of the I.W.W. and that she was giving a talk on woman's rights swears the sailors broke up her meeting. She says:

"I sent several men to get the stand, but without success; then I went to get the stand in order to return it to its owner and on asking for it a large sailor raised his first to strike me, whereupon a well-dressed man wearing a diamond ring asked him, 'You'd hit a woman, would you?' and therewith hit him with his first a number of times. I was grabbed by the other uniformed men, but was successfully carried out of the crowd by members of the I.W.W."

Mexican Rebels Destroy Troop Train.

British Minister Is Recalled from Huerta's Capital.

Japs Lay Plans to Lease Land in Morelos.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Many persons are believed to have been killed and scores injured when rebels dynamited a Federal troop train at Lampazos, Nuevo Leon. Reports of the disaster reached this city today.

The international situation was made more complex today when it became known through an authoritative source at the British Legation that England had recalled Minister Stronge, following complaints of his action during the bombardment of the city. He will leave shortly to make way for Minister Carden, appointed in his place. Still another unexplainable situation arose when it was learned today that Italy had recalled her Minister.

Extraordinary preparations were made this afternoon to give Felix Diaz a great send-off when he leaves for Japan, where, it is said, he will be the special representative of the Huerta government at the Mikado's court.

In connection with the departure of Diaz, the old reports that arrangements were under way by which the Huerta government will grant special concessions to 50,000 prospective Japanese settlers of land in the State of Morelos and contiguous States, cropped out today. They were persistently circulated and a statement said to have been made by the Minister of Colonization and Industry included details of concessions which are said to have been granted to Japanese at the special request of the Mikado.

NOGALES (Ariz.) July 19.—Gen. Obregon, the Constitutionalist leader, suffering from the effects of a recent sunstroke, was reported today to be on the way to Nogales, Sonora, for medical treatment. It was said he will be succeeded in the Guaymas campaign by Juan Cabral and that more aggressive operations against the Federals there might be expected.

AMERICANS IN DANGER.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

EL PASO (Tex.) July 19.—According to the American Consul at Juarez, fourteen American men in Madera, Chihuahua, and six families of women and children are in danger of an attack by bandits and marauders, and it is said by officials of the Northwestern Railway Company that the Mexican Federal government has announced its inability to offer them adequate protection.

Particular uneasiness is felt for the safety of the Americans because of their recent activity in running down bandits who robbed ranches and burned property in that neighborhood.

The bandits swore vengeance against all Americans in the district declaring they would rob their homes and slay them. The Americans have some rifles and ammunition and will make a stand if driven to it. In the meantime they are making efforts to get out of the country.

FIELD GUNS REPAIRED, READY FOR USE AGAIN.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) July 19.—The two largest of the eight field guns captured from the Federals have been repaired at the Cananea machine shops and are on the way to the front today to be used in the new siege of Guaymas.

Constitutionalist leaders here say that if Gov. Maytorena, the Sonora chief, who led in the secession of that State, desires to return, Ygnacio Pesqueira, acting Governor, would relinquish the office, and take command of the military district comprising Sonora, Sinaloa, Chihuahua and Coahuila. Maytorena advocated the rebellion of Sonora, immediately after the assassination of Madero.

OJEDA SUPERSEDED, BUT HE HELD GUAYMAS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) July 19.—Federal advices received today confirmed the report that Gen. Pedro Ojeda had been superseded as commander at Guaymas by Gen. Bravo. Ojeda has gone south on the gunboat Morelos, which, according to other reports, took part today in the defense of Mazatlan against insurgent attack. Rebels were said to have taken one position at Mazatlan, when they were shelled by the Morelos.

OBREGON COMING TO LOS ANGELES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NOGALES (Ariz.) July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The renewed attack which the rebels assured would be made on Guaymas if the Federals did not sally forth has not materialized. On the contrary, all the rebel forces are reported to be leaving the front and massing at Hermosillo. Eight hundred rebels, who had been disarmed, arrived today at Nogales and were dispatched eastward. They gave out that the privates among them had received twenty and the officers forty pesos each and that they were going to their homes, but there is reason to believe that they went by rail to Agua Prieta, thence to continue by land to Juarez to aid Generalisimo Francisco Villa in his long deferred attack on that frontier town.

Their arrival timed with that of rebel Col. Juan Dozal, formerly of Orozco's staff, but lately a companion of Villa's in the latter's hikes. Juan Dozal has been in Hermosillo for the purpose, it is asserted, of asking Gov. Pesqueira for reinforcements to attack Juarez and returned today with Maj. M. M. Dieguez together with the forces mentioned. Affairs in Hermosillo have reached, word comes, the nose tweaking stage. The rebel organ, LaVoz del Sonora, informs that due to the illness, Gen. Alvaro Obregon, erstwhile commander in chief of all of the rebel forces of the south, has relinquished his command to Gen. Salvador Alvarado.

It is reported that Obregon may go to Los Angeles for treatment. It is also rumored that rivalry, not to speak of estranged relations, exist between the two generals and that dissension generally is rampant among the rebel leaders and forces.

The Gazette mentioned also features the controversy between Obregon and Manuel Bauche Alcade, a past well-known Maderista and character of Mexico City. Each, it is said, questions the veracity of the other over the happenings at the recent so-called battle at Santa Maria. Bauche, who sometimes essays the role of writer, covering in his chronicle Gen. Alvarado with glory, thereby dimming Obregon's star and Obregon promising a counter narrative upon his recovery, attributing the animus behind the story to Bauche's objection from Obregon's command on discovering that Bauche had slapped some of the nurses of the White Cross and upon ascertaining from an investigation thereupon, set on foot that Bauche was a bogus colonel and but a mere camp follower.

Superhuman efforts and the exercise of unusual play of wits are said to have been employed last night to prevent an alleged sanguinary mutiny in Nogales, Sonora, when all the rebel soldiers, rifle in hand, menaced the commandant of the barracks with an unpleasant alternative were not money long since due, forthcoming speedily. At the cost of sweating blood it is said, order was restored by promising to pay the soldiers an installment today and likewise as part of the palliative brand new khaki suits which have been going over in carloads all day today.

It is reported that the story that former Gov. Mayttorena was approached by Federal agents with bribes, has turned out a canard.

DIAZ DENIES HE'S AN EXILE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LAREDO (Tex.) July 19.—Rumors that political exile is involved in Gen. Felix Diaz's special embassy to Japan to thank that government for it participation in the Mexican centennial are denied in a message from Diaz received her today. The message said:

"Accept mission to Japan solely and exclusively to give thanks for the Embassy of that government to our recent centennial. Any other motive is unfounded and entirely false."

The message is interpreted to mean that Diaz will be a Presidential candidate.

REBELS TO ATTACK CITY OF TORREON.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MEXICO CITY, July 19.—A large force of rebels is planning to attack Torreon, according to a Mexican officer who escaped from jail in Durango and by a circuitous route reached Torreon. He said that rebels under command of Tomas Urbina are moving north from Durango, and additional forces under Gen. Nateras are known to be moving toward Torreon from Zacatecas.

There are no government advices to support the rebel assertions that the town has been attacked, but it would cause no surprise if the assault had begun. Two thousand government troops, with some artillery, are stationed at Torreon, but the long isolation of the town must have reduced the food supplies.

A thousand troops of different detachments are south of Torreon, but the line is cut north and south, making the hope of reinforcements from that quarter slight.

In reply to the representations of the American Embassy regarding aid for Durango where there are many Americans, the government has given its customary assurances that it will do the best possible, but there is little chance of Federal troops entering Durango for a considerable time. It is not practicable to send them south from Chihuahua. Gen. Carranza is keeping the Federals busy to the east, while help from the south is possible only after the rebels have been cleared from the neighborhood of Torreon.

The archbishop of Durango who was held prisoner for a ransom of 500,000 pesos, has been freed on the payment of 3000. This was furnished by the Foreign Consuls.

The insurgents, who hold the National Railway, reached a point sixty miles north of San Luis Potosi today and burned the station at Charcos, as well as several bridges south of the Federals. This means that at least three detachments of Federals are isolated at different points between San Luis Potosi and Saltillo.

A number of Americans are employed in the mines near Charcos, and the question of their safety has given rise to anxiety. The railway from San Luis Potosi to Tampico has been cut by the rebels.

TO SHIP US FIREFLIES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Fireflies, insects heretofore unknown in parts of California, may soon light up at night the Sacramento and San Joaquin Valleys.

Representative Curry has taken up with the Department of Agriculture a plan to have fireflies imported into the valleys and the bureau of entomology is willing to send an experimental shipment of the insects to the State entomologist at Sacramento.

Safeguard Nicaragua.

fessed to believe that should the step be taken in Nicaragua extending American influence over its affairs to the extent suggested by Secretary of State Bryan, it would be followed by efforts to negotiate similar treaties with all of the republics in Central America. Many Senators strongly favor such a course, claiming it is necessary to the permanent safety and control of the Panama Canal.

In its original form, the Nicaraguan treaty involved only the exclusive grant of canal rights and the grant of a naval base to the United States. Members of the Foreign Relations Committee were not prepared for the further suggestion made by the Secretary of State today. After a meeting lasting more than an hour the conference was continued until next Saturday.

The committee refused to act upon the Nicaraguan treaty negotiated by the Taft administration, but has been strongly urged by the Wilson administration to support the proposed compact. The Nicaraguan government is anxious for the ratification of the treaty, it is believed, in the hope that plans can then be made for the refunding of its debt and the reorganization of its fiscal system, through the control of customs receipts by the United States or in some other manner.

The Nicaraguan canal route would come permanently under the control of the United States through the proposed treaty. While that route was decided against, and the Panama route chosen for the building of the American canal, administration officials favor the permanent acquisition of the discarded route to prevent its use by some other power.

Senators were not prepared tonight to predict how far the power of the United States might go into Nicaraguan domestic affairs, should the suggested policy be adopted. It is understood, however, that within the last few months this government has interfered with the building of a bridge in the harbor of Havana, on the ground that it might be a menace to navigation, and that the representations made by the United States have resulted in the cessation of work there.

BLAMED FOR ELEVEN DEATHS.

Coroner's Verdict Finds a City Official of Lawrence, Mass., Responsible for Drowning of Boys.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LAWRENCE (Mass.) July 19.—The negligence of the superintendent of public property, John O. Battershill, was responsible primarily for the accident at the public bath-house on June 30, when eleven boys were drowned, according to the verdict of the inquest announced today.

Judge Mahoney, who presided, said that the walk connecting the bath-house with the shore was unsafe and that the superintendent should have guarded against thoughtless conduct of the children who crowded on the walk and by their rough play caused it to collapse.

TRIAL STARTS ON THIRTEENTH.

Widow of Admiral Eaton Must Answer the Charge of Having Murdered the Man.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GREENFIELD (Mass.) July 19.—Chief Justice Aiken today ordered that the trial of Mrs. Jennie May Eaton, for the murder of her husband, Rear-Admiral Joseph Giles Eaton, retired, be called at Plymouth on October 13.

Mrs. Eaton was arrested twelve days after the admiral died from poisoning at their home in Assinippi on March 8. Arrangements for the trial were made at a conference which Dist.-Atty. A. D. Barker and William A. Morse, the latter chief counsel for Mrs. Eaton, had with the chief justice.

Mrs. Eaton is accused of having placed poison in coffee and other food prepared for the admiral. A post-mortem examination revealed the presence of a deadly drug in the stomach, but so far as known the authorities have never been able to trace the purchase of the poison.

The question of Mrs. Eaton's sanity has been raised, and after her indictment Dist.-Atty. Barker announced that he would ask that this point be determined by a medical commission. No action in the matter has been taken by the courts.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Tom Fox, whose nomination for postmaster at Sacramento is being held up in the Senate on objections of Senator Works, has arrived here. Fox is busy trying to overcome Works's objections to his confirmation.

The only charge against Fox made public here is "a machine politician with Southern Pacific affiliations." In view of the great number of indorsements of Fox it is believed that Works's fight to prevent confirmation will not be successful.

PORTLAND JAILS TROUBLEMAKERS

Determined to Rid Itself of I.W.W. Agitators.

Sixty-four Arrested Since Cannery Strike Began.

Female Socialist Refuses to Eat Prison Chuck.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND (Or.) July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After three days of rioting on the part of the I.W.W.'s and Socialists, starting from a strike in the plant of the Oregon Packing Company and resulting in sixty-four arrests; many heads cracked with clubs in the hands of the police and Sheriff's forces; several participants fined and one Socialist agitator sent to the rock pile for forty days, after serving which term he may be deported as an undesirable British subject, Portland decided today at a conference with the Mayor and the county officials to clean the city. The city will try one of the women ringleaders for insanity and purge Oregon of rioters who have hurt themselves, the public and business.

The trouble in the Courthouse Square last night began late, after many of the spectators, who gathered early in the evening, had departed for their homes, believing that no trouble was to follow. This made the work of the Sheriff and his deputies, when trouble did start, much easier than it was during the riotous disturbances at Sixth and Washington Thursday.

The meeting at the Plaza last night was called under the auspices of Socialists' local. The speakers who took up the first hour were temperate in their remarks and did not once break out in vilification and abuse of the authorities. These were followed later by agitators.

George Reese was speaking when the trouble started. He referred to the restrictions placed on speaking in the streets and declared that the streets would soon be used again for that purpose, "even if we have to carry gas pipes."

At this remark Sheriff Word stepped forward and informed Reese that he "wanted him."

Reese immediately climbed down and surrendered.

As Word and his deputies started to lead Reese away, a number of agitators in the crowd began to shout "turn him loose," "Let's free him." In an instant a turmoil was on. The officers drew their clubs and were forced to use them freely.

James Gregory mixed in the scuffle with the Sheriff and jumped on his back in an effort to free the prisoner. Gregory was knocked down and received a cut over the eye in the resulting melee.

The officers were forced to take Reese down Third street and around to the Courthouse. The crowd followed closely and when the prisoner was within the Courthouse the deputies turned back and cleared the block.

SIXTY-FOUR ARRESTED.

Six men were arrested during the disturbances. They were James Gregory, I. Beeler, G. W. Reese, Henry Peterson, Hugo Mattson and Frank Scheletski.

This brings the total number of arrests since the trouble started last Tuesday evening to sixty-four.

These six men were arraigned in the Police Court this morning. They demanded jury trials. Bail was set at $250 each and they were returned to the County Jail.

Two police last evening arrested sixteen men who were loitering around the North End saloons and the railroad yards. They were taken before Judge Stevenson this morning and told to get to work or leave the city. They are believed to be I.W.W. sympathizers.

I. D. Ramsley, one of the most abusive of the agitators of the Industrial Workers of the World who was arrested Tuesday night and who since has been confined awaiting trial, is one of the men who wrote and signed the scurrilous pamphlet during the visit of Theodore Roosevelt to Portland last September. Ramsley's name appears with six others at the bottom of the pamphlet as "I.W. W. Ramsley."

None of the other six have yet been arrested during the present trouble; it is said that most of them have left the city.

Thomas Burns, I.W.W. agitator, was taken to the rock pile today to serve forty days for using abusive language in street speaking. He was found guilty by a jury.

HUNGER STRIKE.

Absolutely refusing to partake of what she calls "prison chuck," Dr. Marie Equi, who was bound over to the Municipal Court yesterday afternoon to await action by the grand jury on charges of inciting a riot, carrying a concealed weapon and assault with a dangerous weapon, and who will be examined as to sanity, has gone without food since first lodged in jail Thursday night with the exception of a peach that she purchased herself and a cup of black coffee today. Thursday she was so busily engaged in arranging for street speaking Thursday night that she missed her luncheon and dinner.

"I absolutely refuse to touch prison chuck," declared Dr. Equi, "and I will not partake of it if they keep me here for months. I have not gone on a hunger strike as they do in CANNING CAMPAIGN OPENS.

One Hundred and Seventy-five Thousand Cases to Be Packed by Stockton Plant.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKTON, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The California Fruit Canners Association will next Tuesday open its large plant here for the 1913 season and the prospects are that it will be the most successful in its history.

An elaborate programme has been mapped out and the managers expect to pack at least 175,000 cases of fruit and vegetables. The season will begin with peaches, then follow pears, plums, tomatoes and apples. According to reports received from various parts of the supplying territory there is lots of fruit already available and a prosperous season is predicted.

In order to operate the big plant, 400 women and girls and 200 or more men will have to be engaged. The average wage received by girls and women is $15 per week, though it is nothing unusual for a girl to make as high as $30 per week.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) July 19.—The Potlatch of 1913 came to an end tonight with exercises bidding farewell to the Tyee of the Tillikums. These exercises took place at the reviewing stand, at the close of the street pageant of the Tillikums through the principal streets. The Pacific reserve fleet in the harbor was illuminated, and there was a brilliant fireworks display over the water of the bay. A great throng of people witnessed the children's parade through the streets in the afternoon. The crowd in the streets tonight was even larger than last night. The sailors of the fleet were confined to their ships tonight.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

STOCKTON, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Cereal Mill and Warehouse Men's Union of this city met late tonight to discuss the feasibility of calling a strike at the Sperry Flour Company's local plant. Union officials were reluctant to discuss the matter in advance of its being acted upon by the Central Labor Council, but admitted that sentiment in favor of a walk-out is rapidly crystallizing. About 250 men are affected.

Thomas Vitaich, business agent of the union, declares that the Sperry company's employees recently presented an agreement calling for a nine-hour day and a wage of $3 per day with time and a half for holidays and overtime work, and that General Manager Luke refused to sign it. The company was immediately placed on the unfair list.

The Sperry company, which operates a number of flour mills on the Pacific Coast, has informed its employees, it is said, that if a strike is called the Stockton plant may be closed down indefinitely. If the plant is shut down, local shipping interests will suffer, as nearly all the grain used by the mill is brought here by steamer.

CAPITALIST KILLED ON TRACK. MOTORCYCLE STRUCK BY TRAIN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OAKLAND, July 19.—A Southern Pacific train struck the motorcycle on which Fred Larder, a Los Gatos capitalist, was attempting to cross the tracks at Verona, opposite Mrs. Phoebe Hearst's hacienda this afternoon, and instantly killed the rider. Larder was going east toward Pleasanton, and the train, which was westbound, struck him at a curve where the vegetation grows close to the road, obscuring the track. Larder was 40 years old, and a contractor. His wife and three children are visiting at Modesto.

Eastern Railways and Their Dissatisfied Conductors and Trainmen Maintain Truce.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 19.—The eastern railroads and their dissatisfied conductors and trainmen today continued the truce which for the last week has rested on Congress' mediation and arbitration steps toward averting the threatened strike of 80,000 men. An anxiously-awaited development was the confirmation late today by the Senate of William Lea Chambers as Commissioner of Mediation under the Newlands arbitration law, and G. W. W. Hanger to be assistant commissioner. They are expected here tomorrow or Monday for the beginning of their labors.

The mediators will be confronted at the outset with a stubborn difference of opinion between the roads and the men as to the debatable questions. The labor leaders maintain that the only point to be considered is the employees' demand for higher wages, but the railroad managers contend that they have grievances which must be arbitrated.

FIND JAP CHAUFFEURS ARE REPLACING WHITES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SACRAMENTO (Cal.) July 19.—Japanese are rapidly replacing Caucasian chauffeurs in the driver's seat of automobiles owned by rich Southern California motor-car owners, according to figures given out today by the State motor vehicle department. More than fifty chauffeurs' licenses issued thus far this month have been given to Japanese. Of this number more than 80 per cent. reside south of the Tehachepi.

In most cases the application for a chauffeur's license in the case of the Japanese is made out by the motor-car owner with directions to mail the badge to him.

Approximately 5000 chauffeur's licenses have been issued during the last year. It has only been during the last two months that the replacing of white drivers by Japanese has been noticeable.

The Larger Evil.

PLAN SYMPATHY STRIKE TO HELP PHOENIX CARMEN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PHOENIX, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A persistent rumor has grown up here concerning a sympathetic strike of the unions, to be in force while the striking carmen remain out of their jobs, and the announcement of a strikers' parade and mass meeting for tomorrow afternoon seems in a way to bear the rumor out. The strike situation remains much the same, however, as regards the relations between carmen and the management of the company.

If today is repeated once or twice, the strike of the Phoenix carmen will die of inanition. Work on the cars was uninterrupted the whole day and more of the permanent employees were set to work.

The parade tomorrow afternoon from the Labor Temple to the City Hall Plaza will be followed by a mass meeting addressed by labor agitators who will endeavor to keep up the enthusiasm of the strikers and play upon the sympathies of the public so that the present condition may continue, keeping the car company and the public on edge.

Manager Mitchell remains silent on the strike question but continues to hold out the jobs to most of the strikers.

The city and county authorities are "asleep at the switch" in the business of enforcing the law against disorder and violence, waking up only at times to draw their pay for doing nothing to protect life, limb and property.

Sixty-third Congress.

CUMMINS FLAYS TARIFF MEASURE.

Declares It Spells Disaster for the Democratic Party.

Criticises President for His Interference in Senate.

Denounces Secret Caucus in Which Bill Was Drafted.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Senator Cummins, opening the tariff debate today for the Progressive Republicans, declared that the Republican party lost the confidence of the people and was "driven from power largely because it insisted upon the maintenance of import duties, many of which were unnecessarily and oppressively high."

"The Democratic party," he asserted, "soon will be overtaken with like disaster because it is about to inflict upon the country a tariff law which, with respect to many things, invites the perils of free trade, and which with respect to many others, imposes duties that are dangerously and destructively low and which, from end to end, grievously discriminates against the West in favor of the East—that is to say, in favor of the manufacturer against the farmer.

"The Republican craft went down in the whirlpool of Scylla in 1912, and its Democratic successor is steering straight for the rocks of Charybdis, where it will go to pieces in the stress of 1916.

"There is a passageway to safety and prosperity. The Progressive Republicans charted it in 1909, and they will chart it again in 1913. Some time the American people will make the trip under these pilots, but, in the meantime, we must suffer another shipwreck, bearing its hardships, as I hope we will, with patriotism and fortitude."

DESTRUCTIVE SCHEDULES.

Besides pointing out many things that he considered destructive and entirely unwarranted in the bill, Senator Cummins criticised the President for his influence exerted upon members of Congress concerning the tariff bill, an influence, he said, so persistent and determined that it became coercive."

"I do not charge, nor do I believe," said Senator Cummins, "that the President, in terms, barters this power for legislative subordination; but I do say that, without barter, the knowledge of the consequences that may follow legislative independence, will bring about all the evils of actual wrongdoing unless the most scrupulous care is exercised in communications between the President and members of Congress. It lies with the President himself to mark out the path of propriety, and to pursue such a course as will enable every member of the legislative branch of our public affairs to feel free and unrestrained in every vote that he casts.

"So long as the President is permitted to set up a standard of loyalty to the party to which the man may belong, and condemn every man who does not accept it; and so long as members of Congress vote under the apprehension that they may suffer from the Presidential power controlled by his judgment instead of their own, so long will Congress incur, and will deserve the contempt of all true lovers of free and representative government."

Senator Cummins declared he believed the bill would be modified if members of Congress voted their convictions, but that it would not be modified, "largely because the President of the United States, assuming to interpret and apply the economic doctrine of his party, has laid the heavy hand of his power upon a branch of the government that ought to be co-ordinate but, which in fact has become subordinate."

TYRANNICAL CAUCUS.

Attacking as "tyrannical" the Democratic secret caucus on the bill, the Iowa Senator declared it was more indefensible than the tactics resorted to by the Republican leaders in preliminary consideration of the Payne-Aldrich bill.

"So long as the real legislation takes place in a caucus it cannot be known what any man says or how any man votes," he charged. "It is not only invisible, but inaudible government."

Tariff for revenue, Senator Cummins said, he regarded as "obsolete, unjust and intolerable," and that "the moment protection becomes unnecessary, free trade is demanded by every consideration of justice and equality."

"I would hold myself an enemy of mankind," the Senator continued, "if true import duties were to raise the price of any commodity which the people generally use and ought to use, simply to put money into the treasury of the United States.

"We produce yearly in the United States commodities competitive in their character, and upon which duties are levied in this bill, of the value of not less than $18,800,000,000. If the average rate of duty upon these things is 25 per cent., and that, I believe, is the estimate of the most distinguished promoters of this bill, the duties will increase the price of one year's product, in the aggregate $4,700,000,000. If those who consume, as well as those who produce these commodities, share the benefit of the increased price, the general good would be promoted, but if our Democratic friends are right in asserting that those who produce the dutiable articles are the only beneficiaries, they ought to shudder when they contemplate what they are doing, for they are not only taxing the people, upon their consumption, the $250,000,000 which is collected at the custom houses upon imports, but they are taxing them the $4,700,000,000 for the sole benefit of the domestic producers of these commodities. This is an appalling conclusion and it will shock the country when it is fairly appreciated.

"The total production east of the Mississippi River in the year 1909," said the Senator, "was $24,914,673,048. Of this production $14,811,052,242 is upon the dutiable list, being 60 per cent. of the entire production of that part of the country. The total production west of the Mississippi River in the year named was $10,301,016,313, of which $4,041,224,327 was upon the dutiable list, being 39 per cent. of the whole production of that part of the country west of the Mississippi River. If the Democratic doctrine so often announced is sound, it will be interesting to hear the defense for this grievous discrimination against the people who live in the Mississippi Valley and beyond."

PUNISH THE FARMER.

The Senator declared the Democrats had treated the farmer as an outlaw in making up the bill, that many of the products of the farm were entitled to protection and said:

"I am not one of those who believe that general disaster necessarily will follow the enactment of the bill now before us. Unquestionably it will increase the importation and diminish the home production of a great many things, and will force into idleness many workingmen; but I earnestly hope that its effect in that respect will not reach the proportions of an industrial revolution. It is easy to see, however, that the depression which must inevitably follow might be aggravated by other causes into general disaster."

M'ADOO DROPS PULP CASE.

OUT THREE MILLIONS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Secretary McAdoo today finally decided not to appeal the decision of the Customs Court granting free entry of wood pulp and paper to all countries having "favored nation" treaties with the United States because that privilege is granted to Canada. The treasury must surrender $3,000,000 in duties.

DULUTH WINS RATE FIGHT.

Interstate Commerce Commission Finds That Freight Tariffs Attacked Are Unreasonable.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Duluth, Minn., won a substantial portion of its freight rate fight before the Interstate Commerce Commission today, when a reduction of class rates to that city from eastern points was ordered and the present rates were held to be discriminatory. Duluth's contention that rates on lake and rail traffic from the East ought to break at its wharves, however, was not sustained.

In brief, the commission held that the present rail-and-lake class rates to Duluth from points east of the Indiana-Illinois State line were unreasonable; and that the existing scale of through rail-and-lake class rates to Duluth were unduly discriminatory as compared with rates to Chicago. It was ordered that the first-class rate from the East to Duluth should not exceed 62 cents a hundred pounds; and that the rates from trunk line territory to Duluth, rail-and-lake, should not exceed those to Chicago.

Railroads were ordered by the commission to submit tariffs by October 1, containing the changes directed and also providing for the discontinuance of discriminations against Duluth and towns adjacent to Minneapolis and St. Paul caused by loose policing of transit privileges and long and short-haul violations.

EVERYBODY HAPPY BUT THE I.W.W.'S.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] From officers high in command to the latest enlisted man, it was plainly evident today that no regret was felt throughout the Pacific reserve fleet over the sound trouncing meted out last night to the treasonable tribe of the I.W.W.'s by patriotic sailors, soldiers and citizens.

Though strict official regulations prevented open admissions of opinion, visitors to the flagship West Virginia and other vessels of the fleet were afforded ample evidence that the bluejackets not only rejoiced in the destruction of the anarchists' headquarters, but were ready, should opportunity offer, to administer even a severer lesson to the I.W.W. element allowed to roam at will in Seattle.

When asked direct questions as to how they regarded the action of the soldiers and sailors in up-rooting and burning the headquarters of the I.W.W. officers of the fleet asked to be excused from saying anything. Their refusal to speak for publication, however, was hardly formal enough to cloak their real delight that the soldiers and sailors, who had been beaten by the anarchists on Thursday night, had grasped last night's opportunity to resent such treatment. All are ready to admit, however, that there is not going to be a fleet inquiry into the actions of the bluejackets who avenged the treatment of their comrades.

Several of the bluejackets said today that no member of the I.W.W. will be allowed to lift his head in Seattle at least until the fleet has left Elliott Bay.

Members of the United States Marine Corps with the fleet were equally emphatic in declaring that if the I.W.W. or any other anarchists were looking for trouble they would get all they wanted.

STORM DAMAGES GLOBE.

Between Hurricane and Cloudburst Arizona Mining Town Has Lively Time for Fifteen Minutes.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

GLOBE (Ariz.) July 19.—A cloudburst here tonight flooded the ground floors of business houses in the lower section of the town and turned a dry creek bed into a raging torrent.

The cloudburst was accompanied by a hurricane, which blew down awnings and broke plate glass windows.

Though it lasted only fifteen minutes, it was the worst storm in years and did heavy damage.

Encouraged By Mayor.

afternoon's and tomorrow morning's editions on the ground that this paper had incited the riot of Friday.

This notice was served upon us shortly before noon today and we promptly obtained an injunction from Judge John E. Humphries of the Superior Court, who very quickly brought the Mayor and his chief of police, Bannick, before the bar to explain their reluctance in complying with the terms of his order.

Never was a public man more bitterly denounced than Mayor Cotterill by Judge Humphries. He was ordered to raise the police embargo placed around the Times building or go to jail for contempt. The order was telephoned to the police headquarters, the embargo raised and the Times' regular editions went to the people on time.

This in brief is an account of the attempt of a Mayor to suppress an American newspaper for its defense and championship of the American flag.

The Times' victory over the Mayor has shown the man to be closely in sympathy with the radical socialism, if not anarchy, and the victory proved immensely popular with the citizens of Seattle, who are naturally intensely patriotic.

DR. MARIE EQUI UNDER ARREST.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND, July 19.—Dr. Marie E. Equi, the Industrial Worker of the World leader arrested Thursday night for rioting and who refused to live up to her agreement to leave the State last night in order to avoid prosecution was held on three charges today—inciting a riot, carrying concealed weapons after making threats to kill, and assault with a deadly weapon.

Bail was offered for her release, but it was refused.

Eight arrests for vagrancy were made today in the section of the city in which the cheap saloons and lodging-houses abound. This makes a total of seventy-two arrests since the rioting began, three nights ago. Of this number about forty have been held.

PARACHUTE MAN KILLED.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) July 19.—Francis L. Thayer, aged 47 years, a parachute jumper, known all over the West, was drowned today while making a parachute descent from an aeroplane as part of the Potlatch air sports. He went up in an aeroplane with Johnny Bryant. At height of 600 feet he dropped from the aeroplane and his parachute spread above him and the descent began. At a height of 500 feet he broke loose from the parachute and fell into the water.

Thayer did not rise to the surface after going into the water. He had been giving parachute exhibitions twenty-five years.

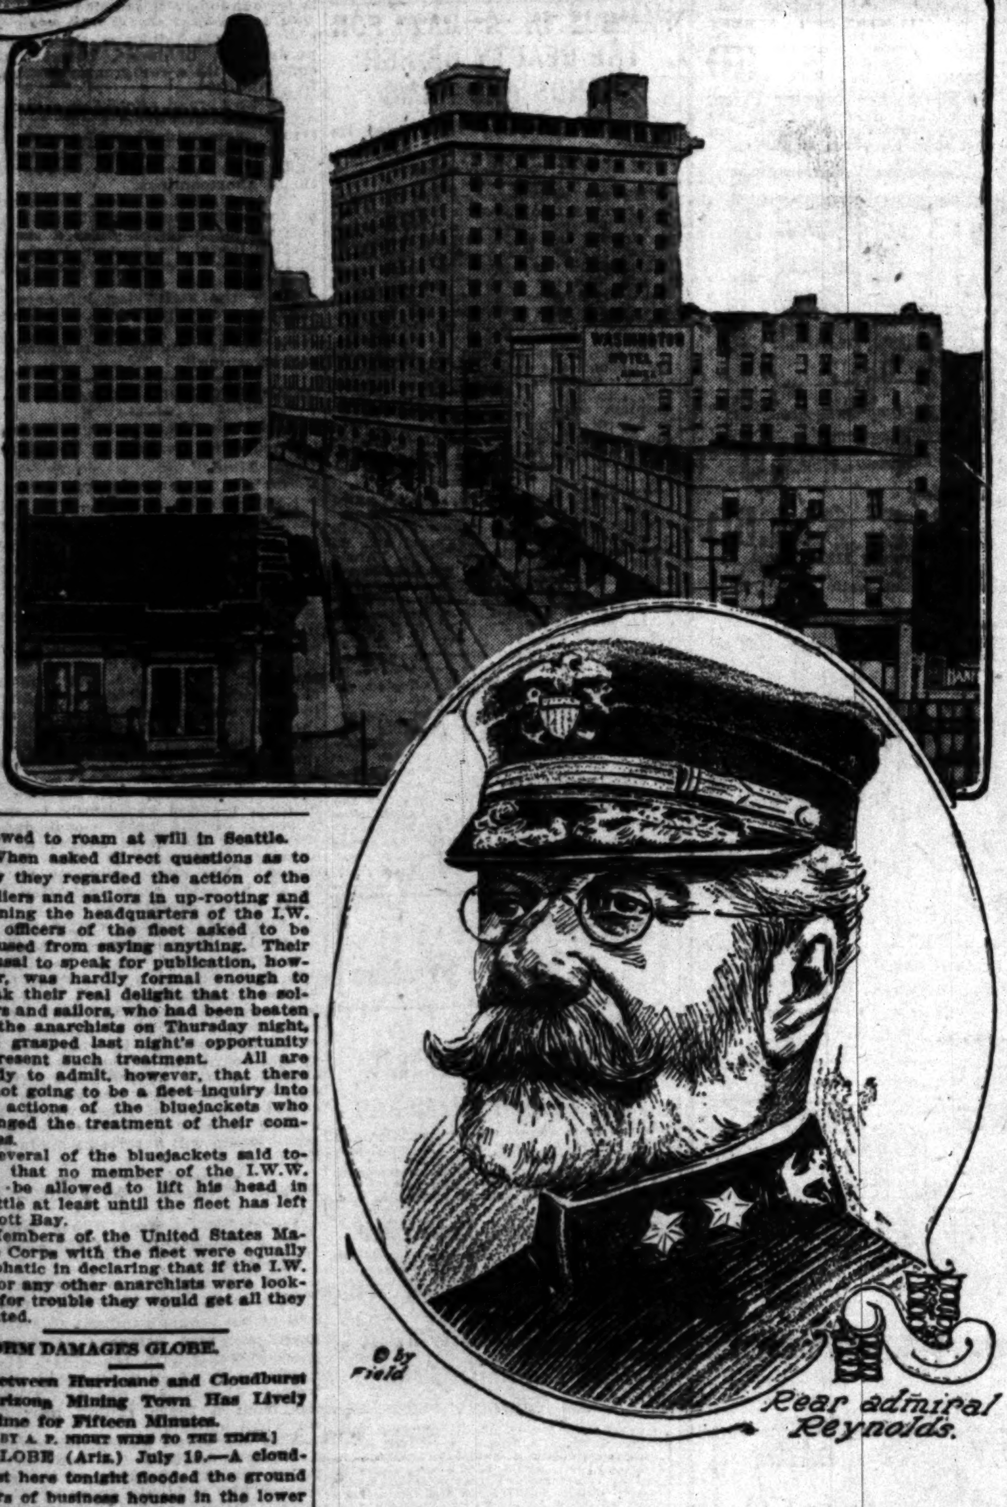
En Route to Mare Island.

SEATTLE, July 19.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] Secretary of the Navy Josephus Daniels and Mrs. Daniels departed for Tacoma today en route to Mare Island, Cal. The Secretary will pay short visits to Tacoma and Portland.



Spectators of the fray.

Secretary of War Daniels was in Seattle Friday night, a guest of Rear-Admiral Reynolds, when marines from the North Pacific fleet got after the Socialists and the I.W.W. in San Diego fashion. The middle panel shows a view of one of the Seattle corners where the "Reds" ran fastest, with marines and civilians right after them.

MORE TROUBLE FOR ASHURST.

SENATE COMMITTEE IS LOOKING INTO HIS TELEGRAPH BILLS.

Hundred Dollars a Day Is Said to Have Been Charged Up Against Uncle Sam by Arizona's Democratic Leader—Several of His Colleagues Also Under Fire.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] That the alleged expenditure of government money for the transmission of many telegrams to Arizona for Senator Ashurst was already under investigation by a Senate committee before the charge against Senator Ashurst was made in the Senate yesterday by Senator Bristow was learned today. The Committee on Contingent Expenses of the Senate is not only looking into the telegraph bills of Senator Ashurst, but also of a number of other Senators, it is said.

Senator Bristow is a member of the Committee on Contingent Expenses, and when in the sharp debate between himself and Mr. Ashurst yesterday over the Bryan lecture tour question he hurled the charge against the Senator from Arizona he knew of the action which was being taken.

That a telegraph bill charged against the government by Senator Ashurst far larger than $100 is under investigation was also learned today and reference to the report of the debate yesterday shows that in making his charge against Senator Ashurst, Mr. Bristow stated that the bill had amounted to $100 daily.

TRAVEL WIDENS MIND'S HORIZON.

Mrs. Charles Wellington Rand and Daughter Return.

Delightful Experiences of American Women Abroad.

Visiting Other Countries Fortifies One's Patriotism.

A tour of the world without accidents or bad weather, extending practically over eleven months of travel, is the delightful experience of Mrs. Charles Wellington Rand and of her daughter, Lilian, who returned yesterday to their Wilshire boulevard home.

They sailed, the last day of August, 1912, from San Francisco on board of the "Cheyo Maru," bound for Japan. There began a delightful and comprehensive trip, including the visiting of picturesque countries, the meeting of fascinating people and strange natives.

While the modernized imperial Tokio pleased the visitors, it is in Nikko, about the ancient temples, and in the smaller villages of the interior that they came in contact with the real people of great Nippon.

The attractiveness of the women, their gentleness and courtesy, seem to have made as deep an impression upon Mrs. Rand as their wonderful capacity for self-control and sacrifice.

She admired especially the discipline of children of all ages, and the prevailing respect and veneration for parents and elder people.

Manila was next visited and the globe-trotters were the recipients of ideal hospitality from Gen. and Mrs. J. Franklin Bell and Gen. and Mrs. Frederick Funston, respective commanding officers of United States forces serving in the Philippine Islands.

The progressive spirit, which is changing the habits and customs of the people, the Americanization of the "jewel city of the Eastern Pacific" made a deep impression on the minds of the two travelers, as well as the oriental munificence of the hospitality they received.

Manila was for them more deeply interesting than Paris, and London they had visited before.

Bilibid, the ideal prison, where men and women are treated with consideration, well fed and housed, is one of their most cherished recollections.

In that fortress-prison discipline is tempered with kindness and those who are incarcerated within its walls are taught useful arts and crafts.

This method of compulsory practical education enables men and women who have served their time to reenter society with profitable means of earning a living. The American Bilibid, sanitary and educative, is an index of the modern methods now engaged in regenerating the Philippine Islands, contrasting most forcibly with the old Spanish carcel and the harshness of Castilian rule.

At this stage of their travels, the "voyageuses" felt the mysterious appeal of the Orient, the fascination of the tropical vegetation on the shores of the Pasig River, which descends to Manila from Laguna de Bay, alive with quaint peoples and scenes of an ancient civilization in process of slow but certain metamorphosis.

With evident regret and most pleasant memories, Mrs. Rand and her daughter sailed for China.

In Canton, the primitiveness of the people and their crudity of existence left the deepest impression on the minds of the visitors, which was modified, however, by the purchase of exquisite works of art and a marvel of a mandarin coat.

Everywhere in China that great and constant contrast of artistic expression was found side by side with the extreme primitiveness of habits of the very artisans who created marvels in the realm of art.

On October 31 the Norddeutscher-Lloyd S. S. Derflinger took the travelers to Hongkong. From that point a month's sailing through the South Seas was enjoyed.

The company of fellow-travelers was unusual: Mrs. Alice Ragan Rice, the clever and witty author of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch;" Cale Young Rice, the poet; Mrs. Fannie Macaulay, who under the pseudonym of Frances Little wrote the fascinating "The Lady of Decoration;" scientists, explorers, high British officials.

When one lives on board for a month, delightful acquaintances are made and often strong friendships.

Daily entertainments were given and Mrs. Rand's finished musical talent, as well as the beautiful lyric soprano of her daughter, added greatly to the charm of a voyage through the South Seas, with stops and excursions at Aden and Port Said.

Bad weather was first encountered in the Mediterranean and a tempest at sea almost enjoyed for its novelty.

After a visit to Naples, the Vesuvius and Pompeii, Mrs. Rand and daughter motored northward to Genoa and crossed the Alps into Switzerland.

Delightful though the picturesque little republic is, it seemed a miniature of exquisite finish thoroughly enjoyable but lacking the grandeur of the Orient, the immensity of the vistas in other lands.

After a visit to Paris, for the usual feminine pilgrimage to the shrine of fashion, Mrs. Rand and her daughter spent the month of June in London; the most lovely time in the year to visit England.

They were fortunate enough to be warmly received by many distinguished persons and especially entertained by Admiral Lord James Bruce. Through the hospitality of Lady Bruce, Mrs. Rand was able to meet many members of the British peerage and to enjoy a vista of that inner circle of aristocracy composed of highly cultured and delightful people, together with an alarmingly increasing number of tall men, much "betweeded" and "monocled" and tremendously snobbish.

On June 29th passage was takenon board of the George Washington for New York and by easy stages Los Angeles was reached yesterday.

With keen joy and satisfaction the travelers returned to "Whitehall," their beautiful home here, renovated for their welcome return.

"Our trip," said Mrs. Rand, in reply to a query as to the greatest benefit derived from such a voyage she had so auspiciously terminated, "demonstrates that two American women can travel the world around alone and receive everywhere the most respectful attention.

"From Japan to England everybody was kind, obliging and thoughtful.

"I feel for myself and realize especially in the point of view of my daughter, that one's mental horizon is tremendously broadened by travel.

"One feels that development of ability to see things in their proper perspective, to judge, contrast and compare with a far greater degree of impartiality.

"To go abroad affords us a view of our own country from a new and different angle, which enables us to better appreciate our national virtues and at the same time realize our national shortcomings.

"A tour abroad, I feel, is desirable as increasing our patriotism. The vastness of America, after a year of foreign travel, its immense variety of picturesque scenery is deeply impressive.

After the stultifying influences of the old world traditions, prejudice and convention, our freedom and pro-

CAMPAIGN FOR HEALTH.

Rockefeller Foundation Is Going to Preach the Evangel of Sound Body and Mind.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 19.—The international health campaign referred to by Ambassador Page in a recent speech in England is to be conducted by the Rockefeller Foundation. This was admitted today by Starr J. Murphy, who has charge of the charities of John D. Rockefeller. Mr. Murphy said that there was no new gift of $100,000,000 involved in the campaign as reported and explained that Ambassador Page in referring to that sum probably had in mind the fact that Mr. Rockefeller had donated the income of $100,000,000 to the Rockefeller Foundation at the time it was incorporated.

The Foundation, Mr. Murphy explained, planned specifically to make a study of the hook worm disease throughout the world similar to that already instituted in the United States. This would probably be followed, he said, by investigation into other health conditions.

INTERNATIONAL CRUSADE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Wickliffe Rose, director of the Rockefeller Sanitary Commission, with headquarters here, said today the work of the organization was to be extended and made international in character. A special board will be appointed to have charge of the health investigations. As acceptances have not yet been received from all of those whom it is desired to secure on this board, its membership will not yet be made public.

Weird Stories Told About Woman Who Thought Herself Hounded by Black Hand.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 19.—Weird stories told at a Coroner's inquest this afternoon prompted attaches of Coroner Hoffman's office to investigate closely the death of an unidentified young woman whose body was found hanging from a fence railing near Oak Forest, a suburb.

Miss Josephine Berger, daughter of a farmer, declared the body of the young woman was that of the same person who suddenly appeared at the Berger home, crying for protection last Wednesday at midnight.

She said she was being pursued by members of the "black hand." When members of the Berger family attempted to question her, the young woman became extremely excited and fled through a corn field.

whistle or bells, according to Capt. Johnston. A perpendicular berg may give an echo from some directions, but a slanting face deflects the sound. About 80 per cent. of the Seneca's efforts to get echoes were futile.

Capt. Johnston advised placing the lookout of a vessel at night in thick weather as low down as circumstances would permit. On a very large ship, he said, a lookout posted high on the vessel might have an unobstructed view of the horizon on a very dark night and overlook an iceberg half a mile away.

WORTHY OF A BETTER CAUSE.

Boy with a Genius for Invention Tried to Employ It to Kill a Young Woman of Salt Lake.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALT LAKE CITY (Utah) July 19.—In the presence of electrical experts and Federal officers what was declared to be perhaps the most remarkable death-dealing machine invented in recent years was demonstrated here today. The invention is the work of W. L. Cummings, 23 years old, who confessed to Federal officers when he was arrested yesterday that he had threatened to use it to destroy Miss Dorothy Bamberger, wealthy society girl, unless she gave him $1000. After the demonstration, government officials took possession of the invention.

Electricians took the machine into a steel and concrete vault in an office building. Another part of the contrivance, on which was mounted a bell and an incandescent globe, was placed in a closed room across a hall. Then the electric current of the machine in the air-tight vault was turned on. On the unattached box in the other room, the bell rang and the lamp glowed brightly.

In his acknowledged letter to Miss Bamberger, Cummings sent a diagram of his invention saying that he would place a suit case of nitroglycerin in her room and explode it from a distance. The demonstration today, say the electrical experts, proves that he could have accomplished this.

In speaking of his invention as he sat in his cell, Cummings said the attachment could be installed in locomotive cabs where it would give a positive signal if a train ran past a closed block signal. In war, he said, mines could be exploded without wire attachment.

The prisoner told the police he had been induced to try to blackmail Miss Bamberger by two other men, who, he believed, were members of a New York gang of blackmailers.

Surprise.

GRANTS MARRIED A WEEK AGO.

COUPLE STEAL MARCH ON THEIR RELATIVES AND FRIENDS.

Even Son of Bride Was Unaware that Ceremony Had Taken Place Last Saturday, and Out of Revenge Wears Plain Sack Suit at Announcement Dinner.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO (Cal.) July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Ulysses Simpson Grant, Jr., son of the illustrious warrior and President, did not wed Mrs. America Workman Will here tonight as was to have been the case, according to various unofficial announcements. The marriage ceremony was performed by Police Justice George Putterbaugh of this city, at his residence one week ago tonight, July 12, and the ceremony which was to have taken place at the U. S. Grant Hotel this evening did not occur.

The dinner which was announced for 7 o'clock did take place, however, and it was at this dinner that Mrs. Grant announced her marriage to a small party of friends and close relatives.

So well had the secret of the wedding been guarded that even Mrs. Grant's son, who is pursuing a special West Point preparatory course at the Army and Navy Academy here, did not know that the ceremony had been performed.

"Well, what do you know about that!" were the boy's first words when his mother admitted the truth just a few minutes before the dinner. "Just for that I won't wear a tuxedo at dinner."

The lad kept his word and appeared in a plain sack suit. Ulysses Simpson Grant IV, a junior at Harvard University, was the only member of the groom's family present at the dinner. Young Grant also professed ignorance of his parent's marriage at the time of the first public announcement.

At noon today Mr. Grant submitted to the first interview since the marriage license was obtained, June 30, but refused to talk on anything except the trip that he and his bride are to begin today.

"This evening Judge Putterbaugh will talk about the ceremony, but I do not care to go into details for various reasons. I will say that we are going to San Francisco and from there we will go to Australia as soon as we can break away from our friends."

Mr. Grant then disappeared and was not seen again until he appeared at the dinner with his wife. Mrs. Grant wore her wedding dress and smilingly told her friends and relatives that the occasion was simply an opportunity offered them to congratulate her.

After the dinner, a short reception was held and the couple then went aboard the steamer Yale and will sail for San Francisco tomorrow morning at an early hour. Mr. and Mrs. Grant have planned to go first to Sidney, Australia, where they will remain a time; from there they are to go to Cape Town and, if possible, from there to Buenos Ayres.

"We can't tell when we will return to San Diego," said Mr. Grant just before going aboard the Yale. "All we know is we will be back for the exposition in 1915."

Besides Judge and Mrs. Putterbaugh, Mrs. Royal Wilson of Ocean Park, a sister, and Robert Workman of Los Angeles, a brother of Mrs. Grant, were present at the announcement dinner. There were a very few close friends of the couple also present.

Important Suggestions to Residents of Beach Towns and Nearby Resorts

Order Puritas Distilled Water and be sure of the Absolute Purity of the Water you drink.

You may be spending just a few weeks at the beaches, or perhaps you are a permanent resident there. Undoubtedly you have noticed the "brackish," disagreeable taste of the local waters.

Doesn't seem very pleasant, does it, to think that you may be taking into your system whole "colonies" of germs with each swallow of the local water?

Why make your body work overtime to keep in good condition, when, just by using Puritas Distilled Water, you can be certain of positive Purity in your Drinking Water?

When you drink Puritas Distilled Water, you absolutely KNOW that it is pure. Puritas is thoroughly distilled and scientifically aerated, so that it is sparking and palatable.

Puritas is soft. It quenches the thirst. Residents of the beaches and suburban towns are supplied through our regular agents—it is very probable that there is one in your vicinity. If not, just telephone our Main Office—Sunset, Main 8191; Home 10053. We will see that you are supplied at once. Or your name and address on a postal will suffice.

If you live within the old city boundary lines, we will deliver a five-gallon demijohn to your residence or office for 40 cents. The cost is a trifle more to further points, because of the longer haul. Los Angeles Ice and Cold Storage Company.

COURT-MARTIAL DECIDED UPON.

FOUR PRIVATES TO BE TRIED AT FORT STEVENS.

One of Them Is Alleged to Have Stolen Pint Flask of Runnite, Uncle Sam's Most Powerful Explosive—Another Is Accused of Agitation Against the Government.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

FORT STEVENS (Or.) July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "All crimes not capital and all disorders and neglects which officers and soldiers may be guilty of, to the prejudice of good order and military discipline, though not mentioned in the foregoing articles of war, are to be taken cognizance of by a general, or a regimental garrison, or field officers' court-martial, according to the nature and degree of the offense, and punished at the discretion of such court." From the sixty-second article of war.

The foregoing is the article of war under which Privates Cameron, Kertz, Johnson and Tibbits are to be tried at Fort Stevens, it was announced today for the first time. This is the elastic clause of the military code, in as much as it is the article under which all offenses, not subject to a direct ruling, are tried.

The specifications against the various men to be tried on this general charges have not been made public. However, this much has become known, namely that Private Edward Johnson is alleged to have stolen a pint flask of runnite, the secret compound used to explode the armor-piercing shells of the coast-defense guns.

This explosive is said to be the most powerful in use. Its peculiar advantage lies in the fact that it can be safely handled and fired out of a gun without danger of premature explosion taking place. Though it is generally believed that it is derived from some form of picric acid, it is said that but three officers in the United States service are familiar with the exacting directions that are used in its composition.

It is further stated among army people that the Japanese are the only people possessing anything remotely equaling it in destructive force; in fact, that the powder they use is an imperfect imitation of this far-famed substance.

Cameron, it is stated, is to be charged with the composition of many of the unsigned communications appearing in the public press that reflected on the government in general and the army in particular.

Tibbits is reported to be involved in a clandestine affair that took place in San Francisco.

Mechanic Davis, who deserted during the early part of the investigation, is being widely sought. He is said to have been in the city of Hammond up to 11 o'clock of the night of Crawford's death, that he mysteriously disappeared about that time and was not again seen until he returned to the post the following morning, about 2 o'clock.

Mr. Vogel, the civilian tailor whom Shade testified had attempted to bribe him, is now amongst the list of missing witnesses. He had been served with a government subpoena to appear as a witness for the prosecution, and the time limit set on this document is now up. The failure of a witness to appear on such a summons carries with it six months imprisonment. All traces of Vogel have been completely lost. Vogel enjoyed the unenviable reputation of being the leading factor in the local situation after Coffman was eliminated.

GIVEN AWAY BY SWEETHEART.

Convict Arrested in Nevada for Breaking Into Southern Pacific Box Car Confesses He Is Under Parole.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

RENO (Nev.) July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Through a letter from his sweetheart, an Oakland woman, a confession was wrung from Tom Mason today by Sheriff A. A. Burke that he is a convict, paroled from San Quentin Penitentiary. Mason is in the County Jail here charged with breaking into a Southern Pacific box car at Elko, which had been sealed and bonded by Federal officers.

There is no signature to the letter other than "Mama," but in spite of this name being attached, Mason insists the letter is not from his mother but from his sweetheart.

The woman who wrote the letter pleads with Mason to behave himself reminding him that if his good record continued another ten months he would be set free. Assuming he had been paroled, Sheriff Burke questioned Mason and elicited a statement that he was released from San Quentin on parole May 1.

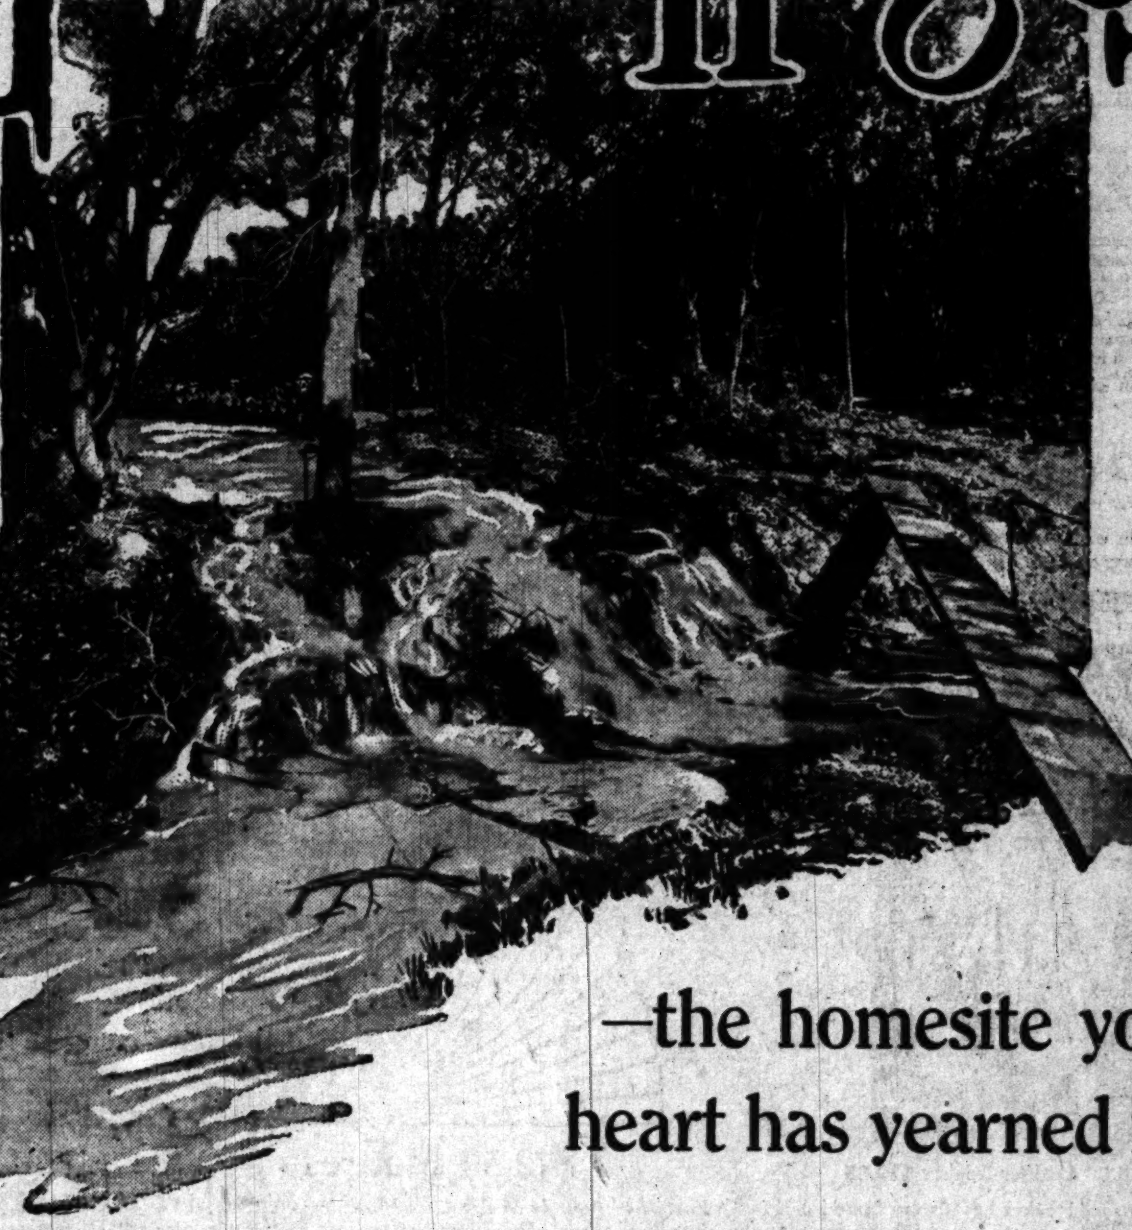
What to do with the prisoner is puzzling local officers. Whether prosecution by the Federal government will preclude his being sent back as a parole violator is a question. Mason was first sent to prison from Oakland, being found guilty of grand larceny in connection with the theft of a motorcycle.

He took two automobile tires from the box car and was arrested when he tried to sell them to Sheriff Harris of Elko county.

MINT OFFICIALS EXONERATED. DEMOCRATIC GAME EXPOSED.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Treasury officials after investigation of charges against the management of the New York mint assay office today declared them groundless and without merit. It was stated at the department that the charges were the result of a political attempt to install Democrats of a faction in office.



Glendale Heights

—the homesite your heart has yearned for

A vacation-land and foothill winter homesite, all in one—and only 9 miles out

YOU ought to be up in this Glendale Heights office for a few hours any time during the middle of the day. Here comes one dear old gentleman with the silver of many Eastern winters on his head, and the immortal smile of California sunshine beaming from his face—timidly asking us if this advertised mountain brooklet of cold spring water isn't really the output of some big pumping plant we have hidden behind the bushes shown in the picture. One hundred thousand other people read the announcements of these summer water brooks, the trees, the flowers and the natural fern banks of Glendale Heights and decide that "there is no such a place" and let it go at that,—when 25 minutes in our auto would put it to the test.

Yes,—it is so beautiful—so valuable,—that I should never have to make but one announcement about it—but it takes time to get an idea well started in the public mind. Especially a surprise of this kind.

Here it is—with natural springs in your front yard—and the lot extending back up the golden hill slope—high and dry—a natural fern-bank for your front yard—cold mountain spring brooklets that carry no storm water in winter and swell their volume in summer—all 1000 feet above sea level—and just nine miles from Seventh and Spring; rushing, tumbling and roaring and then:

"The gurgle of the water round the drift just below, Sounding like the laugh of something that you once used to know."

Glendale Heights is the most serious question that ever confronted the head of any refined family in Los Angeles. The question is up to you! The price today will not deter you, nor the terms. You have got to act on it, for the reason that you will never have this kind of an opportunity again. There are scores of beaches. Hundreds of tableland and foothill subdivisions, but only one place of the water brooks—the natural woods and the gentle slope of the foothills and that is Glendale Heights.

Come investigate it in our autos, or neglect it by carelessness,—but this is the time that your decision is being made on this important subject.

H. B. WOODILL, Pres. Woodill-Hulse Electric Company.
S. J. KEESE, District Manager Westinghouse Electric Company.
HERBERT BURDETTE, Formerly Secretary of the L. A. Realty Board.
W. S. BARTLETT, Cashier German-American Savings Bank.
M. C. ADLER, Vice-President Harris & Frank Clothing Company.
J. S. CRUTCHFIELD, President the Imperial Valley Melon Dist. Assn.
OLIN WELLBORN, JR., Attorney, Security Bldg.

And enough others to already diminish your selection opportunity if you are not quick.

The City of Glendale will soon let the contract for the 110 foot stone boulevard through the center of this park-land—and then your chance is gone. Some folks figure on doubling their money on a home lot investment. I do not believe you would accept five for one at the end of one or two years.

Will you telephone for reservations before that particular lot which you will want is gone? F6643 or Main 380.

Happy Day.

NORTH-SOUTH IN ONE PARK.

East and West There, Too, for Good Time.

Members of State Societies Mingle at Picnic.

Baked Beans and Cawn Pone Fraternize in Menus.

Kipling's lines, "For East is East and West is West, and never the twain shall meet," were not intended to be applied to the United States of America, as was amply proven yesterday at Sycamore Grove, for there not only did East and West meet, but North and South, and fraternized as members of one family. Cape Cod and the Texas Pan Handle, Fitchburg and Dallas, Memphis and Des Moines, all met and mingled with nothing to distinguish one from the other but State badges, and they were not reliable, for one found a Massachusetts man or woman wearing a Mississippi badge, or vice versa. The occasion was the picnics of several State societies at Sycamore Grove, which taxed the capacity of that resort, there being also on the grounds children of the Vincent Methodist Episcopal and Park Congregational Sunday-schools.

The Southern States Society (formerly the Dixie Society,) rallied former residents of practically all the Southern States, and the Tennessee Society had about 300 in the park, who joined with their brothers from the South in most of the exercises. The Massachusetts Society had as its guests not only its own membership but a large number of the other New England States societies. The Los Angeles Des Moines Club was represented in the throng by about 100 members.

SOUTHERN ENTERTAINMENT.

The entertainment furnished by the southerners consisted of real southern oratory, real plantation melodies sung by negroes, "congregational" singing of "Dixie" and other favorites, dancing the Virginia reel, and other pastimes. Drew Pruitt, president, led off in the oratory. "Words are inadequate," he said, "to express my delight in seeing so many worthy representatives of Dixie Land here today. I extend a hearty welcome to all. 'There was a South of slavery and secession—that South is dead, but out of its ashes has arisen a new South, more beautiful and glorious than ever. That is the South of union and freedom—that South is living, breathing, growing every hour.' These words were uttered by the immortal Ben Hill a number of years ago, but they are as true today as they were then. The freeing of the slaves was not only a blessing to the negro but to the white man, for it liberated the latter from the bondage which prevented him from making any progress. By the abolition of slavery, labor has been dignified and every citizen, be he white or black, is compelled to work out his own salvation. No sectarianism can be found today in this great country of ours. Who from the South does not love the Stars and Stripes—"Old Glory," the flag of our country? It is the symbol of liberty, and represents all that is wisest and best in our free government."

Rufus C. Porter, formerly of Dallas, but now an attorney of this city, spoke of the rich heritage which the people gathered there had brought from the old and new South; also of the South's position in history. "The United States," he said, "is infinitely more compact and patriotic by reason of the Civil War, than it possibly could have been without that great struggle. We look upon our adopted State, California, as the incomparable State of the Union, and our love for her is second only to our love for our native States." Thomas R. Hudson, another well-known Los Angeles attorney, formerly of Chattanooga, spoke in the same strain, glorifying the South of his birth, and the Southern California of his adoption.

MASSACHUSETTS SURPRISE.

A pleasant surprise was sprung upon the Massachusetts Society, just before its programme of speaking was begun. Mrs. Lizzie M. Strong, treasurer of the society, presented to the president, Thomas Barrabee, a gavel made from the wood of a maple tree grown in Plymouth, Mass., near the famous Plymouth Rock. Addresses were made by E. D. Foster and H. F. Maxfield. The latter came from Boston with the Christian Endeavor delegates; he was connected with one of the eastern life insurance companies, but fell in love with California at first sight, and secured a position with a local insurance office and will remain here.

At 6 o'clock a dinner was served, of which baked beans, the leading article of the Massachusetts faith, was the piece de resistance.

The Los Angeles Des Moines entertainment consisted of an impromptu programme of speeches, songs, etc., and an old-fashioned picnic dinner.

OHIO BY THE ROCK.

Over in Eagle Rock Park was another large gathering of eastern people—the Ohio Society of Los Angeles—and more than 1000 former Buckeyes, young and old, enjoyed themselves in true picnic fashion. There were races for the young folks, the fat folks, the married folks; nail-driving contests for the women, and good things to eat for all. There was an address from President C. Elliott Miller; Col. J. J. Steadman, president of the Board of Education, read a poem, "Ohio," which had been sent from that State by Guy E. Newmark; "Should Old Ohio Be Forgot," was sung by all, to the tune which automatically suggests itself; a solo, "Ohio, My Ohio," was sung by Raymond Zirkel, by whom it was dedicated to Buckeyes everywhere. The day's pleasure was concluded with dancing in the evening.

PLANS SHORE MANSION.

F. O. Engstrum, president of the F. O. Engstrum Company, has bought three lots on Linda avenue in East Newport for a given consideration of $4500. On the ninety-foot site thus obtained he expects to build during the present summer a fine shore residence of at least fifteen rooms. Plans for this house, which will be one of the largest of the South Coast summer places, will be drawn at once. Dr. J. C. Soloman of this city has purchased an East Newport lot on which he will build during the next few weeks.

Advice to Those Who Have Lung Trouble

Pulmonary Lung Trouble is said to be curable by simply living in the open air and taking an abundance of fresh eggs and milk. Do all you possibly can to add to strength and increase weight; eat wholesome, nourishing food, and breathe the cleanest and purest air, and then, if health and strength do not return, add the tonic and beneficial effects of Eckman's Alterative. Read what it did in this case:

Wilmington, Del.

"Gentlemen: In January, 1908, I was taken with hemorrhages of the lungs. I took eggs and milk in quantities, but I got very weak. Mr. C. A. Lippincott, my employer (Lippincott & Co., Department Store, 306 to 314 Market street, Wilmington, Del.), recommended to me Eckman's Alterative, and upon his suggestion I began taking it at once. This was about June, 1908. I continued faithfully, using no other remedy, and finally noticed the clearing of the lungs. I firmly believe Eckman's Alterative saved my life."

(Affidavit) JAS. SQUIRES.

Eckman's Alterative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious in cases of severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stubborn Colds and in upbuilding the system. Does not contain narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. For sale by the Owl Drug Co. and other leading druggists. Write the Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for booklet telling of recoveries and additional evidence.

Honoring the Navy.

GREAT TICKET DEMAND FOR DANIELS SMOKER.

WHEN the Chamber of Commerce closed at noon yesterday about 2500 reservations had been made for the smoker to be given in honor of Secretary of the Navy Daniels Wednesday evening in Shrine Auditorium. Remarkable interest has been shown in the visit of the Secretary and Mrs. Daniels to Los Angeles, and also in many of the other cities of Southern California, as shown by the hundreds of applications for tickets from members of various Chambers of Commerce.

The chamber will use all of its powerful resources to make the visit of the distinguished guests memorable. The chamber has received many offers of assistance from other organizations and from individuals which could not possibly be accepted for the reason that something has been planned for every hour of their day and two evenings here.

According to an itinerary furnished Passenger Traffic Manager Fee of the Southern Pacific, the Secretary's party will pass through this city Tuesday afternoon en route from San Francisco to San Diego, returning to this city at 6:30 o'clock p.m., the following day. The guests will remain here until Thursday evening and return to San Francisco on the Lark.

"The public is taking a keen interest in the coming of Secretary Daniels and his wife and that has made it easy for us to prepare full and elaborate entertainment for the party," Secretary Wiggins of the chamber said yesterday. "The indications are that Los Angeles, already noted for its hospitality, will do itself proud on this occasion. The women are working just as hard to make Mrs. Daniels's visit pleasant as the men are to care for the Secretary."

The Harbor Commission and members of the chamber will accompany Secretary Daniels on an inspection trip to the harbor on Thursday. The party will be entertained at luncheon at the Viriginia Hotel, Long Beach.

MELON REMAINS SWEET.

Rumors of Cut in Mexican Petroleum Dividend Unfounded—Directors Declare at Regular Rate.

Although rumors of a reduction of the Mexican Petroleum, Ltd., common dividend have lately been in circulation in the East, directors of the company yesterday declared the quarterly payment at the regular 6 per cent. rate. Other than this, it is stated, only routine business was transacted.

Three of the Doheny company's large tank steamers—the C. A. Canfield, Norman Bridge and Russian Prince—have been placed in service. With the two barges, also carrying oil, the company has now an aggregate carrying capacity in its tank fleet of about 175,000 barrels. With the placing in service of the E. L. Doheny tank ship and a new steam barge, which is completed, the fleet's capacity will be increased to nearly 300,000 barrels. Thus, if all the ships left Tampico at once, they would take with them that amount of oil.

The importance of the large capacity of these ships is borne out when the fact is considered that Casiano well No. 7 on the Huasteca Petroleum Company's property has been steadily producing an average of 22,500 barrels a day for nearly three years. The total output of the well now approaches 21,000,000 barrels. A large part of the output has been stored, and its removal is expedited by the new facilities which the Doheny company has provided.

Although the building of more steamers and barges may be undertaken next year, it is possible that this plan will be held in abeyance, pending arrangements which are being made by certain marketing concerns, including the Standard Oil and the Magnolia Petroleum Company, it is stated, to take care of larger quantities of oil in Mexican fields. These companies will handle a portion of the Doheny Company's output. The company will use its own tankers in the Gulf and Atlantic Coast trade principally, while the handling of oil for other points will be left in the hands of outsiders.

VENICE PROSPERITY.

Beach City Newspaper Issues Fifty-six Page Anniversary Edition Typifying the Go-Ahead Spirit.

The largest newspaper ever published by any Southern California beach city was issued yesterday by the Venice Vanguard as a sixth anniversary number. It contains fifty-six pages in seven parts and is called a "prosperity edition," a title admirably sustained by its size, appearance and contents. According to W. A. Rennie & Sons, the publishers, the edition, consisting of nearly 10,000 copies, will be mailed all over the United States and wherever else it may be useful to call attention to Venice, Santa Monica and the beautiful Crescent Bay district generally. This number of the Vanguard is splendidly illustrated with page, double-page and smaller half tones and line engravings, and is as interesting as it is attractive. Every phase of life, enterprise and progress is dealt with, and the men who have made and are making the seaside cities hum are given attention. As the Vanguard says, "It tells the world what we have."

fifty-four steel tubes, which contain approximately 5000 pounds of the gas, was shipped to the harbor from Ft. Omaha and transported to Catalina to be used in the experiment.

When a pair of the balloons are set free their flight is traced by various instruments and their measurements of space. One of them finally bursts and the other, assuming the increased weight, drops gradualy to earth.

All the balloons have directions as to where to be returned and there have been very few instances where these directions have not been faithfully kept by the finders, whether they are farmers, railroad men or dwellers in cities.

THE INSTRUMENTS.

The gradual fall prevents the instruments from being damaged. These while at variable altitudes have been registering in indelible ink, the many things that the scientists are desirous of being informed on.

The instruments consist of a self-recording thermometer, a barometer of the same type, a humidity recorder and several others, their total cost, according to local Weather Observer Ford A. Carpenter, being about $75.

"On experiments of this character we figure on losing one out of every twenty sets that are sent up, so that it is not as expensive a means of ascertaining the desired knowledge as may first be supposed," he said.

While the Catalina observations are being made the Mt. Wilson Observatory will also take the same kind of measurements. As soon as the island work is completed the three weather experts will proceed to Mt. Whitney, where they expect to get some of the highest altitude records ever made.

They will occupy the Smithsonian cabin on that peak for a month and expect to get records of air currents at least 25,000 feet above sea level.

LANGLEY TESTS.

In this experiment they will be carrying out the work of the eminent scientist, Dr. S. P. Langley, who died about twenty years ago, but who started to observe these currents from Mt. Whitney.

The results of all observations will ultimately have a bearing on the prognostication of weather by the local office. They will determine the course of air in almost a straight line across California. Further than that they will furnish much information relative to the climate of Southern California.

of the very few Democrats who have been honored with the confidence of the people by election to public office. He has been several times elected County Treasurer, and he is about sick and tired of the job. The salary attachment thereto is what it was twenty years ago, $1500 per annum, although the cash box has been taxed annually to half a dozen times its olden capacity. Jim Metzger, the urbane and hustling secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, is touted as Joplin's successor.

The appointment of Albert Schoonover of San Diego to be United States District Attorney for Southern California was a severe blow to the supporters of Senator Archie Campbell of San Luis Obispo, but it caused the stock of J. P. Steele, for Internal Revenue Collector, to take an upward bound. Schoonover's appointment may be taken to mean that Congressman Kettner proposes to have what he wants where he wants it worst. And Schoonover was his particular personal candidate. It also means that the other Democratic Congressmen have agreed that they can agree upon some things. If this proves to be true, it means that it is a lead-pipe cinch that Walton of Fresno will be the successor of Leo Youngsworth as United States marshal, because Congressman Church is making demand for his appointment upon the same grounds that Kettner advanced in behalf of Schoonover.

Santa Barbara Democrats are taking an active part in the job distribution via Washington. The County Executive Committee held a meeting last night and discussed the merits and demerits of aspiring "gents" who are seeking the committee's official favor. Among those given distinguished hearing was Milton K. Young, who declines to believe that Lynn Helm has the new Federal judgeship tucked away safely. There is no use in dodging the fact that Young is making a volcanic fight for this appointment. Still, we mustn't forget that Helm went to college with W. Wilson back in that Dear Old Princeton.

So numerous have become petitions for referendum or initiative proceedings that some of the canvassers are suggesting the advisability of the city establishing a school for instruction for voters so they may know what they can and cannot legally sign. Some of the circulators of recent petitions have been served with a list of instructions, which will be of interest and benefit to voters generally. The list is as follows:

Qualifications—Each signer must be a registered voter and must have registered since January 1, 1912.

Solicit signatures only in your own county and do the work yourself.

Any voter, male or female, registered in your county since January 1, 1912, may sign.

Tell the person who signs to give address from which he registered.

The person who signs must write his own name and the address from which he was registered. Neither of these can be written by the solicitor.

Married women must sign their given names—as "Mary Black," and not as "Mrs. John Black."

Any person signing name not his own is guilty of a crime.

Do not write number of district or precinct. That will be done later by others.

When in doubt consult the representative.

When your section is complete you must sign affidavit before notary public or county clerk. No charge will be made you for this service.

THE WATCHMAN.

A LA "SEPTEMBER MORN."

Broadway Saturday Night Crowd Witnesses Flight of Young Woman in Lingerie.

The strangest sight on Broadway last night was Miss Emma Ojabe fleeing from the attendants at the Receiving Hospital.

Miss Ojabe of No. 88 San Pedro street was taken to the hospital from Lafayette and Ducommun streets, where she was struck by a street car. She was hysterical when placed in a ward.

The attendants missed her, ran outside and saw trailing white night garments fleeing south on Hill street. Down Second street Miss Ojabe ran to Broadway, and there turned for a parade of the shopping district. Many persons on the street merely lent speed to the girl.

Patrolman Bennett and Juvenile Officer Marden saw the fantastic figure running among the shoppers. Already the crowd was hastening to the sight, which was heralded a block ahead as a "September Morn" attraction.

The police captured the young woman as she was wedging herself through an appreciative human gauntlet and returned her to the hospital.

That's What Farmers Are Hunting For

BARE FACT NO. 1

I HAVE 100 acres of alfalfa that I bought in March, 1911. My yield the first year was 1035 tons. In ordinary years I cut seven crops. The average price I received f.o.b. at Perris was $16.30 a ton. I have sometimes sold large quantities as high as $20 a ton. I have the weight slips, bills of lading and necessary papers to show that my gross return for the year, 1912, was.......... $16,870.50
My total expense, including hauling, insurance and distillate, was.... $4,500.00
Leaving my net profit for 1912.......... $12,370.50

I have seen the finest peaches, apricots, grapes, sugar beets and all kinds of vegetables growing in this valley.

(Signed) WM. C. SHORT.

BARE FACT NO. 2

I CAME to Perris Valley 2½ years ago. Two of us have 80 acres. We have a fine stand of alfalfa on 65 acres. The year will average 1½ tons a month per acre. We sold some at $10 a ton loose in the field, and the buyer loaded and hauled it off. $14 a ton baled is a fair price, though it brought $17 to $20 a ton for three months last year loaded on cars. I cut every 30 days, cutting first, April 15, and last, about October 15, which gives 7 crops. We figure 10 tons a year per acre, netting us $100 per acre after bills are paid. $400 an acre wouldn't buy us out. We have a fine field of potatoes. Most people raise them here without irrigation. Peaches, plums, apricots and apples, now 3 years old, are beginning to bear.

A pair of Arkansaw travelers.

Evangelists John E. Brown (left) and C. P. Curry, the former a preacher and the latter a singer, who have traveled all over the United States, will have charge of the evangelistic services at the Huntington Beach camp meeting for the third successive year.

Hallelujah!

LIVE DUO HERE FROM SALOME.

POPULAR EVANGELISTS BEGIN THE THIRD SIEGE.

Huntington Beach Camp Meeting Will Open Today—Fine Tent City Ready for Crowd—Programme Arranged So Visitors Can Get Breath on Beach Between Sessions.

In these stirring days, when there is so much clamor for change and something new, be it for entertainment or for benefit, it is remarkable how two young evangelists have kept their hold upon the Methodists of Southern California. John E. Brown and C. P. Curry came over from Arkansas three years ago, to conduct the evangelistic services at the Huntington Beach camp meeting, returned again the next year and will open their third term of service there today.

They are natives of Salome Springs, Ark., and are a veritable pair of "Arkansaw Travelers," for notwithstanding the fact that popular opinion might not look to the region of Salome Springs for evangelistic leadership, they are much in demand and their engagements call them from ocean to ocean every year. Their services at Huntington Beach made so favorable an impression upon the Methodist ministers that they annually have followed the camp meeting with a series of meetings in various churches, always winning the heartiest commendation of pastor and people.

Curry's sympathetic eye marks him the impressionable singer that he is, while the breezy air of Brown depicts him the happy type of evangelist that he has proven himself to be.

The tent city at Huntington Beach is in fine condition this year and the big auditorium has been improved in many ways, preparations having been made for the entertainment of a much larger attendance than at any preceding assembly, and the result is the culmination of months of planning and effort.

Many of the clergymen of Southern California will gather there tomorrow and there will be a number from distant places. Indications point to a registration of at least 5000 persons at the tent city, with a large increase on next Saturday and Sunday.

Brown and Curry will conduct evangelistic services every afternoon at 3 o'clock and every evening at 7:30, and while the time is pretty well filled with meetings of many kinds, the programme has been so arranged as to give opportunity for bathing and other out door recreations.

With the opening of the Sunday-school and Epworth League Institute on the 25th, there will be a great influx of young people to the camp and a number of addresses will be delivered by Dan Brummet of Chicago, editor of the Epworth Herald.

DEMOCRAT HALL ENTERS RACE FOR GOVERNOR.

Tells Big Crowd at Beach Banquet How He Believes He Can Win State Honors—Love Feast for the Faithful by the Sad Salt Sea Waves.

The gubernatorial boom of Fred H. Hall, Democrat, of Bakersfield, was formally launched at the Sunset Inn at Santa Monica last night, when 200 of the unterrified from Los Angeles and Kern counties, in banquet assembled, pledged their undying faith in the destiny of the Democratic party and confidence in its leadership in this, its hour of trial and tribulation at Washington. The Democrats at the banquet, in riotous glee, not only admitted their confidence in the ability of party leaders to work out the destiny of the problems the party has shouldered, but insisted upon Hall being the next Democratic candidate for Governor.

This was the first formal launching of the Hall boom, and the Bakersfield Richmond coyly sidestepped any admission that he really was a candidate. He assumed an in-the-hands-of-my-friends attitude that was construed by the banqueters to be an acquiescence.

Really the banquet was a love feast for Southern California's faithful. Telegrams of regret that they were unable to be present were read from Democrats of State and national prominence, among whom were Congressman Denver Church and the new United States District Attorney Schoonover.

Antony Schwamm was chairman and John W. Mitchell, toastmaster. Mayor Dow of Santa Monica delivered a speech of welcome and was followed by City Trustee Gerety of Venice, along the same lines.

Mattison B. Jones spoke on "The President of the United States," whereat there were many cheers. W. Ona Morton's subject was, "What Is a Democrat?" Max E. Socha spoke on "The Independent Voter," and Robert E. Loucks on "Representative Government." Dr. George B. Sabichi's dessertation subject was "The Native Sons," and Albert Lee Stephens spoke on "The City of Los Angeles."

"A Bourbon County," was the subject of Charles F. Johnson, of Bakersfield, in describing Kern. "The Old Guard of San Joaquin," was the title of the talk of Col. E. M. Roberts. L. H. Collett talked about "How We Do Things in Kern County," and W. E. Simpson introduced Hon. Fred H. Hall, who exhorted the Democrats to hold together and uphold the national administration with all their strength. Albert Chapelje spoke on "The Japanese Question."

Hall and a party of friends spent yesterday in the city. The party came in a special car early yesterday morning.

The visitors took breakfast at the Hollenbeck, lunched at the Jonathan Club and in the afternoon registered at the Alexandria. The most of the party expected to spend today at the beaches, returning to Bakersfield tonight. These were the members of the party:

Fred H. Hall, banker and oil operator; T. J. Lee, secretary to Hall; Col. E. M. Roberts, chairman Kern County Democratic Central Committee; T. W. McManus, real estate dealer and insurance agent; Sheriff T. A. Baker of Kern county; C. F. Johnson, oil operator; Charles F. Johnson, president of Kern County Board of Trade and president of Kern County Democratic League; E. L. Hayes, merchant; S. H. Collett, railway engineer; Assemblyman W. E. Simpson, Attorney W. B. Beaizley and Fred L. Gribble, a building contractor.

GLIMPSES OF SAN FRANCISCO.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 18.—Out of seeming chaos the muchly talked of civic center is assuming shape. Buildings are being rapidly removed from it and it will not be long before the construction of the new ones is commenced. Whether the imposing edifices will be finished by 1915, is another matter. The authorities say they will, but the man on the street winks the other eye.

All signs fail in foggy weather, but there are sure indications of a hot battle next month over the bond election for the extension of the municipal railway. The amount is $3,500,000, requiring a two-thirds vote to carry. The Chamber of Commerce is opposed to it with the United Railways also in opposition. The city administration is strenuously advocating the bonds, but the result will remain in doubt until the votes are counted.

Hull McClaughrey, sweetened by $200,000 from his divorced wife, Anita Baldwin McClaughrey, is off with his two children on the high seas aboard a chartered yacht. He is teaching the girl to cook and the boy to fish. Among the knowing ones, it is an even bet that he returns in time to honor court edicts. In the meantime Mrs. McClaughrey solaces herself with the study of music.

Elected by women enthusiasts to reform the Police Courts, Judge Crist is now accused by Lawyer Mann of postponing an assault case to weaken the prosecution in which the attorney has been retained. It is doubtful whether the man of law would have been satisfied if Crist had acquitted the defendant on the first hearing. To all intents and purposes, Police Court improvement is still embryonic.

Police circles are still circling with a vengeance. Six patrolmen accused by bunko men were exonerated by the commissioners and apologies are in order. All the big gambling clubs are closed and Commissioner Kuhl threatens to swamp the Barbary Coast. Two newspapers are demanding the removal of Chief White, who refuses to resign because of the principle involved in it, and the salary attached to it.

A woman is going to run for the Council in the First Ward of Chicago, which Hinky Dink has long claimed as his own. The Illinois city has nothing on us. Our women's clubs are going to put forward one of their members as a candidate for Supervisor at the next election. Just at present they are disputing as to who she shall be, and that argument may be bitter enough to endanger the lady's election.

Dr. Bremner Smith and Lawyer Lincoln Savage used to be friends until the latter tried to send the former to an insane asylum for playfully flourishing a butcher knife in his face. Failing in this the attorney sent James Cody to oust the physician from a beach cottage. In the fracas Cody was cut in the wrist and Smith declares war to the knife on Savage.

"No. 1, Pasadena Polly." No. 1, Pasadena Polly." No. 1, Pasadena Polly." That is the way the score has stood for an entire week. Ever since Monday Polly has headed the list. Can no one down that Pasadena boy? Is he truly so invincible? Jerome nearly slipped past him yesterday, but not quite; he merely got next—got second. Is it to be Polly against the field, or Pasadena against Los Angeles? Or will some of those big beach boys come to the rescue and down Polly? Something must be done and done soon or Polly will get so firmly rooted to that spot that he never can be dislodged.

It may be that Helen Woodworth will pass him! She certainly will if she comes in with many more such scores as she brought in yesterday. Five thousand, four hundred and fifty! That was Covina Helen's count, and it took her on the greatest upward spin that any one has taken this season at a single drive. It took that girl from twenty-ninth place to ninth! Think of it! Twenty places at one leap.

From an unexpected quarter came another big score. Elsa Winger of Santa Maria sent in 2375 points and all were secured in her first day's work. What may we not expect from a girl who can do that without any practice? We want Elsa's picture and some data in relation to her. She must be worth knowing and we want to know any girl who can do things like that. Elsa began her scholarship life at twenty-fifth pace, which many have to toil long to reach.

Yesterday was, as predicted, a banner day, sixteen worth while scores being brought in. Some were more than creditable, they were truly wonders.

Elsa Winger and Earle Weller tied scores, each having 2375 points.

Jerome with his 2375 went up to second. Jerome is chafing to be first again, and he means to get there, too. It is a great responsibility to have to carry Los Angeles up above all those other places—Pasadena, Santa Monica, Long Beach, Covina, Pomona and the rest.

Ten contestants yesterday brought in over 800 points, and several many times that number. The wee ones will be wee ones no longer if they keep up yesterday's pace.

George Brown's 800 points took him up two places; Melba Hackney went up one place; Cora Norton went from twenty-eighth to twenty-second.

Harold Tilton gained a place yesterday.

But Helen made the sensational move.

Helen Woodworth of Covina is the hard-working representative of that thrifty community and one whom the district is proud of. Helen was her father's constant companion in his canvass for the Greater Contest of The Times two years ago, and her father, who is totally blind, as it will be remembered, takes much interest in Helen's work. The family are pioneers in their locality and have lived for a number of years on a ranch near Covina. No distance is too great for Helen and her father to go to secure a subscriber, and there is no amount of work too great for them to undertake in the cause which they have so enthusiastically espoused.

It has been a great week, take it all in all.

It was delightful to become better acquainted on the moonlight launch party, and since that time the feeling of comradeship has increased daily. It is lots more fun to work with and against peopple whom you know than with peopple who are all "guess work." From this time on, the race will be more interesting than ever. There is the delightful vacation trip at Catalina to look forward to, as well as the prizes, and every one knows that it will be pleasant to meet and associate with those whom they have already met, for—now really, were there ever finer young people brought together? Just between ourselves, let us acknowlede that there never could be."

CAUTION.

Again caution as to the subscription blanks! Be sure to write everything plainly. It causes disappointment and no end of bother when these cannot be made out. Also indicate plainly on every blank, just what premiums are wished. Be certain that your subscriptions are NEW before turning them in as new, and thus avoid disappointment in your count. It is too bad to expect 500 or 1000 and to find in the tally sheet that it was but half that. If subscripions are verified before turned in, this will be avoided. The nearest route man can do this for you.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Carter, mother of Ramona Carter, the baby of The Greater Times Contest, has called up scholarship headquarters and says that she has a new annual for the youngest girl in the list. This must mean Allynn Delilah Clancy. So, Allynn, come in or call up and find out about this generous courtesy.

It is delightful to know how interested friends are in the progress and success of the contestants.

It is pleasant, too, to hear day after day of the successes which former contestants have made in life through the scholarships gained in past years. The prizes this year are even more worth while than heretofore.

THE PRIZE LIST.

The list of prizes is as follows:

Capital prize, $1000 to defray expenses of a course at Berkeley or Stanford.

He had lived quiet-

He was a director of the German-American Savings and Trust Company of Los Angeles; was at one time a director of the Chemical National Bank of New York; was a former president of the Merchants' National Bank of Burlington. He lived for many years in Burlington and was a member of the board of trustees of Parsons College, near there. He presented the college with a magnificent chapel and organ as a memorial to his mother. He was of Dutch descent and was a member of the Holland Society of New York. He leaves only a widow. His estate is a large one. The body will be taken to Burlington for interment.

CITY BRIEFS.

Mrs. Frank Marston, a member of the Civics Committee of the Shakespeare Club, yesterday formally presented the petition of the Shakespeare Club for the establishment of a municipal market to the City Commission. No definite action has yet been taken anent the subject.

The owners of Carmelita Playground yesterday decided that as soon as the city gives up its lease on the property, this week, the land will be put on the market and subdivided, if necessary. The children are planning a farewell celebration to be held on the grounds.

Figures that have just been compiled by Superintendent of Schools Rhodes show that the attendance at the public schools of the city for the school year just ended was 300 in excess of the attendance the year previous. The enrollment this last year was 7088 pupils.

New Road to Sugar Pine Scene of Accident that May Prove Fatal. County Board of Equalization to Finish Work Tomorrow—Heavy Storms in Mountains.

SAN BERNARDINO, July 19.—When the wagon and team driven by her husband went over the grade in Cleghorn Canyon yesterday, Mrs. Robert Lee was severely injured, sustaining a broken arm, severe bruises and possibly internal injuries.

They were en route from Cajon station over the new road to Sugar Pine, when one of the wagon axles broke, precipitating the wagon, team and occupants of the rig some distance down the precipice.

The wagon was badly wrecked, but Lee and the team escaped other than numerous bruises and cuts. The mishap occured on a narow and precipitous turn where they had no chance to save themselves.

FINAL EQUALIZATION.

Monday will be the final session of the County Board of Equalization. The reductions thus far made have not been as heavy as were expected at the outset, the objections not being as numerous as had been anticipated. The largest single reduction made was in the holdings of the Apple Valley Land Company, the reduction on their 30,000 acres of lands amounting to $56,000. The total reductions to date amount to about $140,000, but this will be slightly offset by several increases.

There has, on the whole, been but little change in the figures on citrus lands as returned by the Assessor. The total assessment of the county, exclusive of operative property, shows a reduction of about a million and a half, almost entirely due to the leniency shown the citrus fruit growers damaged by the frost of last winter.

MOUNTAIN STORMS.

Heavy rains have been falling in the upper mountain canyons. Bear Valley and other points farther over on the desert the last thirty-six hours. There are still indications that storms are continuing today as heavy clouds are banking high above the higher mountains. The weather is extremely sultry and it is probable that minor cloudbursts will be encountered in many places.

RIVERSIDE, July 19.—"I have not the slightest idea of Dean Hunt's plans," said Dr. H. J. Webber, head of the Southern California citrus experiment station, when asked today about the probable location of the new station, for which a total appropriation of $185,000 was made by the last Legislature.

Dr. Webber has just returned from Cornell University to begin actual work in connection with plans for the settlement of this important question. He will leave for Berkeley next week for a conference with Dean Hunt on this matter, which is of all-absorbing interest to the citrus fruit centers of Southern California at the present time.

"All that I know definitely," said the doctor, "is that the station will be built at some point in the southern citrus district some time next year. Of the sum appropriated, $125,000 is for buildings and $60,000 for the purchase of suitable land.

"The station will be a combination of the Riverside and Whittier stations and Riverside will have its chance along with the other cities of the orange belt in the matter of location. In the meantime, we shall occupy the new building erected here two years ago and the one at Whittier.

"Nothing final has been determined with reference to the final disposition of the building here, in case the new station shall be located elsewhere. It will be operated for a number of years, at any rate, to carry out some extended experiments begun with orange trees."

Dr. Webber has not yet assembled the permanent working force of the station, which will for some time if not permanently, constitute the head and center of one of the most important departments of the State Agricultural College. Six heads of departments, together with their assistants, will be employed here.

Dr. Webber is accompanied by his wife and mother and two sons and two daughters. The young ladies have been students at Cornell but are planning to enter the University of California in the fall.

STANDS UNCONVICTED.

Who killed Paul Vial, a well-known Winchester rancher on June 1, last, is a question that still remains unsettled. After deliberating eighteen hours the jury which heard the evidence against Pete Beloti, an Italian charged with the deed, announced to Judge Densmore at noon today that they could not agree.

The second trial of Beloti was fixed for November 5, 6 and 7.

A sensational feature of the argument of the attorney for the defense was the implied charge that the complaining witness, M. Etchart, was responsible for the killing. The latter's testimony was to the effect that Beloti had approached Vial with the words, "You are a witch; you made me sick. Give me some medicine to make me well," following which, after some parleying, it is alleged Beloti shot the ranchman through the head.

GIRLS IN HOSPITAL, MEN IN CITY JAIL.

SANTA MONICA, July 19.—Harold Spofford and K. R. Bell, who, with three women, were in a spectacular auto wreck, the culmination of a sensational joy ride through these beach cities, were taken from the local jail, where they had been incarcerated since early this morning, to the Los Angeles City Jail. The men will answer to a complaint filed by the owner of the car they are said to have wrecked. It is charged that they took the machine from a local garage without permission.

Helen Diemel, Sadie Klein and Bessie Carson, the women in the machine, were cut and bruised when a tire came off the automobile near the Country Club at 1:30 o'clock this morning, the machine skidding and one of the wheels breaking off. The women were thrown several feet, and Spofford, Bell and Ray Smith, the latter a motion-picture actor, also were injured. Smith was not taken in custody by the Santa Monica police.

R. A. Phillips, president of the First National Bank of Venice; Dr. J. M. White and Percy J. McGough were coming to the beach in the Phillips auto when they saw the wreck and the bleeding victims. They brought the women to the St. Catherine's Hospital and notified the police, who found the men and lodged them in jail. The speedometer is said to have shown a maximum speed of seventy-two miles an hour.

The addresses of the women were given as Nos. 835 and 853 South Hill street, this city. At the above addresses the police learned yesterday that the young women do not live there. The woman in charge of the rooming-houses at those numbers denies that persons giving those names have ever lived there.

The management of the Oldsmobile Company of California, at No. 1205 South Olive street, said yesterday that the wrecked machine is the property of the Stag Auto Livery Company and was taken from the Olive-street garage about 9:30 o'clock Friday night. According to the manager of the company, the machine was taken by George Bell, an employee who had keys to the garage.

Bell is said to have gotten into trouble once before and to be out now on parole. The Oldsmobile Company is trying to give him a chance to make good, and the managers profess to believe that the young man is sorry for what occurred.

You have tried the rest, now try the best. "Hotel del Coronado" is best.—[Advertisement.

ELK WHITE SQUADRON GAMBOL TO BARBECUE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SANTA BARBARA, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The arrival in Santa Barbara this afternoon at 5 o'clock on a special train of the famous White Squadron of Elks from Los Angeles was the occasion for a great celebration. The visitors were met at the train by a large delegation of Elks and others and soon afterward they started on a march up State street to the Arlington Hotel, where tonight a gorgeous banquet was held.

The White Squadron was augmented by a delegation from Ventura and also Oxnard, swelling the total to nearly 400. En route to the hotel the Los Angeles Elks gave an exhibition of drill work and were frequently applauded by the enthusiastic citizens.

The Arlington was elaborately decorated for the occasion and it was midnight before the festivities closed. A sumptuous banquet was served and many of the Los Angeles Elks as well as the local Elks responded to toasts.

One of the remarkable features of the Elks coming was the fact that the special train arrived at 5 o'clock sharp. Several minutes' grace were granted the southerners, but no one could have been more punctual.

The big event will come tomorrow, the Elks' meeting at their hall at 10 a.m., to take automobiles provided by W. D. V. Smith, chairman of the Transportation Committee, for a trip to Hope ranch. The feature there will be a barbecue, the success of which may be assured from the personnel of the committee, which includes W. J. McCaffrey, John Dugan, Ralph Kaland and A. J. Abraham.

The visitors will depart for the South on their special at 7 p.m., tomorrow.

Frank Bryson, who commands the White Squadron and who is Public Administrator of Los Angeles county, is the originator of this excursion idea. Every few weeks he leads his forces into the outlying territory of Southern California and thereby widens the mutual acquaintanceship of the members of the order. The last outing was to Riverside.

FIRST INJURY LATE IN LIFE.

LEAVES WAR UNSCATHED TO FALL VICTIM IN FISHING.

Septuagenarian in Hospital Philosiphizes at Fate's Late Stroke—City Club Urges Issue of Bonds Despite Alleged Incompetent Administration.

LONG BEACH, July 20.—Going through the Civil War without an injury and reaching old age without danger, T. H. Houston, aged 70, living at No. 1011 Euclid avenue, Los Angeles, is a patient at a local hospital and may lose all the toes of his right foot as the result of a peculiar accident this morning while on a fishing trip on the launch Pastime.

Houston, with some friends, left the wharf at 7:30 o'clock this morning. About 9:30 o'clock the warm weather compelled Houston to doff his coat and he entered the little cabin to hang it up when the boat gave a lurch, and the old man's foot slipped, sliding along some distance under a protecting platform and was caught by the coupling between the engine and the propellor shaft. The revolving set screws clamped down on the foot and chewed it frightfully before the engine could be stopped. With Houston suffering from pain and loss of blood the launch was headed full speed for shore and arriving here at 11:30 o'clock the victim was rushed to the hospital where it was found that the toes are so frightfully mangled that amputation will probably be necessary, although every effort will be made to save the big toe.

"After my long life and freedom from accident it makes me sore to get hurt on a mealey fishing trip." Houston said while the surgeons were dressing his injuries.

DIGS ADMINISTRATION.

The City Club, an organization of 100 members, who discuss the civic needs of the city and its intelligent handling by municipal authorities and who are automatically ousted from membership if they assume political office, last night listened with interest to an explanation of sewer needs and the plan proposed by F. M. Olmsted, of the engineering firm of Olmsted & Gillelan, who are to supervise the construction of the system if the bonds are voted, and then adopted resolutions indorsing the sewer and incinerator bonds, and voiced its commendation of the specifications suggested. It pledged the club to unceasing effort in case the bonds carry to see that the money is expended wisely.

The club went further, however, and took a rap at the present city administration in the following paragraph: "We appeal to all public-spirited, patriotic citizens to allow neither the incompetency of the present administration, the failures of the Board of Public Works, nor the lack of confidence in Mayor and Council to defeat these bonds."

BEACH BRIEFS.

It was reported today that the City Council at its next meeting will order the City Attorney to bring suit against the Home Telephone Company for violation of the rate ordinance and its franchise. A strong lobby in Council headed by Walter Clapp favors this action and were confident today that they had enough votes to control. City Atttorney Long last week gave to Council all the data on the alleged violation and asked for definite instructions. The City Attorney has on file numerous receipts which indicate that patrons were charged more than the rate allowed in the ordinance.

The City Club last night revived the plan to secure a Long Beach connection with the proposed municipal railway from Los Angeles to the San Pedro and Wilmington docks, and appointed a committee to take up the matter with the municipal authorities of Los Angeles and then take the necessary steps looking to the consummation of the local end through the initiative and referendum.

The Coroner's jury in the inquest on the death of Mary Benton Haley, who died at the County Hospital Wednesday, this morning returned a verdict based on the report of Autopsy Physician Maisch to the effect that death was caused by peritonitis which followed the puncturing of an intestinal ulcer. This verdict is taken to indicate that Dr. Albert Winn of San Pedro, held on a charge of murder as the result of an alleged criminal operation, will be cleared of the accusation against him.

One hundred and fifty Masonic Past Masters of Southern California arrived here this afternoon and were taken on a trip through the inner harbor on the launch Music. Returning they were guests of a local theater and then enjoyed beach amusements until 6 o'clock, when dinner was served at Hotel Alexandria. Tonight they were the guests of the local Masonic lodge at a special session at Masonic Temple.

MELONS NEARLY GONE.

DINUBA, July 19.—Melon shipping from the Dinuba district is practically completed and early predictions of but 40 per cent. of a crop have been borne out. The total for this season will not exceed 200 cars, as against 328 cars last season. Practically all the melons were marketed through the Growers' Association. Prices have fallen off rapidly during the past three days and the last cars shipped brought but $9 per ton, as contrasted with $20 to $22 paid for the first cars out of the district.

Redondo Beach.

THREE COMMIT SUICIDE BY DROWNING IN SURF.

REDONDO BEACH, July 19.—The body of John Love of Pasadena, the third suicide by drowning here within four days, was washed ashore this morning about 5 o'clock on the beach north of the roller coaster.

The body of Love was discovered by a Mexican about 5 o'clock this morning, who gave the alarm and a number of persons identified it as that of B. J. Brown, a well-known resident of Redondo Beach. It was not until a friend of Brown called at his room and found him getting ready to go to his work that their mistake was learned.

There was nothing on the body of the man to identify it but a Pacific Electric ticket from Los Angeles to Pasadena and the business card of Dr. J. F. Poynter, an osteopath of Los Angeles. Poynter identified Love as one of his patients through a telephone description, and it was learned that Love had been missing all night. Later friends of Love positively identified him.

Love, who lived at No. 730 East Mountain avenue, Pasadena, had been ill for some time and suffering from mental trouble. He left his home yesterday to visit the physician for an osteopathic treatment, but failed to keep his appointment. Instead he came to Redondo Beach and plunged into the ocean sometime during the evening. When the body was found his watch had stopped at 7:25 o'clock.

Love was 40 years old and married. He had lived in Pasadena for seven years where he was employed as a cement worker. He leaves a widow. The body was sent to Pasadena for burial.

The body of George E. Overmyer, the Los Angeles attorney who committed suicide by jumping from wharf No. 2 Tuesday evening while temporarily demented, was shipped to Topeka today for burial.

The body of Mrs. John George Boyle of San Francisco, who walked into the ocean Tuesday night following a suicide pact with her husband, was buried today in Redondo Beach cemetery at Belvidere. The examination of her husband, who is now in the County Jail, held on a charge of abetting a suicide, will be held Thursday morning.

DENIES DRAWING GUN.

AVALON, July 19.—Pleading not guilty to a charge of drawing a gun, Ernest Burtt of Los Angeles was today bonded in the sum of $50 to appear Wednesday to answer to the complaint sworn by M. Pettinger of Long Beach. The case will be tried in Justice B. F. Lattimer's court. Burtt stated that he was deputized as special policeman and was one of the officers who was on the wharf during the fight Thursday when passengers tried to land at the pleasure wharf from the launch Calypso of Long Beach.

Good Teeth and Digestion

Keep your digestive apparatus in good working order and you can defy old age. Indigestion is the cause of most of the ills of mankind and womankind.

What causes indigestion?

Poor teeth, or no teeth, in nearly every case. "Stomach trouble" is generally traceable to "teeth trouble."

What's the remedy?

A perfect set of teeth.

OUR REX METHOD OF ALVEOLAR TEETH, AS PERFECTED BY DR. RANKINE

In Restoring Missing Teeth

When these teeth are in place it is a difficult matter for anyone, even the one who is wearing them, to tell which are nature's teeth and which "Alveolar."

In shape, size, color, looks and action they are a perfect substitute for teeth which grew in the mouth and as firm as a rock.

We don't say, "Now, be careful when you eat," but, "Use these teeth just as you would if they grew in your jaws."

Let us tell you what we can do and refer you to the people who have had this work done for them. That's the fair plan, isn't it?

An examination of your mouth and teeth won't cost you a cent. It won't obligate you to spend a cent unless you are satisfied that we can do as we promise.

You will be the judge of all these things when you come.

Cancer of the Tongue and Throat Cured

NEW YORK, July 1.
Cancer of the tongue and throat seemed to have doomed Dennis W. Mahoney, postmaster of Passaic, after he had suffered from the modant affliction for a year. He could scarcely utter a word, but today he said distinctly that he is being cured by Alexander Horovicz and Benjamin Danc, two doctors from the royal Medical College in Budapest, Hungary, who are the guests of a Passaic man.

This article printed in a Los Angeles paper of July 2 was printed all over the world and read by millions, because of the wonderful cure performed by these two doctors. Right here in Los Angeles we are curing cancer of the throat and tongue. You do not have to go thousands of miles away to some foreign country. Come to us. Let us furnish you the names of some of our patients. Over seven years ago Mrs. O. S. Walter of Ventura, was cured of cancer clear through the tongue and today is sound and well. More than eight years ago M. Masters of Los Angeles was cured of cancer of the throat. There are many others. Come and let us furnish you their names and addresses.

I CURE PILES
FISTULA AND ALL RECTAL DISEASES
WITHOUT AN OPERATION
BY MY PAINLESS DISSOLVENT METHOD

I TREAT NO DISEASES EXCEPT THOSE OF THE RECTUM AND BOWELS.

For twenty-five years I have been curing diseases of the rectum and lower bowel. During that time my experience as hospital and railroad surgeon, as college lecturer and professor, has enabled me to develop a method that is superior to all others. I cure without surgery and my patients are never confined in bed and never lose a moment's time from their business.

My method is not a "home cure" or a "correspondence treatment," but it is an application of skilled treatments administered under the most rigid antiseptic conditions in my office.

I solicit old, severe and obstinate cases of fistula, prolapsus, fissure and ulceration that have heretofore resisted all treatments employed. If you are a sufferer from rectal trouble I invite you to investigate my method thoroughly by talking or writing to any of my cured patients. If you will call at my office I will be pleased to give you the names and addresses of many well-known Los Angeles people I have cured, whom you may interview in regard to my treatment.
Read what a few well-known Southern California people have to say of my method. Many similar letters are on file in my office.

WELL KNOWN SANTA MONICA MINISTER CURED.
This is to certify that Dr. C. H. White has cured me of a distressing hemorrhoidal ailment of 25 years' duration. His method of treatment is effective, but not severe. He has the appliances, the knowledge and the skill born of many years of specialization in this fruitful source of physical disease. He accomplishes all he claims in his advertising and at reasonable expense.
I take pleasure in heartily commending the man and his methods.
WESLEY K. BEANS, Pastor First Methodist Episcopal Church, Santa Monica, Cal.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE SUPERINTENDENT CURED.
My Dear Mr. White: I am thankful for the privilege of bearing witness to your ability to treat, without pain, and with success, the delicate and disabling diseases which result from sedentary work. To all who need the services of a skillful, sympathetic and experienced specialist in your line, I heartily commend you.
Very sincerely yours,
ERVIN S. CHAPMAN, D.D., LL.D., Superintendent State Anti-Saloon League.

SHOT FOR A DRINK.

Victim So Frightened That He Caters to Assailant—May Die of Wounds.

Charley Bretchall wanted a drink so much last night that he shot a man and then made him bring the liquor. Giovanetti Rossetti, the victim, is in the Receiving Hospital with a bullet in his vitals.

Rossetti, it seems, owed Bretchall 30 cents and wasn't anxious to cancel the obligation. Also Rossetti had some fine wine at his home, No. 2676 Long Beach avenue.

One week ago Bretchall went to Rossetti's home and got a drink of fine red wine. It was so good he decided to take the 30 cents of debt out in red wine. Last night, his thirst whetted, he went to Rossetti's home and ordered another drink of the wine. Rossetti demurred. The bottle, he said, was nearly empty.

Bretchall showed him why he should serve the drink by shooting him in the stomach. Rossetti was so scared he ran and fetched the drink. Bretchall sipped it slowly, then left. Rossetti may die.

Bretchall was arrested at his home, No. 1635 East Thirty-third street.

THE MARCH OF EVENTS.

XXXIInd YEAR. SUNDAY MORNING, JULY 20, 1913. POPULATION: { By the Federal Census (1910)—[illegible] By the City Directory (1913)—[illegible]

On the Sunny Strand.

GREATEST OF ALL THE GAY SUMMER SEASONS IN FULL SWING AT THE SOUTHLAND BEACHES.

Millions of Visitors Down by the Sparkling Sea and Many Millions of Dollars Expended for Them and by Them—What They Are All Doing.

CONVERGING to Los Angeles, then diverging over wheel-spoke routes to the ocean's edge from Santa Monica to Balboa, thousands and tens of thousands are daily seeking the health-giving pleasures of the Southland's beaches.

This is the greatest of all the great years the seaside resorts in Southern California have known. Figures now available indicate that the increase will be fully 15 per cent. over last year. During the twelve months of this year the visitors to the near-by beaches will equal in number the population of twenty cities the size of Los Angeles millions otherwise. The beach cities are bonding themselves for millions to provide places of amusement, hotels, apartment-houses, piers and pavilions. They're pouring fortunes into construction.

If the 10,000,000 visitors to the seashore this year average to spend $2 each the aggregate would exceed the resources of many of California's greatest banking institutions. The Pacific Electric Company is expending nearly $2,000,000 on equipment this year to enable it to handle the increased crowds.

The beach towns themselves are spending more than $10,000,000. Santa Monica is building new hotels and residences and providing new places of amusement. Ocean Park has a new high-water mark established this summer.

This mighty rush to the beaches leads to the obvious deduction that the Pacific Coast with the matchless climate of Southern California is an attraction worth while and worth the price, even though, in the aggregate it is big and growing bigger.

Seashore trips have become an important factor in the lives of Southern California residents as well as enjoyable incidents in the tours of visitors from less-favored localities. Coast resort traffic leaves a heavy impress on Los Angeles itself, for this city is the natural hub around which it all revolves. Hardly anybody goes to the beach without going from or through this city.

Scenes at the near-by beaches, all tremendously active. They're pouring fortunes into new buildings to provide accommodations and amusements for the people of the whole Southwest, who make the seashore their recreation ground.

Over the Pacific Electric lines alone more persons are carried than the total number of passengers on all the railroads of the country west of Salt Lake City.

Automobile travel to the sea has increased tremendously this year, and though no definite figures are to be had it is probable that the number of visitors who use the smoothly-paved boulevards is greater by 40 per cent. than last year. One of the problems that most of the beach cities are facing is to provide more parking space.

Ocean breezes were apparently never before in so great demand. Father Neptune and Old Boreas are equal to the occasion with an unlimited supply and they furnish it free. Theirs is one monopoly that imposes no tax on the people.

But the other items run into money fast. Considering all the expenses, breathing the invigorating salt air comes high. Millions are spent by travelers for car fare and many more already expended more than $1,000,000 within a stone's throw of the rebuilt pier.

Venice building enterprises for the year total $3,000,000. Long Beach's property valuation has increased $9,000,000 since a year ago and much of the new building has been to provide for pleasure-seeking visitors.

Huntington Beach is building a great municipal concrete pier. Redondo Beach has added nearly 50 per cent. to its investment in pavilions and places of amusement. Newport and Balboa are spreading with new cottages, and the ocean front improvements are the greatest in their history.

To keep pace with the increasing number of visitors and temporary residents, all these cities have found it necessary to make extraordinary expenditures this year. The seashore traffic of Los Angeles county has developed to enormous proportions with

All traffic arrangements are made here. All the great quantities of supplies for the multitudes which throng the ocean's sands come from or through this city. It is a part of the city's life and a part of the city's business and is one of the reasons why Los Angeles is growing so rapidly that the whole world looks on in amazement.

YEAR'S GAIN IS NINE MILLIONS.

Long Beach's Busiest Season at Its Height.

Summer Residents Fill Every Available Building.

Conventions Promise to Bring Many Thousands More.

With the Assessor's books showing a gain of $9,000,000 in the past year and by far the biggest number of summer residents in its history, Long Beach is taxing her capacity to the uttermost to take care of the mid-season rush.

Chamber of Commerce figures show there are 7000 to 10,000 more summer residents than in any previous year. Rooming-houses are full, summer homes are in unprecedented demand and the tent cities on the west beach are crowded.

The convention season opens next week and the Christian assembly, comprising churches of Southern California, will open a two weeks' session, bringing 3000 delegates and perhaps double that number of visitors.

Following this comes the Long Beach assembly for three weeks, whose programme, containing the brightest and best speakers in the country, is sure to draw 5000 to 10,000 people. How to care for these visitors is even now troubling the Chamber of Commerce.

There has been a great change on the sands in the past year. Formerly the amusement center was west of the big pier, but this year it is divided and the east side is as wide awake as its older rival. Two bath-houses, a band stand, in which concerts are given twice a day by the municipal band, three picture shows and numerous concessions.

BUILDING BIG PIER.

At Golden avenue the first piling is being "cured" for the big Barndollar amusement pier, whose initial cost is to be $250,000 and will contain in its first unit eleven acres of floor space, the widest and largest pier on the Coast. It will not be available to the public until next year.

Three other applications for private piers made by Charles I. D. Looff, Alva Reynolds and E. L. Campbell have been turned down by the City Council.

The great asset of Long Beach as a summer resting place is still its magnificent beach and bathing facilities. There are within the city limits fourteen miles of gently sloping sand with not a treacherous stepoff in its entire length and protected from high winds and rough seas by Catalina Island and the government breakwater.

The commercial and business interests of Long Beach are keeping pace with its popularity as a resort. The opening and development of the inner harbor by private capital and shipping to the possibilities of this point as a manufacturing and shipping port and the recent decision of the government to order a survey of a connecting channel between the Long Beach and Los Angeles harbors has added additional interest.

The Edison power plant on the harbor, furnishing juice to half of Southern California, was originally intended as a $2,000,000 enterprise, but the two units of the plant already in operation have proved insufficient and the company is now erecting the third and fourth unit, doubling the capacity and increasing the investment by many hundreds of thousands.

Other industries established the past year are the California Glass Insulator Company, the Tuna Canning Factory and two smaller boat works. Now building are the Pacific Iron Manufacturing Company, whose plant will be removed here from Kansas City; the California Woolen Mills, and the American Potash Company.

At the close of July, 1911, there had been issued for the year 762 permits of the value of $900,743. For the same time in 1912, 946 permits, value $1,602,983. This year, with but two-thirds of the month gone, there have been issued 1110 permits of the contract value of $2,826,689.

The permits so far this month number seventy-five of the value of $402,940. The larger permits are for three and four-story apartment-houses. The great majority of the permits are for modern homes, ranging from the modest bungalows of $2500 each to the more pretentious mansions of $10,000 and $15,000.

There is now pending an election to vote nearly $400,000 bonds for a new sewer system and these will be followed rapidly with elections for a new City Hall, a new convention hall, two big piers, one at Pine and one at American avenue, and one at Devil's Gate, and for new equipment and mains for the city water system, entailing a total bonded indebtedness of $1,250,000.

The property valuation this year has increased from $21,000,000 to $30,000,000, according to the Assessor's figures just made public.

GAY RESORT'S BIGGEST YEAR.

Venice Spends Millions in New Buildings.

More Visitors and Better Business Than Ever.

Problem Now Is to Find Room for Autos.

The summer season at Venice, now at its height, gives promise of being by far the biggest and gayest in the history of the resort. Twenty per cent. more visitors came in the early summer months than during the same period last year and the merchants report a 30 per cent. gain in business.

In the past twelve months nearly $3,000,000 has been spent in new buildings, including twenty-seven apartment-houses, business buildings and residences. On the pier and other amusement centers where the millionaire rubs elbows with the bootblack in common search for gay amusement, notable changes have been made.

New concessions and new amusement devices this season have crowded the pier to its capacity and that amusement center has expanded about as far as it can until it is made bigger.

Venice is notably democratic. It caters to all classes and all classes seek its attractions. It is a strange composite of amusements and homes, the mecca of the restless and the rest seeker. This is because the theaters, concessions and gayer attractions are concentrated well away from the residence section.

Venice, like other Los Angeles county beach cities, has shown remarkable growth not only this year but during its entire existence of eight years.

From a pile of sand dunes, which eight years ago were considered as merely waste land, it has grown to a city of 8000 permanent residents and a floating population greater than Chicago's census figures.

The demand for newer and more attractive amusements which becomes more and more incessant as the patronage increases, has been met this year with a score of unique devices. The city has no amusement censor but the city government has announced a policy of reasonable restriction with[illegible]

FOR INTERLOCKING PLANTS.

President Shoup of the Pacific Electric announced yesterday that contracts for the installation of interlocking plants at Vineyard Junction, Ivy Junction, Watts, and Lamanda Park will be let as soon as bids for the work are in his hands, which will be in a few days. Regarding the State Railroad Commission hearing Tuesday, Pacific Electric officials state that no place or time for the hearing has been definitely set. They also stated that they do not know who will conduct the hearing.

"Newport of the Pacific."

NEW HOMES FOR THE SMART SET.

CLIFTON-BY-THE-SEA IS PART OF REDONDO BEACH.

Town that Started With a Group of Fishermen's Shacks Keeps Up With the Procession by Adding to Its Amusements, Cottages and Hotels.

This season is breaking all records at Redondo Beach and its newly acquired suburb, Clifton-by-the-Sea. This resort, which started at the southern end of Crescent Bay with a small group of fishermen's shacks, has gone ahead more this year than in any other two years of its existence.

New concessions and amusement devices have brightened and made more attractive the ocean front. Many new apartment houses have been erected and all are filled. One of the larger houses was booked solid until September as early as the middle of May. Three new garages have been completed and a new grammar school has been built at a cost of $40,000.

New residences have been completed during the year at the rate of three a week, some of those on the esplanade being of elaborate and costly construction.

Among them are the new residences of L. E. Miller of this city and R. M. Frick of Redondo Beach. The latter was remodeled from the old Wilshire property, long a beach show place.

All along the esplanade new houses have filled in the gaps until this beautiful boulevard is thickly lined with high-class beach dwellings. They have all the advantages and comforts of city as well as resort, except that they have no back-yards.

Every house on the row faces two ways, toward the esplanade and toward the ocean. This boulevard, extending toward Clifton, became a part of the city of Redondo when Clifton was annexed last week by an almost unanimous vote.

While Redondo Beach has been regarded as a resort for summer and winter residents of the smart set, the strictly amusement part of the beach has grown as rapidly as the residential section.

More than $250,000 has been expended preparatory to this summer's season in buildings and amusement devices. A giant racing coaster and many other devices have been installed since spring.

Bathing and fishing are more popular than ever this year and the resort is attracting 20 per cent. larger crowds than in any previous summer.

So numerous are the big game fish this month that the market fishermen catch them with jig lines in preference to nets, and 700 to 1000 pounds of fish for four men in half a day is not uncommon.

Many of the largest fish are taken from the end of the Southern Pacific wharf. Last week an unprecedented run of halibut kept the wharf crowded from before daylight to after dark.

Hundreds of fishermen angle from the long municipal pier at Long Beach and from there scores of launches and sailboats go to the deep sea grounds. Long Beach fishing enthusiasm was never greater and most of the veteran anglers have had good success this season.

FIRST TO SHIP GRAPES.

Pioneer Farmer and Newspaper Man Dies Following Long Illness. Long Identified With Southland.

Charles Fox Stamps, old-time newspaper man and credited with having been the first person to ship green grapes to the eastern markets in carload lots, died yesterday morning at his residence, No. 1027 Lake street, following a long illness. He leaves a widow and one son, C. F. Stamps, Jr. The funeral will be held at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning at the residence, followed by services at St. Vibiana's Cathedral. Burial will be in Calvary Cemetery.

Stamps, who was born in Green Valley, Sonoma county, January 15, 1857, moved with his parents to San Diego at an early age, where he learned the printer's trade. Coming to this city in 1878, he was employed on various papers. Here he married Miss Kate McCoy November 17, 1878. Some years later he and a brother started grape growing in Orange county and began the shipment of green grapes East in carload lots. Tiring of farming, Stamps purchased the Santa Ana Standard, which he edited for two years. Later he entered the real estate business in this city. Previous to his retirement, four years ago, Stamps was identified with the gas heater and water appliance business in this city.

Santa Monica.

WHERE MOUNTAINS AND SEA ATTRACT THRONGS.

SANTA MONICA'S many-sided attractions, of mountains, sea, home comfort and gay amusements are bringing the greatest crowds in the history of the north beach. The new boulevard through Sawtelle, which connects with Oregon avenue, now being improved at a cost of $200,000, has increased the automobile travel and the ocean highway to the mountain canyons, is being used by hundreds every day.

Recent improvements along the water front have added much to the appearance of the beach. Chief among these is the municipal concrete pier, 1600 feet long and fifty feet wide.

A little south of the pier a new city of homes has sprung up within a year. Along the terraced section at the foot of Fremont avenue nearly $250,000 has been expended in homes and apartment-houses, where twelve months ago was an unsightly stretch of ravines.

The new Polytechnic High School, completed at a cost of $250,000, occupies a sightly position on the highest point of Fremont avenue and is surrounded with eleven acres of land which is soon to be improved with parks, gymnasium and other school buildings.

The building permit record thus far this year indicates that the former record of $1,500,000 is to be surpassed long before the winter season begins.

The Ocean Park end of Santa Monica is the scene of greatest activity and the work of rebuilding has progressed far enough to make this a gay center for the great midsummer crowds.

In this district $1,134,376 has been expended in new buildings since the fire last September. The principal new structures are the five-story Hotel Edmund, and the Stineman and Kramer, Couch Building Company, Maier, Kelly and Huff buildings, all on the water front.

On Marine street the Merchants and Commercial Bank, Marine Hotel, Nile Hotel and several store and office buildings have been completed and are now occupied.

The new pier draws thousands of people every day, the Sunday attendance there being estimated at 40,000 to 50,000. The road race August 9 is expected to bring the season's biggest crowd, probably 100,000. The season thus far has been the biggest in the history of the north beaches and the crowds are fully 15 per cent. greater than last year.

Among the proposed improvements on the north beach is a bath-house to contain four storerooms, sun parlors, Turkish baths, twenty-five-foot de luxe bathrooms, 100 private dressing-rooms, 220 public dressing-rooms, suites for hotel and athletic club purposes and automobile parking space.

Resort's Biggest Year.

Windward avenue pier, the amusement center, now hasn't a dull spot on it but the tendency to continue the policy of concentration.

The streets are all open to automobile parking and at times 5000 cars have been taken care of. Now the parking space is proving inadequate and the City Trustees are wrestling with the problem of finding more space.

The strides of prosperity of the city is best told in the figures furnished by the First National Bank of Venice. Individual deposits, which do not include the term certificates of deposits nor public moneys, show the increase. In 1908 the amount was $56,594.90. In 1909 they reached $57,390.62 and the year following, $99,997.50. During the year 1911 these deposits jumped to $170,269.22 and the year following to $215,374.76. Last year the total was $276,124.00, an increase of $219,529.80 in five years. The total clearings for last month was $362,187.12.

Recently the taxpayers voted to issue bonds in the amount of $250,000 for the building of a new High School and just previous to this a new grammar school was ordered built at a cost of $35,000

SPORT IN THE SURF.

The Redondo Beach swimming meet, the dates for which have been changed to August 1 and 2, will include three new events, fifty-yard dashes with back stroke and breast stroke and diving. Wallace Robb at Dyas & Cline's is in charge of the programme.

Public Service: City Hall, Courts.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The new rules for the Council were submitted yesterday, but went over until tomorrow for discussion. They would limit debate and prohibit a Councilman from speaking more than once on the same subject, and then not more than ten minutes.

The City Attorney has notified the Council that there is no legal way open whereby the city could compel the Los Angeles City School District to pay the school bonds issued by the city itself.

Bids for garbage disposal are to be opened by the Board of Public Works tomorrow, but objection is raised by prospective bidders on account of what is deemed excessive bond requirements. No bids so far have been filed.

The Board of Public Works yesterday approved the contract for placing twenty-nine sixty-watt Tungsten lamps in the Gardena district, the first lot of the forty-five to be installed during the fiscal year.

The mother of the Pasadena society man who startled the city by a contract marriage some time ago, yesterday testified in her suit for divorce, the action seemingly indicating that the new style is outlasting the old.

At the City Hall.

PREPARE RULES FOR COUNCIL.

OFFER STRINGENT REGULATIONS FOR LAWMAKERS.

No Member Shall Speak More Than Once Nor More Than Ten Minutes on Same Question, and Every Councilman Must Vote When Roll Call Occurs.

The Council Committee on Rules has completed its work and presented the new draft of regulations to that body yesterday. Because of the absence of some of the members, consideration of the new rules was postponed until tomorrow.

Many of the rules of the former Council have been incorporated in the new compilation, but there are several innovations.

Regular sessions are to be held daily at 9 o'clock, except on Sundays and holidays.

The lay-out for the week's work is divided as follows: Mondays, reports from the Board of Public Works; Tuesdays, reports from the City Engineer; Wednesdays, reports from the Board of Public Utilities and consideration of matters set for hearing; Thursdays, reports from the City Attorney and the Board of Harbor Commissioners; Fridays, reports of committees; Saturdays, miscellaneous business.

Communications from the Mayor, unfinished business, miscellaneous business, petitions and such reports from the several officers, boards and commissions of more than ordinary importance shall be considered by the Council on the day they are received, unless continued to some other day.

A limit is put upon debate by Rule No. 8, which provides that no member shall speak more than once, nor more than ten minutes, on the same question, without consent of two-thirds of the members present, except that the mover of any question shall have five minutes additional time to close the debate.

Every member present must vote when there is a roll call, unless he is excused from voting by the Council. No smoking will be allowed in the Council chamber during the sessions of the Council.

No person other than members of the Council, city officials, newspaper reporters and parties desiring to address the Council on matters which are to be considered at that particular meeting shall be admitted inside of the railing to the floor of the Council, without permission from the president. No person shall be permitted to converse with the clerk of the Council or any member of the Council during any sessions.

The regular meetings of committees are scheduled as follows:

Public Safety, 10 a.m., Wednesdays; Public Service, 10 a.m., Wednesdays; Finance, 10 a.m., Mondays; Public Welfare, 10 a.m., Mondays; Public Works, 1:30 p.m., Thursdays; Efficiency and Supply, 10 a.m., Fridays; Public Health and Sanitation, 10 a.m., Thursdays; Harbor, 11 a.m., Thursdays; Public Utilities, 10 a.m., Fridays.

Cannot Compel Payment.

In a report to the City Council regarding the city's liability for the payment of school bonds, the City Auditor says:

"A few years ago the school department had deeded to them from the city all school property previously purchased by the city. They also received all moneys from us, and discontinued all transactions with the city, but they left nearly $1,000,000 worth of bonds for the city to pay—that is, they took all their assets and left us all their liabilities."

The City Council asked the City Attorney for an opinion as to whether the Los Angeles city school district may be held liable for the payment of these bonds and the city could be reimbursed for payments on principal and interest. The City Attorney holds, and so notified the Council yesterday, that Los Angeles as a municipal corporation is liable for the payment of principal and interest and the Los Angeles city school district cannot be compelled to pay the same.

Garbage Bids Tomorrow.

The Board of Public Works will open bids for the disposal of garbage tomorrow at 11 o'clock, under specifications that allow bidding under practically any method. The bidder is required to put up a bond of $10,000 to insure the signing of the contract if it is awarded to him, and the successful bidder has to deposit a bond of $50,000 for the faithful fulfillment of contract. It is understood that prospective bidders have made considerable complaint as to the size of the bonds required. They declare that regular bonding companies will not handle this business, this making it necessary to secure personal bondsmen who have the necessary property qualifications.

No bids had been filed up to the time of closing the offices at noon yesterday. If no satisfactory bids are received tomorrow, it is possible that the board may seriously consider the project of establishing a city hog farm at some outside point, in order to utilize the garbage.

Settlement for Lost Eye.

Special Counsel Mathews of the aqueduct has effected a settlement with Serafin Triarte for the loss of his eye in an accident on the aqueduct work in San Francisquito Canyon on April 11. Triarte agrees to take $500 in full settlement. The Board of Public Works approved this yesterday.

Gets Leave of Absence.

The Board of Public Works yesterday granted to Col. W. G. Schreiber a leave of absence for July 21, 22 and 23, he having been detailed by the State authorities to conduct the annual State rifle competition as regimental commander.

Asks for Presence of Board.

The Civil Service Commission yesterday sent to the Board of Public Works a request that it attend a meeting of the commission to be held at 9 o'clock next Tuesday morning. It is probable at that time that announcement will be made of the decision of the Civil Service Commission on the appeal of E. A. Tuttle for reinstatement as tunnel engineer in the City Engineer's department.

Inspect Public Markets.

Councilmen Reed, Snowden and Wheeler, under whose supervision come the free municipal markets, made a tour of inspection of all these market places yesterday forenoon, and upon returning to the City Hall declared that they were deeply impressed with the popularity of the markets and the field they are reaching. The new market at Sunset boulevard and Logan street was opened yesterday, and there was an attendance of about 600 people. At all of the other market places there was a large attendance of patrons.

Lights for Gardena.

The Board of Public Works gave its approval yesterday to the contract for installation of lights in the Gardena district. It is proposed to install twenty-nine sixty-watt tungsten lamps at once, and a total of forty-five during the entire fiscal year in this district. The installation of lamps is to be done by the Southern California Edison Company, and the current is to be furnished by the Pacific Electric Company, the only concern carrying electric current into that district that is available for street lighting purposes.

City Hall Brevities.

July 30 is the date set by the City Council for final action on the protests against the assessment district for the acquirement of a branch library site at Santa Monica boulevard and Madison street.

The City Council has adopted an ordinance including within the industrial district of the city property on both sides of Cahuenga avenue, south of Hollywood boulevard. The Hollywood Board of Trade had approved this change.

None of the large property owners or corporations have yet filed protests with the City Board of Equalization, which is holding daily sessions at the City Hall. During the past week only minor matters have been before the board for adjustment, with the exception of churches and charitable organizations, which seek a reduction of their assessments to merely nominal figures. Councilmen McKenzie, Snowden and Betkouski are a special committee to hear and investigate petitions from charitable organizations for assessment reductions.

ALLEGES BOND EXCESSIVE.

Matter Coming Up on Habeas Corpus Proceedings Tomorrow in Department Twelve—Ferris in Jail.

Paul Schenck, attorney for Ralph Sterling Ferris, the young man from Rawlins, Wyo., who is said to be "motor mad," will argue in Department Twelve tomorrow for reduction of bail. Ferris is now under $5000 bonds on his manslaughter charge. When Justice Young fixed his bail on his fifth speeding charge at $5000, Ferris's friends were unable or unwilling to furnish the amount. The young man has been in the County Jail since late Thursday night.

Deprivation from his accustomed cigarettes has made him very nervous, say the officers. While treated with kindness the youngster is not allowed to fracture the prison rules as he has done the speeding laws of the city and State.

Attorney Schenck applied for a writ of habeas corpus, yesterday, which is returnable before Judge Cabaniss. He will argue that $5000 bail is excessive. Either Capt. Fredericks or Deputy District Attorney Doran will represent the prosecution in the habeas corpus proceedings.

APPELLATE COURT.

The July term of the Second District Court of Appeal convenes the 28th inst. There are six criminal appealed cases. The most important is that of Carl Warr, sentenced to San Quentin for life for having dynamite in his possession with which he threatened to blow up Central Station. His attorneys base their appeal on errors in the record in the trial court. The term will probably last all the week.

OLD OR THE NEW, WHICH BETTER?

ONE MARRIAGE FAILURE, DOES THE OTHER SUCCEED?

Elders Wedded in the Old Faith Are Parted and Wife Seeks Divorce—Modern Union by Contract Seems to Be Making Good—Man Exposed in Fake Suicide.

Carleton W. Washburne, whose contract marriage last September with Miss Heluiz Chandler, daughter of Julia Davis Chandler, the Philadelphia authoress, has he stated, brought the utmost joy to both, was a witness yesterday in the trial of the divorce suit of his mother, Mrs. Marion F. Washburne, author and lecturer, who charged Dr. George F. Washburne with desertion and non-support.

Mrs. Washburne and her son quietly entered the courtroom, taking seats among the spectators while other actions were disposed of, and quietly testifying when the case was called, with few in the courtroom being aware of the prominence of the parties. The complaint read, M. G. F. Washburne against George F. Washburne, and there was nothing in the testimony to show how the mother's old-fashioned marriage had failed and the son's up-to-date contract apparently prospered.

Disappointment awaited Mrs. Washburne, as Judge Monroe denied the decree on the ground that while the evidence showed Dr. Washburne had deserted her and she had been obliged to support herself by writing, the desertion lacked the legal time of one year by three months. If she desires, suit may be filed after the year elapses.

Mrs. Washburne resided in a beautiful home at No. 107 Bellefontaine street, Pasadena, last September when her son's marriage was promulgated under novel circumstances. The tremendous sensation it created by the startling form of the contract, and Dr. Washburne's alleged desertion induced Mrs. Washburne to leave Pasadena and she is now said to be residing at one of the beaches.

She testified yesterday that they were married at Chicago January 21, 1886, and that her husband is now in New York. She said he had not provided for her and that she obtained a living by literary work. She was represented by Drew Pruitt.

The most striking clause of her son's marriage contract, which was severely condemned by the ministry of this city, was that which provides that neither the husband nor the wife shall have the right to seek to restrain the other should he or she see fit to incur other responsibility. The marriage contract shall terminate simultaneously with the death of love on either side.

Washburne and his bride are college graduates, he of the University of Chicago and Stanford, and she of two Philadelphia institutions. She is an artiste and he is a writer. His testimony in his mother's divorce suit was merely corroborative of the fact that his father had left home and that he was not providing her with funds to maintain herself.

SHOWN UP AS FAKE.

MAKE-BELIEF SUICIDE.

The pretense to commit suicide made by Thomas Charles of Long Beach to win back the love of a woman with whom he is alleged to have eloped from New Jersey, and who threatened to leave him, was exposed at the County Hospital yesterday by the cleverness of Dr. T. J. Orbison who was examining him for insanity. Charles declared he had taken strychnine.

"What did it taste like?" Dr. Orbison asked.

"Why, it tasted sweet," replied Charles.

"You are not telling the truth," he was told, and then the story came out. The woman was not his wife, as he had declared. She was the wife of another man and he had brought her to California, bringing one baby with her and leaving another child at home. Charles thought he would be happy but the woman tired of him when he was unable to provide for her properly on $8 a week.

She determined to leave him. The memory of the husband and child she had deserted tormented her, and she informed Charles of her purpose. While she was in another room he made the bluff of taking strychnine and successfully simulated the symptoms of poisoning. He believed she was in love with another man and hoped the pretense of dying would keep her with him.

The Lunacy Commission dismissed the insanity charge against Charles and now the Long Beach authorities are looking for him to try him on the charge of perjured testimony and an attempt upon his own life.

WINS DAMAGE SUIT.

WIDOW BEATS RAILROAD.

Judgment for $10,500 in favor of the plaintiff was given yesterday by a jury in Judge Dehy's court, which tried the $25,000 damage suit brought by Edith E. Hontz against the Salt Lake Railroad and the Southern California Lumber Company for the death of her husband, George A. Hontz, an employee of the railroad.

The accident was alleged by Mrs. Hontz to have been due to negligence in constructing a bridge over the tracks, Hontz having been struck by the bridge, at Terminal Island, while on a car.

ESTATE DIVIDED.

WIDOW GETS HER HALF.

The $50,000 estate left by John Donovan was community property and the widow, Mary Donovan, receives half. After her death it goes to the eight children. Donovan leaves his half to the children, share and share alike. The widow also receives $4000 to be used by her for religious purposes and $1000 for charitable purposes, to be used at her discretion.

The heirs are Nellie Bland, Montana; Lizzie McDonald, Dakota; Katherine Bland, Portland, Or.; Rosie Shearon, Iowa; John A. Donovan, Los Angeles; Sadie M. Donovan, Los Angeles; William H. Donovan, Idaho; Alice Donovan, Los Angeles, all sons and daughters of Donovan, who died on the 8th inst.

STILL UNEXPLAINED.

It will always be a mystery why many husbands and some wives leave home. A fool calf will butt down the fence of a clover field in order to break into a wilderness of dry sedge and stale sassafras.

THE PLIGHT OF A DIPLOMAT.

Henry Lane Wilson has not been called to Washington; he has been recalled from his position. He has lost a job as diplomat and doesn't know it. He has been diplomatically fired. When he returns to his post he will be somebody else.

FRISKED AT FRISCO.

Some three dozen places where poker is played at San Francisco have been raided. The disappointed and angered members of these parties say they will contend for their rights, which are as good as those of the big clubs. Without disputing this, perhaps it may be fair to question the right of anyone anywhere in the State under present laws to misplace their confidence in four queens.

TO THE RESCUE.

You are all familiar with that old stuff about nature being the aft of the Infinite. You no doubt had a college professor or a Sunday-school teacher who enjoyed telling you on an average of once a week that the only original pictures are those painted by the hand of the Creator, and that the everlasting masterpieces are the landscapes, the sunsets and the seas. Well, we have come to your rescue at last. Listen, the answer is this: Art is anything you can put over.

ROOM AT THE TOP.

We were glad to read the account of a roof-garden party for a thousand children. This is such a sunny and lovely city that half the time our people do not appreciate the exceptional points of advantage. A roof garden is one of these, and our rainless months offer unlimited possibilities in this direction. Los Angeles should have at least a half-dozen good housetop cafes for nine months in the year, and with an awning attachment such a place could do business all the year.

"LEPERIZING" BEDBUGS.

Philadelphia doctors are leading all others in scientific exploration. Since vivisection has been made unlawful they have turned their attention to insecticide. Rabbits and dogs have heretofore been the medium of experiments, but now the doctors are demonstrating that the germ of leprosy may be imparted to and cultivated in the lowly bedbug.

Has the cimex lectularius no human friends? Admit that his extinction may be necessary, may the same not be accomplished painlessly by anesthetics rather than by making a brevet leper of him and turning him loose?

AN INVITATION.

The Secretary of the Navy may not see all that he wants on this trip. Neither do we. Neither can the people. Mr. Daniels should be able to find safe fortifications and an adequate Pacific fleet. They are not here, but the possibilities are here. If he only sees the possibilities and will then go back to Washington and inspire Congress to seize them, his visit will be worth while. Of course, it makes no difference what happens to California and to the West or even to the United States; but it is very unfair to the world at large for this country not to do all it can to promote peace by making war unsafe for other nations.

ALWAYS LOYAL.

A few United States sailors decided to celebrate the Potlatch feast at Seattle by raiding an I.W.W. meeting-room, and they made a pretty good job of it while they were about it. It must be remembered that the jackies were suffering from a bitter memory. When they were in the same port a year ago an I.W.W. parade outfit tore down an American flag and trampled it. A few sailors who saw this waded into the mob, captured the offenders and, taking them down to the water front, held them under the waves until they kissed Old Glory and swore allegiance to it. A sailor is not to be blamed for doing his duty as he sees it.

TRACKLESS TRANSPORTATION.

Trackless transportation lines are in successful operation in Great Britain, and on the continent of Europe, and in East Africa. Satisfactory results have been reached under all conditions of climates and roads. The vehicles of transportation are specially-built trolley cars which are supplied with power from the usual overhead feed lines, but they are run on ordinary roads instead of on steel rails.

These lines are used for freight principally, although passengers can be carried on them. The advantage of them is in the lower cost of construction and a material saving in operating. In Massachusetts, where a trackless transportation company has recently been organized, the average cost of construction for trolley lines is $40,000 per mile, against $10,000 for the trackless. The average cost for operating is 40 cents per mile, against 12 cents for the trackless.

The trackless lines will not, as a rule, compete with railways, but will be operated as feeders. The cheap cost of construction and operation will induce the building of them between mining camps and agricultural centers, and steam roads in places where the traffic would not justify the cost of a steam road.

WILSON'S LOBBY CRY A BOOMERANG.

To President Wilson may come, in his moments of meditation, the couplet:

"Full many a shaft at random sent Finds aim the archer little meant."

When he gave to publicity his assertion that an "insidious lobby" was active in Washington, his aim was to create the belief that improper if not corrupt influences were being brought to bear to defeat legislation urged and advocated by him, observes the Journal of Albany, N. Y.

It was a random shot, sent with the full expectation that it would intimidate Congress and cause it to rush through the President's legislation, in order to avert the suspicion that it was restrained by undue influences from acting upon it at once and favorably.

Instead, it aroused the resentment of Congress. Out of that resentment came the determination to make inquiry that would prove or disprove the President's hasty and unwise assertion. Thus far nothing of discredit to members of Congress has been brought out. It has been shown that various interests have had representatives at Washington (as is their right) to look after legislation affecting them, but that fact has never been, nor need be, a secret. One man has given newspaper publicity to a sensational, and probably largely untrue, story of his alleged lobbying activities, but it remains to be proved that he had the influence he claimed to have; that he possessed the "goods" which for compensation he offered to deliver, according to his uncorroborated story.

And now the investigation by Congress is to be extended so that it will take in the activities of all who sought in one way or another to influence any kind of legislation. Inquiry will be made about the activities of labor organizations (here Gompers of Gompers & Co. will be in the limelight,) as well as about those of men representing, or claiming to represent, industrial organizations.

The committee which is conducting the investigation has properly rejected the theory that it is all wrong for capital invested in industrial enterprise to attempt to avert legislation detrimental to its interests and to secure legislation favorable to them; but that it is all right for organized labor (Gompers again) to seek to have its interests protected from adverse legislation (as the President recently improperly protected them in signing the Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill with its infamous class-legislation rider in favor of labor unions) and promoted through enactment of favorable laws; that capitalists are not of "the people," but only those who have no wealth are; that employees have rights before the law to which employers are not entitled.

And so it may come to pass, and The Times in the interest of industrial freedom sincerely hopes it will, that light may be thrown upon the influences which prevailed upon Congress to pass and the President to approve by his signature, the rider upon the Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill which in effect exempts labor organizations and farmers' organizations from prosecution under the anti-trust law even though their actions may be in actual restraint of trade or in contravention of any part of that law.

And other interesting revelations may come of the investigation.

President Wilson has surely "started something" that was not included in his purpose when he made his assertion about the "insidious lobby." That lobby cry of his is turning out to be a boomerang, coming back to the place from which it was thrown. Or to put it another way, "Those who live in glass houses (the civil appropriation bill rider) should not throw stones."

THE NEAR-REFORMER ANSWERED

The long-distance, or Pullman-car child-labor "reformer" is not so popular in this country as heretofore, but occasionally his wailings are heard abroad in the land.

Time after time the South has been victimized by this species of near-industrial revivalist, and conditions affecting southern cotton mills have been grossly exaggerated. If one, ignorant of the actual facts, read some of the penny-a-line stuff that the "reformers" were once wont to get off about southern cotton-mill conditions, he would be frightened by the horrid specter of white slavery, brazen and far-reaching.

But, happily, people of other sections have visited the South and have not been made victims of the alleged cannibalistic proclivities of her people; as men and women read and travel more they become more conversant with actual conditions; hence the delusion of the horrors in southern cotton mills has been gradually dissipated in the cold glare of facts.

But occasionally, as we have said, the wail of the "reformer" is heard. According to the knowing one, the flint-hearted cotton manufacturers are wringing the life blood from the tender veins of little children and are tenaciously defying legislation to prevent the working of children.

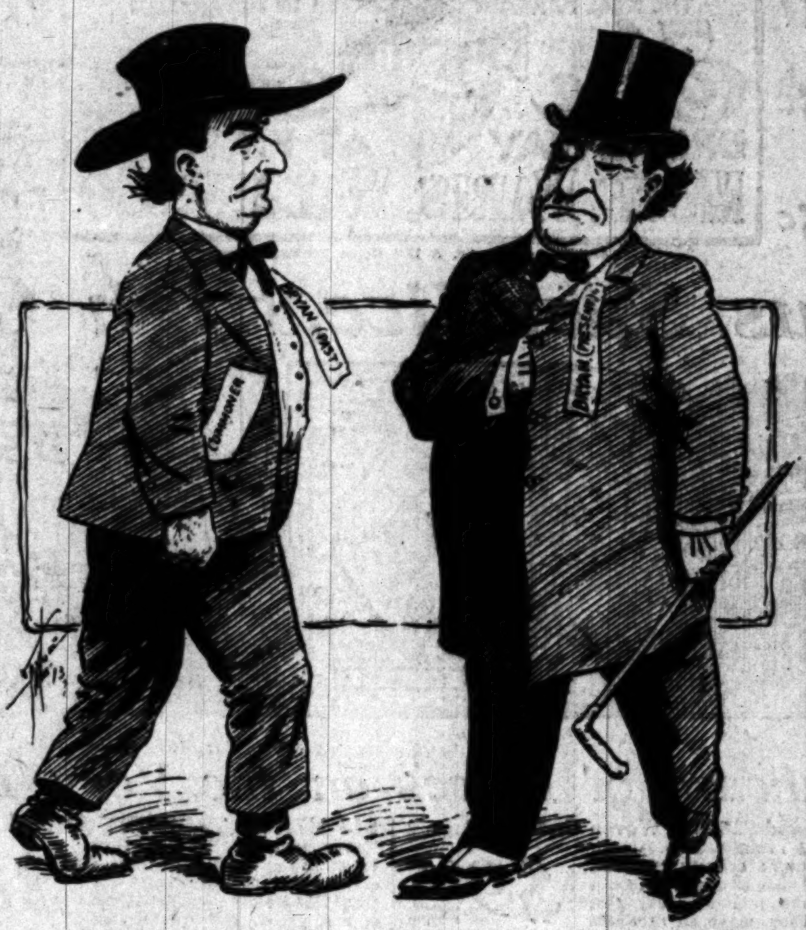
This kind of tommyrot may go all right in some remote section where knowledge of actual facts relating to child legislation in the South does not exist, but certainly not before any intelligent southern audience.

If further refutation of these charges was necessary the South Carolina cotton spinners gave it last week when, in annual convention, they unanimously adopted resolutions favoring compulsory school laws. If the mill man was a hydra-headed brute (as alleged) gloating over the profits wrung from child labor, he would not be fool enough to openly champion compulsory school laws, which would keep children from the mills even if they were permitted to be there by other laws.

The truth is that southern cotton manufacturers have done more to promote education and to improve working conditions in the mills than all the lawmaking bodies of the Southland put together. They have been largely influential in having enacted rigid child-labor laws, and they have done what would have been impossible without their co-operation—they have seen that these laws were enforced.

Before these paid "reform" agitators were turned loose in the country and before child labor began to attract the attention of "reformers," it was the millmen of North Carolina and other Southern States, who on their own hook and without being asked to do so, cut down hours of labor and inaugurated other measures for the health, happiness and comfort of their employees. To-day dozens of big-hearted cotton-mill men are spending annually hundreds of thousands of dollars in promoting educational facilities for their employees; in enhancing home sites; in financially backing Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. work; in stimulating reading by providing libraries; in inspiring better living by establishing churches and Y.M.C.A. buildings.

Strangers Now.



And these men do not want a dollar that must be earned by working small children. They are the real reformers, and they have, in their quiet way, done more for the uplift and welfare of their operatives than all of these blatherskites who roar out their anathemas against fancied child-labor horrors could do in a thousand years.

LOS ANGELES AND FLORIDA LINE.

Florida is not—in the Rooseveltian phrase—"overlooking any bets." The near approach of the completion of the Panama Canal has inspired the ambition and stimulated the activity of the owners of railroads having a terminus in Florida. The National Waterways Magazine is authority for the statement that quiet and searching investigation of the merits and facilities of the different harbors are being made, and millions of dollars are being expended in the enlargement of facilities and the development of harbors to take care of the vast tonnage which the gulf ports will be called upon to handle after the first eastward-bound ship shall pass through the great isthmian waterway.

"The east and west trunk lines," says the Boston Monitor, "which now haul the products of the great central West to the south Atlantic seaboard for dispatch to coastwise and foreign points by sea, realize that they must have a gulf outlet in order to compete with other carriers." California, Oregon, Washington and West Mexican and South American cargoes intended for distribution in the Mississippi Valley will go from Colon to New Orleans. If intended for the Eastern States north of the Potomac they will go to New York, or Baltimore, or Norfolk. If designed for the Southeastern States a Florida port will be the nearest and most available point of debarkation.

An instance of a railroad and seaport made possible by the Panama Canal is that of the Apalachicola Northern Railroad, and the new harbor of Port St. Joe on St. Joseph Bay, on the west coast of Florida. St. Joseph Bay is of peculiar formation, a peninsula of high sand hills extending from the mainland entirely around the bay to its outlet and making a natural land-locked harbor. No streams nor rivers flow into this bay; consequently no sandbars ever form and there is no shifting of the channel as invariably occurs at the mouths of active streams.

"Through the joint action of the United States and those interested in the development of the harbor," says the Monitor, "$50,000 is now available for dredging the channel. This amount is expected to give a depth of about twenty-seven feet, and is probably the smallest appropriation ever made to give this depth of water over a basin six miles wide and twelve miles long.

In about a year the readers of The Times may peruse the following advertisement: "The Los Angeles and Florida Steam Navigation Company will dispatch on the 1st instant their new 22,000-ton steamer the Citrus for Apalachicola, where rail connections will be made with Savannah, Charleston, Atlanta and Chattanooga. The Citrus will run alternately with her twin ship the Southern Booster. First-cabin fare, $60. These ships carry wireless plants and there is published each day on shipboard a synopsis of the news appearing in The Times, the largest, cleanest, wisest and most popular and influential journal in the world."

EARLY NOMENCLATURE.

One can form a fairly accurate estimate of the nationality of the early settlers of a country from the names of its mountains, its lakes, its rivers and its towns. The "Santas" and "Sans" of California show that the early settlers were the enterprising Jesuit fathers. The Argonauts were given to a resort to incidents of their frontier life in naming their camps. Thus—"Grizzly Flat," "Poker Gulch," "Murderer's Bar," "Roaring Camp," "Rattlesnake Hill" and "Suckertown." The cavaliers left their names in the towns of Virginia and the Carolinas. The Dutchmen did the same for New York, the Puritans for New England, and the French Creoles for Louisiana. Chicago is said to be the Indian name for polecat; Milwaukee is alleged to have been christened by a Menominee Indian who, seeing a steamer approach, exclaimed: "Mill walkee!" The statement is not confirmed that Sheboygan was so called because a wife who had contributed several male children to her household, and who hoped to relieve the monotony by a daughter, was compelled when asked by a neighbor for information as to the result of the accouchement to say: "She boy again."

Maine of all the States in the Union has adhered to the aboriginal nomenclature of her natural objects. These have been grouped in the following lines by Francis B. Keene, in Life:

"Dear lady of the Arostook,
Wilt come in my birch-bark with me?
I'm off in the wilds of Sebomook,
And yearning to wander with thee.

"A word, and Katahdin shall listen;
Chesuncook its echoes shall shake.
And Spurdabunk's ripples shall glisten
And Matagamonsis awake.

"On Squawpan we'll dream as we paddle,
Unsumtalum's shadows deep-sunk,
Shall cool us; our thoughts shall not addle,
Not even on Matchunkemunk.

"Far Chemguasabamtecook's current
Shall float us to Allegash down;
No civilization deterrent
Shall keep us from Carratunk town.

"Sebonis and then Mattawamkeag
Shall see us and Skowhegan, too;
Pamedacook and Passadumkeag
Shall lavish their beauties on you."

UNCLE WALT.

The Poet Philosopher.

The honeymoons have lost their glamour; June brides are getting down to calmer concerns than swapping vows; the life they live has other seeming than moonbeams, stardust, twilight dreaming—they're now anointed fraus. And doubtless some young wives are sighing because they know much less of frying potatoes in a pan, than of the works of Keats or Ibsen, or of the art of C. D. Gibson—which stuff won't feed a man. Perhaps some wives are nearly fainting when thinking of the trifling painting on which they wasted time; had they but learned the art of broiling a porterhouse, without a-spoiling it till it was a crime! Of what good use, some wives are saying, is all our skilled piano playing? Our coffee's on the blink; it makes our loving husbands shiver, and often drives them to the river to get a decent drink. Such vain accomplishments we carried! And now that we're securely married, we often sigh and wish to swap the lore we gained at college for just the sordid, workday knowledge of how to cook a fish. Perhaps some fair young wives are looking through heavy works that treat of cooking, and sighing as they gaze; perhaps they smell the beefsteak burning, and think with sorrow mixed with yearning of all their wasted days.

Work of the Heart.

[Harper's Weekly:] Of all the structural wonders revealed by physiology none is more striking than that of the heart. With each stroke it projects about six ounces of blood into the conduits of the system, and as it does so some seventy times every minute and 4200 times during an hour this implies that it does the same thing 100,800 times in a year, and more than 2,500,000,000 times in a life of seventy years.

The force exerted by the heart is sufficient to lift 120 tons one foot high every twenty-four hours. Yet the piece of mechanism that is called upon to accomplish this feat without itself being worn out by the effort is a small bundle of muscles that rarely weighs more than eleven ounces.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE TODAY.

BY GEORGE W. BURTON.

In the circumstance then existing, George Washington was wonderfully wise when he told the people of his country as he parted from them as a public official not to form "entangling alliances" with foreign governments or peoples.

So was James Monroe wise when he announced the doctrine that goes under his name warning all European nations that our country would regard it as an unfriendly act on the part of any foreign power to attempt to enlarge its territorial holdings on the western continent. It was a bold doctrine to thrust into the face of the world on the part of a country so numerically small and financially poor as ours. But it has held good from that day to this, largely through its tacit acceptance on the part of Great Britain, whose interests were identical with ours, as she had all the territory she wanted, and the Monroe doctrine gave her an advantage in the western continent over all other European powers.

The days of Washington and those of Monroe are gone for ever, and like the water that has passed, will turn no more wheels and grind no more grist in the world forever. The circumstances in which we live are vastly different from those of a hundred years ago, and the maintenance of the Monroe doctrine is not unlikely to be called seriously into question at any moment.

We are now waiting anxiously for definite news as to conditions in Mexico, and until the government at Washington has these conditions set before it more clearly than at the moment it is a very puzzling problem to decide what our duty may be in the premises and what course might be wisest for us to pursue.

In maintaining the Monroe doctrine in full vigor its original scope has been very much enlarged. We have constituted ourselves the police force of the western continent, a policy which devolves upon us the duty of collecting debts incurred by the republics to the south of us and due to foreign subjects and citizens, the collecting of damages for all infractions made upon the property or persons of such foreigners. In Mexico since the disturbances broke out some three years ago many subjects and citizens of foreign nations have suffered in their persons and property at the hands of the various contending factions. The Monroe doctrine, as we look upon it today, forbids any power or powers to deal with Mexico excepting through us. In the existing conditions in that republic it must be confessed that it is difficult to determine with whom dealings should be carried on. For months past various factions have been deliberately plotting to force our government to intervene in order to unite the Mexican people against a common foe from abroad and stop them butchering one another. Cannot we co-operate with other nations in the work of pacification?

The news as to Mexico is exceedingly conflicting, one wire bringing reports of demands from foreign governments that the United States take steps to protect the persons and property of persons under the protection of that government, and then denying such demands. But, demands or no demands, would it not be best for us to unite with these governments in endeavors to restore peace and safeguard the lives and possessions of ALL foreign-born residents of Mexico, whether Americans, Germans or Britons?

There are 15,000,000 people in Mexico, a larger population than the Southern States contained when they seceded from the Union in 1861. It took four years and called into the field nearly 3,000,000 citizens of the republic to quell that rebellion, and one-half of that million either remained dead upon fields of battle or returned shattered and a charge to the country ever since. That Civil War plunged us into a debt of more than two and a half billion dollars, not yet discharged at the end of fifty years, and during the current year we are paying $70,000,000 in pensions to the soldiers who protected the flag and the Constitution.

Military authorities inform us that we could not intervene in Mexico without calling into the field an army of at least 300,000 men, and that it would be three years before that war could be brought to a close. The physical features of Mexico present difficulties almost insurmountable to the subjugation of guerrilla warriors scattered through rugged mountains. This army could scarcely be maintained in the field at a cost of $100,000 a day. It is easy to figure the addition it would make to our national debt. Of the men who went into that warfare, the flower of American youth and the hope of the future, at least one-third would never return, and another third would come back broken in health to remain a charge upon the taxpayers of the country for the next fifty years. Little wonder the government stands appalled as it contemplates such a contingency.

Jingoism is a fine thing on the lips of demagogues and thoughtless persons, and a great display of patriotism no doubt could get much applause, however much it may be a matter of lip service to one's country and how little root the patriotism may have in the recesses of the heart. The American people are an intelligent people, a fair-minded people, and not easily carried off of their feet ordinarily by popular sentiment.

Is it out of order at this time to call the attention of this type of American citizen to the obstacles that beset our government at Washington, and to ask for a calm, careful and profound consideration of the whole subject wrapped up in the phrase, "the Monroe doctrine?" Is it well for us to play the dog in the manger to our own detriment, shouting at the top of our voices to all foreign nations to keep their hands off of American affairs and their feet off of American territory? Is it well for us to be misled to such an extent as to enable foreign powers to compel us to do their dirty work? We are none too well loved in the Latin-American republics to the south of us, and the mistrust felt there for America is mostly the outgrowth of our interfering to do the work of foreign nations, dirty or clean.

I would not ask for an abrogation of the Monroe doctrine, but it does seem to me that it would be wise to carry it back to its original scope. We can do this and save our face from the slightest scratch. We can do this by taking the initiative, and instead of shouldering all the difficulties ourselves, invite the interested nations to join us in compelling the offenders to make amends and the insurrectionists to be quiet. This will preserve the Monroe doctrine in its essential integrity and guard us from raking chestnuts out of very hot fires for the benefit of our neighbors on the other side of the Atlantic.

Lower Freight Rates.

TIDEWATER SEAPORT IMPERIAL'S NEW ASSET.

Successful Trip of Freight-Carrying Boat Up the Colorado Delta Opens New Markets and Brings New Commercial Possibilities to Entire Valley — Company Organized to Build Factories at Packard.

WHEN the twenty-six-ton schooner Ida A., Capt. Saunders, dropped anchor in the delta north of the Hardee River a few days ago, she not only afforded the interesting spectacle of a freight-carrying ship sailing from the sea into the heart of the desert, but opened a new and important vista of commercial possibilities for Imperial Valley.

The voyage has demonstrated that the Colorado delta has a stream deep enough to carry moderately-deep bottomed boats to within a few miles of the boundary line and that a tidewater seaport with all its opportunities for cheaper freight rates and increased commerce has been added to the assets of America's richest valley.

The Ida A. will continue to make the run between the new desert terminal and Coast ports and it is probable that one or two more boats will be put on the run soon. No time will be lost in taking advantage for Imperial of the many-sided benefits that this water route for exports and imports will afford.

Ability to ship by water will at once give the people of the valley much lower rates on their cotton, hay, grain, barley and other products and will enable them to import sugar, syrups and other articles of food at a lower cost. The cost of transportation by water is notably cheaper than by rail and with a near-by seaport established, it is certain that the farmers and merchants of Imperial Valley on both sides of the boundary line will quickly take advantage of it.

An important factor in the development of Imperial Valley's maritime commerce is the California and Mexico Commercial Company, now being organized as a subsidiary company of the California and Mexico Land and Development Company. The new organization will include among its stockholders and directors a number of prominent American land owners, who are not interested in the C. and M. company and they will have an important part in the management.

MANY NEW INDUSTRIES.

The new company will not only provide boats for freight carrying, but will develop industries at Packard, near the head of tidewater, which will aid in establishing the link between Imperial Valley and the rest of the world by water.

Cotton gins will be established and a mill for manufacturing cottonseed oil. A flour mill will also be built at once. The latter will be the foundation for an important trade with Mexico, for there is a heavy duty on flour which will be avoided by grinding the wheat below the boundary line.

The supply of wheat for this and other mills that may be built later is practically unlimited. Imperial Valley soil, rich in alluvial deposits, has proven that. Thirty-two bags to the acre of wheat of the finest quality have been taken from C. and M. company land this year and other ranches have produced as well.

With a convenient tidewater port, and a line of freight-carrying boats in commission, Imperial Valley cotton, now known all over the world for its superlative quality and enormous productiveness, can be shipped by way of the Gulf of California to the Orient or through the canal to eastern mill centers.

Imperial Valley products of all kinds, even melons, can find their way economically to San Francisco, Seattle, Portland and other Coast points. Ability to deliver more cheaply will strengthen the commercial position of the valley ranchers and production will be stimulated accordingly.

There are 1,000,000 cords of mesquite wood in the valley below the boundary line. This is recognized as the best fireplace fuel in the world and with maritime connection can be delivered at a low price in Los Angeles.

With cheaper and ready access to Mexico points many articles of food now brought from the lower republic at considerable cost can be delivered to Imperial Valley at a much reduced figure. Some articles of food, in this way, will be cheaper in Imperial than anywhere else in the United States.

Another important addition to the industrial city of Packard will be the establishment of a cannery. Because it will lessen the cost now imposed by duties, this factory will have a wide market and will stimulate the production of fruits and vegetables by making it more profitable to raise them.

The cruise of the Ida H. was made without difficulty. The boat left Ensenada, Lower California, June 23, came up the Gulf of California and on the 5th inst. arrived at the mouth of the Colorado River.

It then proceeded up the Hardee River and into the delta, arriving on the 9th inst. at a point just twelve miles from Cocopah on the line of the railroad.

Capt. Saunders used the charts of the U. S. Geodetic survey published in 1875, these being the latest made of that region. He says the gulf is gradually filling up and that some dredging may have to be done later. In places the sounding lead showed ten fathoms where the chart shows thirty.

The boat is propelled by a fifty-horse-power gasoline engine and brought the following freight: thirteen and a half tons of beans, ten and a half tons of rice, one ton of leather, 1000 pounds of pinoche and 10,000 feet of lumber.

The cargo was conveyed from the landing point by a big traction engine and trailers owned by the C. and M. company. This engine can haul a carload of merchandise at a load and can effectively bridge the distance between the head of tidewater and the railroad for the present.

It is probable, however, that the Inter-California Railway Company will build a twelve-mile spur track from Cocopah so there will be no interruption in communication between the Imperial Valley railroad system and the outside seaports.

Revising Constitution and Discussing Ways to Help Deserving Young Women Through College. Mrs. Sterrett, the New President, Full of New Ideas for Club Work.

The College Woman's Club is one of the few clubs in Los Angeles which has not suspended activities during the summer. The members see much of each other and are keeping the interest alive. A meeting to revise the constitution was held on Thursday at the home of Mrs. Birney Donnell, the Committee on Revision being composed of past board members: Mrs. Donnell, chairman; Miss Nina Updyke, Miss Martha Johnson, Miss Ethel Magee, Miss Elsie A. Waggoner. The discussion took a wide range, including the very practical question of how best to help young women of limited resources to secure a college education. The club has a scholarship fund for this purpose, and one of the points raised was whether it is wiser to help a girl take a full course or encourage girls to take two years each.

The French section of the club is keeping busy through the summer and will meet next Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home of Mrs. L. B. Norton, No. 720 Irolo street.

Mrs. Roger Sterrett, the new president, is proving a treasure for the club, stimulating interest and advancing many new ideas.

MOONLIGHT WATER FETE.

A gay throng of revelers overran Balboa and helped to make last night's water carnival the season's most successful event at that resort.

The quiet moonlit waters of the inner bay reflected the lights from hundreds of Japanese lanterns while guitars strummed effectively from lazily floating canoes. Along the piers and in the pavilion King Carnival held high sway, with weird faces derisively flouting the confetti throwers.

Following three warning bombs at intervals of fifteen minutes, the water parade started from Collins wharf with Commodore Lewis's Red Light launch leading a long procession of fantastically decorated canoes.

All the bay was lighted with varicolored fires when the long parade floated by the judges' stand and broke up into irregular parties of water revelers who vied with those on land in making the night noisily gay. A great crowd went down from this city, many of them going early enough to enjoy a plunge in the surf before the programme began.

Capt. Fredericks received a card from W. J. Ford, his assistant, yesterday, in which the latter describes his wedding motor journey as ideal. Mr. and Mrs. Ford are slowly driving north, stopping at various places of interest.

Traffic Record.

ORIENT PLANS PROMISE MUCH.

Passenger Service by Fall Is Assurance.

Freight Agreement Has Been a Money Maker.

Extensive Improvements at Alpine Under Way.

Passenger service will be established into this city by the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient Railway before the beginning of the winter tourist season, according to an eastern report which is confirmed with certain qualifications by James F. Waggoner, traveling agent for the company in this territory.

"Though I have received no official notification, I am practically certain that such service will be announced shortly," stated Waggoner yesterday. "I know it was contemplated when the traffic agreement was made with the Southern Pacific by which we established freight service in here."

Although the traffic agreement between the Southern Pacific and Orient has been in effect but a few weeks, it is stated that traffic over the new short line from this city to Kansas City and the East is increasing so rapidly that the two roads will unite in extensive terminal improvements at Alpine, Tex., the interchange point. One reason for this rapid building up of traffic is that, through agreement with the Missouri Pacific, all freight is handled into St. Louis under manifest and thence in manifest to Chicago and New York by railroads with which the Missouri Pacific has agreements.

In other words, this city is now linked with the metropolises of the East by manifest service second to none in the country. In view of the success of the traffic agreement between the Orient and Southern Pacific, it is now deemed improbable by many that the former road will carry through its original project to build to the port of Topolobampo on the Mexican west coast. It is pointed out that the proposed line would penetrate territory now served by the Southern Pacific of Mexico and that the Orient line would draw to it a considerable portion of the traffic that now goes to the road captained by Epes Randolph. About 450 miles of the Mexican part of the Orient are finished and a gap of 264 miles through rough country remains to be completed in order to effect connection with Alpine.

It is further pointed out that Southern California now offers promise of quicker profits to the Orient than would be offered by the completion of the Mexican line. As the Orient has been having financial difficulties the necessity for quick profits is doubtless paramount in the minds of stockholders of the road.

IS IT COMING?
BIG JAPANESE LINE.

Rumors are heard in local shipping circles that the next few days will produce an announcement of intentions regarding this port by the Toyo Kisen Kaisha. According to the rather circumspect rumors, the big Japanese shipping company has been quietly seeking all the information it can obtain regarding the possibilities in the way of business and also the taxes or license fees that it may be called on to pay to secure entrance to the Southland port.

The rumor also has it that all this information has been in the hands of the "higher ups" of the Japanese maritime concern for some time and that some definite word was promised the latter part of July. Considerable significance attaches to the Toyo Kisen Kaisha's decision regarding the local port, as its coming would mean, say the wise ones, that the Nippon Yusen Kaisha would follow suit.

Pacific Coast Ranks First.

Figures issued by the American Railway Association as of July 1 show that of the eleven railroad operating groups of North America that made up of this State, Arizona, Nevada, Oregon, and Idaho showed the smallest number of cars in shops for repairs, 4.73 per cent. of the total in service. In other words, the demands of bumper crops and trade activity have caused the vigorous circulation of equipment on the Pacific Coast and consequently the average mileage per car per day in the five Western States is the maximum for the country.

Will Rehear Water Case.

A rehearing of the Conservative Realty Company's application for a fixing of water rates in the territory contiguous to the Graham plant of the company is scheduled for September 22 before President Eshleman of the State Railroad Commission in this city.

Car Men Must Be Careful.

The Council yesterday suspended the rules and adopted an ordinance amending the traffic ordinance by providing that the driver of every street or interurban railway car shall operate such car in a careful manner and with due regard for the safety of pedestrians and vehicles.

TRY TO FORCE COUNTY CLERK.

DEFEATED REFERENDUM GETS INTO COURTS.

Despite Opinion of County Counsel Friends of the Alleged Corrupt Petition to Estop Salary Ordinance Will Contest Validity of Supplementary Signatures.

A writ of mandate is ready for presentation to the justices of the Second District Court of Appeal tomorrow to compel the County Clerk to certify to the so-called supplementary list of names secured by the backers of the alleged corrupt and spurious referendum petition which is now the subject of grand jury investigation.

The referendum petition was found to contain thousands of illegal signatures, say the investigators, and upon the advice of County Counselor Hill and other lawyers the Board of Supervisors shoved it aside. A new salary ordinance is in course of preparation which will supersere the emergency ordinance passed in June, which was designed to give the county employees their June salaries.

The Earl-Haynes-Norton referendum precipitated the question whether the June salaries could be legally paid, but upon the assurance of the Supervisors that they will stand back of County Auditor Lewis and County Treasurer Hunt, nearly $200,000 was paid out to employees the 8th inst.

Now the men back of the referendum and its supplemental list which has been declared illegal by competent lawyers in the employ of the county are taking a new tack. The writ of mandate may act to restrain the payment of July salaries if the validity of the salary ordinance is questioned in the higher courts.

The supplemental list of names is in the County Clerk's office. Upon the advice of County Counselor Hill, Clerk Lelande has taken no action concerning it. The code does not provide for any supplemental list of petitioners for a referendum, according to the opinion of disinterested attorneys.

But in the face of this opinion it is said that Dr. Haynes and his following are prepared to tie up the county salaries by asking the Appellate Court to take legal action. It is possible that the application for the writ will be denied, but it is equally possible that arguments will be made by lawyers retained by Rebater Earl and his henchmen which will require some time to settle.

All the Supervisors with the exception of Norton are disgusted at the manner in which outsiders step in to interfere with business and tie up the accustomed methods of paying salaries.

However, it is believed that the Appellate Court will carefully sift the matter before granting any writ inasmuch as the referendum petition has been declared inoperative and lacking the necessary 6660 signatures.

WOULD USE CHAIN-GANG.

For Portion of Work on Buena Vista Bridge and Have Paving Done by City Forces.

The Board of Public Works yesterday rescinded its previous action in asking the City Council to authorize the advertisement for bids for the paving of the Buena Vista bridge, and decided to have the work done by the city's own forces.

The board adopted the recommendations of Inspector of Public Works Hansen that the City Engineer be instructed to purchase all the necessary materials to be used in the work and that the street department utilize the chain-gang for a portion of the work and the asphalt repair gang for the remainder. The road surface is now in poor condition, and the paving will be undertaken as soon as the materials can be purchased and assembled. The Board of Public Works expects to make a material saving on the cost of the job by doing it with the city's own forces.

Squarely Defined.

MAY WITHDRAW FINKLE'S NAME.

The Mayor to Announce His Decision Tomorrow.

Councilmen Flatly Object to Appointment.

Cement Plant Letter Cause of Resentment.

Should Mayor Rose fail to withdraw the name of F. C. Finkle as an appointee to the Police Commission, the City Council will refuse to confirm the appointment by a vote of seven and possibly nine. This was indicated yesterday by expressions of the Councilmen themselves. It is believed, however, that Mayor Rose will withdraw this appointment tomorrow. He stated yesterday that "there would be nothing to give out until Monday."

Members of the Council have visited the Mayor and explained their attitude. It is understood that they have declared that they desire to support the Mayor as far as possible, but that they cannot consistently vote to confirm Finkle. Among those who are known to have taken a definite stand are Councilmen McKenzie, Reed, Snowden, Wheeler and Whiffen.

The Councilmen resent the attitude of Finkle, which they allege to be antagonistic to the city's cement plant at Monolith, and his action in warning the State Engineer against the State purchasing the plant. Finkle's letter in this connection was in the hands of the Councilmen yesterday.

Finkle, who is now in San Diego, sent to President Whiffen of the City Council a message, after having heard of the dissatisfaction with his appointment, saying:

"Care nothing about office, but dislike to have a good man deceived about me. Personally favor municipal ownership, but could not support power bonds with the money being wasted by an incompetent man like Scattergood; was witness against city only in Silver Lake power case about events happening two years before aqueduct started and involves a fraud on the people of Los Angeles."

The letter of Finkle to W. F. McClure, State Engineer, at Sacramento, and which has especially roused the resentment of the Councilmen, says:

"Press notices called to my attention indicates that the State of California is considering the purchase of the cement plant constructed at Monolith by the Los Angeles aqueduct department, for the purpose of manufacturing cement to be used on the State highway system.

"Under separate cover I am sending you a report made on the cement manufactured and used from this plant by myself and three other engineers, which may be of interest to you.

"The investigation made by us disclosed the fact that there never has been manufactured any cement at the Monolith plant which will pass the standard specifications and that the work constructed from this cement is of very poor quality, in fact decidedly defective. Some additional information has been prepared since publication of our report and is now in the hands of the Engineering News Publishing Company, so that we expect it to appear in the columns of the Engineering News.

"Our researches in the aqueduct department's books show that all cement manufactured up to last May, the date on which we made our examination, cost $2.77 per barrel at the works, after allowing $550,000 as salvage for the plant, this being the amount asked for the property by the aqueduct department.

"My only object in giving you this information is that, as a taxpayer, I would not like to see the State of California cheated by becoming the purchaser of this property."

Important Purchases in Lingerie Dresses

$9.75 $12.75 $16.75

During the warm spell of the last two weeks, hundreds of women were disappointed at their failure to obtain, either here or elsewhere, exactly the styles of lingerie dresses that they wanted. We, believing that there would be other warm days and other demands for such frocks, wired our Eastern representative and had him go direct to the manufacturers and make cash offers for their entire surplus stocks. The results are seen in the splendid lines of lingerie dresses that we are showing at the three prices mentioned above.

Ratine or Silk Dresses $9.75

There has never been a greater demand for ratine dresses than in the last month. We have never been able to show as complete a stock as we can show now. New coat effects, so dainty, so deceptive that they seem to be suits, are included in this low priced event. In silk dresses there is a full line of crepe meteor models and a number in novel patterns of foulard. These are not dresses that other stores are showing, they are exclusively ours. They will appeal to you the moment you see them.

The Advance Suit Styles at $25

For the woman who expects a holiday wherein she will have to travel, a holiday wherein she will wish to look superlatively smart and extremely well gowned, these suits present an opportunity. At $25 you know that the New York Store has always led the field in suit-value giving. And here we are again, at the start of the season, with a larger line than any other store is showing. These come not only in the straight front styles, but also in the cutaways. Plainly tailored, rather mannish, but with just a touch of the new trimmings and drapings which stamp them immediately as the latest of the late season's products. The smartest new clothes, in gray, browns, blues and in black and whites. The newest pin stripe effects included.

Clearance of Ratine and Wool Suits, - $12.75 --and $14.75

There are blue serges, white serges, gray and tan novelty fabrics, and ratines of the finest make. Some with coats of the same color as the skirt and some with coats of contrasting colors. The linings, the workmanship, the styles, faultless.

And justly so, for these coats answer every purpose of warmth that Summer requirements can present and they also answer the very latest needs of Style. There is a particularly strong line of "sport" coats here in white Chinchilla with fine black stripes, and, as well, a number of three-quarter coats in eponge, in all Summer colorings. Values as high as $25.

Relief For Rupture Without Operation

60 Days Trial to Prove It

No longer any need to drag through life at the mercy of makeshift trusses.

No earthly excuse for letting yourself keep on getting worse.

No reason in the world for letting yourself get in such bad shape that you'll ever have to undergo a dangerous operation.

No big expense to stand in your way.

And you can prove every word of this—by making a 60-day test—without having to risk a single cent of your money.

Won't Cost You a Cent If it Doesn't Stand the Test

Here is something—a guaranteed rupture holder—which has saved thousands of people from ever having to be operated on.

It has so thoroughly proved its merits that we are willing to let you try it sixty days entirely at our own risk—

We'll make it especially for your case—make it to your measure—and practically lend it to you that long just as a test—just to let you see for yourself how it takes all the misery out of being ruptured—

If it doesn't keep your rupture from coming out or bothering you in any way, no matter how hard you work or strain—if it doesn't prove every claim we make—then you can send it back and it won't cost you a single cent.

Will You Spend Two Cents To Find Out?

We don't want you to send any money. All we ask you to spend is the price of a two-cent stamp in writing for our big free book—that will tell you everything you want to know.

It shows how our guaranteed rupture holder is so utterly different from everything else for rupture that it has received eighteen separate patents—how it is made on an absolutely new principle—how it is self-regulating, self-adjusting—how it instantly and automatically protects you against every strain so your rupture can't possibly be forced out—and how in addition it provides the only way ever discovered for overcoming the weakness which is the real cause of rupture—and how it does all that entirely automatically.

The book tells how our guaranteed rupture holder is so strengthening and beneficial that physicians in all parts of America now recommend it instead of advising operation—how it has completely cured thousands of people whose cases seemed almost hopeless—how it does away with the curse of belts, leg-straps, and springs—how it is water-proof and will hold in the bath—how it is perspiration-proof and easily kept clean—how you can try it sixty days without having to risk a penny, and how little it costs if you keep it.

There are so many mistaken ideas about rupture and what to do for it that we have taken the time to sum up in this book all we have learned during forty years of experience.

You'll find it full of facts never before put in print.

It shows just why elastic and spring trusses are the ruptured man's worst enemies—why wearing them is simply slow suicide—why they are almost sure to shorten your life or make operation necessary—why the law should put a stop to their sale.

It exposes the humbug "appliances," "methods," "plasters," etc., and shows how old-fashioned elastic trusses are masqueraded under false and misleading names.

It explains why operation is nearly always a needless gamble with death—and why, even if you manage to live through it, you may have to keep on wearing a truss.

It shows why sixty-days trial is the only way in the world you can make absolutely sure of anything for rupture and how our guaranteed rupture holder is the only thing you can get on such a long trial because the only thing good enough to stand a day-after-day test.

Don't fail to get this book—don't put it off —the minute it takes you to write for it may free you from trouble for the rest of your life. Just use the coupon or simply say in a letter or postal "Send me your book."

the board burning. Then he was popped into the broiling oven for a few minutes and removed to be decorated with little curlicues of potato squeezed through the pastry bag in little minarets and domes and cupolas, which gave a most artistic finish to his fishy majesty. Mrs. Haffner-Ginger explained that he was now ready to await the pleasure of the hour of dining and should be placed in the warming oven till within a few minutes of the family dinner hour, when a brief sojourn in a hot oven would brown the potatoes and give Mr. Shad a light brown tinge that would add to his appetizing qualities.

Peter Pan Sandwiches.

Of course the event of the afternoon was the sandwich sale for the benefit of the Peter Pan Home, that everyone is trying to help just now. Mrs. Haffner-Ginger thought it would be a nice scheme for the patrons of The Times Cooking School to add their mite and so suggested that we come and eat sandwiches and drink a glass of iced tea or coffee and pay a dime for the privilege. The audience had been generous in contributions of sandwiches. One woman, a pupil of Mrs. Haffner-Ginger—brought a box of sandwiches that were so pretty and artistic it almost seemed a pity to eat them. She had some of those famous checkered sandwiches and other choice brands.

One woman who was sick and unable to come sent money to buy some sandwiches, and one of the regular attendants at the school all through the winter and spring, and who contributed so generously to the fund raised for the flood sufferers, was on hand in the front row. She opened the ball by handing the cook lady a big, round dollar for the Peter Pans, paid 25 cents for her sandwich and coffee and wound up her lavish giving with another dollar at the close.

Several gave 50 cents for a sandwich—one little lad who came with his mother was among the first to hand out half a dollar for the Peter Pan boys in Mrs. Brush's Eagle Rock Home. All told, an even $10 was realized and this will be sent to the good matron of the Home to be expended for her little charges.

Creamed Cucumbers.

"A nice dish to serve with planked fish is creamed cucumbers," remarked the cook lady as she was decorating the shad with cubes and triangles of lemon and sprigs of parsley. "You peel and quarter them and cook like asparagus, serving with a white or butter sauce. Or, you may dip them in a batter and saute them, or brown in hot lard."

"Well, I never in my life before heard of cooking cucumbers," observed a Kentucky woman who sat in the front row, and this reminded me that somewhere in my foreign travels—I forget whether it was in the Orient or in Europe—we were served cocked cucumbers and I was told they were not considered fit to eat raw over there any more than turnips, carrots or squash.

A Boston Caterer.

There was in the audience Friday a woman formerly from Boston who has had a quite wonderful career as a caterer and restaurateur. When Mrs. Haffner-Ginger was lecturing in Boston, this woman was one of her most devoted pupils. At that time she was running a restaurant in the Museum of Fine Arts in Boston and she served many notable people—Japanese royalty and famous artists and connoisseurs who visited the Museum and found it convenient to lunch there.

"I came to Los Angeles to live a year or two ago," she told me. "I started a lunch-room here on a capital of $50 and I have cleared as high as $50 a week and averaged $25. I made enough to support myself and family, but no one should undertake this business unless she knows how to buy, and how to utilize every scrap in an appetizing way. These two things are absolutely essential to success."

Here's a New Avocation.

The little woman from Boston, who had success written all over her features, told me of another scheme which she is considering just now—that of marketing for other people. She says it is being done in eastern cities, and why not here? The busy or inexperienced housewife instead of telephoning her wants to the butcher, the baker and the grocer, or going to market herself and relying on the word of the tradespeople if she hasn't judgment of her own, can thus have advantage of an experienced and economical buyer.

"My patrons could pay me a stipulated sum each week for my services," said the Boston woman, "or it could be done on a commission basis—the same as dry goods shopping, the merchants—or the markets, in this instance—allowing me a commission on my purchases and thus giving my patrons no additional expense for my services. With my experience as a buyer I am sure my patrons might save enough on their bills to pay me the salary it would command."

That Teacup Inn.

Mrs. Haffner-Ginger read a letter she had received from an out-of-town woman who recognized from my account printed in The Times an old stamping ground in the Teacup Inn in Washington, of which the cook lady told us last week.

"Many and many a time have I sat and sipped delicious tea and eaten dainties in that dear Teacup Inn in Washington," she wrote, "and I was so interested to read about it, and the story of its establishment."

Then she went on to say that she was so interested in the idea of opening tea houses along motor roads here, and Mrs. Haffner-Ginger again cautioned against trying to start such an establishment on any route between Los Angeles and the beaches as no motor cars would stop for refreshments this side of the sea. Rather go back to the country, inland highways, where the distances between stations are long.

It'll Clean Anything.

"Here, ladies is a preparation that will clean anything—from an automobile to a teakettle," said the cook lady as she held up a can of Lacko. "It will even take the rust off the kitchen stove—I know, for I have tried it," and the notebooks and pencils got busy.

HER SANITY QUESTIONED.

Police Say Stories of Alleged Attacks on Young Woman Are Improbable.

Martha Walters, the young woman whose series of remarkable stories to the police has aroused a question as to her sanity, is held at the County Hospital and will be taken before the lunacy commission tomorrow in an effort to determine whether or not the stories of alleged attacks are hallucinations. This action was determined upon following the girl's latest story of an attack by a "strange Mexican giant." Investigation by the police yesterday is said to have revealed that the girl has been telling of such attacks as far back as 1909.

Miss Walters's recital of the alleged attack Friday by two men aroused the suspicions of the police, who three times recently have been called upon to run down the mysterious assailants.

Subsequent investigation of the career of the young woman disclosed the fact that when the family lived in Antelope Valley several years ago, the girl on several occasions said she had been attacked by strange men. Deputies from the Sheriff's office were called out in 1909 to search for the alleged assailants, but they were never found.

FALLS THIRTY FEET.

Janitress Slips Under Elevator and Is Precipitated Down the Shaft to the Basement.

Hastening to catch an elevator in the Los Angeles Investment Company building, where she is employed as janitress, Mrs. Anna Munsell slipped beneath the floor of the car yesterday and fell thirty feet down the shaft. She sustained internal injuries which may prove fatal. She was taken to the Receiving Hospital.

G. J. Bacci, No. 820 West Eighth street, the elevator operator, says that Mrs. Munsell ran toward the door just as he started upward. Fearing lest she be caught between the doors, he says, he stopped the elevator and by so doing stopped the further closing of the doors. Mrs. Munsell, he says, had just reached the door when her feet slipped on the floor of the building and she was precipitated under the elevator into the basement.

Gov. Sulzer of New York some time ago announced that at expiration of his term of office he will become a farmer. He has consequently obtained an option on one of the largest farms in the town of Canaan, and will probably become its owner within the next few weeks.

Ex-Gov. Stubbs of Kansas has sailed with his family for Southern Europe, and expects to tour through Italy, Switzerland, Germany, Great Britain and France.

The Rev. Frederick S. Atwood, grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of Minnesota, is blind, having lost his sight several years ago. Despite this handicap he has continued in active work for the order, and is now serving his second term as grand chancellor. He travels extensively, and generally alone. To enable him to attend to his voluminous correspondence he uses a special make typewriter.

Selma Paley Starred First as Burbank Super.

First Real Chance Came in George Cohan Play.

Gets Reward After Two Years of Work.

Some real life stories—in fact, many—read like a romance, and truly romantic, not unlike the wonderful dreams of the modern fiction writer, are some of the stories of our stage stars of today.

Last Sunday these columns told of the quite remarkable career of one of our best known artists, and today is told another story even more remarkable—the story of the short but meteoric career of a little Los Angeles girl, who two years ago did not even have a vague idea of what it looked like back of the curtain line, but who today comes into her own.

This is Selma Paley, a young girl—young, yes, scarcely out of her teens—who, with the production of "Madame Sherry" at the Burbank Theater this afternoon becomes a full-fledged prima donna by essaying the role of Yvonne Sherry in this French musical play—conceded by experts of the stage to be one of the most peculiar, trying and difficult prima donna roles written.

A little over two years ago, Miss Paley, then going to school, began to cherish an ambition for the stage. As most young women at their High School age or in early youth believe they are destined for a career behind the footlights, her ambitions were not taken seriously by her associates.

Even at home it was thought that she was imbued with the same vague ideas of the stage that are at times evident in many young girls and her talk of going on the stage was never taken quite seriously.

But she possessed not only the girlish desire, but the backbone, ambition and the patience and determination to back up that ambition that ultimately leads to but one goal—success.

Little was thought of her fascination to achieve a place for herself on the stage, until one day, unbeknown to anyone save herself, she journeyed in to the Burbank from Alhambra and succeeded in getting a hearing with Oliver Morosco.

As with all managers, such calls

MADAME SHERRY AT BURBANK.

Famous Musical Comedy Looks Good for Run.

Vaudeville Bills Boast of Clever People.

"Madame Sherry," one of the greatest musical hits ever written, will be given its first production by any stock company anywhere in the world at the Burbank Theater this afternoon, inaugurating a short season of summer musical plays, produced on an unusually elaborate scale that should afford splendid warm weather entertainment.

"Madame Sherry," is a musical farce in three acts adapted from the French farce operetta by Hugo Felix. The book is the work of Otto Hauerbach, while the music is the master work of Karl Hoschma. It is in three scenes, all of which are laid in and about New York, calling for an uncommonly elaborate scenic display.

Most interesting in the production of "Madame Sherry" is the fact that it will give Selma Paley, a clever little Los Angeles girl, her first opportunity as a full-fledged prima donna, for she will be seen in the chief role of Yvonne Sherry, one of the most difficult prima donna roles written. Miss Paley's rise to fame has been rapid, for it was only two years ago that she made her first appearance on a stage. She is not only one of the cleverest young actresses the local stage has ever developed, but possesses a singing voice of great volume and beautiful quality, a combination difficult to find even among our best-known prima donnas. Miss Paley is splendidly suited to sing, dance and act the role and unless predictions go far astray she will score a personal success that will place her among the foremost young prima donnas on the native stage.

Percy Bronson has been especially engaged for this production and will be seen in the role of the young Edward Sherry; while little Winnie Baldwin, also especially engaged, should be seen to advantage as the Spanish girl, Pepita. Lillian Tucket will also come into her own with the production of "Madame Sherry," for she will have her original role of Lulu. James Darling, who staged the original production of "Madame Sherry" and who came to Los Angeles especially to

ART AND ARTISTS.

BY ANTONY ANDERSON.

The Sculptor.

Marble is dolice to me,
Like a world, all nebular,
Awaiting its designer
And valueless until I give it life.
No form it has, nor soul,
Nor spell of beauty;
No angel shows,
Nor hint of human grace.
'Tis stone—not more—mere stone,
And fit for but a peasant's spit
Or kick of his thick boot.
And then—I dream!
(Ah, God, I dream!)
And toil,
(Ah, God, I toil!)
And something comes of it,
A something white and gleaming
In the city's Square.
"Look there!" they cry.
"A general! A Pope!"
"A statesman!" Or "a Poet!"
"Wonderful!"
But on my bench beneath the tree
I sit and smile—
The fools! And blind at that!
I am the statue, whatsoe'er its form.
My soul and sweat are there,
And all my awful years.
Myself is in the stone!

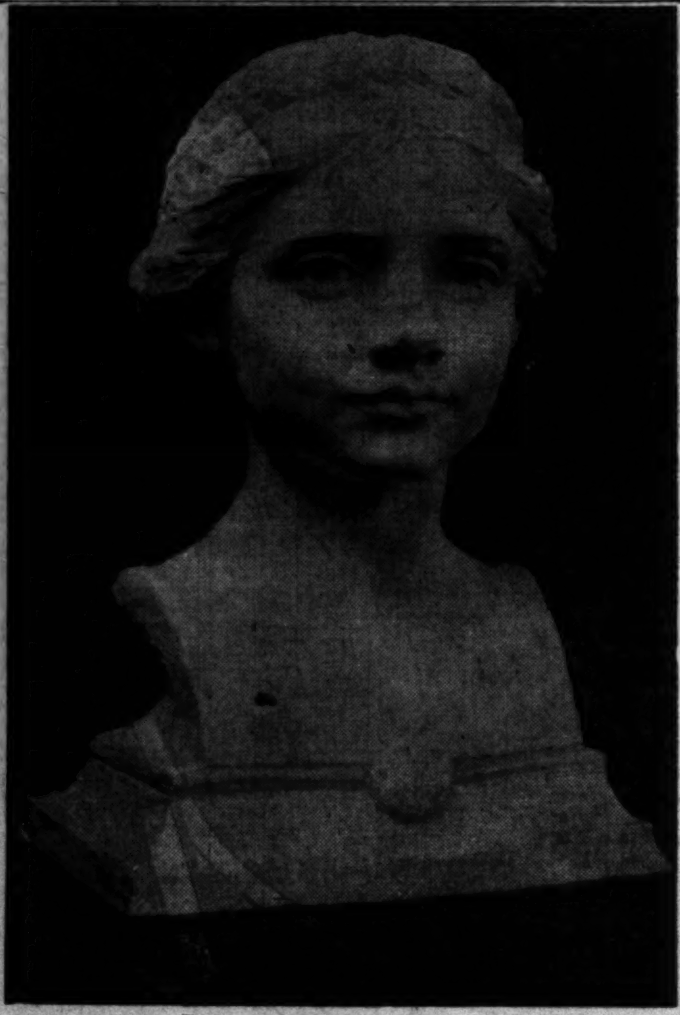
A Peace Memorial in Bronze.

Now that Julia Bracken Wendt has finished her monumental task of two years, the group of three colossal female figures representing Art, Science and History, to go into the spacious new building at Agricultural Park in October—and now that this magnificent piece of sculpture is being cast in bronze in New York, the busy brain that conceived it and the poetic imagination that carried it to a triumphant completion will find opportunity to turn to another important sculptural work.



Blythe. By Julia Bracken Wendt.

This order comes to her all the way from Saskatoon, Canada, and is a King Edward peace memorial to be erected on the campus in front of Convocation Hall at the University of Saskatchewan. It is the gift of A. Bowerman of Saskatoon to the northern university.

Mrs. Wendt has already made the wax model for this notable memorial, whose height will be forty-two and a half feet, and which will cost $25,000. The monument is to be an expression of the doner of his admiration for peace, and for the principles of peace, as enunciated and supported by King Edward VII of England. It is intended to be a perpetual reminder of the desirability of peace—a lesson which will be beautifully taught the students throughout all their years at the university.

Dominating the whole monument is the figure of Peace poised on the globe, and into this figure, which will be nine feet high in the completed work, the sculptor has subtly expressed the beauty and the strength of her own unshakable belief in the world-peace. This colossal figure holds up the symbol of peace, an olive branch, to the world.

The globe on which Peace rests so courageously and confidently is supported, Atlas-like, by the four representatives of the great ethnological divisions of humanity, Caucasian, Ethiopian, Chinese and Indian, and to these strong, half-crouching masculine figures the sculptor has given the cosmopolitan characteristic of each race; to typify the world message of the monument as well as of each figure in the group. The message is a big one—but the work of the artist has been made big enough to meet it and carry it.

The most prominent of these figures will, of course, be the Caucasian, whose uplifted face shows that he is ready for the message, and indeed reads it from afar. Beside him will be the awakening Ethiopian. All four figures are to be cast in bronze, and will be placed on a high pedestal of granite. In the columns of this pedestal Mrs. Wendt carries out the idea of the monument itself, showing the olive branch again and the doves of peace resting on the capitals.

On the central side of the pedestal will be placed a bronze medallion portrait of King Edward and Queen Alexandra, with this scroll from Rudyard Kipling below it: "By the peace among our peoples, let men know we serve the Lord." The central panel will hold an inscription by Mr. Bowerman, to be decided on later in the progress of the work.

This monumental work also will be a fountain, and at either side of it lions' heads of bronze will send forth streams of water, while at night the entire monument will be lighted by four electroliers, which also will carry out the olive-leaf design and the color scheme of bronze and granite.

Even the garden spot on the campus which is to hold and treasure this last monument to peace will be laid out according to the ideas of Julia Bracken Wendt—and so we know that artistic harmony as well as artistic strength will characterize that green acre in far-off Saskatchewan.

The coming year will be a busy one for the sculptor. Her workshop on Sichel street is already crowded with clay and wax figures "in the rough." Yonder, for instance, stands a life-size faun playing on the reed pipes of Pan, at the same time watching with sly, delighted eyes a lizard which has crawled to his naked brown shoulder to listen to the entrancing strains from those broken reed stems. All the poetry of the great out of doors breathes around that care-free manbrute of the sylvan places. He stands at ease, happy and graceful, bubbling over with the song and the laughter of eternal youth. Over his brawny shoulders, caressing his supple thighs, trailing to his hard heels, runs a long blossoming vine of the grape—making veritable curves of beauty wherever you may look. The hands that hold the reeds are strong, flexible, wonderfully well modeled—the musician's hands from wrist to finger tips. The massive head and neck, the dilated nostrils, the full, bearded lips, show the faun to be first cousin to Silenus.

Another beautiful and poetic thing that Mrs. Wendt is working on is the clay model for a fountain which is to be placed in the garden which Mrs. Anita Baldwin McClaughry is planning for her beautiful new home near Sierra Madre.

This fountain will be unusual. A bronze panel, 18x5½ feet in size, will be placed below a stone balustrade which is to hold Mrs. Wendt's well-known figure, "The Comet," which is to be cast in bronze 7½ feet in height. The panel is in low relief, showing mountains, hills, trees and groups of figures. A stream will be flowing down one of the hills, and when this stream reaches a little pile of modeled rocks "real" water will gush from the rocks, filling the large basin below, which will be the cool, translucent home of the lily, the lotus and the gold-fish. At night the round white globe of the Comet will be lighted, to be wonderfully reflected in the pool below—a scene from fairyland.

The composition of the panel is charming. Its balance is perfect, yet there is no pervasive feeling of the fixed and the formal. To the left a number of men and women, nude and partly draped, are dancing blithely in a flower festival. To the right is a pastoral family group—tranquilly happy. Live oaks and the trunks of sycamores divide the groups and make a natural frame for the hills and the stream.

Nor must we forget Julia Bracken Wendt's portraits—those searching, subtle characterizations, often so lovely and yet so true. Of them all, I think I like her little children best—her "Blythe," her "Evelyn," and all the other smiling and serious train of little men and women she understands so wonderfully and models so well. No matter how busy she may be with bigger things, Mrs. Wendt always finds time for an occasional portrait. And what "big" things she often makes of these little reliefs and busts! We find the whole story of a childhood in "Blythe," for instance.

ART NOTES.

One of the interesting features of the International Studio for July is an appreciation, by Everett Carroll Maxwell, of the water-color paintings of the late Norman St. Clair. There are three characteristic examples of St. Clair's work shown in half-tone, and all are landscapes of Southern California.

William Wendt started for Tacoma, Wash., three weeks ago to sketch, but reports little progress, as the rains have kept him indoors almost the entire time. If the sky doesn't clear toward the end of July he is coming back to Los Angeles, where he is sure of a chance to paint.

Detlef Sammann has built himself a brand-new studio at Pebbly Beach, Monterey county, and today he will hold his formal opening there from 3 to 5 p.m. The studio will be free of access to all visitors during these hours on Sundays throughout the year.

The successful exhibition of 500 Thumb Box Sketches at the Merick Reynolds gallery, No. 341 South Broadway, will continue to July 26.

At the Royar, No. 744 South Hill street, there is an exhibition of pictures by Los Angeles painters.

Mr. and Mrs. C. N. Williamson, both devoted to traveling, have recently deserted their villa on the shores of the Mediterranean and penetrated Egypt as far as Khartum. There can be little doubt as to the scenes of their next romance, for their traveling will make them familiar with many romantic and sequestered spots along the Nile.

THE HELPING HAND.

So shines a good deed in a naughty world."

Six hundred and sixty thousand dollars was recently raised for the construction and equipment of buildings auxiliary to Mt. Sinai Hospital in New York. When completed the extension will contain 200 beds for the accommodation of women and children. It is proposed to increase the hospital fund to $1,250,000, the total estimated as necessary for all the improvements desired.

On July 4 the Bourne Mills of Fall River made its 568 employees a present of 2½ per cent. of the wages they earned between December 2, 1912 and May 31 last. This is the forty-seventh semi-annual dividend paid to the employees of these mills which have always been noted for prosperity even when other New England cotton mills were finding the financial conditions unpropitious. The bonus to the employees for the last six months in 1912 was 3 per cent. of the wages they had earned.

The officials of one of the larger packing plants at the Chicago stock yards will not frown in the future when an experienced stenographer announces her resignation and intention to marry. Instead they will write a check for $25 to be presented the day after the wedding. This company has announced it will make a donation of $50 to all heads of departments who marry and $25 to all other employees, both men and women.

Miss Helen Frick, daughter of the Pittsburgh iron manufacturer, has at last succeeded in her effort to have an ideal summer home for working girls, situated in the country. The Iron Rail Club is the name that has been given to the commodious old mansion for that purpose in the midst of 150 acres of ground at Wenham, Mass.

The will of Henry Daniels, who was drowned when he drove his auto off an open bridge at Port Clinton, O., is remarkable in its bequests to enemies. A former employee, John Fritiche, who started a clothing store in opposition and to whom he ceased to speak, was given $200.

A movement has been started in Salem, Mass., to find out what was ever done regarding the provisions of the will of Thomas W. Sweetser, who died fifty-nine years ago, leaving an unusual provision, that of providing the poor of Salem with cook stoves, will get close attention.

The will stipulated that $10,000 be paid to his native city, that this be put on interest at 6 per cent. forever, and that $600 be spent annually in buying stoves and utensils for the poor if his estate amounted to $30,000 or more.

Trustees, to be elected, must supervise the administration of the charity and must keep on hand a supply of stoves of different sizes. Then, too, the trustees must keep on hand enough pipes for all the stoves.

If the will was made public fifty-nine years ago no official notice was taken and the gift was forgotten.

William F. Moeller, who recently committed suicide at Germantown, Pa., was for years a familiar figure in that town as he drove through the streets behind his old gray horse, "Billy," delivering butter and eggs to customers, some of whom he had served for upward of a quarter of a century. Next to his wife the man loved nothing so much as his old pet horse, and when he was buying feed for him he was always particular to get the very best he could find and to procure only what he thought the animal would like. Therefore, when he found himself in the midst of financial difficulties that would prevent any provision for the care of the horse after his premeditated death he wrote a letter to one friend asking that he have his old pet horse humanely killed, and to another friend, asking him to feed the animal until the other request was fulfilled.

Fencing in All Paris.

[Kansas City Journal:] Paris is to be completely enclosed by an ornamental iron fence ten feet in height.

This fence will be twenty miles in length, and its purpose is to prevent people from passing into the city without paying the "octroi," or local duties on foodstuffs, gasoline and intoxicating liquors, which constitute a large portion of the civic revenues.

The gates or entrances will be guarded by officials, the fence being the modern substitute for the walls of the past. What remains of the walls of Paris will be leveled.

The cost of the fence will be about $2,000,000.

Footlight favorites.

caused no little comment wherever it has been seen on the Sullivan and Considine circuit by reason of its artistic worth.

Third on the new bill will be the popular team of Mae Dolly and Charles Mack, two young and gifted instrumentalists, who have studied American audiences to find out just what sort of amusement they like best, and have proceeded to model their offerings accordingly. Their instrumental offerings range from the classical to the popular, which cannot help but satisfy the musical tastes of every one.

Gilmore and La Tour should also prove among the most popular artists with their "Sense and Nonsense," a happy combination of melody and mirth.

And then there is the team of Elliott and West, the dancing clowns, to amuse and entertain those who like every form of difficult and grotesque dancing throughout which a little clever humor is carefully sprinkled. Completing the new bill are Wilton and Merrick, the acrobatic funmakers, and the new comedy motion pictures.

Pantages.

Music, comedy and novelty are delicately balanced in the vaudeville bill promised for next week at Pantages. Topping the show which opens Monday afternoon come "The Girls from the Golden West," the Cora Youngblood Corson Sextette. The young women are all well known in the West, where the act originated, and in the course of their eastern tour have furnished another argument against the old theory that everything good in vaudeville must come from Broadway. The young women are partial to "the brass," and most of their specialties are rendered on cornet, trumpet, trombone and oboe, but other instruments are featured in solo numbers. The talented leader of the sextette brings into action an instrument of such monstrous dimensions that the player is completely hidden behind its convolutions.

A sister act, Adair and Hickey, has attracted the favorable comment of every newspaper reviewer along the circuit; both young women are dazzling beauties, and smartly gowned, but which is also important in its way, they are as clever as they are comely. Ragtime in all its varieties is their specialty, with "That Baseball Rag" as their piece de resistance. The act is said to be the highest salaried sister act in vaudeville.

Ed Vinton and Buster will be welcomed by old and young. The man and the dog seem to have an absolutely perfect understanding of each other, and the resulting performance is one of the best novelties of the season. Buster does almost everything but talk, and Vinton is sufficiently conversational to make up for Buster's only deficiency.

Wood, Brown, Berry and Dore, "Those Four Kids," have a singing and dancing specialty entitled "Youthful Frolics," which combines gingery comedy with artistically-harmonized musical numbers. Harry Fisher and company will present a comedy cycling number which should score heavily with the fun-loving Pantages audiences.

Gilbert Losee, the triple-voiced wonder, will be here as an added attraction. Losee is a vocal phenomenon almost without a parallel. He has been heard here before, and his return engagement is the best proof of his popularity.

Mozart.

Artistic and appealing are these attractive travel pictures, being featured at this classy motion-picture house, and you cannot see these entertaining programmes without absorbing a deal of information. One of the interesting visits to be made this week is to the Park of Caserta, in Italy.

A waterfall of surpassing beauty is to be seen; the fountain of Venus, with the bathers at the fountain and a lake which mirrors the beauty of the trees and shrubbery. Views of the waves at St. Barbe's Pier and a most inspiring sunset scene are said to be beyond description. Ascending the Jura Mountains on the Franco-Swiss frontier, a sea of clouds is one of the pretty scenes.

On the Spanish coasts are the wave surprises and a glorious sunset at St. Jean de Luz. The lassoing of wild animals is also splendidly pictured. Buffalo Jones, the well-known hunter and sportsman, with his band of frontiersmen, who was sent by the American Historical Society to capture wild animals in Africa, is featured in this reel. The thrill of the hunt and the fascinating strength and endurance of the animals make this picture wonderful and entertaining.

Clune's.

"Tapped Wires," a two-reel Essenay film, based upon a scenario written around a newspaper office, is the special attraction announced for Clune's Broadway Theater to headline the bill for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. This is one of the biggest productions the Essenay players have attempted for some time, and according to advance reports, is one of the leading films of the day. It has a wonderful heart interest, is overflowing with pathos, humor and exciting situations. It is a story that will ever be remembered as one that rings true of human nature. Newspaper dramas are usually boresome because of the abundance of shop talk which the average person cannot understand, but this is eliminated, of course, where the newspaper play is produced on the screen.

At Clune's Fifth-street Theater "The Ne'er to Return Road," a great, big Selig production in two reels, made by local actors at the western Selig studio at Edendale, is the film special for the first three days of next week. Like the featured film at Broadway, it, too, abounds in human interest and pathos. There will be special comedy, drama, educational, travel and scientific films along with the big film. Several attractive vaudeville acts have been arranged for and the list of illustrated songs and orchestra selections will be down-to-the-minute.

Auditorium.

For over 2000 years the centuries have rung the question of "Quo Vadis, Whither Goest Thou?" and for over 2000 years historians, painters, sculptors, novelists, dramatists and composers, have endeavored to answer that question.

The story of the persecution of the Christian martyrs from the crucifixion of Christ to the death of Nero has been told and pictured in so many forms that apparently no new feature remained to be presented. The inventive genius of the twentieth century found an open sesame to this storehouse of the birth of Christianity, and motion pictures have been called upon to show the correct version of "Quo Vadis" and give a perfect presentation of the essential dramatic, historical and spectacular values of this masterpiece which correctly portrays the struggles and strife which these disciples of Christ passed through in spreading the gospel.

The Auditorium, during the week of August 4 for a period of six matinees and six nights, will show a moving spectacle of terrifying vividness, portraying with all historical accuracy the terrible persecution which these people were compelled to submit to, the tragic deaths which they suffered by crucifixion on the cross, the savage scenes in the arena, the burning of Rome by Nero, the stoning of St. Stephen, a lesson for the historian, the Bible teacher, the ministry and all those who have believed but have not been able to see enacted as if at the time of this eventful epoch.

Los Angeles Prima Donna

are frequent at Mr. Morosco's door, but unlike most managers, he always listens to the ambitious and youthful caller seeking an opportunity.

WINS MANAGER.

Miss Paley's brief but convincing application for a chance impressed him, first perhaps because she cherished no wild dreams that today she would make her first appearance and tomorrow her name would be spelled in bright electric lights over the theater, and secondly because she was frank in explaining that while she might be over-confident, she wanted a chance to either make good or fail, and choose another field of endeavor.

About that time Mr. Morosco was getting ready to begin the rehearsals for Edgar Selwyn's play, "The Arab." In two or three of the big street scenes he needed young women, and she, being of that peculiar dark and fascinating Latin type, he told her to call around at the Burbank stage entrance the following Monday morning.

Unlike most girls, she did not board a car and trip straight home to tell mother and the rest of her friends that she was about to outshine Mrs. Leslie Carter or Maude Adams, or that she had seen a manager or even been a bit encouraged.

She just made up her mind that no matter what might be given her, it was all absolutely new and she was in for some good hard work. She also had the good sense and mental balance to realize that in even a "thinking part" many have failed—yes, failed dismally to even carry an impression across the footlights that they were capable of thinking. No, she wouldn't say a word. She would just wait and hope.

On the next Monday morning you may rest assured that promptly at 10 o'clock the most conspicuous person about the Burbank stage entrance was a pretty, dark-eyed girl, her face lighted up with girlish enthusiasm and a strange look of expectancy—a look full of wonder as to just what the day would bring forth for her.

Rehearsal was called. The parts were handed out to those cast for them and finally as the hours rolled by, Miss Paley was selected by Mr. Morosco to be among those who walked across the stage in the street scene two or three times during the action of "The Arab."

With that much over she left the theater with a sigh of relief, realizing that at last she had managed to break through a stage door and, perhaps she could manage to stay there.

THE STAR "SUPER."

"The Arab" was produced and she was most conspicuous among those who "suped," to use the stage parlance, but what little walking she did she did well, and it is doubtful if even Mr. Selwyn himself, playing the chief role, had more enthusiasm in what he was doing than she did in her mere flash before the audience.

Nobody praised her. But nobody criticized her, and that fact alone kindled within her all of the determination and ambition pent up in her youthful frame. She had climbed so far without a misstep. She must go farther.

With "The Arab" over she "supped" again and again, and finally when her face became a bit familiar to the stage directors she had the courage to ask if she might be given a few lines to speak.

And like all applicants she received from Mr. Morosco the reply that he never could tell what he was going to offer, or what parts there would be, except on Monday morning when the actual work of casting the piece about to go in rehearsal took place. If she would call on Monday, she was told, there might possibly be something for her.

For fifteen weeks—and without a murmur—she appeared on the Burbank stage. Fifteen times she saw the parts handed out, and she was not even noticed, until finally her chance came, and then quite by accident.

It was a little over a year ago when Mr. Morosco decided he would do one of George M. Cohan's musical plays just as a change for his patrons.

He had engaged several musical comedy artists especially for the production. After several rehearsals it was found that one would not do—in fact, was simply impossible. Only a few days remained before the opening performance. There was no time to cast about for a person of musical comedy experience. Someone must be substituted and this done quick.

GETS PART BY ACCIDENT.

Mr. Morosco and David M. Hartford were standing at the side of the stage holding a hurried consultation as to who they could get for the part, when Mr. Morosco noticed Miss Paley standing opposite him.

He called her over and asked her to simply read the part until somebody could be secured to rehearse it.

That was the one opportunity she had been longing for—the one reason she had been carefully watching those rehearsals—hoping that the opportunity might present itself for her to get a firm grip on a real part, for once she got her hands on a part she made up her mind she would never be asked to give it up.

The manner in which she read that part the first day was responsible for her being given it for all time.

And with the production little more than a year ago of "The Man Who Owns Broadway" she gained her first substantial foothold behind the footlights and made those most concerned in it realize that she possessed genuine ability that was still undeveloped.

Since that time her name has appeared almost constantly on the Burbank programme and her work in important parts has made her a familiar and popular young figure to local playgoers.

In little more than a year since her first speaking part in "The Man Who Owns Broadway," she has created the roles of Jenny Joyce in Paul Armstrong's "The Escape;" Marcell in Zellah Covington's farce, "The Elixir of Youth," and one of the most important roles in Witter Bynner's drama, "His Father's House," and in each one has made a lasting impression and scored a personal success of no small proportions.

But with all this Miss Paley was yet undiscovered. That she had ability as an actress as fast being realized, but that she was the possessor of a remarkable singing voice was never even thought of until during the recent rehearsals of "The Tik-Tok Man of Oz," when during a lull in the activities one morning she jumped upon the stage and sang one of the most difficult numbers in this extravaganza, purely from having heard it rehearsed by one of the high-salaried stars that Mr. Morosco had brought from the East with a reputation behind her.

Louis Gottschalk and Frank Baum, the writers, immediately went to Mr. Morosco and insisted that she be given a chance in "The Tik-Tok Man."

VOICE BIG SURPRISE.

But Mr. Morosco, figuring just a little bit faster, demurred on the ground that there was no great singing role in "The Tik-Tok Man of Oz," and secondly because he thought she was too valuable for what he had in store in the musical play line for Los Angeles this summer.

Consequently, "The Tik-Tok Man" moved away to win success in other fields and Miss Paley remained behind. She was a bit impatient at this. All young people in their youthful enthusiasm usually are, while Mr. Morosco, on the other hand, has, by his years of experience, found that there is a psychological moment to do everything and especially in a theatrical way, so he bid the young woman be patient.

With "Tik-Tok" off his mind he decided he would give a short season of summer musical plays at the Burbank Theater and told Miss Paley to begin studying the music of "Madame Sherry."

Even when she was told to prepare for the difficult prima donna role of Yvonne Sherry, she did not quite realize what a tremendous leap she was taking, nor did she stop to think of the difference of her position in the short space of two years.

But after four weeks of hard rehearsals under the direction of James Darling, who staged the original "Madame Sherry," she has come to realize that a great part of the success of the production rests on her shoulders, and that she is taking her first fling at a great big role, which very likely will result in her either getting a firm foothold on the rungs of the ladder that leads straight to success and fame on Broadway, New York, or she will have to wait patiently until more years of experience make her more fit for a task of such proportions.

UP AGAINST IT NOW.

To quote Miss Paley: "No one realizes what it means to be face to face with a moment that means so much—a time that either spells success in large letters or failure that means chagrin, patience and hard work. I am indeed fortunate to have fallen into the hands of a manager who believes in youth, and is willing to give the younger generation an opportunity, and you may believe me when I say that I shall try very hard—for all there is in me—to reciprocate in a measure by making good and justifying his judgment and his confidence in me.

"And I might also add that if I am fortunate enough to succeed in any degree, I will not make the mistake thousands of others have, by allowing success to overcome their common sense until they became unmanageable and finally slipped just before reaching the substantial position toward which they had been given such an excellent start.

"Whether I fail or succeed, I shall always keep trying just as hard as I have for the last two years to do something really worth while."

So here ends the story of the two years' rise of a little Los Angeles girl. When the curtain goes up at the Burbank Theater this afternoon and she steps on the stage as the little convent girl, Yvonne Sherry, she will know that she is about to make one big, long, decisive leap across the brink that exists between the thousands of strugglers and those who have won. If sound managerial judgment does not miscarry in this instance and her work in the past may be taken as any criterion, she will land firmly on her feet on the other side of the chasm with the winners and Los Angeles and the Golden West may, in a few short years, claim another bright star.

Artistic Efficiency.

MUSIC AND MUSICIANS.

GENEROUS REWARD FOR MUSICAD TALENT.

Warning to Eastern Managers. Mario Lambardi, Associated With Montreal Operahouse, to Bring Grand Opera Here This Autumn. Other Famous Singers.

BY HECTOR ALLIOT.

"Musical America," the oldest and most representative musical review, prints on its first page a warning to Eastern managers and suggests a halt on overcrowding western territory with musical artists.

This long article of forebodings is inspired by Mr. L. E. Behymer, who believes that eastern managers overrate our territory. He feels that a danger of overcrowding exists that may prove harmful to the cause of music, the artists and managers.

A prediction is made that if both the People's Orchestra and the Symphony Orchestra give concerts next season both will be financial failures "because there is not enough money in town to support the two."

Eastern managers are also warned against looking at Los Angeles as a rich and easy harvest.

These statements indicate the general character of the article, which one reads with no little surprise, from the pen of Mr. Behymer, our perennial musical booster and foremost impressario.

Since the Symphony made the existence of its orchestra possible by devoting large sums for its training, there is little doubt that after sixteen years this organization will continue to foster music of the higher class, at its expense as before, and without making any fuss about it.

The position of the Peoples' Orchastra is different. It did not create anything new and was only clever in selecting an excellent musical director. Maestro Lebegott has accomplished wonders in the Sunday concerts with meagre resources.

But it must not be overlooked that without the Symphony Orchestra the Peoples' Orchestra could not have even dreamed of giving popular concerts of high merit.

A combination of interests could well have been worked out between the senior and junior organizations. Those in close touch with the situation know well that the Symphony directors were more than willing to aid in elevating music on a high plane by combining efforts on a fair basis.

As it is now many of the music teachers forming the association, begin to fear that if there is a failure in making both ends meet in the Peoples' Orchestra's treasury, they will have to bear the amount of deficit.

It is probable however that with figures to guide them both the Symphony and the Peoples' Orchestra will not lose much, if anything.

The warning to the eastern managers is right only in one respect, the one of quality.

There is here plenty of money ready for first-class attractions, but there is money only for them.

Thanks to Mr. Behymer's efforts, we have become rapidly educated in musical appreciation and we demand in the vocalist, the musician, the actor the best or none at all.

Mischa Elman and Ysaye may come year after year, their managers need not fear the result of frosted lemons.

Schumann-Heink and Tetrazitti and a host of other singers of the first rank know that they are sure of the warmest welcome and of a generous financial success.

The second-rate or yet untested talent fares worse here than in almost any other city in the west.

"Our situation is a gilded one," only for those who deserve to harvest the gold for artistic performances which elevate and satisfy educated musical appreciation.

Whistling Recital.

The California School of Artistic Whistling, under the direction of Miss Agnes Woodward, gave an attractive entertainment in Symphony Hall, Blanchard Hall, Tuesday evening, before a large and appreciative audience. In addition to whistling numbers given by the Oriole Whistling Quartette, Andrea Shorb Barnes, Margaret McKee, the "queen of whistlers;" Maizie Kinney of Venice, Cal., little Gladys Harrison (6 years old) and Elmer Rudeen, "the Swedish nightingale," there were readings by Leah McKee, a piano solo by Elizabeth Strasburg; a veil dance by little Alice Logan; comic songs by Masters Kenneth and Irwin Mitchell (5 and 7 years old,) and several operatic selections by Maurel Bonardeau, late of the Royal Opera Company, London, and the possessor of a rich, sympathetic baritone voice which he used with skill.

The school is planning a large butterfly recital to be held in the Auditorium in the early winter.

Mlle. Treville Roumanian Enthusiast.

She has taken a personal interest in enlisting attention to the cause of Roumania, in the Balkan War.

This attitude seems strange, as the merits of the little kingdom's claims are somewhat hazy to our western eyes.

But since Mlle. de Treville has enjoyed the friendship of "Carmen Sylva," the admirable Queen of Roumania, and carries as a prized token of her frequent visits the medal of Benemerito that King Carol presented her at the request of Queen Elizabeth, it is no wonder that she takes the greatest interest in the Balkan struggle.

Organ Recital.

In honor of delegates and guests of the California District, Missouri Synod, in session at the Evangelical Lutheran Trinity Church, Ray Hastings, concert organist, will give an organ recital on Monday evening, July 21. The programme will include selections from Liszt, Thomas, Wagner, Bach, Dvorak and the artist's own beautiful composition, "Immortality."

Sistine Choir Coming.

Fortune Gallo, the able manager of the Lambardi Opera Company, is now in Milan, on his way to Rome to secure the engagement of the famous Sistine Choir, the Pope's own chorus, with the celebrated Perosi, the Kapellmeister, as conductor.

The American tour of this world-renowned chorus should prove one of the most pleasing and unique attractions of the season.

Million Club Recital.

A musical event was given last evening on Hamburger's Roof Garden under the auspices of the Women's Million Club, which organization is holding a week's festivities. The programme was given by the Festival Choir of Southern California, under the direction of Thomas Taylor Drill. Mr. Drill is dean of the vocal department of the Egan School.

Some three hundred voices, systematically drilled through the medium of weekly rehearsals, rendered selections before an immense throng.

Hamburger Roof Garden.

Other features of the coming week on the Hamburger Roof Garden will include dramatic and musical performances by the advanced students of the Egan School. It is understood that the one-act drama, "Sunset," by Jerome K. Jerome, and the third act of Zangwill's "Merely Mary Ann" will be staged, and that there will be a grand concert later in the week.

New Name of Lambardi Company.

When it was recently learned that Mario Lambardi had decided to join forces with the Montreal Opera Company of Canada, it was feared that he would no longer come to the Pacific Coast.

For years this enthusiastic manager has brought eminent talent to California, has popularized more than anybody the knowledge and appreciation of Italian opera.

He has been the first to offer grand opera productions at such prices that the general public could afford.

It is no secret that he has not become rich at it.

It was therefore with genuine regret that it was learned that he had left the western field and transferred his contracts, his admirable musical library, costumes and scenery to Montreal.

Definite word now comes from Max Rubinoff, the director of the Montreal Operahouse, that the organization will visit the Coast this season.

Such noted artists as Slezak, Rappold and Oolitzka have been engaged and will appear here in the autumn with a large company of Italian singers.

IN THE LIMELIGHT.

James Cran, who astonished the world by his reproduction of flowers in his Belgian blacksmith shop, works at a forge in Cranfield, N. J. Not long ago he was doing common blacksmithing work. Art critics say that he has gone much closer to nature in his work than Van Boeckel. He uses no models, and works with only the simplest tools. He began his apprenticeship as a blacksmith in Scotland at the age of 18, but since 1896 has lived in this country, where he was one of the first men to make an iron golf club.

Illinois' oldest triplets, Freeman and Hiram Rakestraw and their sister, Mrs. Harriet Hooker, all of Tazewell county, celebrated their fifty-ninth birthday July 5. The mother of the Rakestraw triplets gave birth to twins two years after the triplets were born, and one of these twins became the father of fourteen children, two of whom were twins.

Benjamin E. Wallace, the largest individual owner of circus property in the world, is about to retire from the amusement business. A syndicate has been formed to purchase from him the Hagenbeck-Wallace shows.

Max H. C. Brombacher, Jr., of Buffalo, was voted the most deserving student in the graduating class of mechanical engineering in Columbia University, and he has been named as the recipient for 1913-14 of the Edward A. Darling prize, carrying an income of $1000. Brombacher rowed on his freshman crew at Poughkeepsie in 1910.

John O'Brien of New York, heir to $1,200,000, who recently disappeared, has been found at Van Buren, Ark., where he is at work as assistant engineer for the Missouri Pacific Railroad at a salary of $1500 a year. He says he is happy in his new work and has no desire to resume his former social activities in New York. He wanted to earn his own living. He said his only reason for not telling his friends of his whereabouts was that he wished to cut loose from all old ties and make his way in the world on his own merit.

MRS. JOHN CHARLES LINTHICUM.

Wife of the Member of the Lower House from Baltimore, Who Will Be a Conspicuous Social Factor During the Democratic Regime.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 13.—One of the charming, well-poised members of the official set is Mrs. J. Charles Linthicum, wife of the member of Congress from the Fourth District of Maryland. A side light on her personality which will most eloquently proclaim her dignity and amiable characteristics is that in these days of changing standards and leveling ideas, Mrs. Linthicum retains the servants whom she secured nearly eighteen years ago in her early married life. To them she and her husband are "Miss Helen" and "Mr. Charlie," as they were before the servant class was, so to speak, uplifted out of existence. To bring six old-time, well-trained negroes from Baltimore into the rarified atmosphere which envelopes the capital and to keep them unspoiled, simple and faithful as in their old Maryland home shows at once that Mrs. Linthicum possesses that strength of character in which amiability is combined with the Christian-like desire to fulfill every duty.

"It is becoming rather trite to discourse on home duties," remarked Mrs. Linthicum, "still they always appeared paramount in my life and to keep the domestic machinery well oiled and running smoothly seemed the mission of every woman who assumed the duties of matrimony. To conduct even a modest home requires patience, forethought and a dilegent effort to understand details and to make them fit in so that every one will be happy and comfortable. All this takes time, still I do not think it should assume all the time. A few unbreakable rules help one so much. For instance, I have made it a point in my life, never to receive casual callers, the sort that drop in any time and perhaps interrupt well matured plans and prevent the performance of necessary duties. Sometimes it causes a little chagrin and one has to do some explaining, but in the end, it is a wise rule, which I commend to women who wish to make their day commensurate with their duties.

"I know nothing of the servant problem, though I have sometimes to pour oil on troubled waters and to compromise and to advise. I have rules in my household and I adhere to them as strictly as I desire the retainers to do. A sense of justice in dealing with others, is a powerful measure toward general harmony. I do not invade the rights of others, nor do I permit them to invade my rights, and this, strictly enforced, will smooth down many rough places. I feel a personal responsibility towards those who serve in my home, for their comfort and content even for their amusements, and they, in turn, are devoted to our interests and are faithful in their duties. I like to praise them as they deserve it; though I do not like to correct, if that is necessary. This goes a long way toward permanency in domestic ties and keeps your people with you.

"That a certain part of time and energy must be given to the infinitesimal details of life is the verdict of every successful homekeeper. When all this has been done and for the woman who has a sense of management, an hour or two a day suffices to direct even a large and complicated domestic machinery, then I think a woman should exert her influence for good and worthy causes. I cannot enroll myself under the banner of women seeking public honors or asking recognition in the political sense, but I heartily endorse the efforts of women to achieve certain things which in the great rush of life have been overlooked. I have the honor of being among the very first to answer to the call for an organized feminine Democracy and I have conscientiously and sincerely worked for the success of the cause. Naturally, the Democratic cause will appeal to me, but in this work, I think we have a higher and broader mission than merely political distinctions. It has been my hope to see women laboring for what is the best in life, the best government, local and national, and to see them accomplish something which makes their desire for a larger mission absolutely logical.

"In the organization of Democratic women which now is known under various different names, our first idea was to become known to each other and then to formulate more ambitious plans. This is in the main still an important issue and much good will invariably result when women who represent something in their own communities become familiar with the needs and aspirations of those far remote. I like to see practical results in anything in which I am connected. We know that when all the diverging elements mingle harmoniously, it looks well for the cause espoused, so we are working with might and main for harmony. Then we take up other threads and weave them into our plans, all with a definite purpose of aiding the causes which appeal most to reason humanity even to religion. We all feel proud of the efforts of Mrs. Wilson, wife of the President and of her endeavors to bring all into line of fulfilling personal responsibility. With such an example every woman feels that the smallest effort is worth while. Mrs. Wilson will bring about a reform in housing the humbler residents of the capital and by degrees, we will reach all the conditions which need championship. No line of political creed need separate women in these causes and I am sure it will not. Our Democratic women in forming an auxiliary branch as it were are merely following the fashion of long ago, when the women were most ardent politicians and held up the hands of the early fathers in every crusade. Just now there are many phases in public questions where woman must go to the aid of sister woman. We have enlarged our vision and now few thoughtful people will purchase any sort of goods when it is fashioned under deleterious conditions for the workers. I hope that more and more feminine organizations will unite for such useful purpose."

Mrs. John Charles Linthicum of Baltimore.

Mrs. Linthicum is a pleasant conversationalist, telling interesting things in the unobtrusive way which never fatigues. In her early girlhood her father, Dr. John Leland Perry, was one of the eminent physicians of Saratoga Springs and she and her sister, Mrs. W. W. Wilder, saw a brilliant phase of life which no longer exists.

"It saddens me," said Mrs. Linthicum "to see the Springs now that its glories have departed. I remember when the first breath of summer brought there all those who were the least ailing and many who were not, but who wished to remain for the gay times possible. Bright plumage for the ladies and the stately ways of the gentlemen of those days with their long retinue of servants and the ceremony of going backwards and forwards for the waters made a picture difficult to imagine now. Then that sound of music seemed always on the air and the nights were brilliant and lively as the days. One could see the beauty of all America, for even the opulent of South America came to Saratoga for the cure. It was not so much the fashion then to go abroad for the spas of Austria and of Germany. The time consumed in the journey was more than the busy man of that era could spare, so he came to Saratoga with his wife and children. When a belle and beauty of international fame arrived, every one was agog until she appeared on the promenade or at the Casino and when the tongues would wag in comparison to her claims against some former favorite. I spent all my early life in such environment and there I gained my love of people as study rather than of conditions or things considered academically. I attended a dear old French convent near Montreal and later went to Madam Seller's in Philadelphia. But I have always held that experience is the wiser teacher and that to travel and to mingle among different circles of humanity is to get the broadest and most useful knowledge. I have gone to Europe, to every part many times, always with beneficial results. One of my principal pleasures in traveling after the exhilration of mingling with people of different ideals is to collect unique belongings. My home in Baltimore also my country home is filled with reminders of delightful sojourns in foreign lands. I dislike the commonplace either in furnishings or in bric-a-brac or in art. So whenever I saw something which would fit in with other possessions, I purchased. My pictures mean a great deal to me for this reason and sitting quietly in my home, my eye falls on something gotten abroad and pleasant memories are awakened and I feel refreshed.

"I am a fervent believer in religion for everybody according as one finds refreshment in the different creeds. I believe in the discipline which the adherence to some special form of religion brings and to the stimulant to mind and soul which applied religion means. Therefore I count as the most sacred of my memories of travel, a trip Mr. Linthicum and I took to the Holy Land. It was almost a pilgrimage we went about it so reverently and I regret that so many of my countrymen go to Paris and to Baden-Baden and to Monte Carlo and so few to the fountain head of our Christian religion. I cannot put in words the solace which that trip to Jerusalem, to Bethlehem, to the Mount of Olives, to the Sea of Galilee and the River Jordan means even yet. I find everything near and therefore dearer to me. Certain ceremonies were before a sort of dry formalism and now they are vivid, stimulating realities."

Mrs. Linthicum is among those who may be said in the broadest and truest sense to be a prime factor in the political career of her husband.

Doctor's Boyish Face Reveals Skin Renewer

I heard the other day the story of the physician with so admirable a skin that all his women patients asked the secret. He told one, who generously told others, that, knowing the remarkable absorbent property of ordinary mercolized wax, he concluded this substance would make an excellent complexion renewer and preserver. Knowing the wax could not harm the skin, he began using it after shaving. He soon observed that the old, withered, colorless cuticle was being gradually absorbed and replaced by younger, healthier skin. This was the simple secret of the silver-haired doctor with the boyish face.

The secret became public property. Now women everywhere use mercolized wax, applying it nights like cold cream, washing it off mornings—continuing until the complexion is entirely renovated. An ounce of this wax, procurable at any druggist's, will banish the worst complexion.

Another valuable rejuvenator used by this doctor was a wrinkle-remover and preventive in the form of a face bath, made by dissolving an ounce of saxolite in a half-pint witch hazel. This also has become famous.—Aurelia in Fashion Review.—[Advertisement.

German Fraulein Finds She Had Started to Elope With the Wrong Person.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] An amazing love adventure has just befallen Fraulein Myra Goersen, daughter of a rich manufacturer of Treptow.

Fraulein Myra fell in love with her father's former clerk, Herr Xavier, but Herr Goersen withheld his consent. The lovers resolved to elope and be wedded in England. Watchful Herr Goersen discovered this plan, but said nothing.

At fateful midnight Fraulein Myra, much muffled up, opened the hall door and hopped into the automobile where Herr Xavier, also muffled up, sat impatiently at the wheel. Herr Xavier put his fingers to his lips as a command of silence, and the auto flew into the night.

Soon it was in the country. Fraulein Myra slumbered deliciously. A sudden stoppage awoke her. The auto was at her own door. The false Herr Xavier, who as a fact, was stern Herr Goersen, removed his mufflers and made ironical remarks.

At this tragic moment up dashed a second auto. It contained another muffled-up male, the real Herr Xavier, whom Herr Goersen, by a ruse, had misled as to the hour. On seeing him, fickle Fraulein Myra remarked that a man who so bungled things was useless as a husband, and she entered the house obediently on her father's arm.

Prussian Officials to Be Court Martialed on Charge of Accepting Bribe From Krupp Company.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, July 19.—Several officials employed in the Prussian war office, holding the rank of officers, will be tried by court martial July 29. They are charged with accepting bribes from the Krupp company, and with putative treason. The trial will be held behind closed doors, all those taking part in the case having been sworn to secrecy.

It has not been learned how many officers are involved. The charges are a result of an investigation of sensational allegations made by Herr Liebknecht, a Socialist, in a speech in the Reichstag last April.

it was not until 1901 that method in serial order, as originally advocated by Dr. Faulds in 1880, was adopted in England. Nevertheless it has met with triumphant success in giving rapid and easy identification of recidivists, or old professional criminals, often living under aliases. A year later "Mr. Broderick's Committee" considered finger-prints at the British War Office in relation to the recruiting system. Dr. Faulds was the only expert called, and he explained his syllabic dictionary system fully and was thanked by the government for making the matter so exceedingly clear—but with thanks only England's recognition of this quiet, determined man has come to an end.

DR. FAULDS'S HINTS.

Dr. Faulds now gives the following "hints to amateurs as to the best methods of dealing with criminal cases of identification by means of finger-prints:"

(1.) When a smudge has been discovered at the scene of crime which seems to give promise of being useful for evidence, great care must be taken that no other finger-prints or any other marks be added thereto. Clean paper should be used when handling the object, and it should at once, after examination, be placed in some secure receptacle where destructive friction is impossible. Wooden pincers, tipped with india rubber, are useful for manipulating finger-marked wine glasses or the like.

(2.) The smudge should be photographed as soon as possible, and as near to the natural size as can be. If there is any prospect of a comparison being required in an important affair several copies should be obtained and note made at the time of any peculiarities in the method employed.

(3.) A smudge may often be well and vividly brought out by a skilful photographer versed in light and shade, even though it was originally faint and obscure.

(4.) On a curved surface, such as a cup, tumbler, or bottle, care must be taken in focussing the most significant part of the pattern. Even at the best, distortion may lead to unsatisfactory results for fine measurements.

(5.) If fragments of paper are found which might have been touched by the offender, an attempt should be made to discover even the faintest trace of a greasy or chemical smudge, which can be revived.

(6.) The original direct photograph of the smudge should be surrounded with a thin circle drawn from some point which forms a convenient and approximate center to the pattern. If there seems to be more than one such point present in an irregular pattern it may be advisable to prepare two such differently encircled photographs for enlargement, or three, if likely points indicate practical possibilities in an important case.

(7.) The photographic enlargements should be made preferably on paper without glaze. It is often necessary to make slight pencil or other marks for the purpose of a "survey."

(8.) Such marks should be very slight and of a different color from the photographic enlargement, so as not to blend with and confuse lineations of the pattern itself. Aniline colors are convenient but are apt to smear the exhibit if moisture touches the marks. Finely pointed red or blue crayon pencils of good quality may be used, or an ordinary hard graphite or lead pencil.

(9.) The enlargements should, as a rule, be made on a scale fixed officially, following either the metric or the English system.

(10.) If a person suspected is in custody and his finger-prints can be legally secured, these should, if possible, be taken by someone experienced in official finger-printing. If that cannot be done, care must be taken to have the finger-prints of each hand in their natural order and to have available records or other evidence of the fact at the trial, together with the signature of the prisoner.

(11.) If any one finger-print of the accused or suspected person is deemed to afford evidence of identity with the originator of the smudge at the scene of the crime, this should be photographically enlarged to the same scale as the enlarged smudge in question. The enlargement should also have attached to it a direct nature-print of the accused person's corresponding finger for verification.

(12.) After the suspect's finger-print has been examined by an expert it should have a fine circle drawn around it, similar to that with which the smudge has been surrounded. If other somewhat central points suggest themselves, other finger-prints (or direct photographs) may be encircled in the same way as in the case of the smudge, so that an ultimate comparison may be made on the same area and scale.

(13.) The two enlargements may conveniently be mounted on stiff millboard, either side by side or above and below. Uniformity in official procedure is desirable. When there is more than one suspect finger in question, the enlarged smudge should be mounted alongside on each separate exhibit, for easy comparison.

(14.) The smudge may be conveniently marked X, as suggesting a problem to be solved. The particular finger-prints to be compared and identified, if possible, with X may be marked A, B, etc.

(15.) The smudge should not be headed "Finger-print;" the term "Dermatograph" would be safe, with provisos mentioned, or "Dactyloid smudge," i.e., a smudge like a finger-print.

(16.) If an expert witness has come to the conclusion that the original of X is identical with that of A, he must be prepared to satisfy a judge that he has sufficient reasons for saying so. If his conclusion is negative or adverse, his grounds for that belief must be stated in clear, simple language. In any case, the prisoner or his lawyer ought to be enabled to criticize intelligently the points of evidence adduced, against him.

(17.) The pattern of the smudge may be clearly printed and complex in its qualities as a pattern. To bring such points out vividly is the function of an expert witness. The smudge may be hazy and the finger-print clear. The smudge may have a strikingly characteristic pattern of rare occurrence. The finger-print, again, may simply contain a pattern as meager and commonplace as any to be found.

18.) When an expert is under examination as a witness, the general style or character of the patterns may have to be indicated; the direction of loops, etc., in the core; the possibility or otherwise of a minor pattern causing perplexity through photographic or primary reversal; and the agreement or disagreement in breadth or length of lines. Again, the location of spots, lakes, islands, deltas, loops, arches, whorls, spurs, and the like, can be demonstrated by measurements; while the congrousness or otherwise of curves may be shown in the ways set forth in the previous hints. It is desirable to practice verbal description of such points, as an illiterate jury might fail to grasp unless stated in plain terms.

Staffordshire physician who is credited with the discovery of finger prints as means of criminal identification.

A DEBUTANTE'S LETTER

LOG CABIN IN THE SIERRAS,
July 20.

Mater Darling: How perfectly dear of you to send that parcel of clean things! How did you know I should want them? I was just getting desperate and had begun to realize that Joan was not so very silly after all to bring a whole Ville de Paris with her. Of course I meant to make a silk shirt last two days at least, but somehow things kept happening. Wright cooked the "flapjacks" yesterday for instance, and was seeing how clever he could be, tossing them direct from the frying pan into our plates. Mine missed! There is a perfect impression of a truly poetic mountain flapjack, created by an arch-cook, on the front of my prettiest shirt waist. It seems a pity to wash it out.

Then on another sad occasion a mosquito was about to perform on my arm clear through the sleeve and young Birdie, who is more alert than artistic, crushed the monster where he lay and permitted his life's blood to pervade my shirt for an inch or so. It looked horribly gory and even in memory of such a brave deed I hardly liked wearing such an ominous badge.

Then, of course, there was the fire. Oh, mater, these mountain fires are terrific. There was one in full swing the day we arrived, but we could only see it safely in the distance and regarded it rather as a picturesque addition to the scenery. But yesterday one broke out in the canyon not a mile from here, and of course every able-bodied male for miles around immediately volunteered. We girls rode down to watch, but soon came back, as we were only in the way. The smoke was blinding and the flames leapt up the mountainside in great roaring waves of fire. The forest ranger took command and it was really splendid how our city men and boys fell into line. They had to cut down bushes and dig up wide paths, climb up through smoke and flames, and beat great stretches of scrub with heavy sacks.

Our boys were up all night with it and came back as black as sweeps. But I think they all felt rather proud of their exciting experience and will talk of it as one of the adventures of their lives after this. They certainly saved a lovely mountain ranch which was in serious danger. And to think it was all started by some careless picnickers, who had failed to extinguish their fire carefully notwithstanding the warnings tacked up on trees all the way up the canyon!

The night before that we had a watermelon party at midnight and had our photos taken by flashlight down by the creek. There was a lovely moon and we had all the Japanese lanterns on the trees as well. Mildred played the mandolin and, of course, we all became very sentimental over the songs. McGary has a beautiful voice and sang "Love, Could I Only Tell Thee" straight at Mirian, who tried to look unconscious very unsuccessfully. I am sure that is a case and they may as well give up trying to marry McGary to the Harley girl. We sang all the usual old songs and our voices all harmonized so well. Claudia lay back dreamily in the hammock—she rather specializes in hammocks, does Claudia—and showed her pretty feet, which I heard Tom say he should write a poem on. It ought to be called "Claudia's Moonlit Ankle." I should not be surprised if half of us do not come back engaged.

And now, mater darling, don't get worried, but I expect I better tell you Mr. W. is up here! He is staying with the E-V's and comes down to our camp every day. Mrs. S., who really is the dearest thing, had a serious talk with me one day and asked if I knew he had a wife back East. Of course I relieved her anxiety on that score. So when last night he was paying me rather marked attentions and she saw I was finding it a little beyond my capacity to manage the situation with finesse, she came up and laughingly said, "So you are a debutante's victim, too, are you, Herbert? I surmise that young Betty, like the rest of them, regards you married men as good subjects to practice on."

My word, he did look mad! But I quickly took her cue, of course, and played up to it. He looked so reproachful and whispered later that he had thought I sincerely sympathized with him in his "broken life," and some more like that. So then I got flippant and said I thought it must be awfully interesting to have a broken life and I meant to have one, too, if I ever became bored after I was married. He hasn't been near the camp today, so I presume he finds your young and innocent Betty altogether too unpleasantly knowing.

But bless me, even a debutante can't help seeing how sadly easy it is to flirt with married men! That is the sort of conquest any sort of girl can make at any time, and it is altogether too cheap to be amusing. That is the third misunderstood married man I have had to contend with already.

I hear Clarence and Etta actually got married in San Francisco on July 5th! And to think I had practically decided to marry Clarence myself some day! It was an awful shock. I saw Etta a few weeks ago and she never even mentioned that she was engaged. The secretiveness of some people! All the same that is rather a nice way of doing things, isn't it? I think the pre-nuptial parties and the showers, the wedding presents and all that fuss is rather disgusting. I will let you and the pater down very cheaply when my turn comes, mums darling.

So you have all decided on Balboa instead of Catalina—well, it is sure to be jolly either way. Tell pater we shall be ready for him to fetch us in the car on Tuesday morning. He better take the canyon road, as they tell me the mountain road slipped badly last week and is quite unsafe until it has been repaired. Then he can let me drive the car home! Please look my bathing suit over, there's a darling. I seem to remember a slit somewhere. Did you get yourself a red silk one as I told you to? No, I will wager you have got a black one. I hope not, anyway, for very few mothers can look as ducky in red as you do and a bathing suit is about the only chance you would get. Even I won't persuade you to an all red gown.

You ask Milly to tell you how we came to christen Mrs. Willoughby Rodman "Julius Caesar;" she'll remember. It really was rather a lark because she herself was gloriously innocent at the time and asked us to let her into the joke.

Wedding Breakfast.

Following the early morning wedding of Miss Elizabeth Toole, daughter of Mrs. Mary Toole, to Will J. Blackman, Tuesday, Rev. Paul Dillon performing the ceremony, a southern wedding breakfast was served in the main dining-room at the Log Cabin, West Adams street and Normandie avenue, for members of the wedding party and immediate family.

A pink and white color scheme was utilized for the table. All the dishes rested in a bed of pink sweet peas, while falling from the electrolier overhead were showers of pink rosebuds and enchantress carnations, and white streamers attached to baskets filled with pink and white carnations hanging from the log rafters, the ribbon forming a canopy over the baskets. Hand-painted, heart-shaped cards adorned with Cupids, marked covers, and favors were pink satin boxes to which lilies of the valley were tied with perky bows of pink tulle.

Covers were laid for Mr. and Mrs. Will J. Blackman, Mrs. Mary M. Toole, Miss Irene Agnes Toole, Elis I. Toole, Fred J. Toole, Joseph Cox, Eugene Blackman and Rev. Paul Dillon. Colored postals of the Log Cabin on which was the menu of the wedding breakfast were also presented each guest by Mrs. Haensler.

More than 100 guests were entertained at a dancing party at the Los Angeles Country Club Thursday evening by Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Busch of Portland street, out of compliment to Miss Gretchen Gorton of New York, who is the house guest of their daughter, Miss Amy Busch. Special guests present were Miss Elizabeth Cook of Kansas City and Miss Marjorie Lee of Reno, also guests of friends in the city. The mantelpiece in the reception-room was banked with ferns and the fireplace filled with large white oak leaves.

On the small table in the dining-room, where refreshments were served after the dance, Shasta daisies and gypsiphelia were utilized. Tall palms and ferns were banked in the ballroom. Favors presented the ladies were American Beauty roses made of tissue paper, the center filled with confetti, while the gentlemen received paper hats. The hostess was assisted in receiving by her guest of honor and her daughter.

—July is proving a Wonderful Business Month, far eclipsing the same month of a year ago

—but then there is a good cause for a great increase in sales. The Bullock's of 1913 is a far more capable and efficient organization than the Bullock's of 1912.

—There are reasons and reasons, in stocks, varieties, values and service, why hundreds more customers should find it to their advantage to make Bullock's their store.

And they are—that's why business is growing so fast. Simple, isn't it? The whole policy of this Bullock organization is simple.

Just "the Satisfaction of Every Customer"

—The more you think of it, the more that means. A good, big slogan, for a big, good store. That's what we're striving to make of Bullock's, with emphasis on the "GOOD."

THE home of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Stone, No. 1637 Spruce street, was the scene Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, of an interesting wedding, when their only daughter, Miss Edna Stone, became the bride of Whitford George Kelly of San Francisco. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles Pease, pastor of the Oneonta Congregational Church, an old friend of the family, and the wedding music was played by Miss Marie Bardill who also played softly during the ceremony.

The bride, attired in a white messaline gown with an overdress of dewdrop lace trimmed in pearls and chiffon and carrying a shower bouquet of white sweet peas, lilies of the valley and maidenhair fern, wore a tulle veil caught into cap effect, with lilies of the valley. She was attended by the groom's two sisters of San Mateo, Miss Freda Kelly and Miss Edith Kelly, as maids of honor. Miss Freda was gowned in a gray chiffon over pink messaline trimmed in gold lace, while Miss Edith wore a pink charmeuse with pearl trimmings, each carrying a shower bouquet of pink sweet peas. Herbert Carrasco of San Francisco stood with the groom and other members of the bridal party were the brother of the bride, Raymond Stone and Murray Elton of Long Beach, while the bride was supported by her father who gave her into the keeping of the groom. Her traveling gown was a tailor-made affair of champagne granite cloth, with hat and gloves to match.

In decorating for the wedding a pink and white color scheme had been carried out by the use of a profusion of pink and white carnations, Shasta daisies, huge bows of tulle and garlands of asparagus Plumosus. The service was read in the inglenook in the living-room, beneath a beautiful wedding bell made of white carnations and bows and long streamers of white tulle. In the dining-room, where refreshments were served following the service, a shower bouquet of pink and white carnations centered the table, and the refreshments were carried out in the same color scheme.

Mr. and Mrs. Kelly left immediately for a wedding trip through the North and will be at home after August 15, in Berkeley. The bride is a graduate of the Long Beach High School, and a musician of great ability. During the period of her residence in Long Beach, she composed several fine selections, which were arranged and added to the repertoire of the Royal Italian Band. With her parents she has resided in this city for four years. The groom is a traveling auditor of the commissary department of the Southern Pacific Railway.

The hostess, who has just returned from a trip around the world brought with her all the appointments from Japan for the affair. The large round table was laid with the hand-painted Japanese doilies, while a shower bouquet of red carnations formed the centerpiec on either side of which were miniature Japanese gardens. Favors were chopsticks and hand-painted Japanese cards marked covers for Miss Clara Johnson, Miss Lillian Grant, Miss Bertha Miller, Miss Grace de Lano, Miss Jewell Boone, Miss Mary Gillies of this city, Mrs. Harry Brandell, Miss Aileen Bullis, Miss Laura Lattin, Mrs. Hattie Cain of Los Angeles, Miss June Schloss of Berkeley and the hostess. Autumn Suits —Materials are richer this season than in any previous fall. Suits of bayadere velour, charmeuse broadcloth, brocaded poplin, boucle blocks and a seemingly endless variety of novelty weaves.

—Never has the Great White Store shown such a fascinating galaxy of original and exclusive designs in July. Take, for instance, the model illustrated, one of the new combination suit coats of silk brocaded matelasse with collar and cuffs trimmed with fur, and self-color skirt of beautiful charmeuse broadcloth. There's individuality and a delightful "differentness" in every chic line of this clever garment.

—The leading shades are mahogany, Burgundy, Gobelin green, Hague blues, prune and black.

—Perfection of cut and extreme gracefulness of line distinguish the new autumn models. The artistic trimming effects denote the work of the fashion-creating genius. The highest grade of lining is used and every detail of workmanship is of a sort to delight the most critical. There's a style for every taste and figure, at prices beginning at $25.00.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

BERLIN, July 19.—The actual power of the German Reichstag is so small that scoffers have been known to refer to it as "a glorified debating society." The limitations upon the freedom of speech of the delegates are, however, so great, that it may be doubted whether this term is appropriate. For expressions which would not even excite comment in an American Legislature speakers are admonished by the president of the Reichstag, and for expressions slightly more daring there is a formal call to order. The third call to order forfeits to the offender the right to the floor.

Every session of the Reichstag brings amusing examples of this. At a recent session the Social Democrat Peus was speaking. "The Kaiser," he said, "caused to be issued yesterday a decree which is couched in a more moderate tone than was the case in former times." Dr. Kaempf, president of the Reichstag, interrupted him thus:

"I beg you to cease using such expressions. You may not say that the Emperor has become more moderate. That gives occasion for the contrast between moderate and immoderate."

Scheidemann, another Socialist, was speaking of the armanent bill. "There is," he said, "no more shameless falsehood than the imputation that the French armament bill was the cause of the German bill being submitted."

"I trust you do not refer to members of this house with your remark about shameless falsehoods," said President Kaempf.

"I had the Spanish Parliament in mind when I spoke," said Scheidemann gravely.

A burst of laughter from all parts of the house followed, but Kaempf did not join in it. He listened while Scheidemann finished his speech, and then, a half hour after his former remark, said solemnly:

"You said that you had the Spanish Parliament in mind when you spoke of shameless falsehoods. The remark, however, might be construed as referring to the Reichstag. I call you to order."

A former president of the Prussian Diet once called to order a delegate who had asserted that war "is a reproach upon God." Such an expression, said the president, was an insult to Germany's great Emperor-warriors, and particularly to William I.

MEMORABLE SESSION.

Before the Reichstag adjourned on June 30 President Kaempf said that the day's session would live as one of the most memorable in its history. His words did not exaggerate the importance of the work done by the House on that day, for this included the bill increasing the peace strength of the army by 136,000 men, as well as the financial bills rendered necessary by it. These latter include two classes of bills, one for meeting the expenses to be incurred in organizing the new forces, building forts, barracks and other extraordinary purposes; the other for defraying the yearly expenses of the increased military footing. The first class of taxes, which are to bring in at least $240,000,000, consists of a direct tax on property and incomes, and it will be distributed over three years. Both taxes are on graduated scales, under which the largest fortunes pay $15 per thousand, and the largest incomes (those of $120,000 or more,) pay $8 per hundred. Foreigners resident in Germany must pay on the same scale as Germans.

The permanent taxes consist of a tax on the yearly increase in wealth from all sources, certain stamp taxes hitherto belonging to the States, an increase of the existing inheritance taxes and the appropriation by the Imperial government of intestate estates where there are no near heirs. A part of the revenue also will be obtained by retaining the sugar tax at its present level, instead of reducing it by 40 per cent., as a resolution of the Reichstag some four years ago demanded.

The total amount expected from this class of taxes is about $50,000,000. An interesting feature of the tax on increases of wealth is that it includes inheritances of children from the estates of their parents. Thus the inheritance tax, whose rejection by the Reichstag in 1909 caused the resignation of Prince Bulow, has now been adopted in an indirect way.

ROYALTY HORSEWHIPPED.

A princess and two princes of the house of Isenburg, belonging to the highest German nobility, were horsewhipped recently by an angry carter whose horses their automobile had alarmed. Prince Alphons, Princess Antoinette and Prince Victor von Isenburg were motoring to Altenburg, where they were to visit the Duke of Altenburg, head of another formerly sovereign house of the empire, when they encountered a farmer with a load of wood. His horse shied before the automobile and upset the load in the ditch. The driver lashed out with his whip at the princess and the princes as they rolled by, leaving angry weals on the faces of all three. He now faces trial at Gera for his misdeed, which a century ago would have been almost high treason.

OFFICERS SAVE PRIVATE.

Bavarian army officers at Wurzburg have shown commendable self-sacrifice in an effort to save the life of Hermann Frankfurter, a private in the Eleventh Bavarian Field Artillery Regiment. Frankfurter's blood became affected, and the transfusion of blood from a healthy person was recognized as the only way of saving his life. Seventeen officers of the regiment, ranging from major down to lieutenant, volunteered to supply the blood, and Lieut. Dittmar was selected as the first to volunteer. The transfusion was successful and Private Frankfurter is now recovering.

CHINA ON BRINK OF REVOLUTION.

RIVERS OF BLOOD MAY FLOW BEFORE PEACE COMES.

Seccession Movement Gains Strength in Southern Provinces and Enemies of Yuan Shih Kai Are Determined to Displace Him as President of New Republic.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PEKING, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The American and European colony here admits that the political situation today in China is very grave. The southern provinces are about to secede, but even now it is clear, in spite of all the ominous signs of trouble, that if Yuan Shih Kai is able to preserve himself from the hand of the assassin he will ultimately win; although China may yet have to go through rivers of blood before peace will be attained.

No matter what the issue may be, the Quomingtang, the enemies of Yuan, seem still determined not to give way. As they put it, "Money, time, energy, life—all will be freely given up to ensure the safety of the fatherland."

No matter how able they are as individual members of the Quomingtang—the abilities in certain directions of Sun Yat Sen, Hwang Hsing and others cannot be questioned—their absolute incapacity for efficient constructive work is more and more seen. They have undobutedly lost their balance. They cannot, or will not, work themselves for the establishment of a permanent government, and will not allow Yuan Shih Kai and his party, who at least have saved the country from irrevocable ruin since the revolution, to deal with the situation in the provinces. In their tactics at Peking, and in their agitations against Yuan in most of the provinces, the Quomingtang, presumably unknowingly, are making more speedily for foreign intervention or for a long period of civil war than any other cause at the moment.

"First," said one of their number a day or two ago, "we wanted the Manchus to go because they were of no use to China. Now Yuan must go, because he has shown that his policy is not good for the country."

This was from a frock-coated, queueless boy who had studied in America and is a well-enough educated fellow, but devoid absolutely of official experience in his own country, and whose knowledge of the history of China and her needs at the present time is as slender as his knowledge of the needs of the Congo. He returned from America quite out of focus with the events of the times in China.

It is certain, however—and this must be emphasized—that at Peking and in the Yangtse Valley (the main danger zone) there is an increasing feeling among the people that a climax must soon be reached. Precisely what that climax will be it is not possible for any one to say—not even Yuan Shih Kai probably—and to divine his strategic moves from day to day is impossible to the foreigner, but the culminating point to the struggle for political mastery is approaching. The Chinese press is full of foreboding of evil, and the section that is under the influence of the Quomingtang advocates extreme measures to put an end to Yuan's power. In many quarters it is felt that the general situation can only be straightened out by war.

At a point some five hours' run down the river on the border of Hupeh, Kiangsi and Anhuei, there are no less than 15,000 northern troops, and trains are conveying thousands more from Paotingfu and Honan.

WOOD PRAISES COLLEGIANS.

Chief of Staff Says University Men Have the Makings of Excellent Soldiers.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 19.—College men are showing the greatest enthusiasm for military life and have the making of excellent soldiers, in the opinion of Maj.-Gen. Leonard Wood, just returned from the maneuver camp at Gettysburg. He reported to this effect today to Secretary Garrison, commending the progress being made by the students.

Owing to the lack of time in the initial stages it was not possible to secure a large attendance of the collegians, but there are now 175 in camp training with the regular soldiers and receiving special lectures in military science from half a dozen war college officers.

The students' enthusiasm, it is predicted, and their glowing reports will induce many of their college mates to participate in the encampment next year.

Similar reports have been received by the War Department from the Presidio at Monterey. A number of western college students are in camp there with the regulars during the school vacation.

MILITANT SUFFRAGETTES DEFY CAT AND MOUSE ACT.

It's a Case of in Jail and Out Again With British Government in Their Efforts to Restrain Wild Women Who Have Committed Outrages Without Number in England and Expect to Go Scot Free.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The world at large has not yet realized the extraordinary straits to which the British government has been reduced in handling the militant suffragettes. People may have heard vaguely that, by a measuhe that was rushed in a panic through the House of Commons in a single night, these vocal and insurgent women were handed over to the jail authorities to be dealt with on "cat and mouse" principles; but precisely how these cat and mouse tactics are applied, politicians and newspapers alike have preserved an amazing amount of mystery and silence. This reticence is the mose bewildering when one realizes how excited social reformers became at one period about the evils of the ticket-of-leave system on which this new and indefinitely prolonged game of cat and mouse is admittedly based.

The "cat and mouse" law is, of course, not known to the world of politicians, jailers and policemen by that nice and harmless domestic title. It is described in all official documents as the "Prisoners' Temporary Discharge for Ill Health Act." "And that title is all of one piece with the habitual hypocrisy with which the British government treats women with genuine political ambitions," said a prominent official of the Women's Social and Political Union at the suffragette's headquarters in London. Its aim, in brief, is to secure punishment for the militant women offenders who go on hunger strike directly they are jailed. The government will not let these fanatics die on their hands. They fear suffragettes would parade their corpses and their deeds as those of political martyrs who gave up their lives gladly for the cause of "votes for women," so, directly there is a danger that any suffragette will die of starvation in a British jail, she is released.

WATCHED LIKE A MOUSE.

But, under the new law, she is only a human mouse. By aid of this new act the government lurks in the shadows arrayed with all the powers of a gigantic cat, and, directly that suffragette has been nursed back to health by, and at the expense of, her friends, she is promptly re-arrested. And so the game of in-and-out goes on. Only the days that she spends actually in jail are counted in mitigation of her sentence. And she must serve every day of the period to which she has been condemned for incarceration even if the task occupies five, ten, fifteen or fifty years.

The militants, of course, assert that the object of this panic legislation was to break the spirits of their most dauntless leaders and crusaders. The plain truth was that the poor British government was in a tight fix. They were charged with the duty of seeing that the laws of the land were obeyed. They were faced with the unpleasant truth that these militants slipped through the bars of the jail by the aid of self-starvation almost as quickly as they were jailed, so, in despair, they tried playing "cat and mouse" with these irrepressible women. And this game of letting them go free for a little while and then pouncing on them again has been a miserable failure. It has not made militancy decrease one jot. It has won sympathy for the suffragettes in many curious and unexpected directions.

LILIAN LENTON'S CASE.

Take the case of Lilian Lenton as an instance. Details have just come to hand with regard to a most dramatic escape of this well known militant. She was, it seems, released under the cat and mouse act and now she has just evaded a whole cordon of ten detective officers who were watching the house where she was staying near Leeds. It is quite certain that she walked boldly out of the house, despite her weak condition, in the guise of a grocer's boy and nobody was a penny the wiser till she had vanished, so cleverly was the plot carried out.

Her escape was thus contrived: By a subterfuge a grocer's van was commandeered, along with a boy to drive it. This drove up a back street some distance away from the house, and a young woman dressed up as a grocer's boy got in. The van was then driven up to the house. The real boy shouted out groceries. The young woman dressed up as a grocer's boy walked into the house with a basket on her arm, presumably containing the household groceries. Shortly afterwards a boy, who appeared to be the same, but who was in reality the suffragette, came out, followed shortly afterwards by another boy. The van then drove off and met a waiting taxicab a mile and a half away towards Harrogate. One of the "grocer's boys" then got into the taxicab and was driven off at all speed to Harrogate, where the party alighted. This party included Miss Lenton who had been only released from jail four days previously while awaiting her trial at Leeds Assizes on a charge of attempting arson. She had fasted seven days, and when released was taken to the house of a local public official whose wife sympathizes with the cause. Both were out during the day, and on their return, found that Miss Lenton had disappeared. The official, of course, denies that he was purposely absent during the execution of the plot, but there is no doubt the British public, as a body, do not like "Cat and Mouse," and are always ready to side with the weakest section—the mice.

NUMBER OF MICE.

"At the present moment," explained one of the most prominent militant suffragettes, "there are quite a large number of mice, of women suffrage prisoners in England who have been discharged temporarily under this act. Many others beside Miss Lenton have escaped from the houses which were sheltering them during the brief respite given them by the authorities, and this always in spite of careful watching of the house by detectives. Therefore we hold that in these cases the act has certainly been an ignominious failure. In the case of Mrs. Pankhurst, however, the full horrors of the possibilities of this monstrous piece of legislation are revealed. She has not attempted to escape. She dares the government to do their worst with her.

"No doubt they would be very glad if she would escape. After Mrs. Pankhurst's trial and sentence of three years' penal servitude (for an offense less heinous than that for which Sir Edward Carson and fiery politicians from Ulster who oppose home rule are allowed to go scot free), he was taken to Holloway jail. There she entered upon the only form of protest available—namely, the hunger-strike. The theory of this was, of course, 'You must either do me justice or kill me.' After a little more than a week's strike, during the whole of which time Mrs. Pankhurst was tempted by every dainty and delicacy which could be imagined, she, still unyielding, was obliged to be released because another day's imprisonment would have endangered her life. She was then given a license and allowed a certain time to recover, on the expiration of which she was supposed to return. When that day arrived she was still too ill to get out of bed. Even the jail doctor who came with Detective Superintendent Quinn of Scotland Yard to fetch her back to jail was obliged to admit this.

"She was then removed to Woking and there remained for another short period in the house of Dr. Ethel Smyth, the famous musical composer of 'The Wreckers,' under close police surveillance the whole time. One day she decided to make an attempt to put in an appearance at a suffrage meeting, and very weak, supported by friends and nurse, she endeavored to enter the automobile which came to fetch her. She was immediately seized by the police surrounding the house and taken straight up to Lon-

WOMEN TRICK LLOYD GEORGE.

Wife and Two Friends Make Up as Militants.

Indian Prince May Marry an American Girl.

English Diplomats Opposed to the Innovation.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Lloyd George, somewhat most aptly termed "the most famous Minister in Europe"—escaped the other day from the turmoil of London and politics for a quiet week end at the country house of Monds, the rich Jews, who contribute so generously to the Liberal party funds. The Chancellor of the Exchequer had as a fellow guest Sir Rufus Isaacs, the Attorney-General. By general consent all the party avoided any mention of wireless matters and concentrated themselves on golf.

Lloyd George and Isaacs, followed by three detectives, played several keen rounds of golf. The detectives had strict instructions to let neither of the ministers out of their sight for fear of suffragette outrages. Although an advocate of the vote for women, Lloyd George, in common with other members of the Cabinet, has to be guarded day and night from possible attempts to injure him on the part of militant women. The strain of being perpetually dogged by detectives and the real danger in which they live has made more than one member of the British government sigh for a less exalted position.

THREE WOMEN APPROACH.

At a particularly deserted part of the golf course Lloyd George and Isaacs noticed three women walking toward them. Both ministers turned to warn the detectives, but to their amazement not one of the officers was in sight. As the three women came nearer it was evident from their characteristic clothes that they were suffragettes. Determined to make the best of a bad job, Lloyd George and Isaacs stood still and awaited the expected attack. The caddies grouped themselves around as a sort of impromptu bodyguard.

Marching straight up to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, one of the women brandished a suffragette flag near his face. Lloyd George grew very pale and grasped his driver as if preparing to ward off a blow or avert what politicians today dread most of all—the hurling of vitriol or other corrosive fluid.

Just as the situation seemed critical all three suffragettes burst out laughing. In another second the thick, ugly veils were torn from their masculine headgear, and the two golfers were confronted by Mrs. Lloyd George, Lady Isaacs and Lady Mond.

The wives of the famous Cabinet Ministers had persuaded their hostess to secure three typical militant suffragette outfits. They had then prevailed upon the detectives to slip into some thick undergrowth near by. From this cover, and quite effectively disguised, the two wives descended upon their unprotected husbands.

It was generally voted to be an excellent week-end diversion, except by Lloyd George, who entirely failed to see the joke. The detectives had an unpleasant interview with the Chancellor, and Mrs. Lloyd George is not likely to repeat the experiment, which so far has been kept secret by the few people who composed the select house party.

DICTUM OF SHOPPING.

"One shops in America, bargains in the East, and buys in London."

That is the dictum of a wealthy and much-traveled woman who has recently been describing for the benefit of the public the differences between London and the rest of the world.

"You can shop for a whole day in New York," she says, "and never spend a penny. You look at things, you try them on, you have them sent home to try on again; you can even wear them and the next morning gaily send them back, and your money is returned. Nowhere in the world has shopping been made so easy and so combined with entertainment as in America. Many a New York woman looks upon her favorite store in the same way that an Englishman regards his club.

"In Paris, on the other hand, the storekeeper does little to attract customers. It may not be necessary. The Parisienne is a born shopper. In front of a Paris store one feels instinctively that one must buy and that if one doesn't it will be a cause for lifelong regret. But Paris stores do not consider the personal comfort of their customers.

"The solid majority of Englishwomen are systematic shoppers. They shop because they want something, not for the sheer pleasure of buying. During the last few years there has been a tremendous advance in making shopping more attractive in London. This is due in a measure to the influence of American enterprise, but with the Englishwoman shopping is still a practical business affair, not to be confounded with her amusements. In the old days one was badgered in an English store to buy a hundred things not wanted, because the one thing really wanted happened to be out of stock. Happily, this is abolished and in most important London stores the visitor can walk about freely and interestedly without being aggressively urged to buy something she has no desire to possess."

INDIAN PRINCE'S ROMANCE.

If a famous Indian Prince has his way an American girl for the first time in history will rule over an ancient Indian State.

The young Maharajah of Cooch Behar is now in London making violent love to a pretty and talented American who spends most of her time on this side of the Atlantic. Her name was frequently associated with that of a well-known American millionaire, who is now dead. The Maharajah openly declares that no one else shall share his throne, and that he will not return to his kingdom until the fair American has consented.

The British government is, perhaps, most acutely interested in this possible marriage than in any Anglo-American match that has yet occurred. Lady Curson, as American Vicereine of India, caused no particular inconvenience on account of her nationality and upbringing, but an Indian Prince, ruling his people under the control of the Viceroy, would create endless difficulties if he secured as his princess or maharanee a go-ahead American girl. Questions of caste and religion would at once arise within the State itself. British officials in India also view with apprehension innovations which might follow upon the arrival of an American Maharanee not blessed with any inherited or acquired reverence for the British throne and customs. Great and rich as the ruling potentates of India are, they are still compelled to observe that strict etiquette which reminds their own subjects that they only keep their territory by the indulgence of the king-emperor. It is thought that an American girl is hardly likely to fill this bill.

The Maharajah of Cooch Behar, who is giving so many worthy officials sleepless nights over his matrimonial intentions, is only 27 years old. He was educated in England, mixing with the nobility at school at Eton and afterwards going to Oxford University. He succeeded his father, famous the world over as a great polo player and supporter, two years ago. He is one of the handsomest Indian princes, speaks English perfectly, and is fair-skinned compared with most of his fellow-countrymen. In habits and thought he is almost more European than Indian, and he does not see why the Maharanee of Cooch Behar should not be an American.

The particular American in view has not yet agreed to the proposition. If she gives her consent the impetuous Maharajah will allow neither the British government nor all the religions of ancient India to prevent him from placing her on the throne of Cooch Behar.

Married Baron Who Supplanted Bull Fighter in Spanish Maid's Affections Is Trussed Like a Fowl and Delivered Unconscious to His Wife.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MADRID, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] One of the most henpecked men in sunny Spain today is a Frenchman who styles himself the Baron Souche de la Deboussiere. A fortnight ago he was a popular hero. Today he is the laughing-stock of the fashionable quarter and a butt for all the coarse jokes of the multitude.

When one of Barcelona's famous bullfighters failed to give an enraged bull his quietus, and the huge audience waited to see the toreador gored to death, Baron de la Deboussiere quietly drew a revolver and shot the animal dead.

Pepita Palmaso, the toreador's fiancee, was one of the first to thank the Baron for his presence of mind and marksmahship. Had matters between Pepita and the Baron gone no farther the Baron would still be high upon the pinnacle of fame.

But Pepita is beautiful and the Baron has a charming manner, and it was not long before the toreador began to wish that the Baron had never been at the bull fight. Three days ago the toreador made a startling discovery—the Baron was married, and, what was more, the Baroness was in Barcelona.

The rest was easy. Having, by means of a fictitious telegram, persuaded Pepita that he had to go away on urgent business, the toreador hid himself for two hours in the premises of a neighboring druggist. After a while the Baron was seen to enter Pepita's house, and when sufficient time to allow the Baron to pay his respects had elapsed, the toreador, accompanied by two matadors, entered the house through a side window.

Noiselessly approaching Pepita's boudoir the trio were able to see the Baron, with a rose in his mouth, sitting at Pepita's feet strumming on a guitar. The sight of the rose was enough for the toreador. Three hours before he had given it to Pepita, and now she had bestowed it upon the Baron as a token of her affection for him.

With one bound the toreador was upon the Baron, who, before he could recover from his surprise, was trussed like a fowl by the aggravated lover and the matadors, and sewed in a sack. With many a bump the Baron was carried out of the room and as he was thrown into a closed carriage Pepita swooned.

Two hours later the Baroness de la Deboussiere was astonished to find a large canvas package addressed to her at her house. Servants were instructed to open the package, and when the inner packing had been torn away everybody was astounded to see what appeared to be the gagged and bound corpse of the Baron.

Speedily summoned doctors pronounced the Baron to be under the influence of chloroform. He was ordered to bed and upon his coat being removed a placard was noticed upon his back. Unable to read Spanish, the Baroness's suspicions were excited by the doctors trying to keep the card from coming under her notice, and despite their protests she impounded it.

Later, from a maidservant, she learned that the legend ran:

"This is your husband. If you don't want to lose him watch him more closely. He is not safe where other men's wives and sweethearts are concerned."

PARLIAMENT'S BIG PROBLEM.

Education Question Under Home Rule Must Be Solved By New Irish Body.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DUBLIN, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The education position under home rule has already commenced to agitate the minds of public men in Ireland. It is regarded as the first big problem which the Irish Parliament will be called upon to tackle, and the general feeling is that it is the one subject which will divide the present parliamentary followers of John Redmond and place them in different camps.

Amateur Cabinet builders are already busy looking out for a Minister of Education. As the Gaelic League is now an important factor in the educational life of Ireland there is no doubt that that body will have much to say in the appointment of an Education Minister and there is very little doubt that their own president, Dr. Douglas Hyde, will be their nominee.

Dr. Hyde has steered clear of the controversial field of politics, but he is a scholar of superior attainments and recognised throughout Europe as an educationalist of broad views. He has been described as the most erudite man in the British Isles, and, being a Protestant, could not be accused of any special leanings towards the Catholic hierarchy, whose influence will surely be felt in filling so important an office. It is believed that Dr. Hyde will be first favorite for the

MONKS STRIKE FOR TROUSERS

Also Demand Better Rations and More Leisure.

Refuse to Celebrate Mass Until Granted Relief.

Russian Monastery Dwellers in an Open Revolt.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ST. PETERSBURG, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The good monks of St. Michel, near Maikop, in the Caucasus, are out on strike.

They demand more food, more leisure and a supply of trousers. They are determined to enforce their rights, and so long as justice is denied them services are not held at the monastery, the bells are silent, the cloisters dark and forsaken.

The trouble has arisen owing to the possession of "fixed ideas" by Father Ambrosio, who is the head of the monastery. His ideas don't stop at the customary fulfilment of the monk's obligations to be devout, chaste and temperate; he has an impression that devotions are the best substitute for daily bread. And so the worthy father lengthened the prayers and shortened the rations.

In the intervals between ever-increasing devotions and ever-decreasing meals the monks were called upon to perform hard work in the fields. This was found to be very trying, because the Russian monastery dweller generally possesses a human leaning towards an abundance of food and drink, and an extended leisure in which to play cards. Given these he occasionally contrives to find a little time for the devotions that make him a complete monk.

But a denial even worse than those already indicated was inflicted upon the long-suffering monks of St. Michel. The supreme shock came when Father Ambrosio refused to supply trousers to the dwellers within the monastery walls, the dictator ruling that those articles of apparel were a luxury.

This latest curtailment caused much discomfort and the cold-weather parades were a source of considerable unpleasantness.

The limitations were endured for a month or so, but a particularly cold day arrived and the strike weapon was resorted to. While working, in undignified circumstances, in a field, the brethren of St. Michel "downed tools" to a man.

The maneuver was skilfully planned, for, just at that time, a large number of pilgrims had come to the district and monastic services in the chapel at St. Michel's Convent were greatly in demand.

The strike was a complete one and was keenly felt by those at whom it was aimed. The monastery authorities—who, it is said, believe in frugality and economy for others—are still holding out in the matter of trousers.

As for the monks, they get plenty of food from sorrowing friends these days. They go about and arouse indignation, sympathy, and interest at the protest meetings, which they address.

The amazing visit of an alleged angel to Helena Gorskaia, an octogenerian, as she lay in bed a few nights ago, has led to a number of youths being sent to the Central Criminal Court of Saratoff for trial.

This woman had been asleep for about half an hour when she was awakened by the "angel," who imparted to her the fact that unless she handed him all the money she possessed her name would be placed on the list of starters for the nether regions. Although terribly scared, the woman tried to get the "angel" to change his mind by offering half of her hoard, but he was obdurate.

"The whole or Hades!" he said.

"But," quavered the old woman, whose suspicions were beginning to be aroused, "how can you prove that you have been sent to me?"

"Easily enough, beldame. I will reveal what awaits you when you claim your halo."

At this juncture a loud knocking in an adjacent room interposed to prevent the "angel" giving the glimpse into the future.

"The devil!" cried the "angel." "He watches your struggles with your conscience and now applauds in the belief that your money is dearer to you than paradise. Hand me the money quickly or—you are lost!"

"Show me what my lot in heaven will be," insisted Helena.

"Rise from your couch; take a hand mirror, gaze in it, turn round six times, and then peer again into the glass."

The old woman obeyed, and was in the midst of the "angelically" imposed evolutions when the light went out. When she recovered from her surprise and an attack of vertigo, and was able to light the lamp, she found that the "angel" and a stocking which contained her savings had vanished.

A visit to the priest next day led to the police being informed, and inquiries proved that some pupils at a local school had formed a "union of blackbirds" and had organized a series of robberies. Their leader, who impersonated the "angel," was hidden in the bedroom by Helena Gorskaia's grandson, and this is how it comes about that the "union of blackbirds" are to stand their trial.

MAFIA MURDERS FAMILY.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PALERMO, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A whole family has been massacred by agents of the dreaded Mafia Society at Favara, in the province of Girgenti, Sicily.

The victims are Salvatore Cimino, 51; his wife, Bernada Florenza Cimino, 46, and their two children, Carmela and Rosa, aged 9 and 7, respectively.

While the family was returning home from the country four bandits wearing masks shot at the mother, who died instantly. The father, who was unarmed, tried to escape, but he was pursued by the bandits and killed.

Then the ruffians returned to the spot where the woman was lying, and found the two girls prostrated on their mother's corpse, crying bitterly and kissing her face and hands.

Seeing the bandits approach, the two orphans knelt down and, with uplifted hands, implored mercy, but even the lives of these little girls were not spared.

The tragedy was witnessed by some persons at work in a field close by, but they were unable to go to the rescue of the Ciminos, as none of them were provided with firearms.

SUE DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A lawsuit is to be brought against Consuelo Vanderbilt's husband, the Duke of Marlborough, for a debt incurred by the fifth Duke, George, at the beginning of the last century.

It appears that somewhere about 1818 the then Duke borrowed the sum of $2100 from a M. Alexandre Becart, "gentleman of the city of Paris, in the kingdom of France." While his other creditors were paid off under an arrangement which was made with regard to the estates, M. Becart, it is alleged, never got his money back. And now a descendant of the creditor intends bringing a claim against the present Duke of Marlborough for $12,000, to which total the loan, with nearly half a century's interest, now amounts.

The action is based on Article 14 of the Civil Code, which runs: "A foreigner, even if not resident in France, can be cited before the French tribunals for obligations contracted by him in a foreign country to French people." There is, however, a clause in the deed of record interdicting M. Becart or or his executors from bringing or continuing any action against the Duke or the Duke's executors or administrators for any money owed him by the Duke, or any interest which was due or which should become due. This clause, however, according to M. Becart's descendant, should be considered as non-existent, being contrary in France, he alleges, to public rule.

So in a short time the Duke of Marlborough will receive, through diplomatic channels, the writ of the heir of Alexandre Becart.

DOSES FREAK AT POKER.

Body of Petrified Patagonian Thousands of Years Old Found in Paris Auction-room.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] No less a freak than an actual petrified man was sold the other day in Paris. This stone worthy was a Patagonian and some thousands of years old. His body was discovered in 1899 in the mouth of the River Tucapel by two Chilian fishermen, and it is thought it must have been turned to stone by the action of water surcharged with carbonate of chalk. Some scientists, however, disagree with this, and avow that nothing short of a volcanic eruption, comparable to the outbreak at Pele, in Martinique, could have effected the extraordinary metamorphosis.

Shortly after the discovery an American heard of it and bought the strange object from its finders. The American immediately took it off with him to Lima, where he exhibited it in a music hall. The petrified man was a great success; in fact, as the Paris Matin remarks, he "petrified" the audiences. The consequence was that his American owner decided on conquering fresh worlds, and set off with his stony companion to Paris.

On the way across the Atlantic the American unfortunately indulged in poker and baccarat to such an extent that he landed penniless in France. "One man in his time plays many parts." The Patagonian had more than his due share of parts, for the result of his patron's impecuniosity was that he was put into pawn. The petrified man was given as warranty for the return of a few paltry francs! At least, that is what the Matin says. And now, after thirteen years, in which nothing has been heard of the American, the petrified Patagonian has gone to the auction-room!

DRINK ABUSE IN ITALY.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ROME, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The recent sensational increase in direct crime and insanity due to the abuse of intoxicating drink in Italy has roused the attention of both Chamber and Senate. A bill for checking the evil is now being hurried through, leaving it to the new Parliament, which will shortly be elected under the recent universal male suffrage law, to devise more drastic measures.

Till a few years ago the Italians ranked high among the most temperate peoples in Europe, but with the growth of industrialism and social luxury an enormous development has been witnessed of the American bar system. The pronounced tendency to ape in divers ways the habits and customs of English people has made not only "five o'clock tea," but whisky drinking fashionable.

Italy used to be famous for its fine pure wines, whereas nowadays, except in certain out-of-the-way country districts, it is almost impossible to meet with unadulterated qualities.

The Italian government proposes to regulate the output of alcohol. A main feature of the reform will be the prohibition to serve drink to children and drunkards and the limitation of saloons for the sale of intoxicants to two for every 500 inhabitants in the smaller towns, and one for every 500 citizens in the larger centers.

The latest figures show one liquor saloon for every 159 inhabitants.

BOOM TO IRISH TRADE.

Goods Are Now Being Sent Direct to New York from the Emerald Isle.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DUBLIN, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Unable to wait for the protection and freedom which a Home Rule Parliament implies, Irish manufacturers have now made up their minds to get rid of one serious drawback to Irish trade with the United States.

Formerly by express enactment, and latterly by a cunning system of restrictions, Ireland has been denied the right to trade directly with several important foreign countries. Thus America, France, Spain, the West Indies and the British colonies have always furnished a good and keen market for Irish goods, but those goods have had to pass through London, Liverpool, Bristol, or some other English port. This process has robbed Ireland cruelly, for it has created and maintained the middleman.

Nevertheless, until a day or two ago it was accepted by the average Irishman as a kind of inalienable right that Ireland should carry on her trade with the rest of the world through England. Happily a change has now come over the temper of most Irishmen who live by merchandise, and two leading manufacturers have within the last month chartered steamers for themselves and have loaded them in the Liffey and sent them direct to New York with cargoes of goods all of which can claim Ireland as the home of their origin. This simple act indicates a bolder outlook on the part of the Irish trader and it will bear good fruit.

URGES JAPANESE TO BE PATIENT.

Editor Demands Abandonment of Ancestor Worship.

Says a Cosmopolitan Faith Is Greatest Need.

Envoy Condemns Their Lack of Adaptibility.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

TOKIO, July 19.—The negotiations between the United States and Japan over the California land bill stirred up in Japan widespread discussion by publicists and preachers of the broad subject of the future of Japan in her relations with the countries of the West.

This discussion showed an earnest effort to seek the causes of the discrimination against Japanese in California and in other places, including Canada and Australia. Some conservative newspapers criticised what they claimed to be the practice of the Japanese authorities in California in encouraging the registration of children born of Japanese parents as future subjects of the Japanese empire, instead of allowing them to become, as they would, citizens of the United States.

Considerable publicity is given here to an article by Rev. Danjo Ebina, a Christian pastor and editor-in-chief of the Shinjin Magazine. The clergyman argued that the question between Japan and the United States was not one that would end with those two countries, but one that would develop eventually between Japan and Canada, between Japan and the countries of South America—indeed, anywhere where the Japanese might flourish. He declared that the great cause of Japanese isolation was the insistence upon ancestor-worship, and contended that the great solution of the whole question was a patient campaign to obtain the right of naturalization in America.

DR. EBINA'S VIEW.

"Must the Japanese live everywhere as sojourners," Dr. Ebina asked, "live everywhere as strangers and foreigners, everywhere except where they have conquered? The development of our race demands that this should not be so."

The abandonment of ancestor-worship and the adoption of a cosmopolitan faith were needed to enable the Japanese to assimilate abroad and thus open up a new universe for the Japanese race throughout the world.

Unity of thought between East and West is pleaded for in the first annual report of the Association Concordia of Japan, which includes some of the leading men of the empire in educational, scientific and business fields. The association declares that, although in its more superficial aspects the intercourse between the East and the West is growing increasingly intimate and their scientific interests becoming wider there is still a sad failure on each side to appreciate the deeper things of the spirit which underlie the life of the other. Without any doubt the removal of causes of irritation as regards political and commercial affairs is an imperative duty, but the creation of a reciprocal sympathy is equally urgent if Japan and the United States would lay secure foundations for international peace and good will.

The report contends that henceforth no nation can maintain its life apart from the onward movement of the world's thought, and that the world's civilization will hereafter flow in one strong current.

IMMIGRATION PROBLEM.

Inasmuch as such problems as immigration and colonization complicate relations and endanger the peace and progress of the world by unduly emphasizing national and racial difference, the association holds that it is imperative to foster mutual sympathy and a sense of common interest. It will strive therefore to promote a deeper sympathy and respect between the two great civilizations.

This work will take the practical form of the publication of a review, with the object of guiding the current thought, the establishment of lecture courses, the interchange of visits of distinguished scholars representing the best thought of the East and the West, and finally of international congresses. The association also will co-operate with various international bodies of similar kind in facilitating investigations and in accelerating friendly intercourse among nations.

Soroku Ebara, who was sent to California by the governmental party of Japan, sent home a report in which he declares that despite numerous strong points in favor of the Japanese abroad, they still retain their peculiar traits which prevent them from associating with people among whom they live. He strongly urges the Japanese to pay more heed to this point, as otherwise he fears for the future of Japanese in foreign lands.

RESPECTED IN HAWAII.

The Japanese, he asserts, enjoy high repute in labor circles in Hawaii and give satisfaction to their employers in general, but even in Hawaii some signs are already visible of the exclusion of the Japanese in the future. For instance, the land owners in Hawaii every year send over for laborers from Portugal and Spain and give them higher wages than the Japanese.

Mr. Ebara cites the report of the Hawaiian Chamber of Commerce, in which it is alleged that the Japanese do not care to fraternize with the Hawaiians and cling too much to their own customs and habits. The report claims that the Japanese settlers do not take any interest in the welfare of Hawaii, and it would be better for Hawaii to replace them by Spaniards, Portuguese and Filipinos.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 19.—Miss Ines Milholland, the New York suffragist, was married Tuesday in this city to Eugene Boissevain, a wealthy Dutchman, whose home is in Amsterdam.

The wedding ceremony was performed in a registry office in the presence of only the necessary legal witnesses.

The parents of Mrs. Boissevain are in Holland and she and the bridegroom will start here Thursday to join them and ask their blessings. It had been intended to keep the wedding secret for some time, but it leaked out through some Dutch friends.

Mrs. Boissevain will remain constant to her old friends of the suffrage movement. She said:

"Tell them I shall not give up my suffrage activities."

Credits Her Success to Inexperience.

Marjorie Patterson,

Grand niece of Jerome Bonaparte's wife, who declares that it is comparatively easy for American girls with dramatic ambition to succeed in London. She is a Baltimore girl, and went to Great Britain when 17 years old, with no previous stage experience, and yet achieved brilliant successes on the stage in very short time.

AMERICAN PRINCESS WINS LONDON STAGE LAURELS.

LONDON, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "There is an excellent opening for American girls with dramatic ambitions here in London."

Thus says Marjorie Patterson of Baltimore, who came to England without a single letter of introduction or the smallest scrap of influence, but who soon found that, given the right kind of training, the British theater managers were always open to consider the merits of newcomers, and to afford smart American girls a chance of showing what they could do. What has been the result?

"Within the last three years and three months," says Marjorie Patterson, who is making herself a big favorite in a large number of English cities, "I have played no fewer than thirty-six parts. These included appearances with Sir Charles Wyndham, Yvette Guilbert, Sir Herbert Tree, Robert Loraine, F. R. Benson and other well-known English stars, and at such admirable dramatic celebrations as the Shakespeare Festival at His Majesty's Theater in London and Shakespeare week at Shakespeare's birthplace, Stratford-on-Avon. I also have created new characters in new plays—notably in 'The Happy Island,' with Sir Herbert Tree, and in 'A Roman Holiday' in a Liverpool repertory production. I am therefore sure that what I have done other American girls can do with equal, or even better, chances of success.

"Think of the handicap I had when I arrived. I had not appeared in any theater in the United States. I had simply written a novel entitled 'Fortunata' and I was aged 17 and very keen. The American rag-time invasion had not then set in. American vaudeville stars were not then being snapped up in London at any salary they cared to ask from $250 to $1000 a week, but there was the same steady search going on for dramatic talent. Directly I had been trained I went boldly to managers and told them I meant business and wanted strong emotional and character parts—psychological parts.

"Perhaps the fact that I am American born, without a single stage experience in the United States to my credit, had formally elected to make a theatrical success in England, tickled their fancies. At all events, they were exceedingly kind to me, and when one could not help me, he gave me a letter of introduction to another; and to each one I held forth on the same slogan: 'there is no matter of country in the big wide world of art.' And I found them all ready to agree that work, and not nationality, was the thing that mattered on the stage.

"The British papers, too, were amused by and interested in my career. 'What assurance she has,' said some, 'to cut out the American stage and to come here without a single dramatic success.' Others were more kind. I am, you see, a great niece of Elizabeth Patterson, the famous heiress and beauty who married Jerome Bonaparte, King of Wetsphalia and brother of the First Napoleon, and these journals held forth on my descent. They also called attention to the fact that I might have been a Pretender-Princess for the throne of France had not fate ruled otherwise and had I not sought happiness here in England as a favorite of the footlights.

"Then Yvette Guilbert did me a lot of good. She wrote about me and said 'there is something very curious about Marjorie Patterson's talent and temperament, and I should not wonder if British dramatic authors did not find in her the ideal star they always declare they are eager to discover.' As a consequence, writers and managers got a new interest in me. I had no startling secret of personality or emotion, but the critics were sure that I must have one because Yvette Guilbert had discovered that in me, so they gave me unusual credit for individuality and psychological insight and passion.

"These lucky chances, happily, occur to everyone, so I now always tell my American girl friends who talk of imitating my career: 'Don't be afraid of London if you want to succeed. Come here—and work hard, and you will not regret you decided to become an actress.'"

NATAL PIONEER ON WORLD TOUR.

HAS LOST FOUR FORTUNES AND ENJOYING A FIFTH.

Noted Magnate of South Africa Arrives With His Wife in San Francisco—Has Spent Lifetime in Building Up What the Wars Have Torn Down.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Seventy years old, has lived in South Africa for fifty-three years; was married there forty-nine years ago; has five sons and five daughters, nineteen grandchildren and three great grandchildren living in British South Africa colonies, has been through five wars; has seen the country devastated and rehabilitated five times; has made and lost four fortunes, and is now clinging fast to and enjoying his fifth.

This is a brief chronology of the career of Ben Ryan, who, with his wife, arrived in San Francisco Tuesday on the Japanese liner Nippon Maru from East London, in the Natal district, South Africa.

After a tour of the United States they will go to London, where they will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary.

IS A BUILDER-UP.

Ben—he insists on not being called Benjamin—Ryan is one of the best known men in the South African colony, although he makes no professions of being a mighty hunter and warrior. For more than half a century he has been building up what wars in South Africa have been pulling down.

Fifty-three years ago, when he was 17 years old, he established the house of Ryan in the Natal district, and this Irish name is now known and respected throughout the colonies.

Through his sons, who are now carrying on the big mercantile business established by their father, the Ryan interests are scattered in five of the South African States and the community of interests is said to be up in the millions. When the reporters boarded the liner at quarantine early this morning and asked if there were any honeymooners aboard, Capt. Alfred Stevens pointed out Mr. and Mrs. Ryan and said: "There is the sweetest honeymoon couple I ever saw. They have been billing and cooing all the way across the Pacific and I never saw husband and wife more devoted than they."

WIFE BORN IN NATAL.

Mrs. Ryan, an Englishwoman, was born in Natal sixty-six years ago. They were married when he was 21 and she was 17 years old.

Pioneers of South Africa, they recount many interesting and exciting experiences of their early life in the wilds of what was then a practically unsettled continent.

Since leaving Natal they have traveled about 14,000 miles on seven different steamships. On leaving New York they will have traveled on eight vessels and on arriving in London will have traveled about 20,000 miles that they may celebrate their golden wedding anniversary in the British metropolis.

TETUAN (Morocco) July 16.—Fighting has been continuous in this vicinity for the past six days. On Friday a column of 12,000 Spanish troops met a fierce reception from the Moors. After fighting all day and burning a few of the natives huts, they returned to their original positions, having lost sixty killed and 150 wounded.

The hostile tribes are increasing in strength and activity and are not giving any rest to the 15,000 Spanish troops stationed here.

MRS. CORNWALLIS-WEST FREED.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A decree of divorce has recently been granted to Mrs. George C. Cornwallis-West, formerly Lady Randolph Spencer Churchill, a daughter of the late Leonard Jerome of New York. The decree (nisi) may be made absolute in six months.

The grounds for granting the decree were statutory desertion and misconduct. The hearing lasted only a few minutes.

No mention was made in court of the name of the woman alleged to have been co-respondent. Mr. Cornwallis-West, counsel stated, never obeyed the order of the court decreeing the restitution of conjugal rights and this constituted desertion.

Mrs. Cornwallis-West formally corroborated counsel's statement regarding her husband's non-compliance with the restitutional order. She said her husband left her on December 23, 1912, and never returned. He had written her saying he never intended to return.

An inquiry agent testified that the respondent had registered with a woman not the petitioner in a London hotel in March, registering as Capt. and Mrs. West.

Mrs. Cornwallis-West gave her brief evidence in a collected manner and in a firm voice. She was dressed in a quiet, dark blue costume and black hat and stood on the witness stand apparently unmoved by the great crowd which had been attracted to the court by the case.

Mrs. Cornwallis West after receiving the decree announced that hereafter she would be known as Lady Randolph Churchill.

REVIVAL OF GAELIC.

Irish People Are Stimulating Interest in Ancient Language of the Island.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DUBLIN, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The formation of what has become known as a Parents' League, is the latest success that has been won by the Gaelic revival movement among the Irish people. Drumcondra, a fashionable residential suburb of Dublin, is the pioneer in this new enterprise, and it is hoped to make this league popular throughout Ireland.

Mothers who are anxious to have their children brought up to become fluent Irish speakers, cultivating Irish ideals and breathing an unadulterated Irish atmosphere, are asked to support this league with all their strength. As a matter of fact, the language movement appears to be traveling too slowly in Ireland for a number of good and enthusiastic women, and these people are now setting out on a vigorous campaign in the hope of stimulating others who are not working quite so enthusiastically in the Irish-Ireland field.

The leaders of the new organization mean to wake up the mothers of the rising generation of Irish men and women to the necessity of having every child speak the language of its country. Classes for mothers are already being formed, and it is proposed to hold weekly gatherings of the children of such parents where Irish dancing, Irish games and the singing of Irish songs will be encouraged.

THIRTY APACHES FIGHT DUEL.

Brunette, Whose Honor They Defended, Hands Combatants Ammunition and Bandages Wounds.

[BY CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In the forest of Clamart, a few miles from Paris, two gangs of apaches fought a fierce duel with revolvers.

Numbering about thirty, they arrived at the forest at a fixed time, some of them coming in automobiles. Accompanying the men was a pretty brunette, stylishly dressed.

No sooner had the gangs arrived at the forest, than they took up positions and began to shoot, the pretty brunette supplying the combatants with ammunition to replace their spent cartridges.

The shooting continued until the arrival of the local police, and a fierce fight ensued between the latter and the apaches. Many were seriously wounded, and thirteen arrests were made.

The arrested apaches claim a full right to shoot one another in a duel, which, they say, involved the honor of a woman.

Militant Suffragettes.

don, to Bow-street Police Court, and thence to Holloway jail.

"Once more began her valiant protest, and after five days she was again at the point at which the authorities dare no longer keep her. Again she was released, and taken to a nursing home once more, in a still weaker condition than on the previous occasion. For several weeks she lay physically exhausted, though mentally bright and courageous, and although really quite unfit for the effort, she decided to do honor to her dead comrade, Emily Wilding Davison, who stopped the King's horse at the Derby, by driving in the funeral procession on Saturday, June 14. Immediately upon her appearance outside the entrance to the block of flats where she was staying the police seized her and took her straight off to Holloway jail. A more monstrous and revolting action than this can hardly be imagined.

"To begin with, a woman who may just manage to get into a carriage and drive slowly in a funeral procession is not necessarily as the police put it, 'just as fit' to go back to a jail cell, and most certainly Mrs. Pankhurst was not. The proof of this is that at the end of forty-eight hours she had again to be released in a still more critical state of health than formerly. Indeed, her treatment raised the whole question as to what is the object and purpose of this act. If the authorities mean to let Mrs. Pankhurst or any other women released under cat and mouse tactics, die, what is the object of not allowing her to die after the first hunger-strike instead of after a long and protracted series of struggles? If they do not mean to let them die, the cat and mouse game becomes merely a form of torture invented obviously in the hope of breaking down the women's spirits—for failing that, it achieves nothing in the long run but an added punishment of a most diabolical kind.

"Another important and sinister point about this device is that the days of recuperation do not count as part of the sentence as they do in the case of an ordinary convict on license. Again, this power of rearrest after ill-health in jail only seems to be put into operation where women fighting for their citizen rights are concerned. This was clearly shown the other day when a man named Cargill, a trawler owner of Hull, who was sentenced last February, for a series of indecent assaults on little girls, to nine months' imprisonment (a little enough sentence in all conscience,) was released about a month ago unconditionally on grounds of ill-health. At first it was thought that, of course, the Cat and Mouse act would be made to operate upon this veritable scoundrel. But, no. When the Home Secretary was subsequently questioned in the House of Commons on the matter, it came out that the release was unconditional, and that, therefore, that man is absolutely free, while Mrs. Pankhurst is to be dragged back and back until death will mercifully intervene.

"Apart from the brutality and inhumanity and injustice of the whole proceeding, there is the legal aspect, which is equally serious. In connection with this I cannot do better than quote the remarks in the debate in the British Parliament by one of the most eminent lawyers on this point. Thus, Atherly Jones, M.P., said: 'I believe that this bill is entirely contrary to the principle of our criminal administration. If there is one characteristic of criminal jurisprudence more marked than another it is the recognized established principle that punishment should be certain. It is also a recognized principle that punishment should be the result of judicial proceeding, and not a proceeding by the executive. Indeed, if there is one point of view more than any other continuously impressed upon the spirit of our criminal jurisprudence it is that there should be no interference by the executive in the punishments which are meted out to people except in the direction of mercy.

"'What does this bill do?' he asked. 'It furnishes an entirely new departure. There is no [illegible] it either in the penology of [illegible] try or the penology of [illegible] country. It proposes [illegible] prolong the punishment [illegible] is the most novel and [illegible] proposition that the Home [illegible] shall be able to [illegible] erty of the subject [illegible] pleases. . . . I regard [illegible] establishing a very [illegible] dent by giving the [illegible] which may be and [illegible] us—too often are [illegible]

[illegible] —he does not always [illegible] —then he will torture [illegible] Cat and Mouse [illegible] dies."

It is also worthy of [illegible] forcibly-worded [illegible] new act has been [illegible] Prime Minister, the Home [illegible] Secretaries, the Chief [illegible] Irish M.P.'s and the [illegible] England and Ireland [illegible] women's Reform [illegible] a strictly "non-militant" [illegible] they "enter the [illegible] protest against any [illegible] tion of the infamous Cat [illegible] act against suffragettes [illegible] their political principles [illegible]

Summer Hints to Mothers Who "Care"

It is well that mothers be advised not to over-feed the children during the hot months. No one requires as much food in summer as in winter. Feed the children the lighter and more easily digested foods. See that the milk is cool and kept away from flies. Be careful that the fruit is ripe, and if the child begins to scratch the skin, indicating too much acid in the blood, deprive it of fruit for several days.

It is quite natural that under these conditions there will be some digestive disturbance, such as constipation, indigestion or summer diarrhoea. It may be accompanied by a cold or by eruptions of the skin. The timely remedy, and one which you can rely on for results, is a small dose of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin on retiring, and by morning the bowels will move and the trouble will vanish. The exceptional tonic ingredients in this remedy will tone the stomach and enrich the blood, and the child will feel its usual self again.

Many families like that of Mr. William Weber, 29 Edwin Place, Buffalo, N. Y., who uses it for foul breath and constipation, and Mrs. John Wallace, Scottsville, Ky., who finds it valuable to herself as well as her children, are never without it, keeping it for just such emergencies. You also can obtain a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at fifty cents or one dollar of any druggist. Families which once use this pleasant-tasting laxative forever after discard cathartics, purgatives, salts and pills.

Families wishing to try a free sample bottle can obtain it, postpaid, by addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 418 Washington street, Monticello, Ill.

Pimples and Blemishes? You Can Quickly and Easily Get Rid of Them

Secrets That Have Made Valeska Suratt the Famous, Self-Made Beauty-Actress of America

By Valeska Suratt

ONE pimple tells just as much of the condition of the blood as a hundred would. Once they begin, they repeat themselves over and over again. The use of blood tonics is common, but it must be remembered that most of these "tonics" are nothing nore nor less than "system" tonics. What one needs is a thorough blood cleanser. To show the remarkable efficacy of the blood cleanser I give you here, I have seen innumerable cases where young and middle-aged women had been afflicted for years with these troublesome outbreaks, and after using many of the tonics publicly recommended, had used this with complete success inside of a month's time.

I have never seen a return of the trouble after its use. It is very simple, absolutely safe, and wonderfully efficacious.

Dissolve twelve ounces of granulated sugar in one-half pint of water, add one ounce of sarsene, and mix the whole together thoroughly, then add more water to make a pint. Sarsene is a liquid which you can get at the drug store by the ounce. Get it in the original package. Take one or two teaspoonfuls of this mixture three or four times a day, with a little water if desired.

CAROLINE G.—No, the bust cannot be developed safely in a lasting way by the use of mechanical contrivances. They are furthermore dangerous.

This is the formula, try it: In a half-pint of cold water, dissolve two ounces rustone and half a cup of sugar, all well mixed together. Of this, take two teaspoonfuls three or four times a day in a wine-glass of water, after your meals. The rustone will cost you one dollar at the drug store.

POOR ATTEMPT—For superfluous hair, light or heavy, and even on the tenderest skin, this is superb and dissolves hair almost like magic.

Get one ounce of simple sulfo solution. This you can get at the drug store for one dollar. Apply it with the finger tips to the superfluous hair, keeping the hair moist with it for two or three minutes until it has been dissolved. Then wipe it off with a damp cloth and wash the skin.

HONORA H.—As a blackhead remover this is unsurpassed.

First wash the face with hot water and soap. Then sprinkle some neroxin generously upon a sponge made wet with hot water. Then rub well for a few minutes on the parts of the skin which are affected with blackheads. You should be able to secure the neroxin at any druggist's for fifty cents. Never pinch or squeeze out blackheads.

MRS. A. M.—The skin can be made as pure and pinky white as the petal of a rose, and the hands and arms as well, with every freckle and spot gone.

Let half a pint of water come almost to a boil. Add two tablespoonfuls of glycerine. Keep stirring while adding one ounce of zintone, until it is all dissolved. Then let it cool. If the cream is too thick to pour easily from a bottle, thin it down a little with more hot water. The cream will be white and satiny. Hold a wet, hot towel to the face several times for several minutes. Rub this cream on the entire face. Then wipe off with a soft dry cloth. Then apply again and let it dry on the face. Repeat this again at night. Any good druggist will let you have zintone for about fifty cents.

MAUD N.—Bald spots can be made to fill out and the hair grow wonderfully in a short time by the following formula. It will also positively stop the hair from falling out.

Mix half a pint of alcohol with half a pint of water. To this add one ounce of beta-quinol. Shake thoroughly, and then it will be ready to use. If you prefer, you can use imported bay rum instead of the water and alcohol. The beta-quinol you can get at almost any drug store for not more than fifty cents. This formula should be applied very freely to the scalp after brushing it generously for a few minutes all over. Rub the tonic thoroughly into the scalp with the finger tips.

Never omit the use of a shampoo. Never use soap on the hair. Eggol, which you can get at any drug store for twenty-five cents, is unsurpassed in its action in ridding the scalp of every particle of scurf and foreign matter.

RUTH D.—A difference of 5 or 10 years can be made in your appearance by the use of this formula. It rejuvenates the skin wonderfully, removing in a really astounding way all wrinkles, deep lines, crows' feet and sagging of cheeks.

For all these the following formula is absolutely unequaled: Pour half a pint of hot water in a bowl and place the bowl in a pan of water over a slow fire. To this add two ounces of eptol. Stir until it is dissolved and starts to cream. Then remove from the fire, slowly add two tablespoonfuls of glycerine, and continue to stir until it is cold. Eptol may be obtained for no more than fifty cents at any good drug store. This cream should be applied very liberally and thoroughly rubbed into the skin until it has disappeared. The cream will not grow hair on the face. Keep the cream in an air-tight jar or bottle.—[Advertisement.

ANOTHER event crowned with succcess for the Church of Our Savior in San Gabriel was the brilliant function given last Saturday evening at the beautiful home of Mrs. Gervaise Purcell, "Las Tunas," on El Monte road. This is the second of a series being planned for the fund for a pipe organ, which is to be installed in the church by next Easter. The first was notably successful—the lawn fete on the spacious grounds of "Woodhurst," the home of Mrs. Franc Ogilvy Wood on South Granada street.

This second function was in the nature of a dinner dance and evening entertainment. A most delicious dinner was served to many parties at small tables on the lawn, which was beautifully lighted for the occasion.

Mrs. Geoffrey Purcell, who is president of the Woman's Guild, had general charge of the affair, and among those who assisted most ably were Mrs. John R. Atwell, Mrs. Gervaise Purcell, Mrs. George S. Patton, Miss Anne Patton, Miss H. T. Swanwick, Mrs. A. B. Chapman, Mrs. D. C. Nulock, Mrs. J. E. Jardine and Miss Wilson.

About 135 members of the Sunday-school of the Immanuel Baptist Church and their friends had a day long to be remembered last Tuesday at Anaheim Landing. The members of the Satira class of the First Presbyterian Church are planning a most interesting and delightful outdoor meeting to be enjoyed Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. R. Schoonover, on San Marino street, Alhambra Acres. The subject of the afternoon's discussion is most happily appropriate for an outdoor meeting, as it is "The Botany of the Bible," a paper to be read by Miss Emma Shaiffer. After the meeting the gentlemen are invited to enjoy a supper on the lawn with the members of the class.

Miss Margery Halsted, at her home on North Vega street, had as her guests at dinner one evening last week Miss Harriette Mabel Stephens of Los Angeles and Miss Jessie Brunson of Alhambra.

They enjoyed a round of beach sports, including boating, bathing and dancing.

A most successful and eventful year of the Alhambra Music Study Club closed last Tuesday evening when the members were most charmingly entertained by Miss Octavia Hudson and Miss Elizabeth Ruddell at Miss Hudson's home on South Hidalgo avenue, Alhambra. ONE of the prettiest weddings that has occurred this season was witnessed Wednesday by thirty guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gates of West Center street. The bride, Miss Adelaide Frances Gates, is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gates, and the groom was Merle G. Anlauf, one of Anaheim's business men. The ceremony was performed in a large arbor, over-grown with vines and situated in the midst of the floral nursery belonging to Mrs. Gates. Thus the wedding party was surrounded by choice flowers and greenery. Rev. Francis Watry, pastor of the Unitarian Church of Santa Ana, read the marriage service at high noon. The couple was attended by the sister and brother of the bride, Miss Inez Gates and Irving Gates. After a short trip the newly-married couple will return to this city, where the groom has just prepared a cosy home on Illinois street.

Health and Beauty Advice

BY MRS. MAE MARTYN

Katie: I advise you to use this formula for a hair-tonic, because to my personal knowledge it does more for the hair and scalp than anything else and is easy to make: Into ½ pint alcohol pour 1 ounce quinzoin and add ½ pint water. This quinzoin tonic quickly stops the itching and cures the dandruff and is soothing to a sore or tender scalp. The regular use of this inexpensive tonic corrects dry, scally conditions or excessive oiliness, because it makes the scalp and hair-sacs healthy; and to dull, brittle, faded hair will give a brilliance and softness, as well as restore the former color. For best results it is well to shampoo with canthrox. (See answer to "Leila.")

Lydia: Yes, rubbing pyroxin on eyebrows will induce them to grow thick and glossy. Apply pyroxin at lash-roots with thumb and forefinger and they will grow long, silky and curly. This treatment is unfailing, but be careful not to get any pyroxin where hair is not wanted.

Mabel P.: A thick paste made of delatone and water and applied to those hairs for 2 or 3 minutes will entirely dissolve them. After the delatone is removed the skin should be washed and dried. This is quick, harmless and in no way mars the daintiest complexion. You must, however, be sure it is delatone you get.

Bertha: Yes, exercise and dieting sometimes reduce your weight. An easier and better way is to dissolve the unnecessary fat-tissues with the aid of the parnotis treatment. This reducer is made by adding 4 ounces parnotis to 1½ pints hot water. When it cools, take one tablespoonful three times each day. Keep up the parnotis treatment regularly and in a short while you will have gotten rid of the annoying fat and your figure will be gracefully plump and rightly proportioned and the skin will be tight and smooth.

Laura: Your dull eyes will take on a delightful sparkle and expression when 2 or 3 drops of a crystos tonic are put in them daily for a while. It is an old-fashioned and very economical remedy which also soothes the burning and relieves the aching after one or two applications. It is simply fine for granulated lids. To prepare, dissolve an ounce crystos in 1 pint cold, clear water and it is ready. It is absolutely harmless under all conditions.

Leila: In a case like yours where the scalp is so sensitive I should use canthrox. Get from your druggist an original package and dissolve a teaspoonful in a cup of hot water and your shampoo is ready. You will find canthrox shampoos very beneficial, because they remove every trace of dust, dandruff, excess oil and leave the scalp and hair-roots healthy and vigorous. Canthrox is beneficial to the finest head of hair and to dull, streaky, lifeless or brittle hair gives a fluffiness as well as restores the natural color.

Zoe: Loss of appetite and that bilious cast to your skin plainly indicate a derangement of your liver and kidneys. Prepare this excellent and inexpensive tonic and take a tablespoonful three times a day: Into ½ pint of alcohol put 1 ounce kardene (do not use whisky,) and to this add ½ cupful sugar, then hot water to make a quart. This tonic will quickly correct liver and kidney troubles, and as a blood-purifier and system-tonic it has no equal. It is also greatly beneficial to people suffering from lack of vitality, and its regular use will give to a blotchy, pimply skin a rich color, healthy and delightful clearness.

Dorothy: It is a pleasure to know that you are so well pleased with quinzoin as a hair-tonic. I have great faith in a spurmax lotion, because it is far superior to powder and will surely overcome the shiny, "muddy" condition of your skin. Just get 4 ounces spurmax from your druggist and dissolve it in ½ pint witch hazel or hot water and add 2 teaspoonfuls glycerine. When the spurmax lotion is on it cannot be detected, and it lends an exquisite rose-tint and youthful charm to any complexion. Once you try this lotion you will much prefer it to any powder you ever used. It is especially nice for tan and freckles.

Cora H.: To remove wrinkles, I use this purely vegetable product which I make at home. It is unlike creams containing animal fat as it does not grow hair nor make the flesh loose. Just dissolve an ounce of almozoin, which you can get from any druggist, in ½ pint cold water and add 2 teaspoonfuls of glycerine. Stir and let stand for one day. To remove wrinkles apply a thick coat of this cream-jelly and leave on over night. This protects the skin and allows all the blood action to be used in constructing new texture. In the morning wash it out of the pores and massage thoroughly with more of the cream. It makes the skin soft and velvety, while it is unequaled in reducing large pores.

Literature and Art — New Books Book News

"to Life" (words by Lou Salome,) with an introduction by Mr. Ludovici, a note to the poetry by Dr. Levy and a reproduction of Karl Denndorf's bust of Nietzsche.

XVIII. Index.

The student who would read Nietzsche had better begin with one of the aphoristic books, preferably "The Dawn of Day." From that let him proceed to "Beyond Good and Evil," "The Genealogy of Morals" and "The Antichrist." He will then be ready to understand "Thus Spake Zarathustra." Later on he may read "Ecce Homo" and dip into "The Joyful Wisdom," "Human, All-Too Human," and "The Will to Power," as his fancy suggests. The Wagner pamphlets are of more importance to Wagnerians than to students of Nietzsche's ideas, and the early philological and critical essays have lost much of their interest by the passage of time. Nietzsche's poetry had better be avoided by all who cannot read it in the original German. The English translations are mostly very free and seldom satisfactory.

Of the larger Nietzsche commentaries in English, the best is "Friedrich Nietzsche: His Life and Work," by M. A. Mugge. Appended to it is a bibliography of 850 titles — striking evidence of the attention that Nietzsche's ideas have gained in the world. Other books that will be found useful are: "The Quintessence of Nietzsche," by J. M. Kennedy; "The Philosophy of Nietzsche," by Georges Chatterton-Hill, Ph.D.; "Nietzsche: His Life and Works," by Anthony M. Ludovici; "The Gospel of Superman," by Henri Lichtenberger, translated from the French by J. M. Kennedy, and "The Philosophy of Friedrich Nietzsche," by Grace Neal Dolson, Ph.D., this last a pioneer work which still has value.

A very important book on Nietzsche's philosophy is Henry L. Mencken's "The Philosophy of Friedrich Nietzsche," published by John W. Luce of Boston. This is a careful, scholarly and semi-popular treatise taking up by chapters the different phases of Nietzsche's life and thought. Mr. Mencken has done perhaps more than any other American to put this philosopher before the American public in a non-technical manner. His numerous magazine and newspaper articles are familiar to everyone interested in modern philosophic thought. In the early fall a completely revised edition of this work will appear, brought up to date and augmented with new material. No better book has been issued for the guidance of Nietzsche students. As an introduction to Nietzsche's books it is invaluable. Mr. Mencken has also published a small book to supplement his larger study. It is called "The Gist of Nietzsche," and contains a series of direct quotations which hit the high places in Nietzsche's philosophy.

This fall will see the publication of another book on Nietzsche. "What Nietzsche Taught," by Williard Huntington Wright, will be the most complete summary of Nietzsche's work that has yet appeared. Each chapter will deal with one of Nietzsche's books, and the direct text from the original (in English,) will be introduced by a short essay of exposition. It will be published by B. W. Huebsch.

Lesser studies are to be found in "Friedrich Nietzsche," by A. R. Orage; "Nietzsche as Critic, Philosopher, Poet and Prophet," by Thomas Common; "Friedrich Nietzsche and His New Gospel," by Emily S. Hamblen, and "Nietzsche," by Paul Elmer More. Interesting discussions of various Nietzschen ideas are in "The Revival of Aristocracy," by Dr. Oscar Levy; "Who Is to Be Master of the World?" by A. M. Ludovici; "On the Tracks of Life," by Leo G. Sera, translated from the Italian by J. M. Kennedy; "Nietzsche and Art," by Anthony M. Ludovici, and "The Mastery of Life," by G. T. Wrench. Selections from Nietzsche's writings are put together under subject-hearings in "Nietzsche in Outline and Aphorism," by A. R. Orage.

The standard biography of Nietzsche is "Das Leben Friedrich Nietzsches," by Frau Elizabeth Foerster-Nietzsche, a large work in three volumes. In 1911 Frau Foerster-Nietzsche prepared a shorter version and this has since been done into English by A. M. Ludovici and published in two volumes, under the title of "The Life of Nietzsche." Unluckily, so devoted a sister was not the best person to deal with certain episodes in the life of her brother and hero. The gaps she left and the ameliorations she attempted are filled and corrected in "The Life of Friedrich Nietzsche," by Daniel Halevy, translated from the French by J. M. Hone, with an extraordinarily brilliant introduction by T. M. Kettle, M.D.

Small but suggestive studies of Nietzsche and his work are to be found in "Mezzotints in Modern Music" and "Egoists," by James Huneker; "Lectures and Essays on Natural Theology," by William Wallace; "Heralds of Revolt," by William Barry, D.D.; "Degeneration," by Max Nordeau; "Three Modern Seers," by Mrs. Havelock Ellis; "Heretics" and "Orthodoxy," by G. K. Chesterton; "Essays in Sociology," by J. M. Robertson; "Aristocracy and Evolution," by W. H. Mallock; "Slaves to Duty," by J. Badorke; "Affirmations," by Havelock Ellis; "In Peril of Change," by C. F. G. Masterman; "The Larger Aspect of Socialism," by William English Walling; "Man's Place in the Cosmos," by A. Seth Pringle Pattison, and "Gospels of Anarchy," by "Vernon Lee" (Violet Paget.) George Bernard Shaw's variations upon Nietzschean themes are in "The Revolutionists Handbook," appended to "Man and Superman."

Of magazine articles dealing with the prophet of the superman there has been no end of late. Most of them are ignorant and worthless, but any bearing the name of Grace Neal Dolson, Thomas Stockham Baker, Thomas Common or Maude D. Petre may be read with profit. One of the best discussions of Nietzsche I have ever encountered was contributed to the Catholic World (London,) during December, 1905, and January, February, March, May and June, 1906, by Miss Petre. It is to be regretted that these excellent papers, which sought to rescue Nietzsche from the misunderstandings of certain orthodox critics, have not been reprinted in book form.

But the reader curious to examine Nietzsche's ideas is no longer dependent upon commentaries. His own books, thanks to Dr. Levy, are now to be had in English, in handy form and at very moderate expense. There is no longer any excuse for misunderstanding him. His exposition is always crystal-clear, at least in his purely didactic books, and he has been done into English by students who understand him thoroughly. His complete works deserve a place in every civilized man's library. Few men, it is probable, will adopt all the ideas set forth in them, but no man can fail to get stimulation out of them.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

ON THE ENFORCEMENT OF LAW IN CITIES. By Brand Whitlock. Bobbs-Merrill, Indianapolis.

"ON THE "Enforcement of Law in Cities," by Brand Whitlock, Mayor of Toledo, is a book earnestly recommended to the judges of the Supreme Bench, to the police magistrates, to the clergy of all denominations, to the members of the Police Board, the Liquor License Board and the Vice Commission, and to all other citizens interested in the problems of city government.

This book first appeared as a modest pamphlet in 1910. It was written by Mayor Whitlock in reply to certain clergymen who reviled him for failing to enforce the blue laws of Toledo to the letter. The first edition of a few thousand copies was immediately exhausted. Another and larger edition went the same way and the pamphlet became so rare that it fetched a premium in the second-hand book stores. Now it is reprinted in the form of a bound book. The publishers are the Bobbs-Merrill Company of Indianapolis. You may get it in any book store for 75 cents.

It is the best 75 cents' worth that the book stores have offered for a long, long while. It represents the mature reflections of a man who has devoted the best years of his life to the problems of city government—a man of honesty and intelligence, and what is more, a man of courage. The name of Brand Whitlock stands for all that is best in our national life. He is a reformer with no hint of Pecksniff in him. He is practical, tolerant, shrewd, thorough. He has not only talked of doing things: he has actually done them. Here, in this little book, he presents some of his conclusions about city government, the theories behind his work. It is a book so packed with frankness and common sense that it must take its place among the classics of politics.

SANE AND STATISTICAL.

COMMERCIALIZED PROSTITUTION IN NEW YORK CITY. By George J. Kneeland. The Century Company, New York.

IN THESE lively times of reform crusades, when almost all reformers seem to be the willing victims of a species of epidemic hysteria which apparently renders them incapable of sticking closely to facts and the eternal verities—in such times it is with a sigh of relief that the harassed reviewer comes upon a book dealing with reform that is at once clear, logical, unbiassed, dispassionate and worthy of credence.

In "Commercialized Prostitution in New York City," by George J. Kneeland, with a supplementary chapter by Katharine Bement Davis and an introduction by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., the reviewer finds such a book. It is the result of personal investigations made by George J. Kneeland for the New York Bureau of Social Hygiene. Kneeland, it must be remembered, took up his herculean task with an arm made strong by practice, for he had just finished his direction of the Chicago Vice Commission investigation. Rockefeller is chairman of the New York Bureau. Katharine Bement Davis, whose chapter deals with "A Study of the Prostitutes at Bedford," is superintendent of the New York State Reformatory for Women.

Kneeland's earlier chapters describe and locate the various vice resorts and places which cater to vice—the parlor houses, tenement and apartment-houses, hotels, furnished rooms, massage parlors, disorderly saloons, concert halls, cabaret shows and miscellaneous places—not forgetting the streets of Manhattan, which he finds are openly used by prostitutes for soliciting. Certain excursion boats and parks also contribute to vice. These chapters are followed by vivid but uncolored "pen pictures" of the exploiters of the traffic in vice—the owners, the procurers, the pimps, the madames, and all the rest of the malodorous crew.

The professional prostitute, the woman or girl who sells herself for money, is portrayed in her manifold manifestations, with a searching inquiry into the causes that produced her. It is interesting to note, here, that despite the popular hue and cry, very few professional prostitutes confess to have become such through economic pressure. But once "fallen," their apathy and ignorance have kept them the unhappy pawns of the exploiters, whose monstrous game of greed has only of late been seriously interfered with.

It appears that the business of prostitution—the selling of women's bodies for money—has been as carefully and adroitly managed as the business, let us say, of selling kerosene and all its valuable by-products, and the profits to its exploiters have been almost equally great. The women, many of them as undeveloped mentally as children, almost all degenerates, have reaped none of this golden harvest which they have earned at so high a cost to themselves. Only a living wage has been theirs—often not even that, especially when they have become useless or nearly so through disease, lack of youthful charm, etc.

From the columns of figures that Kneeland offers for inspection a single item will perhaps suffice. In one house on West Twenty-fifth street, a $1 house at that, a single occupant earned on an average $15 a day. In addition to earnings from the women for the sale of their bodies, the exploiters—owners and madames, mainly—derive further gain (by no means inconsiderable in amount) from such items as the sale to their women, at exorbitant prices, of clothing and other feminine requirements. Huge as these immediate profits of exploitation are, they are enormously increased by cast sums made from the sale of intoxicating drinks, which business has been shown to be so closely allied with prostitution, and by abnormal rentals received for the use of all kinds of property for purposes of prostitution. Even then, the stupendous, though unknown, figure involved in the maintenance of this army of upward of 15,000 women in New York City fails to indicate what prostitution costs to society. For perhaps the greatest cost of all is yet to be mentioned, namely, disease. Wherever prostitution exists there venereal disease flourishes—maiming, incapacitating the participants surely, and not infrequently innocent ones in close association with them.

Prostitution in New York—and in every other large American city—is recruited from every country in the world, from every State in the Union. Of 139 women at Bedford, when questioned as to why they came to New York, eleven said they ran away to escape home conditions, seventy-eight to live with family, twenty-six to obtain work or easier work, nine to practice prostitution, ten to see New York, one with lover, four unknown. Among 491 inmates, 404, or 84.48 per cent., were city born, 290 of these being natives of New York City; 17.47 per cent. were country born, .05 per cent. unknown, 341 whites were city born, sixty-three colored, sixty-three whites were country born, twenty-two colored.

In a circular accompanying the book, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., announces that the present volume on commercialized prostitution in New York will be followed by three volumes dealing respectively with "Prostitution in Western Europe," "European Police Systems" and, finally, "Prostitution in the United States."

THE FAMILY.

THE PRIMITIVE FAMILY AS AN EDUCATIONAL AGENCY. By Arthur James Todd. Macmillan Company, New York.

FROM all sides are going up cries of alarm at imminent changes in family life. We are told that society is going to pieces because of the "break-up of the family." The family is apparently losing to the State in importance as an educational institution. Is there ground for pessimism in the present outlook for education and domestic life?

"The Primitive Family as an Educational Agency," by Arthur James Todd, Ph.D., comes as an attempt to answer some of these pressing questions. Believing with Lord Acton that an institution can be known only through its history, the author sketches in outline the various stages in the early evolution of the family, showing how it varied in form and function from age to age. From widely scattered sources—travels, ethnography, folk-lore, studies in the evolution of law, morals, etc., and personal observation—he has collected the evidence on such problems as the economic basis of family life, the position of the wife, promiscuity, group-marriage, divorce, sex taboos, procreation myths, the couvade, primitive moral and vocational instruction, initiations, puberty ceremonies, etc. The fact that much of primitive education was genuine social education is emphasized. One part of the book traces the varying sense of relationship between child and parent; now he is related to his mother, now to his father, and only in later times to both. Primitive ideas of procreation are curious, but have received sympathetic attention because of their significance for an understanding of ancient social and domestic organization. An attempt is made to answer the mooted question whether there is such a thing as genuine parental instinct, or natural filial piety. The author's general conclusion is that the family never has been the type and foundation of all education.

The book is optimistic in tone. Two sentences from its closing chapter give the keynote: "It is altogether likely that social evolution is bringing about a somewhat new division of labor among social institutions, and that to the family will be allotted a more transcendent and valuable role than it has heretofore played. How largely educational that role will be is a matter rather of speculation than prediction."

WITH THE AUTHORS.

A true pioneer posed for the lovely frontispiece which Clarence Underwood has made for Willa Sibert Cather's new book, "O Pioneers." She is a Swedish girl from the very part of the country where the scene of the story is laid. After graduating from a western university she came to New York to throw herself heart and strength into the cause of suffrage. Several months ago, when Miss Cather's story, "The Bohemian Girl," appeared in McClure's, the young Swede read it, recognized the types, and at once sought acquaintance with the author. The acquaintance ripened to cordial friendship and when the question arose of illustrating "O Pioneers!" Miss Cather asked her Swedish friend, as a splendid national type, to pose for the portrait of the Swedish heroine, Alexandra. She is not at all like the pioneer woman of seventy years ago, none the less, she is one of those who are breaking the way for broader and better ideals, a stronger patriotism, and a closer international friendship.

Miss Elizabeth Kendall, professor of history at Wellesley College, has been elected a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society. Miss Kendall is an observant and intrepid traveler, and her election is a worthy recognition of the services rendered by her recent journey across China and the fascinating account of it embodied in her recently published book, "A Wayfarer in China."

Honors have been falling thick and fast upon the head of William Roscoe Thayer, editor of the Harvard Graduates' Magazine, and author of "The Life and Times of Cavour." He was this year given the honorary degree of Litt.D. by Harvard, and to this is added the same title from Brown University, an LL.D. from Western Reserve and an L.H.D. from Williams College.

Robert Sterling Yard, newly appointed editor of the Century Magazine, is a writer and publisher of many years' experience. In a book, "The Publisher," to be brought out next fall by the Houghton-Mifflin Company, he gives a first-hand account, in all its aspects, of what he has termed "the worst business in the world." To the public that likes books, this description of the various processes by which they are selected, manufactured, exploited and sold should prove interesting reading.

The author of "Vacation Tramping for Girls" is the owner of a camp and some fifty beautiful acres of wood and meadow land in the Moosehead region, where, when she is not in Wales, she spends her summers. In this camp she carries on her writing in a little log cabin separated from the cottage and follows not only whatever wood and farm work calls her, but also the gentler art of camp housekeeping. Housekeeping in camp, she assures me, may involve anything from sweeping off the piazza to removing porcupine quills from a door jamb or a dog's nose; from giving milk to the cat to feeding a blind fawn; from driving nails to setting the table; from blacking the stove to bringing in the wood. Fortunately, a recent strength test on the dynomometer showed her strength above twice that of the average woman.

"As handy as a man," a friend says of her.

"But," objected Jeanette Marks, "not mannish, I hope, for I abhor mannish women."

"No," assented the friend, "not mannish, just an out-of-door American who likes to do things and isn't afraid of hard work."

Dr. James Erskine-Murray, author of a comprehensive work on "Wireless Telegraphy," just issued by D. Appleton & Co., has been appointed consulting engineer for the new establishment of the wireless between Canada and Great Britain. Dr. Erskine-Murray's work is a practical handbook for the use of electrical engineers, students and operators.

Henry Sydnor Harrison, author of "Queed" and "V. V.'s Eyes," delayed his sailing for Europe last month in order to be present to receive the degree of master of arts conferred upon him by Columbia University.

Miss L. M. Montgomery, author of the world-famous "Anne of Green Gables," writes her publishers that work on her new story, "The Golden Road," is "progressing merrily," and that undoubtedly the manuscript will be completed in time for publication in August.

Miss Bertha Runkle, whose novel, "The Scarlet Rider," appears this season, is in private life Mrs. L. H. Bash, wife of an army officer. The notes, sketches and traditions used in the story were gathered during an extensive trip, embracing the extreme points of the United States, as well as the Philippines and the Canadian border.

Winston Churchill, whose "The Inside of the Cup" promises to be one of the most widely read novels of the year, is at present on his ranch in Santa Barbara. Harlakenden House, his Cornish, N. H., home, having been occupied this summer by President Wilson and his family.

Miss Lillian Whiting has returned from a prolonged visit to Greece, where she went to obtain material at first hand for her autumn book of travel and description, to be called "Athens, the Violet-Crowned." She brought back with her a collection of pictures which will be reproduced in her book.

Rowland Thomas, whose Philippine story, "Fagan," won the $5000 prize offered by Collier's Weekly in 1905, has written an imaginative romance of Egypt, which will be published this fall. He has recently returned from a trip to the Orient; when at home and not engaged in literary work he is an industrious Massachusetts farmer.

Frederick McCormick, whose new volume on the Orient, "The Flowery Republic," has just appeared, is a journalist and war correspondent of wide experience. As sole foreign correspondent he reported the entire Russo-Japanese war from the Russian side; he was a special correspondent of the Chinese revolutionary rebellion in 1911 and 1912, and has recently organized the Asiatic Institute, established for the purpose of taking up the situation developed by the contact of two civilizations in the Pacific Basin.

LITERARY GOSSIP.

One of the most interesting features of the new Scribner building on Fifth avenue at Forty-eighth street, New York, is the exhibition gallery. Here photographs, paintings, and drawings made originally for purposes of book or magazine illustration, are exhibited, and, seeing them in this way, you begin to realize that many pictures of great intrinsic interest and beauty are not recognized because their character simply as pictures is lost in their character as illustrations. This gallery is at the very end of the store, and is so arranged that its corners extend beyond the line of the building, and, roofed with glass, admit a flood of daylight which throws a perfect illumination on the pictures in exhibition. Some of those pictures now are by N. C. Wyeth, Howard Pyle, Edward Penfield, Frank Brangwyn, A. B. Frost and W. C. Smedley. This gallery is also used for the exhibition of unusual books or books of some particular momentary interest.

All students of Shakespeare will be interested to learn that "Cymbeline," the eighteenth volume in the new Variorum edition of Shakespeare's works is now in the press. The entire work was completed before Dr. Horace Howard Furness died in August, 1912. It will be published in the early summer by the Lippincotts.

Dr. Horace Howard Furness, whose scholarship and tireless industry made this monumental edition possible, demonstrated his wisdom in associating his son with the invaluable work.

This spring saw the publication of "Julius Caesar," the seventeenth volume in the set and the third play edited by Horace Howard Furness, Jr., who will continue the Variorum edition along the same lines laid down by his father.

Today we make young love a matter of ridicule, calling it calf-love; our writing people rarely treat it seriously. The singing men of older days were kinder—two-thirds of ballad poetry record the fears and elations of what our age terms unheroically calf-love. J. J. Bell, has gone back to the uncynical view of the ballad-poets in writing his idyl of love before twenty, entitled "Courtin' Christina." The hero of the piece, Wee Macgreegor, has just been promoted to independence and cigarettes and, though his charmers are no more than 18 and 16 years old, respectively, Mr. Bell handles their romances with becoming seriousness. Their love affairs were serious to them. One of Wee Macgreegor's attractions was Jessie Mary and she was anybody's girl—just a young live thing in love with love. The other attraction became permanent—she was Christina with her plait, bright eyes and generally comfortable manner.

It is a well known fact that thousands of school children are sent hungry to school and in many cases study all day on an empty stomach to the detriment of their health and mentality. Louise Stevens Bryant has written a book entitled "School Feeding: Its Principles and Practice at Home and Abroad."

PHILLPOTTS FORSAKES DARTMOOR

"MY Dartmoor work is done and the modest epic in twenty volumes, which I set out to write twenty years ago, is now completed with the publication of 'Widecombe Fair,'" said Eden Phillpotts when interviewed recently at his home in Torquay on the South Coast of England. As Thomas Hardy confined the background of his famous novels to Wessex, so Phillpotts has been the interpreter of the Dartmoor district of Devonshire. For a score of years he has penetrated far and wide into the little frequented nooks and corners of that uplifted land, and observed minutely, not alone the traits of the people, but the unique environment amid which they live.

While Hardy pushed back the boundaries of Wessex and provided his readers with a map which furnishes a clew to the fictitious names of the towns and villages figuring in his stories, Phillpotts, with amazing courage, takes his names direct from the actual maps of Devonshire, so that the pilgrim to Dartmoor cannot miss his way or be in danger of expending sentiment at the wrong places.

Twenty years ago Philipotts was on the regular staff of "Black and White" and living in the suburbs of London. Indeed "Children of the Mist," which he regards as the first of his Dartmoor comedies, was written five years before he moved to his present home in Torquay and he thus placed himself on the edge of his chosen territory. Although untraversed by any railroad, Dartmoor is not difficult of access. Many are the visits he has made from his convenient headquarters at Torquay into the bleak and forbidding land which he has made his own. If this novelist confesses to any hobby, it would be that of a botanist, for it was in his Italianized English Garden that Mr. Philipotts and his hospitable wife were found.

"The foreword of 'Widecombe Fair' in which I state that 'a modest comedy of Dartmoor, planned more than twenty years ago, is now finished,' has been strangely misinterpreted," he said as the conversation turned to his most recently published book. "This foreword was not designed to apply to 'Widecombe Fair' alone; it merely chronicled the fact for the benefit of a few artist friends and amateurs that my Dartmoor work is done. I used the word comedy in the larger sense as applying to the entire twenty volumes, which I set out to write twenty years ago.

"Yes, it is with a feeling of regret like the taking leave of old friends, that I finally abandon Dartmoor, for I have enjoyed depicting that setting for my stories, and in indicating how character and passion develop along distinctive lines in a given environment."

"And your next book, Mr. Phillpotts?"

"It will deal with Italy and with art. We have recently returned from a long sojourn in Italy and it was a new country to me when considered as a background for a novel. But 'The Joy of Youth'—for that is the title of my next book—will be much more than a story with an Italian setting; it will deal with the clashing artistic and religious views of the present day."

Of his earlier days when he was a London journalist, he said: "Editing and novel writing I soon found were incompatible. I was living in the suburbs of London at the time and when the editorship of 'Black and White' was offered me, I declined because I could not do justice to both. I elected to write books and immediately moved into the country. When I first began writing I used to write every novel twice over; in fact, my first six books were each written twice, but I have long since abandoned that practice. I like to carry every subject in my head some six months before I commence to write. By that time I have become sufficiently familiar with my characters.

"Like so many of my fellow-writers, I find that only the morning is suitable for creative work. I will not work on a novel in the afternoon, but reserve that part of the day for lighter writing, such as short stories and articles on various topics. But you see that I virtually work all day; in fact, I am not really happy unless engaged in my literary work."

Besides fiction, Mr. Philipotts has written several poems and several plays, including "The Secret Woman," adapted from one of his books. This play was banned by the censor, despite the protest of some of the foremost literary men and playwrights of England. "It was not," he admits, "a good play, but," he adds, "there was no reason why the censor should have prohibited it. The censorship is an obsolete institution and is bound to disappear."

With some of the critics asserting that "Widecombe Fair" takes rank with his best work, Philipotts's faithful following expresses regret that he has decided to abandon the field with which he has so long been identified. "Widecombe Fair" represents his leave-taking of Dartmoor.

BOOK NEWS.

Mrs. Alice Hegan Rice's "A Romance of Billy Goat Hill" has been dramatized, and its first formal production, with Miss May Buckley as Miss Lady, will occur in September.

Miss Jean Webster has just signed with Henry Miller to dramatize "Daddy-Long-Legs" next autumn. Miss Webster's new novel, entitled "Someday Soon," will be ready for publication next spring.

Hall Caine's new novel, which will be published in August, bears the title "The Woman Thou Gavest Me: Being the Narrative of Mary O'Neill." It is said to be founded on a very broad basis of actual fact, though still remaining primarily a work of fiction.

The short stories, "What Happened to Mary," published by the "Ladies' World," and produced by the Edison Company in pictures, have been novelized by Robert Carlton Brown. The novel will appear in the fall with the title of "The Remarkable Adventures of Christopher Poe."

A "Pollyanna" Sunday is to be arranged for in Sacramento by one of the leading booksellers of that place, with an arrangement for sermons on "The Glad Book" in every church in town. The cashier of a national bank in a South Carolina city has suggested that "Pollyanna" is one of the greatest sermons he ever read, and that if all his fellow-citizens would read the book, the city would be revolutionized. This popular novel, written by Eleanor H. Porter, was published a few months ago.

Robert Hichens and Jules Guerin traveled through the Balkan peninsula to gather material for the articles which have been running through the Century Magazine this year, and for the elaborate book which the Century Company will publish in the late fall. The text and pictures—twelve in the colors of Mr. Guerin's canvases—will cover the natural scenic glories of Dalmatia, the classic ruins of Greece, and the wonderful mosques of old Constantinople.

The Houghton-Mifflin Company, who publish Henry Sydnor Harrison's works, state that the second edition of "V. V.'s Eyes" has had to be largely increased on account of the rapidity with which the orders for the book were sent in.

Prof. William S. Ferguson's study of "Greek Imperialism" will have an English edition brought out by Constable & Co., Ltd.

The Houghton-Mifflin Company announce a second impression of Dr. Woods Hutchinson's latest book, "Common Diseases," and a fourth impression of James W. Schultz's adventure story, "With the Indians in the Rockies."

Students of Civil War history and of Lincoln's career will find a valuable autographic fragment of the great President in Trevelyan's "Life of John Bright." After the issuance of the Emancipation Proclamation in 1863, numerous public meetings were held all over England to express British sympathy with the American government and to protest against any recognition of the Southern Confederacy. To give proper direction to these public demonstrations, President Lincoln drafted a resolution for adoption at such meetings, and transmitted it to John Bright through Charles Sumner, and the original manuscript now reproduced in facsimile gives impressive evidence of Lincoln's personal efforts to influence public sentiment abroad in favor of the Union and emancipation.

Frederick Stuart Church, the figure and animal painter, has spoken in terms of praise of "The Technique of Painting" by Charles Moreau-Vauthier, of which he says: "I consider it one of the best things on the subject I have read and would recommend it very highly to artists, art students, amateurs, and picture buyers."

Miss Gibson's guests included Myri Colby and Enia Underwood, Los Angeles; Edith McLaughlin, San Francisco; Hazel Washburn, Mabie Wright, Zylpha Dismukes and Gladys Walker, Monrovia; Charles Graham, Eugene Warren, Clarence Austin and Walter Thompson, Los Angeles; Punch Thompson and Ashley Hendricks, Glendora; Kenneth Carter and Carrol Glenny of Monrovia. PROF. ALTHOUSE is an experienced practitioner in the science of modern ASTROLOGY, by which he has made many REMARKABLE PREDICTIONS. The horoscope shows the powerful influence of the planets in ALL AFFAIRS OF LIFE. It shows diseases, deaths, love and marriage, financial affairs, investments, changes, talents, environments, about children, relatives; when and where to travel, what to seek or avoid; when in danger of losses, troubles, etc., etc.; also your good periods coming—GIVING DATES of these events for the FUTURE.

PROF. ALTHOUSE read E. H. Sothern, Nat Goodwin, Schuman-Heink, Gadski, Admiral Schley, David Starr Jordan, ex-Gov. Pardee, ex-Senator Clark, Senator Smoot, Baron Rothschild, Gen. MRS. MASSON, the noted palmist of London, Eng., may be consulted at 322 S. SPRING ST., by those desiring CAREFUL, CONSCIENTIOUS AND SCIENTIFIC HAND READINGS FROM ONE OF THE FOREMOST PALMISTS OF THE DAY.

The earnest student and thinker will soon learn in his investigations along psychological lines that that which pertains to occult phenomena proper can readily be distinguished from crude and oft-exposed SLEIGHT-OF-HAND TRICKS, the most common of which is the telling of the subject's name, age, etc., AFTER HE HIMSELF HAS WRITTEN THAT information.

PALMISTRY, HONESTLY PRACTICED, WILL NOT tell you your name, but it WILL give you information of considerably greater value in every-day life.

Your vocation, your present line of work, matters of health and domestic life, financial conditions and ways and means of climbing out of a rut of ill-luck into wide paths of success and prosperity, can all be told you through scientific palmistry, WITHOUT A SINGLE QUESTION, WRITTEN OR VERBAL.

MRS. MASSON DOES NOT APPEAL TO IGNORANT SUPERSTITION, BUT TO THE FINEST INTELLIGENCE.

HIGH-CLASS PATRONAGE SOLICITED.

HELP! HELP!

So you are going to rush right out and match your knowledge of automobile values with some poor boob of a second-hand broker? In your own line of business, what happens to the wise guy that tries to beat you at your own game? If he gets the best of the deal it is a good sign somebody's foot slipped. Find me a man who ever got a real bargain in a second-hand car and I will show you several who have been stung by some philanthropic gent who was "suddenly called East." Remember, that most any one can "guarantee" the condition of a rebuilt car, but a reliable firm's guarantee is usually based upon an expensive rebuilding job rather than a hasty tinkering up covered by a cheap job of paint. One of our rebuilt APPERSON JACKRABBIT CARS, with the regular SHETTLER guarantee as to their mechanical condition, is worth more to you and will give you better service than any new low-grade car that you could purchase at an equal price. APPERSON cars are high grade and free from petty troubles, no matter how old they are. Some of our most valued customers are the purchasers of our rebuilt cars. They were told the exact truth when they bought their cars and are satisfied with their purchase.

DENY TROUBLE WITH SEAMEN.

PACIFIC COAST SHIP OWNERS GIVE LIE TO LOBBYIST.

Andrew Furuseth in His Eagerness to Pass La Follette's Bill Predicts Strike—Tells Congress that Industrial Workers of the World Threaten to Split Union.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Telegrams received here today from ship owners at San Francisco declared that relations of seamen and the owners are not in a strained condition, nor is a strike likely, as reported recently from Washington in an interview with Andrew Furuseth, who has been here all session lobbying for the La Follette bill.

Furuseth gave out a statement that unless the International Seamen's Union receives assurances soon that the Senate Commerce Commission will take action on the La Follette bill there might be a strike at all Pacific ports. Furuseth declared his organization is tired of waiting for action on the La Follette bill and asserted that Industrial Workers of the World are endeavoring to foment trouble in the Seamen's Union with a view to disrupting the organization and capturing the members for the Workers. Furuseth said today his organization does not want a strike, and if a strike occurs it will be caused by activities of the Industrial Workers.

The Workers, he asserted, are telling the seamen that the La Follette bill will never get out of the committee, that there will never be any legislation that seamen want and that the way to get action from Congress is to tie up all shipping on the west coast.

The telegrams from the ship owners declared emphatically that there is no trouble between the owners and men.

MRS. VANDERBILT ARRIVES.

She Takes Care of Her Own Baby but He Also Has a Nurse and Governess.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] La Savoie, in port this afternoon from Havre, brought Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt and their 10-months-old son, Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt, who fairly radiates good health and good nature.

Mrs. Vanderbilt, who is the daughter of Capt. Isaac Emerson of Baltimore, and was at one time the wife of Smith Hollins McKim, takes care of her own baby, although the little fellow is also looked after by a nurse and governess. The mother says that her boy will be educated in this country and will be brought up a good American citizen, while Vanderbilt says he hopes to make his son not only an American citizen, but the best judge of horses and the best whip in the United States.

They will leave tomorrow morning for Oakland Farm, near Newport, where a glass-inclosed nursery has been installed for the baby, and the finest cow procurable is in readiness to supply the infant with his regular rations of milk.

Step by Step.

UNCLE SAM TO TIGHTEN HIS GRIP ON RAILROADS.

Administration Will Urge the Next Congress to Extend Control by Interstate Commerce Commission to Prevent Mergers Such as Is Said to Have Made the New Haven System Top-heavy and Inefficient.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Legislation extending government control over interstate railroads will be urged in Congress, based upon the results of recent investigations made by the Interstate Commerce Commission. It is the view of the commission that many of the railroad systems are top-heavy and that this top-heaviness is responsible for uneconomical, inefficient and unsafe service.

The situation was cogently stated by Commissioner John H. Marble in a report he presented on the New England railroad situation.

"If it were properly to be considered here," said Mr. Marble, "we would give weight to the suggestion that the merger has so overloaded the executive heads of the entire aggregation as to impair not only correct and economical financial administration, but also efficiency and safety of operation."

The view of Mr. Marble was not based upon a consideration of mileage but of the complexity of the New England railroads and of the necessity of these railroads for close and even tensive superintendence. The New York, New Haven and Hartford and the Boston and Maine were not one system, but in reality two systems under one management.

TOO GREAT RESPONSIBILITY.

What is true of the New England situation is, in the opinion of members of the commission, true of railroad systems in the Middle West and other parts of the United States. Railroad heads have gone on acquiring railroads and their securities for the purpose of securing monopoly of a territory and paying comparatively little interest to the enormous load of executive responsibility they are taking upon their own shoulders and that of their subordinates.

As pointed out by Mr. Marble, no competition between carriers is unimportant. The fact that a line carries little tonnage does not prove that it is valueless to the public. Its potential competition serves always to insure better service and fairer treatment by the other lines. Occasionally, it has an influence upon rates. Moreover, any suppression of competition involves larger issues, including the injurious effect of private monopoly upon the competitive society which tolerates it. It is the desire of the commission, and in this President Wilson is said to agree, to prevent railroad managers from engaging in enterprises outside the legitimate operation of their railroads. This can be accomplished by legislation:

Prohibiting interstate railroads from expending money or incurring liability or acquiring property not in the operation of its railroad or in the legitimate improvement, extension or development of the road.

Prohibiting any railroad to lease, or purchase any other railroad, to acquire the stocks or securities of any other railroad, to guarantee the same, directly or indirectly, without the approval of the Federal government.

WANT BOND ISSUE REVISED.

The big railroad systems have about came to the conclusion that it would be to their advantage to have the Interstate Commerce Commission vise future issues of stocks and bonds since such action would tend to increase the value of outstanding issues. But they are unwilling to abandon the practice of extending their properties in any way they see fit and for this reason undoubtedly will oppose the proposition to prohibit them from acquiring lines which may prove useful in the way of facilitating business, which, in other hands, might develop into troublesome competitors. In short, they would want legislation under which the Federal government would approve any bond issue they might desire to make, irrespective of the purpose to which it was to be applied.

There is no likelihood of the wish of the railroads in this respect being heeded by the President or by Congress. It is undoubtedly true that a prolific source of financial disaster and complication to railroads in the past has been the desire and ability of railroad managers to engage in enterprises outside the legitimate operation of their railroads. This includes the acquisition of other railroads and their securities.

With a free hand, the evils of the present condition would be continued and the public would be compelled to pay higher rates in order to enable the railroads to meet the interest charges on the securities floated.

There is no chance of any amendment to the railroad rate law being considered during the present session, but at the regular session which begins in December this subject will be taken up.

It is the expectation of the President that the tariff and the currency will be out of the way before Congress adjourns. This will leave for its consideration when it reassembles the more effective treatment of trusts and another attempt satisfactorily to deal the railroads.

PARACHUTE MAN KILLED BY FALL IN SEATTLE.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) July 19.—Francis L. Thayer, aged 47 years, a parachute jumper, known all over the West, was drowned today while making a parachute descent from an aeroplane as part of the Potlatch air sports. He went up in an aeroplane with Johnny Bryant. At a height of 600 feet he dropped from the aeroplane and his parachute spread above him and the descent began. At a height of 500 feet he broke loose from the parachute and fell into the water.

Thayer did not rise to the surface after going into the water. He had been giving parachute exhibitions twenty-five years.

Bryan, with Thayer hanging to his parachute beneath the aeroplane, made a pretty flight of ten minutes over the bay, circling above the warships until the aeroplane had reached a height of 750 feet. Bryant then signaled that he was ready for Thayer to jump. Thayer did not signal that he was ready to let go until the machine had settled fifty feet. Then he cut loose from the aeroplane.

The parachute, with Thayer hanging to the iron ring at the end of the ropes, opened prettily, and for a minute it looked as if the drop was to be a perfect exhibition. Then, to the horror of the great crowd of people who lined the water front and held points of vantage on craft about the harbor, Thayer was seen to fall, turning over as he left the parachute. He was fully 600 feet above the water when he fell. The man seemed to realize his danger, for he rolled himself into a compact ball as he approached the water, striking on his face and left shoulder.

Mrs. Thayer, Mrs. Frank Bennett, wife of the manager of the aeroplane exhibition, and Alys McKay, an aviator, were in a launch which was to pick Thayer up, and they made with all speed toward the spot where he went down, but were unable to find any trace of the body.

Johnny Bryant, circling 500 feet above the bay, saw Thayer fall from the parachute, and watched him as he struck the water. Bryant circled four minutes around above the place where Thayer disappeared, watching for the jumper to come to the surface. At the end of that time he realized that Thayer was dead and flew his aeroplane back to the hangar on Harbor Island.

Several small boats from the warships, near which Thayer disappeared, put out to search for the body, but after cruising about for half an hour the search was abandoned by all but a police launch.

The women in the launch said that the breakaway from the aeroplane appeared to be perfect, and Bryant held to the same opinion. They attributed the accident to the too sudden opening of the parachute. Thayer rode the parachute with one leg through a loose rope and one wrist fastened with a strong strap and iron snap to the parachute ring. Examination of the parachute after the accident showed that this snap had broken when the parachute jerked as it opened.

Deadlock.

JAPANESE DISAPPOINTED WITH BRYAN'S LAST WORD.

[BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.]

TOKIO, July 19.—Considerable disappointment is felt in Japan in connection with the American reply to the last two Japanese notes on the subject of the California land legislation which does not accept any of the Japanese contentions that the bill violates the Japanese-American treaty, and does not offer any suggestion for the solution of the difficulty.

The situation here has reached a deadlock. Japan has not yet decided on her next step, but is so desirous of maintaining friendly relations that it is believed she will not adopt retaliatory measures, such as the denunciation of the treaty on the ground that it is useless, or the reduction of the rights of American citizens in Japan.

The Japanese public has been led by the press to the belief that Washington would afford some relief to the situation, and therefore the government's task has been made more difficult. The public generally, however, is absorbed in the development of the Chinese situation in regard to which official advices show that the rebellion in Southern China has become grave.

ANOTHER WEEK OF MULHALL...

Lobbyist and Inquisitors Take Two Days' Rest Before Resuming Identification of Letters.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The Senate Lobby Committee rested today with less than one-third of Martin M. Mulhall's correspondence thus far identified. Mulhall left the city to return for the reopening of the hearings Monday.

Chairman Overman will endeavor to push the work of identifying letters next week, but it will be at least a week before the routine examination of Mulhall is concluded. Officers of the National Association of Manufacturers meantime are waiting with more than 100,000 letters to start their defense against Mulhall's wholesale accusations of lobbying and campaign work on their part. On direct examination of Mulhall, on the various charges that he had helped elect and defeat candidates for Congress and had engaged generally in influencing legislation and political affairs, probably will not start for two weeks.

ON UNION'S RACK.

PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—Martin M. Mulhall, the former agent of the National Association of Manufacturers, is expected to come to this city next week to testify in the investigation instituted by the Philadelphia Central Labor Union regarding some of the charges Mulhall has made at the Senatorial inquiry at Washington against local labor leaders affiliated with the Central Labor Union. One of the local labor leaders under investigation is Frank Feeney, a former presidentof the Central Labor Union. The principal allegation against him is a statement by Mulhall that Feeney was on his pay roll helping the manufacturers to defeat William Hughes of Paterson, N. J., for Congress. Statements made by Mulhall reflecting on Michael Collins, another local labor leader, also will be investigated.

SIMMONS ALIBIS FOR FREE LIST.

DECLARES IT IS FOR ESPECIAL BENEFIT OF THE FARMER.

Tries to Prove that Taking Duty Off Wheat, Flour, Cattle, Sheep, Swine, Sugar, Wool, Eggs and Potatoes Would Cut Prices and Enrich Husbandman at Same Time.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Debate on the tariff in the Senate began in earnest today, with Chairman Simmons of the Finance Committee proclaiming the new bill a satisfactory answer to the demand of the country for downward revision, and Senator Cummins, speaking from a Progressive Republican standpoint, predicting that it would carry the Democratic party to defeat.

Senator Simmons replied to contentions that the bill discriminated against the farmer. Senator Cummins asserted that the Democratic party had treated the farmer as an outlaw, and vigorously assailed President Wilson for his participation in framing the bill, characterizing it as "coercive."

Senator Simmons recounted the farm products the measure would place on the free list, such as wheat, flour, cattle, sheep, swine, sugar, wool, eggs and potatoes, and said:

"Every man, whatever his occupation, will be the beneficiary in some direction, to a greater or lesser degree, of this general system of reduction. In this respect the farmer has been shown special consideration. Practically everything he buys has been put on the free list, or the duties have been greatly reduced.

"For his special benefit," he continued, "cotton bagging and ties and the materials out of which sacks for grain, wool, fertilizer, etc., are made, wire for fencing and baling purposes and similar articles of farm consumption have been put upon the free list. For his special benefit plows, shovels, hoes, rakes, mowers, reapers, planters and agricultural implements of every description have been put upon the free list. He will be in a large degree the beneficiary of free listing building materials of various kinds, materials used in the construction of roads, text-books for schools, etc., boots and shoes, low-grade blankets, harness, saddles and saddlery, wagons, carts, sewing machines and other like products.

"He will share general benefits from the reduction of sugar and its ultimate abolition, and finally, he will share benefits of the heavy reductions this bill makes on wearing apparel of every description, crockery, hardware, household and kitchen furnishings and utensils."

FREE LIST AND PROTECTION.

Chairman Simmons declared that the free list under the present Payne-Aldrich law was in the interest of the protected manufacturers.

"The free list in this bill is a free list in the interest of the consumer as well as the manufacturer," he said. "Under the Payne-Aldrich law more than half of all importations to this country are on the free list. More than 80 per cent. of these free imports are the raw materials or semi-raw materials of the manufacturer.

"Undoubtedly there will be increased importations under this bill," Senator Simmons declared. "That was intended and provided for in the reductions in rates it makes. You cannot revise the tariff so as to give relief from present tariff burdens except by enlarging opportunities for importations. Undoubtedly, on the other hand, there will be increased exportations under this bill. That was also intended by its framers and is provided for in such ways as was found possible and practicable.

"To this end it untaxes the things the farmer employs in making the products he sells abroad. It untaxes the raw materials of the manufacturer. It largely untaxes the material used in the construction of his plant and the machinery needed for its equipment to enable them to meet their foreign competitor on more advantageous terms, not only at home but abroad.

"In short it seeks in such ways as are open to establish upon a broader basis that spirit of comity on which international good will rests, to remove hampering restrictions to broaden the basis of international trade and enable the producer to take advantage in greater measure than has been possible under existing tariff conditions of our national opportunity in the market places of the world."

GIRL HANGED ON FENCE.

Thought Herself Menaced by Black Hand and Coroner's Jury Refuses to Render Suicide Verdict.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 19.—The young woman found hanging to a fence post near the county highway leading to Tinsley Park, Ill., was identified today as Miss Martha Winters, 25 years old, a daughter of Christopher Winters, a farmer living near Audubon, Iowa. The mystery of Miss Winters's death, however, was not lifted, a Coroner's jury refusing to call it suicide.

Miss Winters had been working in Chicago as a seamstress and had been living with Mrs. Margaret Rumsey in a downtown boarding-house neighborhood. Witnesses told that Miss Winters apparently had been subject to delusions and believed that she was menaced by the "Black Hand."

Miss Winters was found yesterday tied by the neck to a fence post with a strip of cloth torn from her own dress. Her feet were touching the ground and her watch, purse and money were untouched. Physicians testified that she died from strangulation. The investigation will be continued.

SURPRISING SHOWER.

Rain at 10 o'clock last night set the graybeards to pulling their whiskers and comparing reminiscences but, b' gwan, they couldn't think back far enough to remember when Southern California's last July shower occurred.

The rain, which sent the Saturday night downtown crowd scurrying for cover in surprise, continued in alternating showers for half an hour.

Cloudbursts in the mountains back of San Bernardino, on the Sierra Madre range, are responsible for the precipitation here and for a radius of twenty-five miles around the city.

The shower was not heavy enough anywhere in this district to effect the crops—even to wash the dust away.

Southern California boosters who were assembled in the lobby of the Alexandria Hotel termed it a divine gift to a salubrious climate.

"An equable all-year temperature—with rains in January and rains in July. What more can we ask of providence?" asked one booster.

"Nothing—unless it be the decorative scheme of Paradise, itself," came an answer.

"We've got that already," said another. It must have been Frank Wiggins.

ONTARIO'S FIRST LICENSE.

ONTARIO, July 19.—The first marriage license ever to be issued in Ontario went to a spry couple of sixty odd summers. Yesterday, Attorney Archie D. Mitchell received the appointment of marriage license clerk for Ontario and this morning he issued the first license to Albert Watenpaugh, age 67, a resident of Glendale, and Mrs. Sarah N. Robinson, a resident of this city and in her 60th year. The license secured, the couple stepped into the office of Judge J. R. Pollock, adjoining, and had the knot tied. Bride and groom both declared they felt as chipper as on the days when they launched on their first sea of matrimony.

The Test.

QUESTION OF JURISDICTION.

Deny City's Right to Set Harbor Speed Limit.

Navigators Protest Four-Mile Restriction.

Federal Government Makes Rule, They Say.

The trial of Capt. Rasmus Jepsen, master of the Pacific Navigation Company's steamer Harvard, charged with having exceeded the four-mile an hour speed limit in the inner harbor, is set for tomorrow, before Justice Chesebro at the water front.

Much interest is taken in the case by the sea faring men of the South Coast as it arouses a question of maritime jurisdiction between Federal and city governments.

That it is within the jurisdiction of the Secretary of War and not the municipality to fix the rules and speed regulations of navigation has long been the contention of master mariners here, who complain that the ordinance adopted by the Harbor Commission is too stringent.

Capt. O. Rankin, master of the steamer Rose City, is one of those who make this contention. On his arrival here Wednesday he produced quotations purporting to show that not only does the Secretary make rules and regulations within municipal boundaries, but that he is empowered by Congress to do so. In the supervision of navigable water the Secretary of War does not necessarily recognize municipal boundaries.

HARBOR ACT.

The Rivers and Harbors Act of August 18, 1891, Sec. 4, was amended to read as follows, June 13, 1902:

"It shall be the duty of the Secretary of War to prescribe such rules and regulations for the use, administration and navigation of any and all canals, and similar works of navigation that now are, or that hereafter may be, owned, operated or maintained by the United States as in his judgment the public necessity may require; and he is also authorized to prescribe regulations to govern the speed and movement of vessels and other water craft in any public navigable channel which has been improved under authority of Congress, whenever, in his judgment, such regulations are necessary to protect such improved channels from injury, or to prevent interference with the operations of the United States in improving navigable waters or injury to any plant that may be employed in such operations."

SIX-MILE LIMIT.

Under this act the Secretary of War ruled that any vessel passing within 600 feet of a floating plant of any character employed by the government "shall slow down to six miles an hour and shall give the craft as wide a berth as practicable and not less than 100 feet."

Another rule reads: "Every steam vessel passing a dredger or other plant that may be employed in river improvement or at anchor shall be navigated under slow bell at a speed of not more than six statute miles per hour."

Damage to dredgers has been the principal cause for complaint here and master mariners contend that the Harbor Commission should have demanded of the Secretary of War that he fix the speed limit here instead of tinkering with the question through city ordinance.

It is pointed out that neither at Portland or New York has a speed of less than six miles an hour been fixed.

The question of jurisdiction will be raised, it is said, by attorneys for the Banning Company, who have appealed the case against Alex Smith, master of the steamer Hermosa, who was recently fined $500 for violation of the speed ordinance.

It is said that the Jason case will also be appealed in case the captain is convicted and the question of jurisdiction will be carried to the United States Courts.

From a Survivor.

LOS ANGELES, July 19.—[To the Editor of The Times:] As one of the survivors of the Venice railroad wreck some of the things that occur to me may be of interest. I was on the train that was standing. The conductor came back and was just opposite my open window. He was shouting something to the man back, who did not seem to be doing or acting satisfactorily. He repeated his warning, his tone and manner attracting my attention, and I knew something was not exactly right after an interval. His next words were "Oh, God!" And then he called to those in our car a warning. Then came the crash. I took occasion to go back the next morning to see how far back the motorman could have been to have seen the lights of our train. (By the way, these lights did not go out till after the crash.) I, with several others who were there, decided that the motorman could have had clear view of the hind end of the train from almost a half-mile back. The Coroner's inquiry should have investigated where the motorman spent the time while in Venice and his condition when taking charge of the car.

Who is to blame? I would say first the State Railroad Commission. There have lately been too many accidents, and there is no need. Only a few weeks ago a similar case (only worse, as more lives were lost,) occurred near Vallejo. Then but a few days ago a whole family was wiped out by a car going over an automobile. I say again that there is no need.

I have argued with Railroad Commissioners Gordon and Eshelman over and over again that they were attempting too much when they were assuming to regulate every utility in the State. I have made the point with them that the transportation business alone would be as much as any one commission could handle properly. As it is now they may be investigating whether some water or lighting company in some little town is collecting from some customer 50 cents per month more than it should. Instead of serving warning on every company in the State that something must be done, they have had this power for two years and have done little or nothing.

Then referring to the electric company. Their trains will stop almost anywhere to collect a 5-cent fare, but if some one's auto goes dead on the right of way their cars can never be stopped in time to prevent an accident. Have they any drills of their employees as to how quickly a train can be brought to a standstill; for instance, to prevent going over a child? Tests as to whether the motorman can see ahead where there are curves and the headlight is shining miles away out into the country? Why not one that can be turned around when it is needed? How about emergency drills for the men at intervals, etc.? Must the motorman depend entirely upon signals?

HARRY POLSLEY.

TRASK APPOINTED.

ESCONDIDO, July 19.—Anticipating the sale of the bonds the City Trustees have arranged with F. E. Trask, an engineer of Los Angeles, to have charge of the installation of the $100,000 municipal water supply, doing the consulting and directing work. Mr. Trask has been in the city several times and has been of assistance to the Trustees in launching the bonding scheme. He has had wide experience in the installation of water plants in Southern California. The field work will be in charge of Civil Engineer N. K. Carpenter. The necessary formal steps for the issue of the bonds are being taken as fast as possible by the City Trustees.

LA CRESCENTA LINE.

GLENDALE, July 19.—The work of extending the Glendale-Montrose electric line to La Crescenta, a small place a mile and a half beyond Montrose, has just been completed and cars are being run on the new extension at intervals of one hour. Manager Burton of the system states that a half-hour schedule will be started the first of August. It is the intention of the company to standardize all of its tracks and just as soon as this is effected the line will be extended on to Sunland, Monte Vista, and will connect with the line running to Los Angeles, via Pasadena. Traffic over this line has been growing at a wonderful rate. This line is opening up a country that for years has been waiting for railway facilities and which is extremely valuable. At Montrose the Holmes-Walton Company is erecting eight excellent homes. Five of these are costing $3500 each, while the other three have contract prices of $4000, $5500 and $7200 each, respectively. A $15,000 business block will be started at that place in the near future by the company. Also, J. W. M. Burton, manager of the Glendale-Montrose Railway, is putting up a seven-room house which is costing $3500.

TO KILL PRAIRIE DOGS.

PRESCOTT, July 17. — Prairie dogs are to be destroyed in Arizona, if the United States government can do it. Dr. A. K. Fisher, in charge of economic investigations for the biological survey, has just paid another visit to Prescott and announced that in the fall he will send an expert to Yavapai county, to try to kill the prairie dogs by means of poisoned grain.

Vast amounts of range forage are eaten by the prairie dogs, which are cordially hated by the stockmen and farmers. Already the government has done much to eradicate the rodents. At least 95 per cent. of those living on 100,000 acres of the Coconino forest have been poisoned.

A lively scramble is on for the position of City Attorney of Prescott. F. L. Haworth has resigned because of his health and will step out August 1. H. H. Linney, R. P. Talbot, J. E. Mitchell and J. E. Russell have applied to the Council for the office.

Juan Olea, a cowboy of Skull Valley, had the right side of his face torn away by the hoof of a horse. The horse stumbled, throwing its rider underneath.

JIGGS STRIKES OUT.

Noted Ball Player of Chicago White Sox Dies in Asylum After One Year's Confinement.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

COLUMBUS (O.) July 19.—"Jiggs" Donahue, star first baseman for the Chicago Americans in 1906, when they defeated the Chicago Cubs in the world's series, died today at the Columbus State Hospital. The direct cause of death was paresis. Burial will be at Springfield, O., his home.

Donahue began his baseball career with the St. Louis Nationals as a catcher. From St. Louis he went to Milwaukee, where he played first base, and later to the Chicagos. His wonderful fielding is said to have enabled the Sox to win the world championship series in 1906. He was sold to Washington several years later but failed to make good there. He returned to Chicago, where he ran bowling alleys. He was sent to the State Hospital in this city a year ago. Domestic trouble is said to have undermined his health.

Donahue has been reported dead several times since he was confined to the asylum here.

COULD NOT RESIST.

Although not intending to risk the trip to San Diego by yacht, Mrs. Hubbell, wife of Commodore C. E. W. Hubbell, changed her mind yesterday and when the Mischief sailed she was aboard with her daughter, Miss Lila Hubbell, and Mrs. H. L. Rhoades. The other members of the crew, besides the commodore, were Rex C. Hubbell, R. T. Smith, H. L. Rhoades, Fred Brainard and J. Jones.

MORMONS TAKE ONE.

SAN BERNARDINO, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Mormons today won from the Santa Barbara in the resumption of the Southern California League schedule, by a 5-to-4 score. The spectacular fielding by both teams was easily the feature of the contest, which was a good one. The new Santa Barbara team is made up largely of the members of the old Visalia team in the San Joaquin Valley League. The Santa Barbara franchise will probably be transferred elsewhere in a few days.

MITCHELL NOT IN IT.

Commodore Hubbell received a letter yesterday from Commodore A. J. Mitchell of the Sunset Yacht Club at Long Beach in which Commodore Mitchell expressed his regrets that he could not join the South Coast fleet at the San Diego regatta. All preparations had been made to take the flagship, Yankee Girl, over the course with the racers yesterday, but a telegram from Colorado upset Commodore Mitchell's plans and instead of the cruise south he will go East this week on business.

SHOOT AT EASTLAKE.

Seventh Regimenters to Pump Lead Into Targets Today—Camp of Instructions.

Today at Eastlake Park rifle range fifty members of the Seventh Regiment, N.G.C., enter a camp of instruction for rifle practice, where during three days they are to compete for the privilege of representing the regiment in the State contests next August, wherein the membership of the California State rifle team of 1913 will be determined, as it will compete in the national matches at Camp Perry, O.

Col. W. G. Schreiber is in command of the camp, and acts as range officer. The best fifteen marksmen of the regiment, chosen from their scores this week, will go to the State shoot at the expense of the Federal government, and as many as qualify for the team will enjoy the eastern trip in addition.

Three trials are included in the range competition, at slow fire, surprise fire, and skirmish fire of two runs. Slow fire is conducted at the distances of 600 and 1000 yards, the surprise fire at 200 yards.

Firing is to begin today as soon as all outside competitors have arrived; this will probably be about noon. All the tests should be finished by Tuesday evening.

CHICAGO, July 19.—A twelfth-inning rally by Connie Mack's league leaders enabled them to leave Chicago today with an even break on the series by winning the second game, 3 to 1, while the local club took the first, 4 to 3.

J. Collins's misjudging of Baker's hit, which went for three bases, paved the way for the victory of the Philadelphians in the last inning. E. Collins had walked, and Baker's double put him on third. Both Collins and Baker scored on a double to center and gave the visitors the runs which clinched the game.

C. Brown, the collegian, who was hit hard in the opener and taken out, asked Mack for another opportunity to face the locals, and his request was granted. He retrieved himself by holding the locals to six hits in the twelve innings.

Chicago's one run resulted from singles by Weaver and Bodie, who batted for Walsh, an error by Barry and a wild pitch.

Chappelle, Comiskey's high-priced fielder, upset Brown in the opening game by cracking out a triple. Rath followed with a double and after Lord had sacrificed and Brown threw wild, the locals had counted two runs. Hits by Lord and Schalk with a stolen base, netted another and the winning run came when Cicotte drew a pass from Houck, who had replaced Brown, Chappelle's single and Lord's sacrifice fly. Scores:

OFF TO CATALINA.

Although unable to make the San Diego cruise, Capt. Ellis Wing Taylor sailed his big yawl Trojan out of the harbor late Friday night bound for the isthmus of Catalina Island. A jolly party was aboard and some fine sport and incidentally some good fishing is contemplated. The return trip will be made Sunday. Those in the party were E. W. Taylor, skipper; Mrs. F. W. Taylor, chaperon; F. W. Howard Taylor, first mate; E. C. Taylor, second mate; Fred Taylor, steward; Miss Alma Taylor, musician; Dr. Eddie Eisen, chief cook; G. M. Robinson, mess boy; Misses C. Donley, A. Parson, Elizabeth Morrison and Louise Barclay, guests.

EACH GETS ONE.

DETROIT, July 19. — [By A. P. Night Wire.] Detroit and Boston divided today's doubleheader, the home team winning the first game by 3 to 1, and the visitors taking the second by 6 to 2.

The first game was featured by excellent fielding by both teams, Cobb's two catches in centerfield, which resulted in double plays, being particularly brilliant. Lewis secured three singles and a double in four times at bat, and made a running barehand catch of a long fly that brought the crowd to its feet with a cheer. The scores:

PURSE OF GEMS GONE.

With $4000 in diamonds in his purse, William McDole, capitalist, went out to inspect the city last night. He had secured accommodations at First and Spring streets, in the Hotel Wilson. For some hours he continued his lonely festivities until he searched for his purse. It was gone.

The purse contained one three-carat white diamond, one three and one-half-carat diamond and one large opal ring surrounded by fifteen quarter-carat diamonds. Other loose diamonds were in the purse. McDole spent the remainder of the night assisting the detectives.

"Times" Camp.

PARADISE FOR BOYS, CATALINA FEATURE.

A BOY'S Paradise! Music that runs itself, baseball on tap at all hours, football every morning before breakfast, good fishing if you are not too lazy to drop your line in the water, a bathing suit that you can keep on for four days straight and that you don't have to take off even when sleeping, and last—but not least—"three squares a day," so painfully on time that a tardiness of thirty seconds will make you the prey of the head dishwasher: such is the life lived at The Times Camp. In addition, the camp is situated in a spot that is considered by the millionaire and the pauper, who has seen it, a haven of idle fancy, "A Paradise in the Pacific."

Half mile back from the shoreline of the prettiest bay on the West Coast, is the Times camp, with its sixteen employees all bending their energies toward entertaining visitors, cooking and to showing the boys the time of their life—a thousand of the liveliest and most enterprising boys in the Southwest. It is a great undertaking, but the boys appreciate all that is done for them by the camp officials, and hence ever after become some of The Times greatest boosters.

The only way to enjoy the privileges of the outdoor life, the four days of unsurpassed "boy heaven" is by securing six monthly subscriptions for one month and turn them in to the office.

Lloyd Jones of Los Angeles, though he was notified that his mother has suddenly become heir to millions by the death of an Australian uncle, was almost in tears when he found that his four days of camp life had expired and that he had to return to the mainland with the balance of the fifth contingent of four-day visitors. But Lloyd promised faithfully that he would be back for at least eight days more before the season closed—and that the cup which he had fixed in his mind to win as the record angler would be his.

"I would sooner have that cup presented by Tufts-Lyon than a present of a hundred dollars," the boy said. "My fish so far have only been little fellows, but leave it to me; there are some big fellows still in the drink and I'm going to pull one out."

The boy has a kindly disposition and after he has landed a fish, if it is no larger than the one he caught before, turns it loose—and says, "You're only a little fellow—you ain't no good just yet. Wait till you get bigger and I will come back and tackle you." As a newspaper hustler in Los Angeles the 11-year-old boy has few equals. Promptness has always been his motto.

So it is that only boys of energy and resourcefulness gain the enjoyments of the camp. From Manager Johnson down to the camp "hashers" every mind is concentrated on the single purpose of making each boy happy.

Besides the Camp Management, the most prominent merchants and producers of foodstuffs in all California are, through the excellence of their goods, conspiring with Chef Jackson to feed the boys in a manner unexcelled anywhere in the realms of camping. Time after time visitors at the Camp have stood amazed at the magnificence of the culinary department. No trouble or expense is spared to provide the best food the market affords.

This is the third year of the Camp's existence and its success has been so marked that Howland & Dewey were eager to add to the success of this year's camp by giving a $35 kodak to the boy who makes the best picture while a guest of the Camp, and the Tufts-Lyon Company has put up a costly silver cup for the boy who catches the largest fish. These trophies are always on exhibition at the Camp and act as a perpetual incentive to the more indolent fellows; the more energetic need no incentive.

A big feature of the Camp life are the visitors. Since the Camp ground is now one of the real "show places" of the island there are many visitors, all curious and interested. These are always delightfully surprised at the perfect appointment of the Camp, though they exclaim volubly over the large and excellent commissary and the fine bath and shower room.

To mothers the most important feature about the Camp is the care of the smaller boys. The matron, Mrs. Charles Bryant, a practical nurse, and the mother of four children, has proven herself a really, truly mother, and the care she has taken of many sunburned shoulders and arms speaks "mother-comfort" for every boy-guest as long as the Camp is open.

Immediately upon arrival at the camp each boy is taught the advantages of saving his money and getting the best out of it when he does spend his hard-earned pennies. A small savings bank where boys deposit and withdraw funds is always accessible.

Camp Six is proving itself to be fairly alive with baseball "sharks." Friday morning the "Reach" team was victorious over the "Dyas-Cline's" by a score of 6 to 3. The batting of Willie Einzig and Art Brown was largely responsible for the victory. The "Wally Robb's" defeated the "Hartmann's" by a score of 3 to 1. The clever twirling of Harlan Mills was all that saved the "Wally's" from defeat. Lawrence Stillwell and Fred Leroy were the heavy hitters for the winners. Each copped a two-base hit and a single in three trips to the plate.

Owing to the fact that the Camp "Mascot" yet remains to be caught, every member of "Camp 6" went on a monster "Goat Hunt" yesterday. Early breakfast was the word and then off to the remote ends of the island. The Goat "Mascot" must be caught.

Under the watchful eye of the veteran Chef Jackson the boys continue to thrive and grow fat.

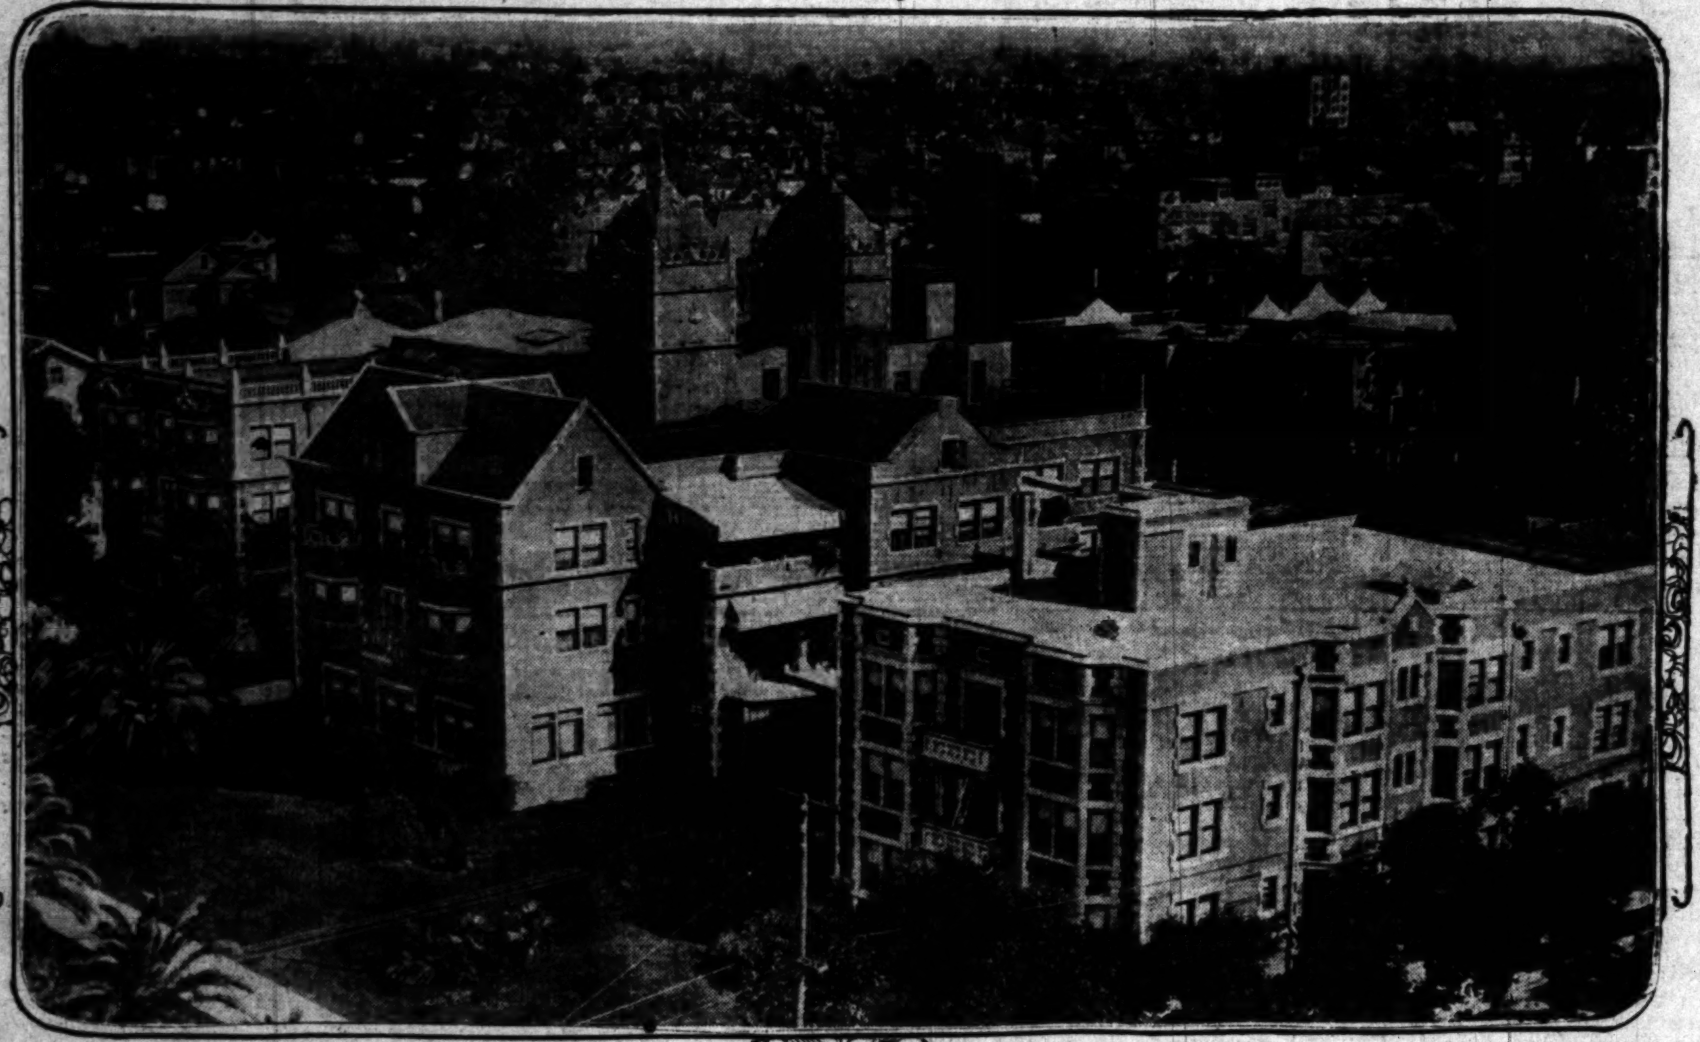
Fashionable Wilshire Boulevard Hostelry Just Taken Over by New Yorker.



Hershey Arms Hotel, lease and furnishings of which have been sold by Miss Helen Mathewson to Miss Ida F. Fay.

Notable Deal.

HERSHEY ARMS CHANGES HANDS.

WILSHIRE HOTEL TAKEN OVER BY NEW YORKER.

Unexpired Lease and Furnishings of Fashionable West Side Hotel Sold by Original Lessee—Place Is in Heart of Exclusive Residence District.

For a reported consideration of $75,000, Miss Helen Mathewson, proprietor for the past six years of the fashionable Hershey Arms Hotel at Wilshire boulevard and Coronado street, has sold the lease and furnishings of that property to Miss Ida F. Fay of New York City. The seller was represented in the deal by E. W. Cason & Co., and the buyer by Fay Roberts, of Frank D. Tatum & Co. The lease has nine years to run. Miss Fay has taken possession of the hostelry.

The Hershey Arms was built for Miss Mathewson by Myra Hershey in 1907, being taken over by the former under a fifteen-year lease. John C. Austin was the architect of the building.

The hotel is surrounded by ample and beautifully kept grounds, the site having a frontage of 250 feet on the south side of Wilshire by a depth of 150 feet on both Coronado and Rampart streets. It stands in the heart of the Wilshire-Westlake district.

The building contains 100 guest rooms, arranged both singly and en suite. The rooms are large and finished in hard woods. Each has a color scheme of its own. The furniture throughout is of mahogany. The baths are in tile.

The lobby and parlors are furnished for the most part with rare Japanese furniture, collected by Miss Mathewson piece by piece during the years she managed the place. This is mostly of teakwood and richly carved. The hangings are also for the most part of Japanese make. The unique effect of the appointments has contributed much to the fame of the place.

Miss Mathewson expects to live at the hotel for the next three months, following which she will spend a year or more traveling abroad.

APARTMENTS LEASED.

Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Church, proprietors of the Hotel Pepper, have purchased the ten-year lease and the furniture of the Howell Terrace apartments at No. 1122 West Seventh street. Mrs. Church will manage the Howell Terrace, while Mr. Church will continue in charge of the Hotel Pepper. The capacity of the Howell Terrace property is to be doubled next year by the duplication of the present building on the other side of its present court entrance.

FOR WEST TWELFTH.

Attractive Ninety-room Apartment-House to Follow Conservative Lines of Eastern Types.

Plans are being drawn by Oliver P. Dennis and Henry Harwood Hewitt, associated architects, for a handsome four-story apartment-house to be erected by Mary Newell at No. 1322 West Twelfth street. The structure will be 50x120 feet in size and will contain ninety rooms.

The building will be of brick construction and will be faced with ruffled and pressed brick. In design it will follow conservative lines, suggesting the quieter eastern types. Casement windows will be used. Ornamental iron balconies will constitute an attractive feature. The entrance will be in marble and tile.

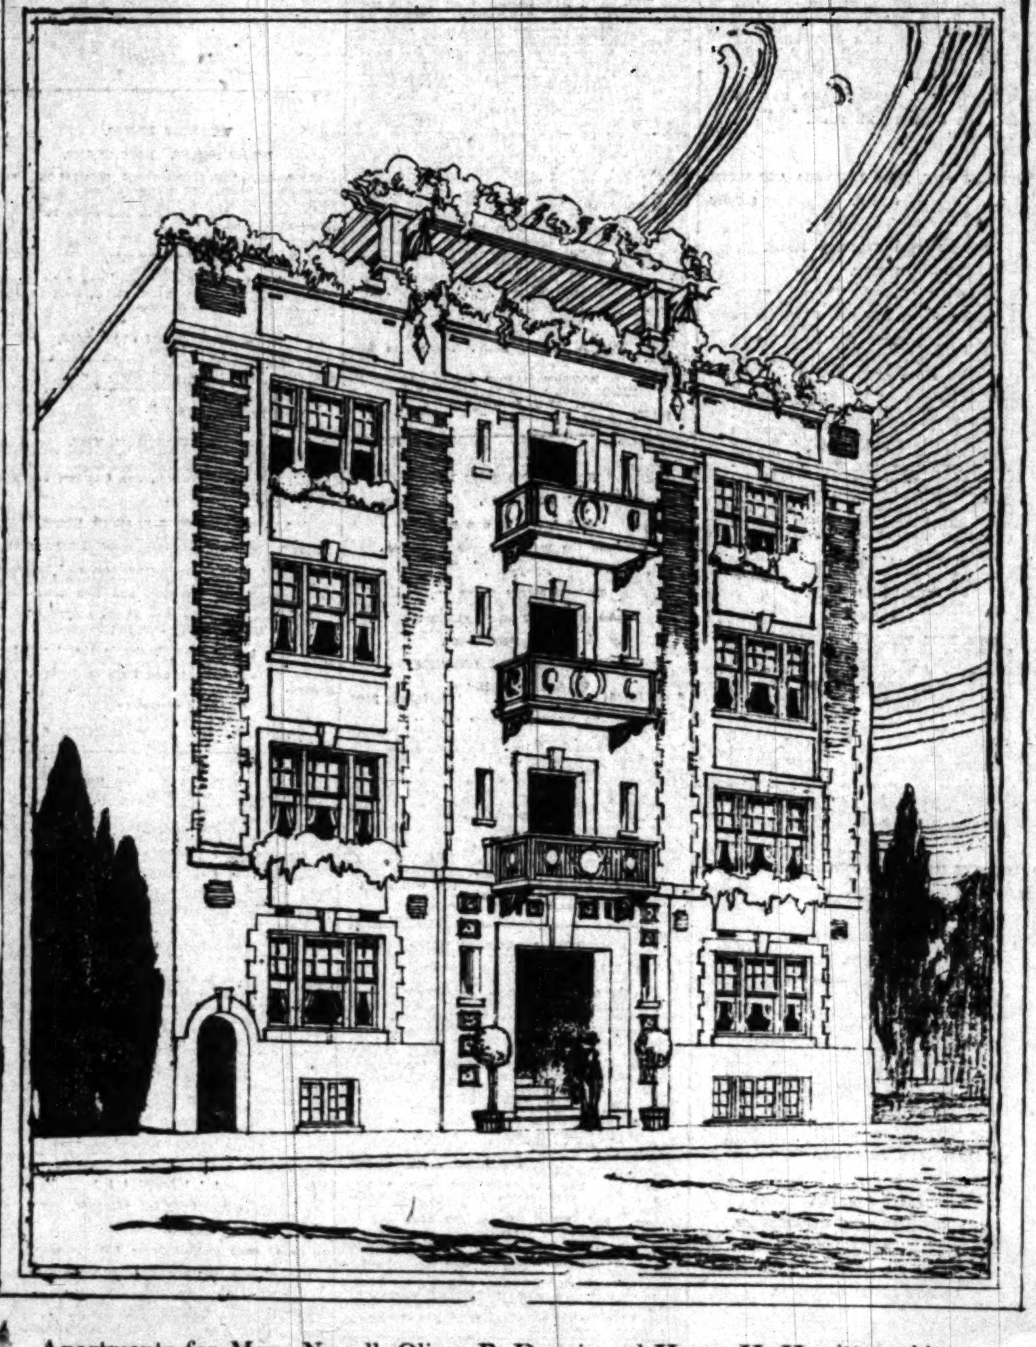
The building will contain an amusement room in the basement. The lobby will be finished in mahogany, the rest of the interior being in birch and white enamel. Each apartment will include a dressing-room. The roof will be given over to a roof garden and sun parlor.

FORM PARTNERSHIP.

Oliver P. Dennis, one of the old-time architects of Los Angeles, has taken into partnership Harry Harwood Hewitt, recently of Denver and for years one of the leaders of his profession in the Colorado city. Hewitt has had a thorough training in architecture, being a graduate of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and of the Ecole des Beaux Arts, in Paris. He has planned many important buildings in Colorado and other States, including several notably fine residences in Denver. His firm designed the famous group of structures comprising Clayton College, together with other noteworthy educational buildings. Dennis was formerly associated with Lyman Farwell under the firm name of Dennis & Farwell, but has maintained an office of his own for several months.

MANHATTAN BEACH.

Manhattan Beach sales are reported by the Cooper, Culler Company, represented by the C. A. Daugherty Real Estate Agency, as follows: Mrs. A. L. Mason, one lot, $1500; Willa Buck and Faye Barkelew, one lot, $625; F. H. Johnston, three lots, $1700; Dr. M. Jayne, two lots, $1100; Mrs. C. C. Newton, one lot, $550; Frances A. Barr, one lot, $550; W. W. Phelps, one lot, $600, and Grant Lincoln, G. S. Thatcher, Dr. W. A. Cundy and W. H. Reeves, one lot each.



Apartments for Mary Newell, Oliver P. Dennis and Henry H. Hewitt, architects.

That acreage for subdivision is exhausted; that building to sell on installments is overdone, but house rentals more than hold their own, are and long must be in big demand at rates which net from 10 to 12 per cent., while increase in values from city's growth far more than pays for insurance, taxes, dilapidations and temporary vacancies.

I own and wish to sell modern, up-to-date residences in best part of Southwest, which are rented to steady monthly, prompt paying tenants at good rates, and can remain so rented.

RUSHING BROOK IN YOUR FRONT YARD.
Owner must sell at once, one of the most picturesque home sites in Southern California.

Imagine ferns, natural trees and a rushing mountain stream in your very own front yard, with the site for your home, garden and tennis court slightly elevated and overlooking this natural park!

The elevation is 1000 feet. Short block from the car line. Perfect auto boulevard. Thirty minutes from Broadway. Splendid environments.

This is an east front corner, 180x200; not a fifty-foot lot, and will make a home place with individual character. It combines the woods and brook of the East with our wonderful Southern California climate and view of the mountains.

This is the home site you've longed for. There isn't another place like it. As an investment alone it is worth three times what I'll sell for, as I must raise cash immediately.

I am the actual owner of this place and have plans all made for my own home place.

Unplanted Tracts and Young Groves of 5 to 50 acres

WITHIN SUBURBAN DISTANCE OF LOS ANGELES.

If you are looking for choice orange and lemon lands, as well as a certain investment and a most desirable location for a suburban home, you will be interested to know the many advantages North Whittier Heights has to offer.

The property begins about 2 miles northeast of the city limits of Whittier and extends toward Puente—a small portion of it being in the "Whittier Hills," but the main body of the property lies in beautiful undulating slopes, with an elevation and drainage that insures the most effective protection from harmful frosts and destructive winds.

The property is only fifteen miles from Los Angeles—a short and beautiful ride by auto over a splendid paved boulevard. The Salt Lake Railway skirts the land on the north and the Southern Pacific is within a mile of the property.

A man can have an orange grove at North Whittier Heights that is a money maker and still go to his office or place of business in Los Angeles every day, and he will be better, physically and mentally, for living close to nature.

Residents at North Whittier Heights will not only benefit by being close to market with exceptional shipping facilities, but will have every advantage of school, churches, and refined social surroundings. If you are ambitious to own a profitable orange grove home, you should BY ALL MEANS see North Whittier Heights and investigate its advantages and attractions.

FOR SALE—A SPLENDID STOCK OR COLONIZATION PROPOSITION.
If looking for a legitimate stock or colonization proposition where handsome returns and absolute safety are assured, where settlers can get good land and plenty of water at low prices and on easy terms, you should investigate this.
I control all outstanding capital stock of a corporation developing about 12,000 acres of good farming lands in Idaho — on Pacific slope — 4000 acres of which are now under ditch with an abundance of water and ready for settlers.
This is a Carey Act proposition. The State charges 50 cents per acre for the land and authorizes this corporation to collect (secured by lien on the land) $30 per acre for permanent water right, payable in 10 annual installments with interest at 6 per cent.
The registrar of State Board of Land Commissioners writes:
"I visited this project on June 16 and was well pleased with it in many respects. I found the water actually on the land before the Carey Act opening which is a very desirable feature. . . . I also found that there is no bonded indebtedness against the project, which also is a very desirable feature, as it leaves the owners of the project absolutely free to deal directly with the settlers.
"The land is comparatively level, having just about slope enough for easy irrigation. This land is from 5000 to 6000 feet in altitude and well adapted to the growing of grain and grasses, and small fruits, but too high for the growing of any fruits except small fruits. On the whole, I should say that it is very well adapted to dairying and stock raising, and that its chief value lies in that direction."
Climate is healthy and invigorating; timber for lumber and fuel close by; good hunting and fishing; no hardships; adjoins small town; railroad runs through the land, affording excellent markets.
An ideal colonization proposition for people seeking a fairly cold climate where they can make good on small capital with a minimum of pioneering.
The first unit of 4000 acres (just completed in June) will bring in $120,000. Water can be put on about 8000 acres more at very low cost, as no reservoirs are required, diversions being direct from streams.
Property is in excellent physical shape and will be delivered entirely free of debt. Present owners are scattered non-residents unable to give it attention, hence will sell at small advance on cost.
Price $51,250 cash.
If this appeals to you let me hear from you THIS week.

CALIFORNIA FRUIT AND GRAIN RANCH.

800 ACRES FRUIT AND GRAIN RANCH.

$40 AN ACRE $40.

RANCH IMMEDIATELY ADJOINING NO

BETTER VALUE AT $150 AN ACRE.

The 800 acres which I have for sale belongs to a woman heavily involved financially, hence the sacrifice. All tillable except about 50 acres of fine oak timber and lies in the heart of one of California's rich fruit belts.

THERE IS A SMALL FIG AND ALMOND ORCHARD ON THE RANCH WHICH HAS NETTED THE OWNER CLEAR ABOVE PICKING, PACKING, ETC., $100 AN ACRE FOR A NUMBER OF YEARS. FIG TREES BEAR TWO CROPS ANNUALLY AND ARE NEVER INJURED BY FROST.

The soil of the entire ranch is most fertile and the ranch is supplied with water from a number of live springs, there being running water all the year round. The climate is ideal and the soil is well adapted to figs, almonds, oranges, lemons, apricots and prunes.

If purchaser will put the ranch in various kinds of fruit and subdivide it, he would be able to sell it at $150 an acre.

The above-described ranch is not far from San Francisco and is only 1½ miles from a good railroad station, and but 17 miles from the county seat of the county in which it is located, which is one of the richest in all California.
Fine schools, banks, stores and churches in immediate vicinity.
As this part of California is filling up rapidly and will fill up even more rapidly after the opening of the Panama Canal, here is one of the finest opportunities for a good investment to be offered anywhere. Terms very reasonable.

BUSINESS INVESTMENTS—

FOR SALE—A SPLENDID STOCK OR COLONIZATION PROPOSITION.

If looking for a legitimate stock or colonization proposition where handsome returns and absolute safety are assured, where settlers can get good land and plenty of water at low prices and on easy terms, you should investigate this.

I control all outstanding capital stock of a corporation developing about 12,000 acres of good farming lands in Idaho — on Pacific Slope — 4000 acres of which are now under ditch with an abundance of water and ready for settlers.

This is a Carey Act proposition. The State charges 50 cents per acre for the land and authorizes this corporation to collect (secured by lien on the land) $30 per acre for permanent water right, payable in 10 annual installments with interest at 6 per cent.

The registrar of State Board of Land Commissioners writes:

"I visited this project on June 16 and was well pleased with it in many respects. I found the water actually on the land before the Carey Act opening, which is a very desirable feature. I also found that there is no bonded indebtedness against the project, which also is a very desirable feature, as it leaves the owners of the project absolutely free to deal directly with the settlers.

"The land is comparatively level, having just about slope enough for easy irrigation. This land is from 5000 to 6000 feet in altitude and well adapted to the growing of grain and grasses, and small fruits, but too high for the growing of any fruits except small fruits. On the whole, I should say that it is very well adapted to dairying and stock raising, and that its chief value lies in that direction."

Climate is healthy and invigorating; timber for lumber and fuel close by; good hunting and fishing; no hardships; adjoins small town; railroad runs through the land, affording excellent markets.

An ideal colonization proposition for people seeking a fairly cold climate where they can make good on small capital with a minimum of pioneering.

The first unit of 4000 acres (just completed in June) will bring in $120,000. Water can be put on about 8000 acres more at very low cost, as no reservoirs are required, diversions being direct from streams.

Property is in excellent physical shape and will be delivered entirely free of debt. Present owners are scattered non-residents unable to give it attention, hence will sell at small advance on cost.

Price $51,220 cash.

If this appeals to you let me hear from you THIS week.

W. C. CAMPBELL, 6810 Hollywood Blvd. Phone 57202.

THEREFORE WHEAT PRICES TAKE A DROP AT CHICAGO.

Oats Reported Almost a Complete Failure in Missouri—Rain and Cooler Wearther in Southwest and West Eases Corn Only Temporarily in the Pit.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, July 19.—Hope that the spring crop would escape serious damage from rust took increasing attention today and lowered the price of wheat. The market closed steady at ⅛ to ¼c under last night. Corn finished ⅛ to ⅜@¼c higher, oats up ⅜ to ¾ and provisions from 5 to 7½c decline to an advance of ½. Favorable weather northwest made the wheat pit disposed to accept a cheerful view of field conditions. Although rain and cooler weather west and southwest eased corn at first, higher prices ruled in the end. Oats—a special feature was the active buying of December for outside account. The crop in Missouri was said to be almost a failure. Realizing sales by longs formed the rule in most of the provision options. The main reason was the prospect of a more liberal supply of hogs next week.

SALES REPORTED—Morning session: 500 United oil at 4½; 3 $1000 Home Tel. bonds at 80.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKET.

There was an oversupply of cantaloupes yesterday, with a consequent reduction in prices. In fact, some dealers quoted as low as 90 cents a crate on "ponies," and at correspondingly reduced rates on other grades. The arrival of more Imperial Valley and local melons, and lightened demand appears the cause of abundance. "Locals" should be received pretty freely next week.

Several cars of peaches, a car or so of bellflower apples, and several large consignments of bananas were reported in. The fruit market showed no particular change. Plums continue the leading feature, although peaches and nectarines are more in evidence than a week or so ago.

The vegetable market remains about the same. Bell peppers and chile continue scarce. Tomatoes have been very plentiful this week, as have also cucumbers, and other summer vegetables. The potato and dried bean markets are firm. The onion market is dull.

There was no call at the Produce Exchange yesterday, and consequently no change was made in the quoted price of staple products. Eggs and butter are firm, while cheese is pretty steady. More eastern cheese has been received on the market this season than last year.

Reported receipts were, eggs, 371 cases; butter, 38,140 pounds; cheese, 1225 pounds; potatoes, 467 sacks.

LOS ANGELES STOCK EXCHANGE.

Union Shows Heavy Loss for Third Consecutive Day—Heavy Liquidation Pressure.

From a close at $64.87½ Friday, Union broke yesterday to $59—a loss of nearly 6 points, making the total falling off the past three days between 15 and 16 points. The break is undoubtedly the most severe that has ever been registered in the stock. Yesterday's drop was accompanied by the same heavy selling pressure which was visible the previous days. The market held steady when it reached $59, and no less than 253 shares were traded in at that figure. Sales aggregated altogether 543 shares. It was quite evident, as appeared the previous day, that loans on the stock are being called, and that loaned stock is being liquidated. That the decline may cause further selling pressure of the same kind seems not unlikely.

Outside of the activity in Union Oil, the market was featureless. The stocks of the holding companies closed without offerings. United Petroleum was off 2 points in the bid. It appears from the position which the holding company issues maintain with respect to Union, that there is nothing in the status of the General Petroleum deal to cause the decline. Union seems the only issue primarily affected.

Associated Oil was stronger. United was a shade easier. Three Home Telephone bonds went off-board at $80. Amalgamated was ex-dividend.

Directors of the Mexican Petroleum Company, Ltd., made no change in the company's dividend at their meeting. It was rumored in the East that a reduction in the 6 per cent. rate on common might be made at yesterday's session.

SPECULATORS TAKE PROFITS.

REACTION IN THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Shares Fall Back from the High Level of the Day Before—In Spite of This Movement the Situation Shows No Signs of Weakness. More Time Money Offered.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, July 19.—The more important speculative stocks fell back today from the higher level reached yesterday. It was what traders called a natural reaction such as is the usual aftermath of an important movement. Speculators took profits on long stock and the effect of this selling was increased by renewed short offerings. Steel, Amalgamated, the Harriman stocks and Canadian Pacific fell back about a point each. In spite of this movement, the market showed no appearance of weakness. Most of the standard investment stocks held their gains. New Haven again moved widely, this time advancing two points. The petroleum stocks exhibited further weakness and California Petroleum dropped to 18 3-4, a new low record; Mexican petroleum lost a point and then enjoyed a temporary boom on the strength of a rumor of favorable dividend action. It rose 2 1-2c above the day's low, but later fell back nearly to the previous close. American Tobacco was exceptionally heavy, its loss amounting to over five points.

The bank statement failed to make as good a showing as has been predicted. Instead of the cash gain forecast, the actual table disclosed a loss of more than $600,000. More time money was being offered today and ninety-day funds were easier. Commercial dullness in Germany was reflected in easier time money in the Berlin market, where ninety-day loans were quoted at 4 3-4 per cent.

The bond market was steady. Total sales, par value, $682,000.

U. S. 2's registered and coupon, U. S. 4's rgistered and coupon and Panama 3's declined 1-4 on call on the week and United States 3's coupon, 1-2.

New York Curb Stocks.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The curb market was very quiet. There was only one sale of United Cigar Stores. Tonopah Merger was about the only active feature of the mining list, selling at slightly higher prices than last night. The Boston market showed strength at the opening, with most issues higher than last night. Trading was fairly active until the last half hour, when it turned very quiet. Granby was strong—rallying a point—with little stock offered. The close was steady to a little stronger.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

Buoyancy of Previous Day Is Followed by Moderate Recession—Offerings Well Taken.

NEW YORK, July 19.—The market receded moderately on realizing sales, which was not unnatural after the buoyancy displayed yesterday. Offerings, however, were quite well taken and the list as a whole may be said to have displayed a rather firm undertone. The only news of importance was that bearing on the foreign situation, the suggestion apparently being made that efforts will be used to force a resumption of peace negotiations at an early date.

The bank statement presented a rather fair exhibit, but as far as monetary conditions are concerned it is still realized that a pronounced expansion of loans at this center will probably militate against the contracting tendencies in loans in the interior. Therefore, while more cheerfulness is in evidence and while underlying conditions seem to denote that the prevailing level of security prices is attractive from an investment viewpoint, the belief that moderate turns should be accepted seems warranted.

Very Weak.

BREAK IN UNION INTEREST CENTER.

STOCK DROPS FIFTEEN POINTS IN FEW DAYS.

Rumors of Dividend Reduction and Forced Calling of Loans Seem the Principal Causes for Sharp Falling Off—Report of Cut in Dividend Is Steadily Denied.

The sharp decline in the price of Union Oil stock the past three days has been the center of interest and mental speculation in the investment market, particularly in view of the fact that no definite reason can apparently be assigned for the starting of the falling off, except the one persistent rumor that the dividend is likely to be cut. Once the decline had really begun it was easy to trace the reasons for its continuance, in calling of loans, etc., on stock, a great deal of which was margined around in the "sixties."

No less than 1158 shares of Union Oil stock have been traded in the past three days, the sales increasing as the week drew to a close. The loss from the opening Thursday morning to the close yesterday amounted to 14½ points. The first break occurred Thursday afternoon, and was accompanied by only a limited amount of activity. This was the same day that directors of the company held the meeting at which the change in the time for payment of dividends was discussed.

Judging from the coincidence of these occurrences there appears some reason to believe that the selling arose from the assumption that this change in time also meant a cut in payments, although it was stated by President Stewart that a cut was not even suggested. The continuance of the decline, however, may in turn have given rise to an avalanche of rumors that the dividend will be reduced. In fact one report yesterday apparently from a well-informed source, had it that the dividend was passed Friday night. This report was emphatically denied by Stewart yesterday noon.

It was learned yesterday from a well-informed quarter that there had been a temporary hitch in the note-financing of the Union, but that this has been passed and that the company is safe on that score.

It is generally anticipated that the change in time means that Union dividends will be paid either quarterly or semi-annually henceforward. If quarterly, this would probably make the next disbursement in October and if semi-annually in January. The company has a $1,000,000 note issue of secured gold notes which matures August 1.

Some suggest that the change in the time of dividends is for the purpose of avoiding a necessity of cutting them, which might arise, if they were disbursed monthly during the period of maturing obligations. However, others deem this theory unlikely.

A letter will be sent to stockholders of the company Monday which may serve to clear up some of the haze which surrounds the movement of the stock.

Union closed at $59 yesterday.

JUVENILE BOLTS QUARTERS.

Another Escape From the Detention Home in the Courthouse as a Result of Nortonism.

Julian Bowles, one of the wards of the Juvenile Court, escaped from the Detention Home on the first floor of the Courthouse yesterday afternoon. Superintendent B. F. Boller caught another lad who was trying to get away.

Deputy Sheriff Gillis was notified and made a search of the building, finally concluding that the boy had dropped from an open window and thus secured temporary liberty.

The need of a watchman at the Detention Home has long been apparent, but Supervisor Norton, who has charge of the Juvenile Court matters, advocates economy. There have been repeated escapes from the quarters, which were reconstructed from rooms formerly used by the Juvenile Committee. Wire netting and slender bars have not prevented boys and even girls from making their escape.

WATER USERS COMPLAIN.

Charge Hermosa Company With Violation of State Law in Refusing to Make Free Connections at Curb.

The alleged failure of the Hermosa Water Company to comply with the State law requiring water connections to be made free of charge at the curbing, is the basis of a petition to City Prosecutor Nimmo, asking that action be taken against the company. The petition was presented yesterday and Nimmo will file a complaint charging the company with aiding and abetting the violation of the legislative enactment covering cases of this kind. This action is taken because of the fact that the company has offices in this city.

In addition to the action to be taken by Nimmo, it is said that the State Railway Commission will be asked to cite the officers of the company for alleged contempt. The District Attorney refused to take up the matter, so the citizens of Hermosa Beach say, hence the appeal to the City Prosecutor.

OCEAN BOULEVARD FROM LONG BEACH TO BALBOA.

A PAVED BOULEVARD, skirting the ocean's edge closely for twenty-five miles from Long Beach to Balboa, is now assured. The Board of Supervisors have voted to appropriate $20,000 to complete the road from Bay City south to Balboa and the latter city is prepared to pave its road from Main street to the northern limits of the city at Santa Ana bridge.

The road from Long Beach to Bay City has already been built and the new work, which will be undertaken at once, will complete one of the best and most beautiful ocean drives on the Coast.

Efforts were made by officials of the southern beach cities to have this road built last year, but the Supervisors were unable to secure all the necessary rights of way. This difficulty has now been removed and the order made.

The long boulevard is sure to be a favorite with automobilists because of the beauty of the surroundings and the level grade. For several miles of the distance it will skirt the open ocean on one side with the inner bay on the other.

Improved facilities with more and better roads are attracting autoists to the beaches this summer in far greater numbers than in former years. Parking arrangements at most of the beach cities are inadequate, even on week days now, and it is predicted that the late summer traffic will be much larger.

Every beach now has at least one well-paved thoroughfare from Los Angeles and more are to be built. Two new roads are being considered to the north beach in addition to the new canyon road through Santa Monica. When Fremont avenue in Santa Monica is completed a new boulevard will probably be built by the county to connect by way of Pico street. This will be the shortest of all routes from the city to the sea. The new road by way of Oregon avenue in Santa Monica and Sawtelle has already become a favorite with autoists, either going or coming from the north beaches or en route to the canyon.

TOWN WANTS TO QUIT.

McKittrick Tired of Being a City and Begins Movement to Give Up Politics.

M'KITTRICK, July 19.—A movement looking to the disincorporation of this city has taken definite form through a mass-meeting at which D. L. Sayre was chairman and William W. Fletcher, secretary. The session was well attended, between fifty and sixty residents being present. Charles H. Meves, Ira M. Anderson, Charles Blacker, Clarence C. Karnes, W. J. McCarthy, A. C. Dorsey, O. H. Tetzlaff and others were active in the discussion. The chairman was authorized to appoint a committee to ascertain the sentiment of the people and submit their report at a meeting to be held soon. The committee consists of Messrs. D. L. Sayre, Charles H. Meves and Charles Blacker.

McKittrick was incorporated as a city of the sixth class in September, 1911, Reuben Butterfield being elected Mayor, and Samuel A. Hubbard, Harry B. Phelan, Fred Ehlers and W. J. McCarthy the Board of Trustees. Warren Rodgers was chosen City Clerk, Charles H. Meves, City Recorder, and L. C. Roberts, City Marshal. Butterfield filled out his term prior to his removal to San Francisco and Hubbard was selected as his successor.

The next board was composed of Harry B. Phelan, Fred Ehlers, Robert C. Dear and Clarence C. Karnes. Rodgers was re-elected City Clerk, and Roberts was succeeded by George M. Chitwood as City Marshal, while J. J. O'Meare was chosen City Recorder to take the place vacated by Meves, whose term had expired. The present officials of the city are Harry B. Phelan, Mayor; Fred Ehlers, Robert C. Dear, Clarence C. Karnes and W. J. McCarthy, Trustees, McCarthy having succeeded Phelan upon the elevation of the latter to Mayor. Mr. Rodgers is City Clerk, Mr. Chitwood, City Marshal, and Mr. O'Meara, City Recorder, although his resignation has been presented to the board in anticipation of his removal from the city, but has not yet been accepted.

The matter of the proposed disincorporation of the city is at present the all-absorbing theme of discussion, and promises to so continue until it is finally settled. Opinion is divided and the outcome is awaited with much interest. Arguments for and against are heard freely, and the general sentiment appears to be in favor of an early solution of the problem.

EAGLE ROCK STREETS.

Much Improvement to Be Made This Year—Hundred-Foot Roadway on Colorado Boulevard.

EAGLE ROCK, July 19.—Eagle Rock is doing much street improvement work this year. For three months the Board of Trustees has been planning and getting the legal proceedings adopted for many miles of oiled and macadam roadways, and the first contract was let the past week for the improvement of three streets in the western part of the city. Bids have been asked for the improvement of what is known as the Kelsey Track in the eastern part of the city, also for the improvement of all streets in what is called the school house district in the central part of the city. Valley Drive, one of the principal streets running north and south has just been improved with oiled roadway, cement curbs and sidewalks the full length of the city.

The most important job will come next month when bids will be asked for the improvement of the 100-foot roadway on Colorado boulevard, exclusive of the 20-foot macadam on this street that forms a part of the foothill boulevard which connects with Colorado boulevard in Pasadena at the great scenic bridge now being constructed over the Arroyo Seco. Bids have also been received for the repairing and resurfacing of the boulevard part of this street which was put in by the county about two years ago.

The estimated cost of all the work now being planned and to be completed before the rainy season sets in is $120,000. The cost of the work on the Colorado boulevard will reach about $20,000. A heavy oiled macadam will be put on the main traveled roads and the side streets will have oiled dirt roadways.

TO LAND OR NOT TO LAND.

Fight at Avalon Between Freeholders and Boatmen Finds Its Way Into Court.

The fight between the Freeholders of Avalon and the owners of the boats deavors of the latter to land at the boat pier, took a legal form yesterday afternoon when E. A. Merserve, attorney for the Freeholders, obtained a restraining order from Judge Dehy, returnable on the 28th inst.

The Freeholders allege that the pier is not intended for boat landings but for the use of pleasure parties. When one of the boats drew up to the pier Thursday the firehose was turned on it to prevent a landing, until the cry of "women first" made the opponents desist. Yesterday another boat tied up at the pier under protest, but without forcible opposition. The injunction suit is by the Freeholders against Pettenger & Sassman, owners of the boats, which are carrying passengers to Avalon at a reduced fare.

MAY LEASE IDYLLWILD.

SAN JACINTO, July 19.—Since the first of the week Don Porter of Salt Lake and C. J. Gilbert of Redlands have been at Idyllwild, and it is reported that the gentlemen, both of whom are experienced hotel men, are in the mountains looking over the Idyllwild resort with the thought of acquiring a ten-year lease on the property. Although G. B. Hannalis, the manager of the resort, offered no statement, it is said on authority that Messrs. Gilbert and Porter arrived direct from Los Angeles where they had obtained an option from Strong & Dickinson, the owners, for a ten-year lease. Gilbert was manager of the resort for several seasons and is familiar with the property, and his associate is an experienced hotel man.

ALL CLAIMS SETTLED.

RIVERSIDE, July 19.—Practically the last claim growing out of a terrific explosion which caused the death of ten men in the quarry of the Riverside Portland Cement Company at Crestmore on April 23 last, has been settled with the payment yesterday to Mrs. Gus Oleson of $7000. Oleson was powder foreman for the company and was among those who were instantly killed by the mysterious discharge of several hundred pounds of dynamite which was being tamped into the facer of the quarry wall. All the claims have been settled by arbitration, with the exception of a few minor ones still remaining to be closed up.

FACTORIES COMPLETED.

Plants for Manufacture of Automobile Tires and Trucks Soon to Be Running at Industrial City.

With a national campaign started for the construction of industries at Torrance, the present week marks the completion of two huge factory plants at the new industrial city. The contractors have turned over to the W. C. Hendrie Rubber Company the $100,000 first unit of the big plant which is to turn out the California-made automobile tire, and the construction gangs of the Union Tool Company have at the same time completed the frame work for the big factory of the Moore Truck Company.

The Hendrie Rubber Company also is completing a new building on Pico street at the foot of Olive in this city for the Los Angeles store of the company. More than $80,000 worth of machinery for the Hendrie plant already has arrived at Torrance, together with $20,000 worth of crude rubber for the manufacture of auto tires.

The new truck company will have a capital stock of $1,250,000, will employ more than 400 men and will turn out more than 1000 motor trucks per year. It is planned to pay special attention to the seven-ton trucks of the type now produced by the Moore company, and which are well known on the Coast. Final papers in the deal have been signed.

When the Pacific Metal Products Company was formed a concrete, steel and glass building two stories in height was started to house the plant, and the steel frame work and covering are now complete.

With the consolidation of the Pacific Metal Products Company and the Moore Motor Truck Company, came large plans for betterments, and the present plant will be but the beginning of a much larger set of buildings which will be required to turn out the work.

The new company was formed by Edwin Double of the Union Tool and the Pacific Metal Products Company, together with F. L. Moore and Irvin W. Benton, of the smaller concern.

BAY CITY WON OVER.

The prospect that Los Angeles will be enabled to secure the annual convention of the National Association of Real Estate Exchanges in 1915 was strengthened yesterday when President C. C. Moore of the Panama-Pacific Exposition and the San Francisco Real Estate Board, together withdrew their bid for the big event and gave their promise to support the claims of Los Angeles before the Winnipeg convention. This announcement is contained in a telegram to The Times by Phillip D. Wilson, secretary of the local board, who, with other delegates representing the Los Angeles organization, is en route to the Canadian city. All the delegates from the Pacific Coast cities will arrive in Vancouver on July 22, and will be entertained by the Vancouver Progress Club. The convention will be held from July 28 to July 30, inclusive.

Fact and Comment.

ruined forever. Why was such a street ever accepted? Why was such a 'repair job' accepted? Why can I do about it? What can anybody do about it?"

What Can He Do?

Embarrassing questions like this are asked the Fact and Comment man every week. The editor of this department will have to confess that he doesn't know the answer. What can a taxpayer so situated do but pay and take his medicine with as good grace as he can affect? The wastefulness prevailing under the present unsystematic way of doing things has often been the subject of comment in this column. The writer of the above letter has stated the situation in such a way as to make further comment almost superfluous.

Hopeful signs, however, are not wanting. Several of the City Councilmen have lately been quoted as saying they wanted to see some system and efficiency introduced into the conduct of street improvement work. This street situation has been brought up so often in recent months that it cannot longer be ignored. Property owners, long suffering under the burden of assessments for this and that improvement, are becoming disgusted. They are tired of paying out money for work that is at the mercy of every utility crew that has a pipe or a conduit to lay. This dissatisfaction is felt in municipal circles and there are indications that it is going to be heeded. No individual who pays taxes to support the city government should have the slightest hesitancy about bringing the questions involved right up to headquarters, either. That's what headquarters is for.

The Case of Boston.

In summing up the building activities of the leading cities from month to month, the Fact and Comment man has long been mystified over the fact that Boston, although issuing few permits as compared with many other places, has always been right behind New York and Chicago in its valuation totals. Month after month Los Angeles has been granting from two to four times as many permits as the Hub and yet has been eclipsed in its cost total by the eastern city. The thing hasn't looked right. There were only two conclusions—that Boston was constructing its buildings out of materials much more expensive than those used in other cities or was erecting nothing but the costliest types of structures—and neither deduction was logical.

Behold, the mystery is cleared! The writer, after an investigation, has discovered that Boston is including in its building totals the enormous cost of its new subway and tunnel systems, together with all its street work and a lot besides that Subsequently Pedro Lascurain formally resigned his office and his resignation was accepted by Congress. Thus automatically and in accordance with the Constitution the executive power devolved upon Gen. Huerta, Minister of the Interior, as the office of Minister of Foreign Relations had been left vacant. All this was in strict compliance with the letter and spirit of the Mexican Constitution and with the common agreement of Lascurain, chief of the Madero Cabinet, the Chamber of Deputies, the Senate and the Supreme Court aided by the best legal talent of Mexico, all keen and conscientious in maintaining unbroken the constitutionality of the Mexican government.

CHARGE OF COERCION.

It may be contended by those denying the constitutionality of the Huerta government that the foregoing proceedings took place under revolutionary coercion. Of course, neither Porfirio Diaz nor Madero resigned until forced by a successful revolution, but both their resignations were equally effective and the succeeding governments equally constitutional.

There was not the slightest question as to the constitutionality of de la Barra's government under similar circumstances.

Moreover Madero's resignation was taken to Congress by Lascurain, Madero's friend and chief of Cabinet, and was accepted by a Congress in which the Maderists held the balance of power.

Later, on April first last, at the formal opening of the ordinary session of Congress this body with almost all of its members present formally recognised the constitutionality of Huerta as provisional President. In other words the legislative and judicial powers of the previous administration have declared the constitutionality of the present one.

All this is known to the legal talent in the State Department at Washington, which, it is understood, have advised President Wilson and Secretary Bryan of the fact that there are no legal grounds on which to withhold recognition.

It is understood, also, however, that President Wilson and Secretary Bryan's grounds for doing so are purely of a moral nature based on information which has not been free from bias and prejudice.

After all, it is not within the province of the Washington administration to take into consideration the morality or alleged actions of the head

Forging Ahead.

GARDEN CITY FOR SAN FERNANDO VALLEY

Great Opportunity Offered for Suburban Life at Less Expense Than City Living—To Eliminate Possibility of Slums—Forward-to-the-Land League Embodies Its Ideals—Prominent Men and Women Interested.

ON SATURDAY afternoon at 1:30 o'clock two automobiles left for the San Fernando Valley to make a choice of the 1000 acres of land to be used for Garden City purposes.

A. W. Clark, chairman of the Executive Committee of the Garden City, and the presidents of several of the women's clubs, made up this party.

Garden Cities have long been a success in England and Germany, affording beautiful and inexpensive homes with lovely gardens, in place of the crowded tenement houses of the usual metropolis. Business and working people who are paying from $10 to $20 per month for rent, but who are unable, because of the high cost of living, to save enough to make a first payment on a suburban home, are enabled by the Garden City pina to buy homes for what they are now paying in rent.

The owners of San Fernando Valley land have made a great reduction in the price of that to be used as the site of the Garden City, because they are convinced that this suburban City Beautiful will be to Los Angeles and to the Valley a great boon. Architecturally a gem, and a model of convenience, this Garden City, built according to plans which have been carefully worked out by the Forward-to-the-Land League, of which Mrs. H. H. Lund is the moving spirit, will solve many of the problems which beset modern life among those who do not command unlimited wealth.

The community house, with its theater and moving pictures, its library, gymnasium and club rooms, its Chamber of Commerce, its kindergarten, nursery and playgrounds, affords a civic center which is certain to be copied eleswhere. The second story of the community house will be used as a hotel, affording immediately a certain income, since it is to be furnished and decorated in a unique manner. It is intended to create, upon the commodious verandas of this community house, a restaurant which shall be entirely different from any other and which will, doubtless, be a mecca of motoring parties. The fittings, service and foods will conform to the style of a selected foreign country, the waiters dressing in the costume of that nation.

It is the slogan of the Forward-to-the-Land League, which has devised this plan, that it pays to do the right thing at the right time. Untiringly and devotedly has Mrs. Lund labored to put into effect these beneficent plans, which, it is believed, will solve not only the economic question of the cost of living, but will also add to the health and contentment of all who participate in Garden City life.

One of the most interesting and helpful features of the proposed Garden City is the fact that the community building will be under the direct supervision of one who will be known as a "community mother," a woman who will be a kindergarten graduate and who knows how to direct the activities of all, from the youngest to the oldest. With such a woman in charge, no janitors will be needed, as she will be able to supervise inexpensive assistants in the work of cleaning and keeping all in order. The equipment of the nursery and kindergarten installed in the community quarters will be scientific in every respect. Here the mother, going to church or theater, or spending her day in business in the city, may leave her child in the nursery of the kindergarten, where it will receive the very best of care, together with the most nutritious food, while at the same time having the benefit of that greatest of boons, pure, fresh country air. Many believe that the disturbance of children's rest, both day and night, as they are carried about by parents having no other way of caring for them while they themselves seek amusement, is, more than any other cause, responsible for our nation-wide nervous breakdown. Here, also, the business woman may leave her small children in the care of an expert in child culture, knowing that they will have the best of care while she is occupied in business affairs. For all of these services, business people expect to pay, and are willing to pay. The charges will, however, always be very moderate.

Mrs. Lund will leave Los Angeles Wednesday night for the Forward-to-the-Land League convention, called by her, to be held in Boston, August 6 to 9. Most of the Governors of the States have arranged to send delegates to this convention, and the programme is made up from among the most distinguished names on the advisory board. The officers and members of the important committees on the Los Angeles local Forward-to-the-Land League, are:

Vice-president, Mrs. Mathew Robertson, president Los Angeles Woman's Athletic Club.

Elizabeth Murray Coffin, co-editor West Coast Magazine.

BEACH SALES REPORTED.

Twenty Lots Sold by New Owners of Hermosa Beach Holdings—Hundred Homes Are Planned.

Following the exclusive announcement in last Sunday's Times of the sale by the Clark & Sherman interests to E. G. Green, A. A. Baird and R. E. Burbaank of all the remaining unsold lots at Hermosa Beach, the Hermosa Beach Company, comprising the present owners of the property, reports the sale of a total of twenty lots in the popular shore place to thirteen buyers. The buyers were Linda Preston, Henry M. Dow, Adelaide Brandenberg, Grace J. Hamilton, Lydia M. Sleeper, Mrs. M. L. Bowers, Anna M. Gilson, John J. McDougal, Mabel McDougal, R. F. Whittesin, Mayme Whittesin, Katherine R. Hancock and C. H. Frizzle.

The company acquired from the old owners 320 lots, averaging in size 30x100 feet and all fronting on paved streets. The consideration involved was given at $225,000. Of the lots purchased about 100 are to be improved with cottages for the market. The remaining sites will be sold. Plans for the building of the cottages projected are now taking shape.

FIRE HOUSE UNDER WAY.

PLANADA, July 19.—The Planada Development Corporation is erecting a fire house on Broadway, between Sutter and Mills streets. The building is to be large enough for the present needs of the city. Mrs. C. B. Ladner has returned to her home at Casa Verdugo after getting improvements on her sixty acres on the Ivett subdivision well under way. Her son, S. O. Meyer, is in charge of the place. Philip A. Miller has tested out the new well on his twenty acres on the Ivett subdivision, and is having the ground graded and checked and intends planting to alfalfa this fall. Later he intends to set out olives.

READY FOR MARKET.

Large Tract in Orange County Highly Improved by Los Angeles Owners. Water Problem Solved.

As the result of six months' development work and the expenditure for improvements, of a large sum of money, Fairview Farms is about to be placed on the market by Bryan & Bradford and H. H. Cotton. The property is two and a half miles north of Newport Bay and about the same distance directly east of the ocean in Orange county. The Southern Pacific Railway borders the property for a mile and a quarter.

The holding consists of 1020 acres purchased about six months ago from Mrs. Mary Banning Norris. It has been divided into five and ten-acre parcels for individual development into small farm and home places.

During the process of improvement of Fairview Farms the owners have paid particular attention to the development of water. Three artesian wells have been bored and these wells are said to insure an ample supply of water for all purposes. Water is to be conveyed to every parcel of land in the entire tract, in steel pipes. A reservoir of 2,000,000 gallons capacity is under construction.

PLANS ACCEPTED.

Glendale to Have Long-Needed Fire Protection—Street Work to Be Done Under Bond Act.

GLENDALE, July 19.—Plans for the fire engine house for this city, submitted by Paul V. Tuttle, architect of this place, have been received and accepted, and work on the new structure will start within a short time. The building is to cost $5500 and will be two stories high and entirely of brick.

The Board of Trustees has passed a resolution signifying its intention to improve Ninth street from Glendale avenue to Brand boulevard, the work to be done under the Vrooman Act.

The Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company has been granted a franchise to construct and operate a telephone and telegraph system at this place for a period of twenty-five years. Now that this franchise has been granted, this company will make many improvements on its local system.

ACTIVITY REPORTED.

VENICE, July 19.—Home builders are active here, principally in the fine level country back of the business and amusement section, and especially in the Walgrove district. Dr. J. B. Sands has been issued a permit for the erection of a fine home in Walgrove to cost $8000. Joseph F. Behrend will build immediately a $4500 residence at No. 1219 Washington boulevard. Byron C. Hanna has secured a permit to erect a $4000 home on Superior street. Fred Meyers will build a home to cost $6000 on Rose avenue. The total of building permits thus far this month, all for homes, is more than $30,000.

OLD RANCHO IN NEW HANDS.

Large Acreage Transferred to Syndicate.

Tract Lies East of Perris Valley District.

Property to Be Subdivided Into Small Farms.

A noteworthy real estate transaction of the past week was the transfer by the Nuevo Land Company to a syndicate of Los Angeles and Riverside capitalists of the old Nuevo Rancho in Riverside county. Negotiations for the deal were concluded on Friday, the transaction being engineered largely by James R. H. Wagner, president of the Los Angeles Realty Board and one of the men financially interested in the syndicate which now has the property. The consideration involved is reported at approximately $450,000.

Prominent in the organization which has acquired the ranch are E. J. Eisenmayer of the Globe Milling Company of Los Angeles; A. L. Drew, capitalist and mining engineer of this city; A. J. Stalder, Riverside capitalist; J. W. Chase of Riverside, and James R. H. Wagner.

The Nuevo Rancho comprises 5500 acres and lies in what is known as the Lakeview section, east of and adjoining Perris Valley. The Lakeview branch of the Santa Fe Railway runs directly through the property.

Practically all the land has been under cultivation, for the most part in grain and alfalfa. The place is said to be adapted to the raising of apricots and peaches and to dairying and general farming. Water is now supplied from four wells.

The syndicate will subdivide the holding into ten and twenty-acre pieces and place it on the market. The water system is to be greatly enlarged under the supervision of A. L. Sonderegger, consulting engineer for the California Development Company and of the Inner Harbor Dock and Terminal Company. The James R. H. Wagner Company will handle the sale of the property.

The subdivision and sale of the Nuevo Rancho will mark the passing of another of the old-time Spanish grants in the Southland.

ELECTRIC POWER FOR FARM AREA.

"JUICE" TO GIVE NEW LIFE TO M'KITTRICK LANDS.

San Joaquin Light and Power Company to Extend Service Into Agricultural Sections—Wells to Be Operated by Throwing on of Switches.

M'KITTRICK, July 17.—Messrs. Eastman and Berges, general superintendent of construction and superintendent of the Bakersfield division, respectively, of the San Joaquin Light and Power Company, with headquarters in Bakersfield, were in the city this week, making arrangements for the erection of poles and the stringing of wires between Buttonwillow and McKittrick, to supply power for the operation of wells, electric lights and irrigation systems. Work will begin within the next few days, and will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible. Buttonwillow is situated fifteen miles northeast of McKittrick, and is the center of an agricultural district, embracing in a direct line Rio Bravo and Rosedale, the former being fifteen miles and the latter eight miles west of Bakersfield.

The San Joaquin Light and Power Company has become a powerful factor in the development of the San Joaquin Valley, its operations covering a very large portion of one of the finest sections of the State, its stations, substations and lines including not only the West Side oil fields but mining and agricultural territories as well. The company's Buttonwillow project promises much for the future development of an important district.

In the region wherein Buttonwillow, Rio Bravo and Rosedale are located are many large and small ranches, evidences of the energy and prosperity of their owners being apparent on every hand. In addition to substantial dwellings, spacious barns and well-kept gardens, there are many long avenues bordered with palms. The district has excellent schools.

REALTY "PROSPECTORS."

MONROVIA, July 19.—A portion of the famous "Gold Hill" changed hands this week when a 150-acre property in that section was purchased from the George Pearson holdings by Frank J. Cornes and J. H. Bartle, owners of the B. and C. block of this city. Gold Hill lies directly north of the city, at the head of Myrtle avenue, and commands an unsurpassed view for miles. The property is approached by a winding road, which will be widened and improved by the new owners, who plan other extensive improvements upon their new holdings. Water has been developed upon the north end of the tract and a portion of the acreage is planted to oranges.

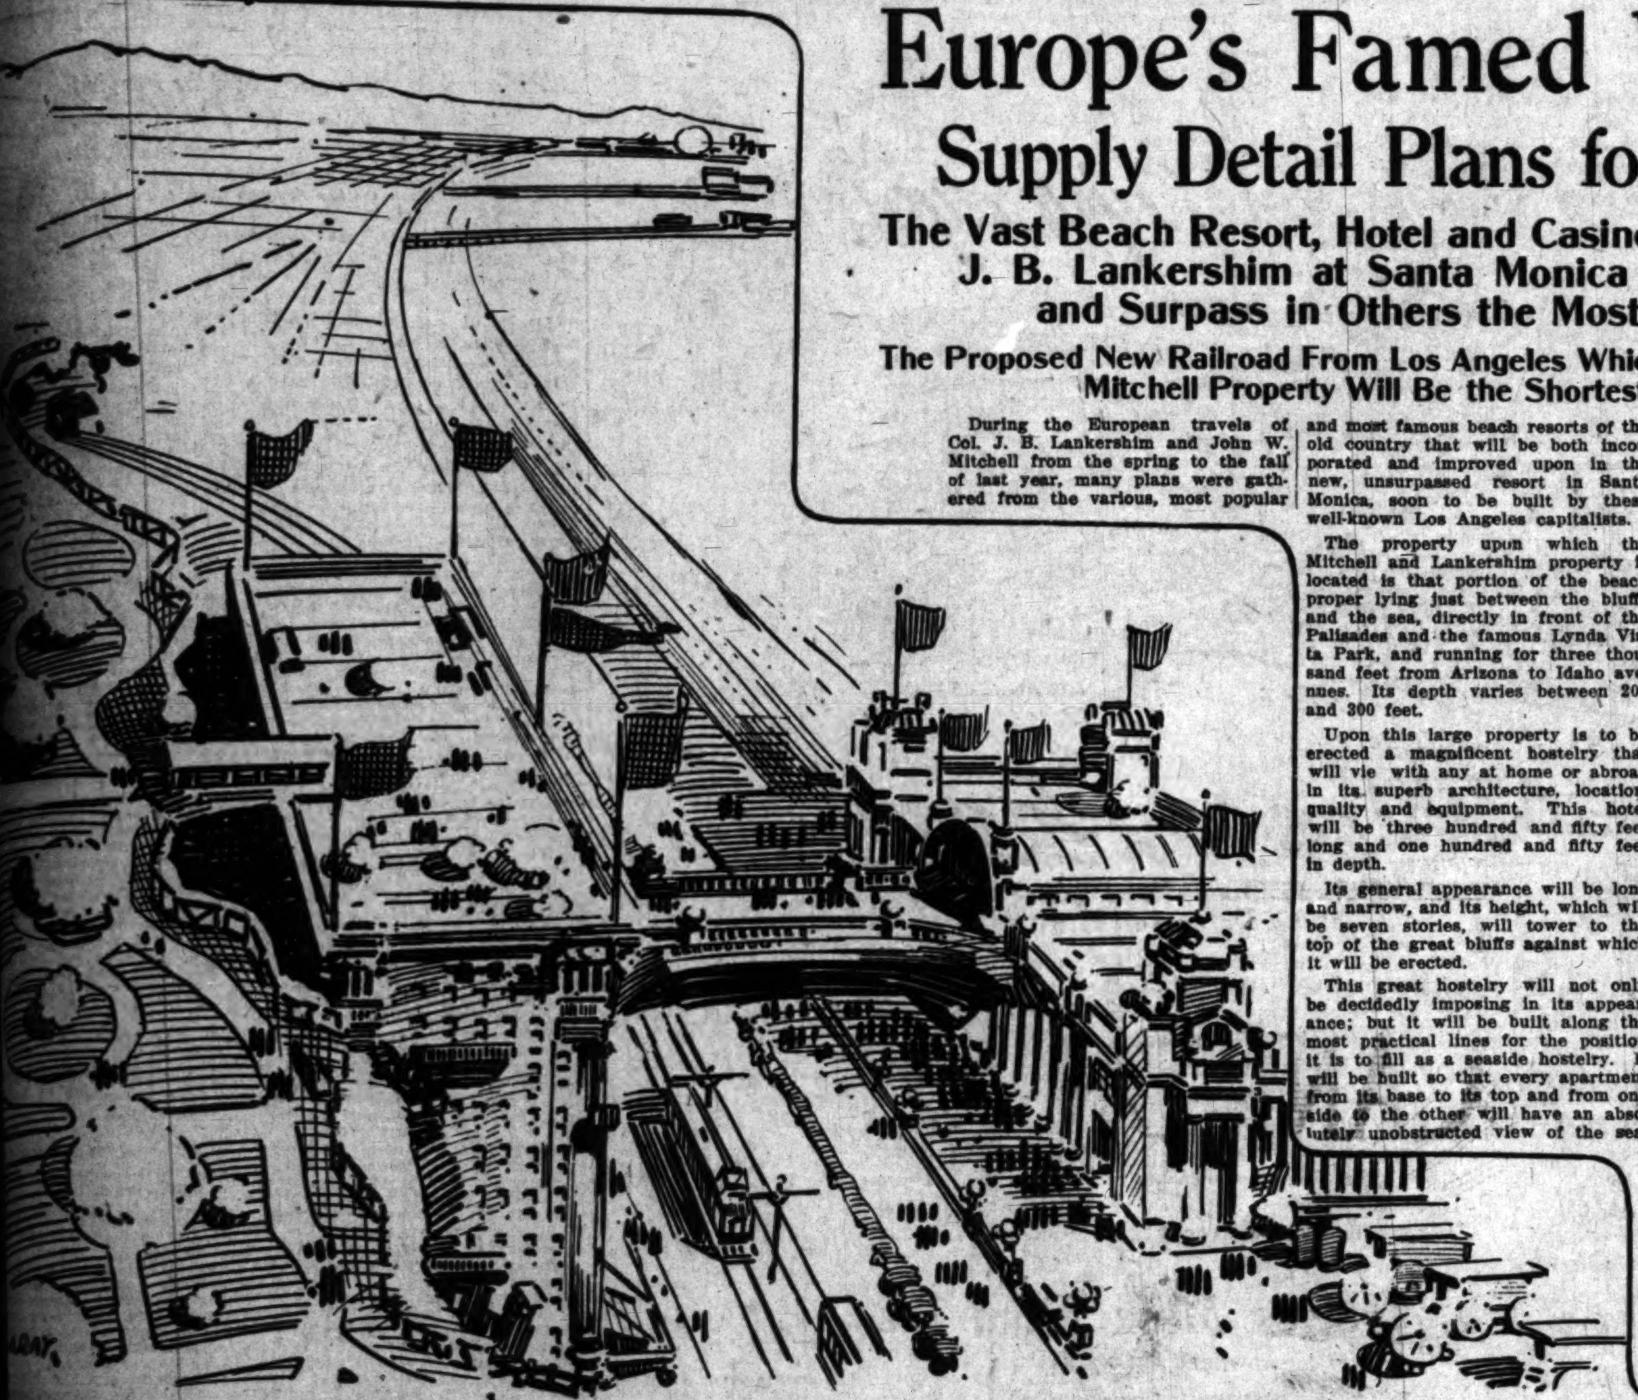
Supply Detail Plans for Superb New Resort

The Vast Beach Resort, Hotel and Casino, Planned by John W. Mitchell and Col. J. B. Lankershim at Santa Monica Will Reproduce in Some Respects and Surpass in Others the Most Noted Coast Resorts Abroad.

The Proposed New Railroad From Los Angeles Which Will Go Directly Through the Lankershim and Mitchell Property Will Be the Shortest Beach Line in Southern California.



During the European travels of Col. J. B. Lankershim and John W. Mitchell from the spring to the fall of last year, many plans were gathered from the various, most popular and most famous beach resorts of the old country that will be both incorporated and improved upon in the new, unsurpassed resort in Santa Monica, soon to be built by these well-known Los Angeles capitalists.

The property upon which the Mitchell and Lankershim property is located is that portion of the beach proper lying just between the bluffs and the sea, directly in front of the Palisades and the famous Lynda Vista Park, and running for three thousand feet from Arizona to Idaho avenues. Its depth varies between 200 and 300 feet.

Upon this large property is to be erected a magnificent hostelry that will vie with any at home or abroad in its superb architecture, location, quality and equipment. This hotel will be three hundred and fifty feet long and one hundred and fifty feet in depth.

Its general appearance will be long and narrow, and its height, which will be seven stories, will tower to the top of the great bluffs against which it will be erected.

This great hostelry will not only be decidedly imposing in its appearance; but it will be built along the most practical lines for the position it is to fill as a seaside hostelry. It will be built so that every apartment from its base to its top and from one side to the other will have an absolutely unobstructed view of the sea. This will be made possible by its long, narrow shape.

Just at the top of the hotel will be a covered way which will connect with the long building on the bluffs in Lynda Vista Park, which will be built in the same architecture as the hotel itself, to serve as the entrance to the elevator tower of the hotel. In this way those who prefer may enter the hotel, or any portion of the vast resort of which the hotel will only be one part, by means of the elevator tower.

The hotel will also be connected to the large casino by a bridge which will span the car tracks of the new, proposed car line from Los Angeles soon to be installed.

This casino will be of exceptionally broad and long dimensions, though it will likely not exceed two or three stories in height. It will consist of an immense dining-room, a large room for dancing as well as several other such rooms.

REPRODUCING BRIGHTON'S ARCHED COLONADE.

The concession and home portion of this great resort will be on a particularly elaborate scale. It will be arranged as a series of tiers, at the top of which will be the beautiful Swiss Chalet houses which will jut in and out among the various concave and convex surfaces of the rugged bluffs.

The Swiss Chalet homes will be of the most artistic types to be found, and will each have their own little garden plots and rustic bridges ornamented with the richest profusion of the beautiful hanging and climbing mosses and other plants that have already been the cause of comment by hundreds who have seen them in Lynda Vista Park, Santa Monica.

Just beneath, and in fact acting as a support to the Swiss Chalet homes, will be a beautiful colonade of arches, such as may be seen in Brighton Beach, England. This colonade will be of the same high-class type of architecture as the remainder of the resort, with a magnificent sweep of stone balustrades along its crest mounted with handsome electroliers and immense vases of rare vines, flowers and other plants.

Imposing stairways will mount from the base of the colonade up to the Swiss chalet houses, which stairways will be intersected at the required intervals by broad stone landings, which in turn will have their beautiful balustrades, electroliers and vases of flowers.

When Col. Lankershim and Mr. Mitchell were in Europe on their last trip, which was taken expressly for the purpose of gathering their plans for this magnificent resort, they visited such notable resorts as Nice, Trouville, Ostend, Biarritz, Vichy, Aix-les-Bains and all of the principal coast resorts of the British Isles.

PROPOSED NEW CAR LINE FROM LOS ANGELES THROUGH PROPERTY.

The new, proposed car line from Los Angeles, which is to be built in the very near future, will go directly between the hotel and the casino of the Lankershim and Mitchell property, being spanned by a bridge.

This line which, upon leaving the Mitchell and Lankershim resort, will bisect the country of old Santa Monica, going by way of Vineyard into Los Angeles. It will be the shortest car line to any beach on the coast, running between Los Angeles and Santa Monica only; making no stops at Ocean Park and Venice.

Col. Lankershim and Mr. Mitchell are now negotiating to co-operate with the Pacific Electric Railroad Company in the building of the superb boulevard and other ornamentations of the right of way through the Mitchell and Lankershim property.

READY FOR CROPS.

Big Sugar Beet Plant Expects to Do Capacity Business During Season—New Tract for Market.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, July 19.—The Holly Sugar Company will begin loading beets at the various dumps for its local plant on Monday, and the first slicing will be done four or five days later. The acreage from which beets will be received this year will be slightly larger than that of last year. It is expected that more than half will come from the vicinity surrounding Huntington Beach, although the company has dumps as far north as Compton. A great deal of overhauling and repair work has been done to the plant since the close of last season, and several miles of additional trackage has been laid within the yards to facilitate handling.

T. B. Talbert, one of the Highway Commissioners for Orange county, has announced that the Bolsa Chico Gun Club is preparing to give a deed for the coast highway on the inland side of the Pacific Electric. This will make it possible to build the Coast highway without a single railroad crossing all the way from Anaheim. Deeds to the right of way through Sunset Beach have already been secured.

The Huntington Beach Company is surveying an additional stretch of acreage into five-acre farms which the Sharer Investment Company will at once put on the market.

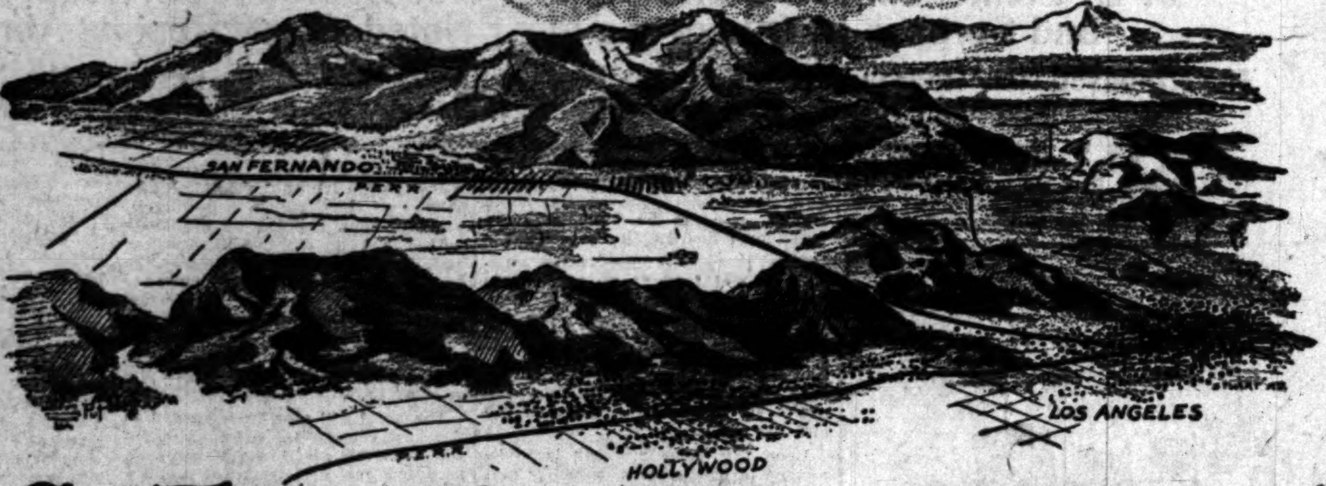
Hollywood—$300. an acre 10 yrs. ago!



San Fernando—$300. an acre To-day!
Mission Lands

(Where Owens River Water will be Delivered First)

Ten years ago you could have bought 10 acres in Hollywood for $300 an acre. Today that same land is worth from $50,000 to $100,000.

Humanity is pouring into Southern California in a constantly swelling stream. The choice spots closest in have been taken. The tide of home-seekers is surging on and reaching out—and in the path of this tide, property values are rising by leaps and bounds.

The topography of San Fernando Mission Lands is an exact replica of the Hollywood district—nestling against the green foothill slopes of the frostless Sierras—the very next step beyond Hollywood.

History repeats itself. The unstemmed tide of home-seekers is pushing on towards San Fernando. San Fernando Mission Land values will repeat the Hollywood rise as surely as water runs down hill. San Fernando today offers more than did Hollywood 10 years ago—ideal rapid transit to and from Los Angeles—rich, prolific, frostless, abundantly watered soil—beautiful surroundings—every convenience.

The bank clerk, the department store man, the doctor, the bookkeeper, who buys San Fernando Mission Lands today at $300 per acre and up will see his land double in value in the next year or so. This is as sure as that the sun rises and sets. His investment may treble or even quadruple.

Study land values in this country, past and present, and you will be convinced of the truth of this. There is no investment in the world that pays as sure and substantial a profit as good land in Southern California.

FAILURE OR MISFIT?

A Progressive Newspaper Asks the People the Q garding the Johnson Administration—Fo Your Answer from the Facts.

[From the San Francisco News, Letter of July 12.]

FAILURE.

The News Letter has consistently held that the Constitution of the State of California is obsolete and wholly inadequate as a means of reaching the goal of true democracy which we are supposed to be attempting to reach.

In a recent editorial calculated to be more or less of a defense of the administration of Gov. Johnson in answer to the criticism which is being meted out to him by those who are not duty bound or otherwise compelled to knuckle to him, the Fresno Republican makes the lament that our Constitution is complex and outworn.

The Republican, while admitting that the Constitution is inefficient and cumbersome, fails to admit that the Progressives, who assured the people that they were going to limber up the machinery of government so that justice for all of the people would be more certain, have utterly failed to do so. They have added to the regulations and restrictions to such an extent that anything which has a semblance of business enterprise has been condemned as not in the best interests of progress.

Our sympathy is entirely with the Republican in its rather gigantic task of endeavoring to stem the tide of popular disapproval of the bluffs made by the soldiers of Armageddon in the name of progress. We are condemned by our Fresno friend because we have alluded to certain measures as being evidence of the utter unfitness of the Johnson administration for the reason that all newspapers which have opposed the party in power have likewise based their opposition upon the selfsame measures.

And we maintain that our contention that the Compensation Bill is a direct encouragement of malingering and discouragement of business enterprise, is supported by the best of facts because just such a bill has proven to be what we assert that it is, both in England and in Germany. We maintain that no administration has the right to establish commissions composed of men beyond control and with unlimited powers, for the purpose of regulating the activities of the people in any direction, and for the sole object of fortifying itself with the means of building up a political machine.

The Fresno Republican may accuse the News Letter of taking to the defensive, to its heart's content. We admit the charge and glory in the fact. We are on the defensive in the interest of the people, whom we do not believe should be hoodwinked by any political party, no matter how divine may have been its inception, whether on the field of Armageddon or in the office of Boss Lissner of Los Angeles.

The reiterated assertion that the Constitution of this State is such as to render it difficult for the people to obtain proper effect in the use of the initiative and referendum has made itself felt. There is no doubt but that the people will seek the formation of a newer and better one. And there is every reason to believe that it will not be left to the Progressive party as we have come to know it here in California, to do the framing.

Can there be any doubt about the failure of a party which refuses to

Yet the Johnson

Tenth of President Wilson's "New Freedom" Diatribes.

Business More Centralized than Politics" The Latest Theme of Our Distinguished Contributor.

[illegible] been told by a great many [illegible] the idea I have, that by [illegible] competition you can re- [illegible] freedom, is based [illegible] failure to observe the actual [illegible] of the last decades in this [illegible] because, they say, it is just [illegible] that has made it possible for the big to crush the little. [illegible] it is not free competition [illegible] done that; it is illicit compe- [illegible] is competition of the kind [illegible] ought to stop—this crush- [illegible] little man.

[illegible] of course, how the little [illegible] crushed by the trusts. He gets [illegible] market. The big concerns [illegible] undersell him in his local [illegible] that is the only market [illegible] if he cannot make a profit [illegible] killed. They can make a [illegible] through the rest of the [illegible] while they are underselling [illegible] locality, and recouping [illegible] by what they can earn [illegible]. Thus their competitors [illegible] out of business, one by [illegible] they dare to show a [illegible] much as they rise up only [illegible], these big concerns can [illegible] that new competitors never [illegible] the larger field. You have [illegible] somewhere. You can't be- [illegible]. You can't begin in an [illegible]. You have got to begin in [illegible] community. Your market has [illegible] your neighbors first and [illegible] know you there. But un- [illegible] have unlimited capital [illegible] course you wouldn't have [illegible] are beginning,) or unlim- [illegible] (which these gentlemen [illegible] it that you shan't get,) [illegible] kill you out in your local [illegible] time they try, on the [illegible] exactly as that on which [illegible] organized labor; for they [illegible] a loss in your market be- [illegible] are selling at a profit [illegible] else and they can recoup [illegible] by which they beat you by [illegible] which they make in fields [illegible] have beaten other fellows [illegible] them out. If ever a compet- [illegible] by good luck has plenty of [illegible] break into the wider mar- [illegible] the trust has to buy him out, [illegible] three or four times what the [illegible] is worth. Following such a [illegible] it has got to pay the interest [illegible] it has paid for the busi- [illegible] it has got to tax the whole [illegible] the United States, in order [illegible] interest on what it bor- [illegible] to that, or on the stocks and [illegible] issued to do it with. There- [illegible] big trusts, the big combinations [illegible] the most wasteful, the most [illegible], and, after they pass a [illegible] the most inefficient, way of conducting the industries of this country.

A notable example is the way in which Mr. Carnegie was bought out of the steel business. Mr. Carnegie could build better mills and make better steel rails and make them cheaper than anybody else connected with what afterward became the United States Steel Corporation. They didn't dare leave him outside. He had so much more brains in finding out the best processes; he had so much more shrewdness in surrounding himself with the most successful assistants; he knew so well when a young man who came into his employ was fit for promotion and was ripe to put at the head of some branch of his business and was sure to make good, that he could undersell every mother's son of them in the market for steel rails. And they bought him out at a price that amounted to three or four times—I believe actually five times—the estimated value of his properties and of his business, because they couldn't beat him in competition. And then in what they charged afterward for their product—the product of his mills included—they made us pay the interest on the four or five times the difference.

That is the difference between a big business and a trust. A trust is an arrangement to get rid of competition, and a big business is a business that has survived competition by conquering in the field of intelligence and economy. A trust does not bring efficiency to the aid of business; it buys efficiency out of business. I am for big business, and I am against the trusts. Any man who can survive by his brains, any man who can put the others out of the business by making the thing cheaper to the consumer at the same time that he is increasing its intrinsic value and quality, I take off my hat to, and I say: "You are the man who can build up the United States, and I wish there were more of you."

There will not be more, unless we find a way to prevent monopoly. You know perfectly well that a trust business staggering under a capitalization many times too big is not a business that can afford to admit competitors into the field; because the minute an economical business, a business with its capital down to hard pan, with every ounce of its capital working, comes into the field against such an overloaded corporation, it will inevitably beat it and undersell it; therefore it is to the interest of these gentlemen that monopoly be maintained. They cannot rule the markets of the world in any way but by monopoly. It is not surprising to find them helping to found a new party with a fine programme of benevolence, but also with a tolerant acceptance of monopoly.

There is another matter to which we must direct our attention, whether we like or not. I do not take these things into my mouth because they please my palate; I do not talk about them because I want to attack anybody or upset anything. I talk about them because only by open speech about them among ourselves shall we learn what the facts are.

You will notice from a recent investigation that things like this take place: A certain bank invests in certain securities. It appears from evidence that the handling of these securities was very intimately connected with the maintenance of the price of a particular commodity. Nobody would for a moment think of suspecting the managers of a great bank of making such an investment in order to help those who were conducting a particular business in the United States maintain the price of their commodity, but the circumstances are not normal. It is beginning to be believed that in the big business of this country nothing is disconnected from anything else. I do not mean in this particular instance to which I have referred, and I do not have in mind to draw any inference at all, for that would be unjust; but take any investment of an industrial character by a great bank. It is known that the directorate of that bank interlaces in personnel with ten, twenty, thirty, forty, fifty, sixty boards of directors of all sorts, of railroads which handle commodities; of great groups of manufacturers which manufacture commodities, and of great merchants who distribute commodities; and the result is that every great bank is under suspicion with regard to the motive of its investments. It is at least considered possible that it is playing the game of somebody who has nothing to do with banking, but with whom some of its directors are connected and joined in interest. The ground of unrest and uneasiness, in short, on the partpart of the public at large, is the growing knowledge that many large undertakings are interlaced with one another, are indistinguishable from one another in personnel.

Therefore, when a small group of men approach Congress in order to induce the committee concerned to concur in certain legislation, nobody knows the ramifications of the interests which those men represent; there seems no frank and open action of public opinion in public counsel, but every man is suspected of representing some other man, and it is not known where his connections begin or end.

I am one of those who have been so fortunately circumstanced that I have had the opportunity to study the way in which these things come about in complete disconnection from them, and I do not suspect that any man has deliberately planned the system. I am not so uninstructed and misinformed as to suppose that there is a deliberate and malevolent combination somewhere to dominate the government of the United States. I merely say that, by certain processes, now well known, and perhaps natural in themselves, there has come about an extraordinary and very sinister concentration in the control of business in the country.

However it has come about, it is more impotrant still that the control of credit also has become dangerously centralized. It is the mere truth to say that the financial resources of the country are not at the command of those who do not submit to the direction and domination of small groups of capitalists who wish to keep the economic development of the country under their own eye and guidance. The great monopoly in this country is the monopoly of big credits. So long as that exists our old variety and freedom and individual energy of development are out of the question. A great industrial nation is controlled by its system of credit. Our system of credit is privately concentrated. The growth of the nation, therefore, and all our activities are in the hands of a few men, who, even if their action be honest and intended for the public interest, are necessarily concentrated upon the great undertakings in which their own money is involved, and who necessarily, by every reason of their own limitations, chill and check and destroy genuine economic freedom. This is the greatest question of all, and to this statesmen must address themselves with an earnest determination to serve the long future and the true liberties of men.

This money trust, or, as it should be more properly called, this credit trust, of which Congress has begun an investigation, is no myth; it is no imaginary thing. It is not an ordinary trust like another. It doesn't do business every day. It does business only when there is occasion to do business. You can sometimes do something large when it isn't watching, but when it is watching you can't do much. And I have seen men squeezed by it; I have seen men who, as they themselves expressed it, were put "out of business by Wall street," because Wall street found them inconvenient, and didn't want their competition.

Let me say again that I am not impugning the motives of the men in Wall street. They may think that that is the best way to create prosperity for the country. When you have got the market in your hand, does honesty oblige you to turn the palm upside down and empty it? If you have got the market in your hand and believe that you understand the interest of the country better than anybody else, is it patriotic to let it go? I can imagine them using this argument to themselves.

The dominating danger in this land is not the existence of great individual combinations—that is dangerour enough in all conscience—but the combination of the combinations—of the railways, the manufacturing enterprises, the great mining prospects, the great enterprises for the development of the natural water powers of the country, threaded together in the personnel of a series of boards of directors into a "community of interest" more formidable than any conceivable single combination that dare appear in the open.

The organization of business has become more centralized, vastly more centralized, than the political organization of the country itself. Corporations have come to cover greater areas than States; have come to live under a greater variety of laws than the citizen himself, have excelled States in their budgets and loomed bigger than whole commonwealths in their influence over the lives and fortunes of entire communities of men. Centralized business has built up vast structures of organization and equipment which overtop all States and seem to have no match or competitor except the Federal government itself.

What we have got to do—and it is a colossal task not to be undertaken with a light head or without judgment—what we have got to do is to disentangle this colossal "community of interest." No matter how we may propose dealing with a single combination in restraint of trade, you will agree with me in this, that no single, avowed, combination is big enough for the United States to be afraid of; but when all the combinations are combined and this final combination is not disclosed by any process of incorporation of law, but is merely an identity of personnel, or of interest, then there is something that even the government of the nation itself might come to fear—something for the law to pull apart, and gently, but firmly and persistently, dissect.

You know that the chemist distinguishes between a chemical combination and an amalgam. A chemical combination has done something which I cannot scientifically describe, but its molecules have become intimate with one another and have practically united whereas an amalgam has a mere physical union created by pressure from without. Now, you can destroy that mere physical contact without hurting the individual elements, and this community of interest is an amalgam; you can break it up without hurting any one of the single interests combined. Not that I am particularly delicate of some of the interests combined—I am not under bonds to be unduly polite to them—but I am interested in the business of the country, and believe its integrity depends upon this dissection. I do not believe any one group of men has vision enough or genius enough to determine what the development of opportunity and the accomplishment by achievement shall be in this country.

The facts of the situation amount to this; that a comparatively small number of men control the raw material of this country; that a comparatively small number of men control the water powers that can be made useful for the economical production of the energy to drive our machinery; that that same number of men largely control the railroads; that by agreements handed around among themselves they control prices, and that that same group of men control the larger credits of the country.

When we undertake the strategy which is going to be necessary to overcome and destroy this far-reaching system of monopoly, we are rescuing the business of this country, we are not injuring it; and when we separate the interests from each other and dismember these communities of connection, we have in mind a greater community of interest, a vaster community of interest, the community of interest that binds the virtues of all men together, that community of mankind which is broad and catholic enough to take under the sweep of its comprehension all sorts and conditions of men; that vision which sees that no society is renewed from the top but that every society is renewed from the bottom. Limit opportunity, restrict the field of originative achievement, and you have cut out the heart and root of all prosperity.

The only thing that can ever make a free country is to keep a free and hopeful heart under every jacket in it. Honest American industry has always thriven, when it has thriven at all, on freedom; it has never thriven on monopoly. It is a great deal better to shift for yourselves than to be taken care of by a great combination of capital. I for my part, do not want to be taken care of. I would rather starve a free man than be fed a mere thing at the caprice of those who are organizing American industry as they please to organize it. I know, and every man in his heart knows, that the only way to enrich America is to make it possible for any man who has the brains to get into the game. I am not jealous of the size of any business that has grown to that size. I am not jealous of any process of growth, no matter how huge the result, provided the result was indeed obtained by the processes of wholesome development, which are the processes of efficiency, of economy, of intelligence, and of invention.

Your attacks upon the [illegible] and the conditions that have [illegible] your displeasure have been [illegible] and, in a way, confusing. Of course you say you always have said and every chipmunk democratic orator twittering from a decayed stump will continue to say that the tariff is the mother of trusts, that Congressional legislation has favored a protective tariff and that therefore Congress has favored trusts. Your idea seems to be that if by a reduced tariff you can drive the steel trust, for instance, into changing the scene of its pernicious activities from Pennsylvania to England this country will be benefited. To one less gifted in fine spun academic themes than yourself it would seem that your reasoning is fallacious, not to say absurd.

What have been the results relatively to the consumers of the country of the "big business," which you say you are "for", and the trusts which you say you are "against." Take the list of prices of commodities as shown in the World's Almanac for 1913 and you will find an answer. The flouring mills are not in a trust. Flour was $3.25 per barrel in 1896 and $4.25 in 1910. There is no trust in pork but big business obtained $20 per barrel for pork in 1910 as against $8.25 per barrel in 1896. Cheese has more than doubled in price, salt mackerel are 30 per cent. higher, raisins are 50 per cent. higher, hides are 50 per cent. higher, wool has doubled, coal is 25 per cent. higher, rosin, tar and turpentine have trebled, lime is 30 per cent. higher, lumber has doubled, cotton seed has trebled and hay is 25 per cent. higher—none of these commodities are made by trusts, but many of them are controlled by "big business."

Now take commodities manufactured by trusts. Nails are 25 per cent. lower. Manufactures of steel are 20 to 30 per cent. lower, sugar is one-half its former price, petroleum is 60 per cent. cheaper.

You "will take off your hat," you say, to any man who can make the thing cheaper to the consumer at the same time that he is increasing its vaine and quality. Well, doff your head covering to Rockefeller, and Gary, and Carnegie, and Havemeyer and Spreckels, who are trust magnates, and keep your hat on when you meet the big business barons, whose clever manipulations, conformed with other conditions, have put up and kept up the prices of flour, and pork, and cheese, and hides, and mackerel, and wool, and coal, and hay, and turpentine and lumber, none of which are trust commodities.

You say that "a comparatively small number of men control the water-powers that can be made useful for the economical production of the energy to drive our machinery."

In what midsummer night's dream of dalliance between the Democratic donkey and the fairy queen of your scintillating imagination did you evolve the ill-begotten rhetoric of that statement, which is as remote from the facts as Uranus is distant from the sun?

"Control the water powers of the country? The streams of New England that rush from her mountains to the sea every day and night afford myriads of unusued and unclaimed water powers. In the Empire State from where the waters of Niagara roar to where the Hudson glides into the ocean there are unnumbered water powers. The rivers that find their source in the Alleghenies flow eastward to the Atlantic or westward into the Mississippi Valley where they are joined by streams from the Rockies and the northern affluents of the Mississippi River, and here there are thousands of unclaimed water powers. The Snake, the Columbia, the Sacramento, the Colorado, the Platte, the Rio Grande and their tributaries bring from the western slope of the Rockies and both slopes of the Sierras enough water powers to clutch from the ether sufficient electricity to turn every factory wheel and move every railroad train and light every city in an empire that extends over ten degrees of longitude and twenty degrees of latitude. The sun is ever busy pumping the waters of ocean, lake and river up into the cloud factories whence nature sends them tumbling back to earth and there on their journey to the ocean they furnish tens of thousands of water powers.

The generation of electricity, or rather the seizure of electricity that makes its home in the air, by means of machinery propelled by water power, is almost an untouched industry. Not one in ten thousand of available power sites have been even located much less used. They are open to acquisition by corporations and individuals, by trusts, by big business and by little business. It is as utterly impossible for any combinations of capital to monopolize the power sites of this country as it would be for them to monopolize the ebb and flow of the tides of ocean, or condense in one ownership all the air between Bangor and Los Angeles. Yet you prate about a small number of men "controlling the water power!" Bosh! The little children in the school houses know better.

You demand, Mr. President, that no society shall be renewed from the top "but that every society shall be renewed from the bottom." You want the wine to be flavored with its dregs and not its bead. You prefer to travel in the steerage rather than the cabin. You would sleep in the cellar instead of on the roof. Well, tastes differ. Stir up the dregs of the coffee and drink it if you like, but don't try to pour your nauseous mess down the throats of those who prefer their coffee clear.

You have seen men "squeezed and put out of business by Wall Street." Even so, why did they put themselves within reach of the embracing arms of Wall Street? They might have gone from Central Park to the Battery and kept west of Wall street. They might have journeyed from Brooklyn by several ferries and never gone near Wall street.

Wall street may be, and doubtless is, a sort of financial Giant Despair, whose cave is carpeted with the bones of the victims he has devoured, but he cannot go out of his cave and drag men from their offices and shops and farms to supply him with nutriment. They come to him. He does not go to them. There is no law to compel a man to go long or short of a stock. If men patronize brokers' offices or bucket-shops and lose their money they can blame nobody but their own foolish selves. Some philosopher said "There is a sucker born every minute." Can you or any other benevolent dreamer prevent the advent of these natally branded unfortunates?

You say "I would rather starve a free man than be fed a mere thing at the caprice of those who are organizing American industry as they please to organize it." We would all rather you would, Mr. President. Greatly as we would deplore that you should be deprived of your dinner we would be willing that you should go without nutriment rather than that you should be forced to accept it from those who disagree with you.

In the bushel of rhetorical chaff which you throw at the heads of the public in your article under review, there is one grain of wheat. It is where you describe the Roosevelt administration league as "a new party with a fine programme of benevolence, but also with a tolerant acceptance of monopoly." Maybe some iconoclastic Bull Moose will come back at you and say that you are an old party with a large stock of glittering academic sophisms, but without a single substantial logical reason to hold them up.

The Times with a hundred or more American journals has published ten of your old speeches at a big price per, not because of their literary merit, for they have none, not because of the absurd and anarchic doctrines that they advocate, for The Times repudiates them, but because they are the utterances of the President of the United States. That gives them a newspaper value, but does not give them intrinsic worth. The Times has in a way atoned for their publication in its columns by adding to each some critical comments of its own. This has been a labor of duty to the public and not a labor of love, and as you take leave of its columns it says to you as Hamlet said to Polonius, "You cannot take from me anything that I would more willingly part withal."

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, July 18.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Light Oil Producers' Association will hold its next meeting Friday in the red room of the St. Francis Hotel. The organization of the association will be completed, the by-laws adopted and future plans of operation discussed. In addition to these companies, who are already allied with the association, fifteen more producing oil concerns will be present at the meeting.

So many false statements have been printed concerning the position of the Standard Oil of California with regard to the light oil situation, and its alleged pressing need for oil, that a clear statement will do much to displace certain obscurities.

It has been stated that the enlarged business of the Standard had necessitated heavy withdrawals from stocks, that the stocks of light oil had been largely depleted, to such an extent that practically all the oil held in storage was of low gravity, and that an advance in the price of light oil was imminent. It was pointed out that production must be stimulated, and that an advance in price was the only feasible method.

The only thing correctly stated in these presumptions was the increase in the Standard Oil of California's business. That had been estimated at 85 per cent. for the first five months of the present calendar year. At the present time the Standard Oil has in stock several millions of barrels of light oil, and furthermore, the company is storing oil of high gravity at the rate of more than 10,000 barrels a day. Stocks are being drawn on, it is true, but they are the stocks of heavy oil.

The feature, however, which militates most strongly against any advance in the prices of light oil, is the competition which the Standard Oil of New York, which buys the local company's products here, must meet in the Orient. Sixty per cent. of the California corporation's foreign business goes to the Far East, and there it must meet the keenest sort of competition. An advance in the price of oil here would mean a curtailment of the export trade, and the company would find it more profitable to lessen the foreign demand and keep prices at their present level.

ENTERS NEW FIELD.

Lewis M. Head, recently in charge of the publicity department for Frank N. Clark, general sales manager of the Van Nuys-Lankershim lands, has resigned that position to assume charge of the advertising department of the F. P. Newport Company. Head was brought to this city from Portland by Clark when the latter engaged with the Los Angeles Suburban Homes Company. The Newport Company is specializing in harbor property, a line of real estate that is familiar to Head, who has conducted several large advertising campaigns featuring the marine shipping facilities of Portland and the mouth of the Columbia River.

ELASTICITY OF GLASS.

One of the Most Interesting as Well as Most Peculiar Things Because of Its Contradictory Qualities.

[New York Press:] Glass is one of the most interesting, as well as one of the most peculiar things, in the world. It has curious and contradictory qualities, and many astonishing phenomena are connected with it. Brittle and breakable as it is, yet it exceeds almost all other bodies in elasticity.

If two glass balls are made to strike each other at a given force, the recoil, by virtue of their elasticity, will be nearly equal to their original impetus. Connected with its brittleness are some very singular facts.

Take a hollow sphere, with a hole, and stop the hole with the finger, so as to prevent the external and internal air from communicating, and the sphere will fly to pieces by the mere heat of the hand.

Vessels made of glass that have been suddenly cooled possess the curious property of being able to resist hard blows given to them from without, but will be instantly shivered by a small particle of flint dropped into their cavities.

This property seems to depend upon the comparative thickness of the bottom; the thicker the bottom is, the more certainty of breakage by this experiment.

Some of these vessels, it is stated, have resisted the stroke of a mallet given with sufficient force to drive a nail into wood, and heavy bodies, such as musket balls, pieces of iron, bits of wood, jasper, stone, etc., have been cast into them from a height of two or three feet without any effect, yet a fragment of flint not larger than a pea dropped from a height of three inches made they fly to pieces.

UNRAVELING PROBLEM.

Geologic Structure of Searchlight District Proves Interesting Nut to Crack.

SEARCHLIGHT (Nev.) July 18.—A geological problem of no mean proportions has been encountered in the Fourth of July section of the Searchlight mining district, which problem has furnished a great deal of interest for mining engineers and geologists during its development.

Until within a year and a half ago all the work in this immediate section was on the northerly side of Fourth of July Mountain on the Chief of the Hills, Fourth of July, Bamberger-Wheatley, Kansas City, Stanley Forbes and several other properties, from which in the neighborhood of 6000 tons of ore, averaging $55 per ton, has been extracted and milled, leaving unstoped large bodies of medium and low-grade ores.

In almost all of these properties, as depth is attained, there are evidences of great disturbances having occurred after the mineralization had taken place—notably in the case of the Kansas City, which is regularly step-faulted at about every seventy feet. The main source of this disturbance and the point of the main upheaval which caused it have never been determined until now, for the reason that all of these properties are located on the southerly side of the main canyon through which runs the Searchlight-Colorado River wagon road.

To the north and across the canyon, distant by air line about two lines, is an unbroken range of granite mountains extending for many miles in a southeasterly-northwesterly direction. It has remained for W. J. Rouse, the Los Angeles mine operator, whose properties lie on the north side of the mountain and directly opposite Fourth of July Peak, to discover the contact between the granite and the interlying porphyry formation along the north side of this mineralized zone, as they have been found in the properties on the south side.

In Rouse's opinion, the main fissure extends from the north line of the Marion property to the south line of the Fourth of July mine, which is almost at the crest of the mountain. In three shafts varying in depth from 100 to 300 feet he has proved the quartz-porphyry ore body to have been deposited in the form of a perfect fold, dipping at 43 deg. toward the north to the 200-foot level—doubling back upon itself and dipping to the south at 51 deg.

At a point directly north and distant by air line about 2400 feet to the tunnel of the Boston mine of the Quartette estate, at the base of Fourth of July Mountain, a lateral fracture—extending in a northerly-southerly direction, or at right angles, with the strike of the main ore bodies for a distance of nearly 2000 feet—cuts the mineralization in two.

That this disturbance goes to great depth is shown by the fact that it is even more marked in the east drift on the 200-foot level of the Marion than it is on the surface. Rouse spent much time and study with geologists before arriving at this conclusion, which tends to prove that the richest mineralized belt in the Searchlight district will be found between the walls of the gigantic fissure that is marked upon the north and south by the boundaries of the Marion and Fourth of July estates.

TEN MORE HOUSES.

Robert Marsh & Co. will build ten more bungalows in West Adams Park, according to H. Gordon Badger, manager of the subdivision department of that concern. Contracts for the homes were signed during the week, Charles D. Goldthwaite, who recently completed five houses in West Adams Park, being the contractor.

UP-TO-DATE FEATURES.

Work has been begun on a twenty-four-room apartment building at No. 434 Centennial street by "Home Builders" for Mrs. W. F. Henderson. The structure will be two stories in height and will have a plastered exterior. A feature of the building will be a commodious community kitchen and laundry in basement. The value of building and site is given at $25,000.

Practical Philanthropy.

[New York Press:] One of the shopping district's deaf, dumb, blind and legless beggars now presents a new appeal to the public. On the lapel of his coat is pinned a printed sign which says:

"In case of rain, carry me into Tony Ferrari's place."

Few of those who stop to read know where Tony Ferrari's place is, but a scattering of the more curious take the trouble to find out. Tony, they learn, is an Americanized Italian who runs a bootblack stand in a side street. "Did you give him permission to wear that sign?" some one asked.

"Sure" said Tony. "Why not? It ain't right to let the poor devil sit out there in a pelting rain and get soaked to the skin. Folk used to let him do that, but it ain't right. Nobody wants to give him shelter, but I don't mind. This is a good place for him. He can pick up a few extra nickels here, and, besides," added Tony, shrewdly, "what's the matter with that sign as an advertisement for my own business?"

Book Diplomacy.

of a foreign government any more than it is within the province of a foreign government to inquire into the morality or lack of it, of the heads of the Washington government.

That is purely an internal question and the Mexican Congress and Supreme Court, which are the only bodies authorized to pass upon the actions of Gen. Huerta, by declaring him the constitutional President of Mexico have definitely settled that question.

COSTLY TO AMERICANS.

Meanwhile, non-recognition is costing Americans the good-will of Mexicans, and many millions of dollars in decreased trade and decreased profits on investments. Likewise, it is causing suffering to the Mexican people and the best elements among Mexicans see themselves thwarted in their efforts to bring about peaceful and prosperous conditions. But Washington seems to care nothing for all this as long as its theories are sustained by its actions.

It is not generally known that daily during the last four months strong representations have been made from all quarters of the United States to the State Department urging the recognition of the Huerta government. Although, unfortunately, this has not been the result of concerted and unified action, yet it has been done by representative men interpreting the sentiment and wishes of Americans interested in Mexico, not only financially and commercially, but also through humanitarian motives and love of fair play.

None of the men who have been in Washington to urge a solution of the Mexican problem have obtained any satisfaction excepting that of learning the astonishing and profound ignorance existing in certain quarters in regard to Mexican affairs.

Supposing, but not admitting, that the recognition of the Huerta government should be based purely on moral grounds, regardless of the practical and legal side of the question, what of the responsibility which is being put on the United States by the attitude of the Washington government?

STAND IS UNTENABLE.

Because, by refusing to recognize the present government of Mexico, the Washington administration is not refraining from taking sides. In practical effect, non-recognition is against the Mexican government and in favor of the continuation of rebellion, destruction and pillage, imperiling the many thousands of Americans in Mexico, the one billion of American capital invested there and causing further suffering to the Mexican people.

Every day that recognition is withheld a prayer of thanksgiving is breathed by those below the Rio Grande that see in a continued state of disorder an opportunity for self-seeking ambition. The lawless, looting brigand calls down blessings on Washington and proceeds with accelerated gusto to his day's work of rapine and destruction. All the forces of irresponsibility, unbridled ambition and criminality are encouraged and inspired by the attitude of the United States.

Does this not constitute sufficient moral ground for condemning the policy of the Washington administration!

But there is more.

MEXICANS INDIGNANT.

A righteous feeling of indignation against the attitude of the American government has gradually developed among Mexicans.

Many Americans ignorant of the exact status of the situation will be inclined to put all the blame for this on the Mexicans themselves, thus widening the gulf which seems to have been created between the two people.

But above all else, Americans cherish a reputation of being lovers of fair play. And the only fair manner to fully understand the feeling of Mexicans is to consider the situation also from their standpoint.

No fair-minded American will refuse to give them a just hearing, at least, and here are the facts as viewed from their standpoint:

Many thousand Americans have lived in Mexico and have prospered there through a period extending over many years. In spite of racial and historical differences, the hospitality extended to Americans in Mexico was always of a most generous nature. Mexicans have been assured repeatedly of the disinterested friendship of their neighbors to the north.

Never have Mexicans needed the helping hand of their friends as immediately after the fall of the Madero regime in their poignant distraction and efforts to stop the lawlessness which had been increasing ever since the incipiency of the revolution against Diaz.

Mexicans of all classes, in an overwhelming majority, irrespective of personal likes and dislikes or political creed, have rallied around the present government, realizing that with or without defects, it is the anchor of salvation that can prevent the wreck of their prosperity and political independence.

In its earnest effort to restore order and put into effect the reforms demanded and needed by the people, the Mexican government has required not only the financial, but also the moral support of foreigners and of foreign governments.

THE MEXICAN LOAN.

What aid did Mexico receive from the United States? The first urgent necessity, the government loan was supplied by Europe because non-recognition by the Washington administration made it impossible for American bankers to be instrumental in negotiating the mentioned loan.

Through prompt recognition of the Huerta government, Mexico received the moral support of all great powers, except that of the United States.

While this country maintains in Mexico a fully accredited Ambassador, Mexico has been prevented by non-recognition from having an equally ranking representative in Washington, where at present it is represented only by a charge d'affairs. With this, Mexicans feel that unfair advantage is being taken by the United States.

The Washington government has declared that it will not recognize any government in Mexico until Presidential elections have been held there.

According to the Mexican Constitution, general elections cannot be held while a portion of the country is in state of war. But the restoring of peace and order is rendered immeasurably more difficult and slow by the failure of the United States to recognize the Mexican government. This is especially due to the fact that the Federal American authorities on the border—owing to non-recognition—are dealing in the same manner with Mexican Federal forces and authorities as with rebels and bandits. Thus the government of Mexico, being unable to freely introduce into its own territory ammunitions and supplies, is placed in some cases in the humiliating position of either abandoning its forces to the mercy of rebels or resort to smuggling, while thus, in all practical effect, the American government is tacitly recognizing the belligerancy of rebels and bandits.

E. T. Simondetti,
Former editor of El Diario.

To sustain this contention of Mexicans it is sufficient to cite one case, that of the order given by the military authorities at El Paso that the Federal garrison at Juarez be prevented from introducing ammunitions or supplies into Juarez and that 250 Mexican Federal soldiers and officers be held prisoners at Ft. Bliss.

ANTAGONISM IS AROUSED.

Is it very surprising that a feeling of antagonism against Americans should have been awakened among the people of Mexico? Who is responsible for such a feeling? It may be wrong perhaps for Mexicans in their resentment, to confuse the Washington administration with the American people, but it would be a great deal to ask of them should Americans want a finer distinction.

One cannot over-estimate the import of the administration's actions in dealing with Mexico, as they will affect the political and commercial relations of the United States with all Latin America.

Americans, understanding the moral and commercial value of the good will of other people, have endeavored of late years to overcome the feeling of mistrust prevailing in Latin-American countries in regard to the United States. The efforts of the Pan-American Union and of the numerous societies founded in this country to encourage Pan-Americanism will come all to nought unless the honesty of purpose of the Washington government in dealing with its closest neighbor is made absolutely clear. Frankness and consistency at least, will be required. Secretary Bryan has preached peace, friendship and brotherhood of all Americans, North and South, and has declared himself in favor of liberty for all the people to the south of the Rio Grande.

Yet, by his very attitude in the Mexican question, he is bringing about a situation full of dangers for that peace which he advocates. And because a Mexican newspaper reflects the people's indignation at the attitude of the Washington government he requests the Mexican government to prevent the Mexican press from criticising this same attitude. That is, it demands that the Mexican government exercise the Russian prerogative of previous censorship.

BULL-DOZING UNPOPULAR.

The maintaining of prestige in a smaller country does not depend on bull-dozing, which is usually a sign of weakness rather than of strength. Justice is corollary of true greatness and strength. To eliminate the cause for resentment would be fairer than to insist in maintaining the cause and then peremptorily demand that the resentment should be supressed. To say to a neghboring nation: "I will have nothing to do with you and I will not help you in your distress, but at the same time I want you to respect and love me" does not seem to reveal a great sense of justice. Friendship between nations as well as between individuals can be firmly established on reciprocal relations only.

The Mexican government is entitled to a fair chance and the time in which to work out the military, social and politicial problems, the solution of which is necessary to the complete re-establishment of peace. The acts of the present administration in Mexico in the brief time in which it has held the reins of power are a guarantee of progress against any reactionary movement, while they reveal at the same time the firmness of the hand which is now at the helm.

President Huerta has appointed a Cabinet, which, in itself, is the clearest evidence of the honesty of purpose of the government. Its members have accepted office at a time when tenure of office far from being a sinecure is full of perils and entails personal and material sacrifices.

The Huerta administration while recognizing the imperative necessity of waging an implacable war against bandits and recalcitrant rebels, also recognises the duty of giving freedom, bread and justice to the people.

In fact it has set a definite date —October 27—for the Presidential elections and only a protracted and increased armed strife could prevent the holding of these elections.

THE AGRARIAN PROBLEM.

Realizing that the agrarian problem is the most serious of all and requiring urgent solution it has taken important steps to bring about such a solution. To this end it has presented a bill to Congress creating a Department of Agriculture. It has also presented a bill providing for government aid to any enterprise established to promote the subdivision of land. Through the Bank of Loans and Irrigation with a capital stock of 200,000,000 pesos of which the government owns the control, large estates will be bought and paid for either in cash or bonds, the interest on which will be guaranteed by the government. These large estates will be subdivided into small parcels and sold at easy terms to agricultural workers. The Huerta administration has also granted the free exploitation of certain forests, sand beds and stone quarries on national lands, besides the free working of tracts of land at Xochimilco and Chalco in the Federal District.

The inhabitants of different municipalities presenting certificates of good moral conduct will be allowed to work these lands and benefit thereby. Land owners in the Federal District and others parts of Mexico have put at the disposal of the government large tracts to be distributed among the Indians. Instructions have also been sent to all the Governors of the States to appoint local engineers to subdivide the national lands into parcels of between twenty-four [illegible] acres for distribution [illegible] ple. INDUSTRIAL RIGHTS.

[EDITORIAL.]

THE POWER of a labor union is very great, and if lawfully exercised is adequate to protect the rights of its members. There is never justification or excuse for exercising it unlawfully, and the ignorant and self-seeking leaders who counsel and instigate such unlawful exercise work immeasurable injury to those whose interests they assume to promote.

Labor leaders defend illegal acts by quoting the doctrine repeatedly announced by the courts that what one man may lawfully do, does not become unlawful when done by a number of men. For instance, one man may walk up and down in the street, or stand in front of a manufactory, and his act is not unlawful. But if a hundred men do this by concert of action and avow that they thus "picket" the premises of an employer in order to compel him to discharge an employee who is not a member of the union, or to reinstate a discharged union man, they are guilty of a conspiracy and may be punished criminally.

It has been held by the courts, both in England and America, that "the liberty of a man's mind and will to say how he should employ his time, his talents and industry, for whom he should work, or whom he should employ, was as much the subject of the law's protection as that of his body, and that any combination formed for the purpose of coercing this liberty of mind and freedom of will was criminal, because formed for the accomplishment of an unlawful purpose."

The criminality of a labor combination depends rather upon the lawfulness of the object which it is sought to effect, and the means by which it is accomplished, than upon the power of coercing the will.

There are so many things that a body of men may lawfully do to improve their industrial condition that it is strange they should be led to unnecessarily, and in many instances uselessly, violate the law.

If a man is dissatisfied with his wages he has a legal right—in the absence of a contract—to quit his employment, and a dozen or a hundred men may do this by concert of action. Usually strikes are fruitless of beneficial results. Their wisdom may be questioned but not their legality—when peacefully conducted—as is not often the case. But when a strike is ordered, not to better the condition of a worker by an increase of wages or a diminution of hours of labor, or the establishment of improved sanitary conditions, but for the purpose of forcing the employer to change his methods of doing business, or for the purpose of compelling him not to sell his wares to boycotted persons, or not to buy his materials from boycotted vendors, or to hire somebody he does not wish to employ, or to discharge somebody whose services he wishes to retain, and these unlawful demands are sought to be enforced by menaces, expressed or implied, of harm to his person or property, or are accompanied by picketing, boycotting, arson, dynamiting, assaults, or insults, than the act otherwise lawful becomes unlawful.

"The advantages both lawful and unlawful which accrue from organization and the substitution of concerted action for individual effort are obvious." Combination means power and power in this connection implies the ability to command or control. To gain this control over the will of their employer, the ability to dictate the terms and conditions of their employment is now the principal purpose of all combinations of laborers in "unions."

The strikers on the Phoenix (Arizona) street railroad had both a legal and moral right to quit work in order to enforce their demand for an increase of wages. They had a legal, though not a moral right to refuse to return to work because the company declined to accede to their demand that it should reinstate a man whom it had discharged for cause.

The company had both a legal and a moral right to replace the strikers with non-union men, and it had no moral right, in justice to its stockholders and the traveling public, to reinstate a man whose services it had dispensed with for good reasons.

But the strikers had no right to use violence upon the strike-breakers who were imported from Los Angeles to take the jobs they had declined. They had no right to hurl rocks at and insult passengers upon the cars. They had no right to wedge timbers between the guard and running rail of the road at night so as to throw a car off the track and possibly maim or kill passengers as well as motorman and conductor.

A railway company because it is a common carrier may not refuse to transport a sober, decently-clad passenger. A hotel-keeper may not refuse to receive a guest not afflicted with disease for whom there is room—for an innkeeper is required to accommodate those who apply.

If a tobacconist refuses to sell a cigar to a man against whom he has a grudge, the party deprived of his smoke has no right to beat the tobacconist. If a smoker refuses to accept a cigar from a tobacconist, the latter has no right to seize the former and cram a stinkadore or even a perfecto between the labia of the recalcitrant man.

When Henry George, the author of "Progress and Poverty," was a candidate for Mayor of New York, he was introduced to an audience at Cooper Institute as "the friend of the poor man." "I am not," said he, "the friend of the poor man; I am not the friend of the rich man; I am the friend of all men." The sentiment expressed, although politically sound, was not what should have been said or thought by one in whose veins flowed the milk of human kindness. It was politically sound, for there should be in a republic no class legislation and no class administration of government in favor of either rich or poor. Yet, he is a cold-blooded man whose heart does not throb with sympathy for those whose daily toil, whether with trowel or pen, with shovel or yard stick, serves barely to supply the needs of life for their loved ones.

Yet such sympathy must stop short of class legislation or the republic will cease to be a republic except in name. To give to the rich an unlawful advantage over the poor or to give to the poor an unlawful advantage over the rich is equally a crime against Republican representative government.

The labor leaders who counsel their followers to commit violence—the Gomperses and Tveitmoes and McCarthys and Ryans and others who feed fat upon disorder and crime, are the first to flee from the consequences of the acts they advised. Like the Parisian bandits of the fifteenth century, who when they saw the officers of the law approaching, fled into Norte Dame Cathedral, yelling "sanctuary," these cowardly scoundrels rush into the labor union lodges and call upon laboring men and women to contribute of their hard earnings to make a fat fund for the Darrows and Harrimans and Scotts. And the misguided, deceived big-hearted workers pour their hard earnings into the clutching hands of the auto-riding, champagne-drinking loafers, "who toil not, neither do they spin, though Solomon in all his glory was not arrayed like them."

It needs no counsel learned in the law to instruct either employer or employed as to their legal rights. The employer offends against the law when he blacklists an employee and prevents him from obtaining employment. The employee offends against the law when he boycotts an employer and prevents him from selling his wares.

All class legislation intended to exempt laborers because they are laborers from the operation of laws, which others must obey, is wrong in principle, dangerous in policy and utterly futile of benefit to the laborer.

Is there in all the history of dynamiting, and arson, and obstruction of railroads, and boycotting, and picketing, and assaults perpetrated by union labor, one single instance of labor gaining any advantage whatever thereby?

Labor's Unrest.

THE STRIKE NEWS OF THIS UNEASY WORLD.

THE question at issue between the railroad conductors and trainmen in the eastern territory and the railroads by which they are employed is whether the roads shall or shall not grant an increase in wages of about $17,000,000, or 20 per cent. over the present scale, which scale ranges as follows:

Employment—	Annual wages.
Passenger conductors	$1,574 to $1,767
Freight conductors	1,219 to 1,328
Passenger trainmen	1,219 to 1,328
Freight trainmen	961 to 1,027
Yard conductors	1,170 to 1,259
Yard trainmen	896 to 1,102

It is said that there are 680,000 employees on the roads in this eastern territory who would be affected by a strike as well as the general public.

The roads, through their committee, insist that the men are paid practically uniform wages and have similar working conditions and that the conditions and wages were fixed in 1910 by former President E. E. Clark of the Order of Railway Conductors, and former President P. H. Morrissey of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen. At that time the increase of pay of conductors, trainmen and yard men was about $30,000,000 a year, and the roads contend that there are no changes since that time that warrant the further increase of $17,000,000 a year demanded now. Nor does it appear to most of us that the wages now being paid, as stated above, call for the demanded, or any, increase now nor during the refusal of the Interstate Commerce Commission to allow the roads any increase in carrying charges. The men have voted, some 76,000 of them, in favor of striking by a vote of 15 to 1, but that does not necessarily mean a strike by any manner of means. The vote is really a club, with which it is hoped to frighten the roads. Latest advices (after a White House conference,) are that the amendments to the Erdman arbitration act just passed by the House and the Senate will induce both the roads and the men to accept settlement by arbitration under that act, thus avoiding the fearful public calamity of a strike.

—In the employment of the men by the roads the open shop rule prevails, though at least 90 per cent. are in the unions, and the strike vote involves both union and non-union men. It is somewhat reassuring to the public that A. B. Garretson, present president of the Order of Railway Conductors, says: "We will not go off at half-cock, but will give the railroads time before a strike is called, to avert a strike. It is our duty to make a last effort at an amicable settlement before a strike is declared."

These strike-voting employees would not be acting justly if they should proceed to tie up the railroads in the more populous half of the country because the roads, as they provingly state, cannot afford to grant the $17,000,000 wage increase demanded; nor, in justice to the public, should they do so if even the coming arbitration should not give them what they ask or entirely refuse to award any increase at the present somewhat depressed and anxious business time. Coats must be cut according to cloth, these days. A strike would also be impolitic. It might easily come to pass that public sentiment would demand a decision on the question whether the law against combinations restraining trade is applicable to all combinations whose activities may have the effect of placing restraint upon trade.

For shorter hours (12 to 10) and more pay, the hotel and restaurant cooks and waiters and waitresses of Phoenix, Ariz., are getting ready to go on strike shortly after the present wages and hours agreement expires on August 2. Eight hours to be the rule for waitresses, with $2 per day; waiters, ten hours, $2.50 per day; general help, ten hours, $1.50 per day; cooks, the same pay as they now get.

The street railway strike at Phoenix is dragging its weary way along. The men can get more wages, re-employment and some other concessions, but not recognition of the union, nor reinstatement of the employee, Ward, who was discharged for cause. In refusing these two latter demands the company is properly fighting the battle of industrial liberty for all employees in Phoenix.

The printers of Albany, N. Y.—book and job—refuse the employers' proposal for arbitration of their differences and a strike may result. Employers offered a $1 weekly raise but the men want $2 and a further $1 a year from now.

Patrick Quinlan, of infamous I.W.W. record at Paterson, is now convict No. 2660, with from two to seven years at hard labor to serve, and a fine of $500 to pay, or to stay in prison still longer beyond his term, till it is paid. Efforts to get him out of prison on $5000 bail, pending legal appeal, are fruitless so far, in spite of appeals to Socialists of New York City. All Socialists are not members of the I. W.W., but all members of that revolutionary and unlawful gang are Socialists, to the disgrace of that body. Even a negro burglar, on the way to Trenton prison, objected to being handcuffed to Quinlan. His work in prison will be making mats. His days of high living without work at the expense of working labor are over for two, and perhaps seven years. Haywood, of Idaho murder memory, ought to be in prison with him, and may be there yet.

In Paterson, the strikers' relief fund is very low. About 4000 strikers are daily getting bread and potatoes at the strikers' headquarters. Other workers are going back daily on "shop by shop" agreements.

The I.W.W. has utterly lost the strike at the Draper works, Hopedale, Mass. The strikers begged to be allowed to go back under previous working conditions and wages. There's another big batch of wages money (fifteen weeks) foolishly thrown away by the thousand who went on strike to please well-paid and well-fed I.W. W. agitators.

By going on strike the 400 white hotel waiters in St. Louis, Mo., have lost all their jobs. Negro waiters have been engaged and State police are guarding the hotels and restaurants to prevent trouble.

Twelve thousand metal workers of Birmingham, Eng., have gone on strike. This brings the number of Birmingham workers out on strikes and lock-outs up to 40,000. The metal workers (like fools) struck in sympathy with the unskilled workers. If the strike is prolonged the iron industry of England's "Black Country" will be paralyzed. The demand is for a minimum wage of 23 shillings a week for adult unskilled labor. Thousands of children are being charity-fed in all parts of the district. A big strike in England always means starvation as the prevailing low wages (and drink) preclude "savings" to any considerable extent. Personally the writer is quite familiar with this unhappy phase of English workmen's conditions.

During the past five years strikes in England have depleted the funds of the Federation of Trade Unions by $1,825,000.

The Molders' Union of Indianapolis has to pay a judgment just given against it in favor of the Keyless Lock Company for $6000 damages to the company by acts of strikers. The "open shop" was the issue in the case and the "open-shop" principle was maintained.

Hamburg has a ship building strike and nearly 20,000 men are thrown out of work. All the yards are tied up.

For using obscene language toward women workers in the Portland cannery, three I.W.W. strike agitators have gone where they belong—to jail. The cannery may be permanently closed down as a result of the strike.

The miners' strike on the Transvaal Rand is practically over, through the efforts of the great Boer leader (now Prime Minister of the Union of South Africa) Gen. Louis Botha. The settlement is not more wages, but "amnesty" from damages caused and re-employment. Thus ends the seriously threatened civil war.

Edgewater, N. J., has a strike of 700 Polish employees of the American Sugar Refining Company. They have been getting from 17¼ to 21½ cents an hour and want 3 cents more. While keeping out of sight, two I.W.W. delegates are trying to organize the strikers. Where the carcass is there the vultures gather.

It was the cry of the baby in the tenement home, the child of the poor, which was most frequently lifted to the ears of the judges as testimony was given that the city of Cincinnati was justified in seizing under bond) and operating the ice plants of that city, pending settlement of the icemen's strike. The two judges sat spellbound while the testimony was being given. Mothers, some with their crying babies in their arms, and ill wives told of their struggle to get a bit of ice during the blistering heat. Some told of how they went without sleep for hours to be able to gain a point of vantage in the "ice line" day after day, and then only to find that there was no ice to be had, says the Sun of New York.

Others told of the long night vigils as they sat and fanned the water in which the food for the baby's milk was put, in an endeavor to preserve it. Tales of deaths of the little mites of humanity were frequent. Did the strikers think of or care about this suffering when they struck right in the hottest part of the year, when life depends upon a supply of ice? Do strikers ever think of the public suffering they cause? With this illustration before us it would seem as if they never do. In such cases the labor agitators who foment strikes should go to jail and be flogged there.

In sympathy with the cooks and waiters all the union bartenders have gone "out." Their places can be easily filled as bartending is not skilled labor.

Mine owners and operators in West Virginia are seeking court injunctions against officers of the United Mine Workers to restrain them from agitating in certain counties.

Eighty-six manufacturers in Paterson, N. J., have agreed to give their hands a fifty-five-hour week or a ten-hour day. Strikers are still being arrested for refusing to leave picket lines where mills are running.

Lexington, Ky., has a street car strike and the strikers are buying guns. No violence yet. It is feared the guns may be used against the strikers while attempting to run the cars. In the meantime the public is walking, with the thermometer at 100 or more in the shade.

Bandon, Or., has fired its I.W.W. favoring Socialist Editor Leach out of the city. Practically every citizen joined in the "firing." Some other cities, Los Angeles for instance, might very properly do likewise.

Nineteen thousand six hundred and sixty dollars of the Lawrence (Mass.) strike relief fund seems to have never got past Haywood, Ettor and the other I.W.W. leaders and absorbers. There is a new kind of strike and, strange to say, it is in the South. At Atlanta, Ga., 200 white building workers struck because the contractors refuse to employ negroes as hod carriers. In the South the color line is usually the other way round. Many thousands of coal miners are still idle on strike and losing good wages in West Virginia. The non-union men there get better pay than the union men in Illinois.

Haywood and Ettor, I.W.W. agitators, were chased with guns out of a union-labor hall in New York on July 12. Did Haywood—Big Bill—hide behind a laundry woman's skirt as he did in Rochester, N.Y., last November, when American Federation of Labor delegates chased him out of their convention hall? For a man big of body and big of words and threats, Big Bill Haywood is a pusillanimous coward. He will run and run hard when he sees the prison door open waiting for him. And the men who chased him, in New York were deserters from the Garment Workers' Union. Even though deserters they did not want that rebel.

Efforts to get up a general strike of the wharf workers in San Pedro completely failed a few days ago. Strikes are not popular in this city of industrial freedom—that freedom which The Times has preached for a score of years and will continue to preach while print paper and ink holds out.

Paterson, N. J., landlords have to go without their rents and also supply free water to the strikers' families.

A strike of 175 construction workers is on at Mechanicville, N. Y. They quit because one of their number was discharged for cause.

Fifty million people depend on the eastern railroads which pay out half a billion dollars a year in wages—more than one and a half million dollars every working day. There's a strike issue for you, with a vengeance. God grant that the threatened strike may be averted by arbitration.

Gov. Foss denounces the tyranny of union labor and says laboring men are sold out by their leaders. "There must be reform in the labor organizations if we are to have industrial peace and prosperity," says the Governor, and The Times answers, "Amen!"

Good Average.

NOT GRINDING FACES OF POOR.

RAILROADS AND THE DEMAND FOR INCREASED WAGES.

Seventeen Million Dollars a Year Would Be Added to the Operating Costs of the Roads if the Demand for More Wages Were to Be Granted.

[New York Commercial:] Railroads operating in the eastern district are confronted with a demand for increased wages from their conductors and trainmen that if conceded will add $17,000,000 a year to their operating costs. These employees received increases in 1910, amounting to $30,000,000 a year. The locomotive drivers and firemen have just been given an increase of $5,750,000 a year, and these additional demands by the train crews were not unexpected. As the men have voted in favor of a general strike to enforce their claims, the situation is critical.

If the railroads grant these increases in wages, the total amount of their additions of operating costs will be at least $52,000,000 a year, which is equivalent to placing a first lien of more than a billion dollars on their properties on a 5 per cent. basis. This will impair their credit to that extent and will make it impossible for the weaker roads to borrow money or make needed additions and improvements.

These eastern railroads employ 680,000 men and serve more than 50,000,000 people. The public must pay the increased wages in the end. If the Interstate Commerce Commission does not permit the railroads to increase transportation rates to compensate them for forced increases in operating costs the service will be impaired and the public will suffer. If the rates are raised to meet the added expenses the public will pay the difference, but will get the service. It therefore becomes a great public problem rather than a detail of railroad financing.

On some important lines running into New York City the passenger service practically broke down under the pressure of holiday traffic recently. Milk trains were delayed and the lives of young children were thereby imperilled because the railroads have been unable to finance the purchase of additional rolling stock. This should bring home to all the fact that railroad efficiency is a matter of life and death to those who live in congested centers of population. Under the existing law the position of the railroads is not a matter of doubt. Their monthly and annual statements prove the financial distress of many of them. As a rule their gross business and revenues are growing steadily while their net earnings do not keep pace with their gross gains and in many cases are dwindling in a way that means ultimate ruin.

Railroad employees in common with all other honest workmen are entitled to fair wages and have a legal right to refuse to work for less than they demand. But when they ask the public to support them in their attemps to get higher pay the public has a right to take into account the wages they receive as compared with those of men in other walks of life calling for equal intelligence or skill. Passenger conductors now average from $1574 to $1768 a year on these eastern railroads, passenger trainmen get from $954 to $1028, freight conductors get from $1219 to $1327 and freight trainmen get from $835 to $902 a year. As the trainmen are apprentices preparing for higher positions these wages are not low. They average higher than those paid to the school teachers and clergymen of the country.

It therefore appears that the railroads are not grinding the faces of the poor or depriving the laborer of his lawful hire. Once the living wage scale is passed the rate of compensation just becomes a matter of bargain and sale between employer and employee, the one selling for the best price available and the other buying for the lowest. The lowest average wage in question in this dispute is above the minimum wage fixed by sociological experts, so no question of conscience is involved. It is fair to say that these railroad employees do not claim that they are starving. They are simply trying to drive a better bargain, which is their right. But before the public enlists their support some consideration should be given to the case of the railroads. If the public is willing to pay the difference let the Interstate Commerce Commission raise the rates and then the railroads will be able to pay their employees all the public will stand. Let us cease to be hypocritically generous at other people's expense.

FIGHTING THE OPEN SHOP.

Disreputable Practices of the Unionists at Portland Even to the Commission of Criminal Acts.

[Portland Spectator:] In their efforts to punish firms and business concerns that they cannot intimidate, the unions do not hestitate to use city and State offices as well as the machinery of the law. They have just emerged worsted from a legal contest with the West Coast Engineering Company, an open shop firm and one of their pet aversions, in which they were able to command the assistance of the State Labor Commissioner and the local courts, and by misrepresentation and cajolery get the aid of the grand jury. But they were not able to convince the grand jury that black is white.

The unions have bitterly but unsuccessfully fought the West Coast Engineering Company because the proprietor, R. G. Littler, believes in the open shop, and the right of every man to earn a living. The unions insist that the only people who have a right to live are their members, and with the boycott and bludgeon try to dissuade all others from enjoying this right.

Mr. Littler's company put the electric fixtures on the Broadway bridge. The unions fought to prevent him from receiving the contract; rather than have him get it, they made a desperate effort to give it to a foreign and higher bidder. On the day on which the West Coast Engineering Company finished the work, Mr. Littler, at the instance of Labor Commissioner Hoff, was arrested for violating provision of the employers' liability law. The charge was that he had failed to provide a safety railing on a platform on which his men worked.

The grand jury considered the evidence; and gave Mr. Littler an opportunity to tell his story. He said the office of the Labor Commissioner had been used by the unions to embarrass and harass him. He had not used a safety railing on his platform, because his workmen did not desire it. They preferred to work with the greater safeguard of straps, which the law recognized as a proper contrivance for the protection of employees. He also stated that although the complaint was signed by the Labor Commissioner, the proceedings were brought at the behest of the unions by a deputy labor commissioner, who was also a union member and something of a walking delegate. After hearing Mr. Littler's story, the grand jury returned a not true bill.

A strange thing happened to the platform whose lack of a railing was used by the unions as a means of proving their enmity toward Mr. Littler. The platform, on which six or seven men worked, was suspended from the bridge by strong ropes, fastened with all the ingenuity and care that could be devised and used to protect the lives of the employees. Every morning, the ropes and platform were tested; a man securely held by a system of straps was lowered to the platform, on which he stamped and jumped to prove its security. One Monday morning, an employee began the usual test; the ropes slipped from their fastenings, and the platform crashed to the street, fifty feet below. The man was left hanging in mid air.

Some one had tampered with the ropes. If Mr. Littler had not insisted on having the platform tested every day, half a dozen of his men would have been murdered on that Monday morning.

WITH THE ARCHITECTS.

French Hospital Association Names Architects for Proposed Building. Church Plans Taking Shape.

Architects Garrett & Farrell have been commissioned to draw plans for a fireproof hospital building to be erected by the French Hospital Association of this city at the corner of College and Castelar streets. The details of construction and cost are yet to be worked out. The same architects are preparing working plans for the new Methodist Hospital on South Hope street.

Plans for the attractive church to be built by the Knox Presbyterian congregation at Figueroa and Forty-third streets are being completed by C. C. Rittenhouse. The church will be faced with stone and will be 50x60 feet in size. It will contain an auditorium seating about 300, together with a Sunday-school room.

A four-story hotel, 50x150 in size and of brick construction, is to be erected by J. P. Partch at the corner of Main and Twenty-second streets. Plans for the improvement will be drawn by L. L. Jones.

Neher & Skilling have completed plans for a four-story brick hotel building to be built at No. 814 South Hope street by W. H. Wagner. Construction bids are now being taken. The structure will contain about 100 rooms.

The Lawyer's Compromise.

[Philadelphia Ledger:] That the lawyer builds largely on the future was demonstrated the other night by a story told by Congressman Byron P. Harrison of Mississippi.

Some time ago, so related the Congressman, a handsome young woman entered the office of a prominent lawyer. Immediately the legal one rose to greet her.

"I am glad to tell you, Miss Smith," he pleasantly remarked, "that your breach of promise suit has been settled. The defendant has expressed a desire to compromise the case by marrying you."

"I am very glad to hear that," was the smiling response of Miss Smith. "It is much better than taking a chance on losing the verdict. You have managed the case very well. How much do I owe you?"

"Let me see," thoughtfully mused the lawyer. "Shall we say $100."

"We shall not!" was the emphatic rejoinder of the fair plaintiff. "It is entirely too much."

"Well, then, I will tell you what I will do, Miss Smith," responded the lawyer. "I will just cut that bill in half if you will promise to retain me as your counsel when you sue for a divorce."

SOME POINTERS ON GEOLOGY.

BY HARRY R. JOHNSON.

Having always been struck by the frankness and just attitude of The Times in matters of fact, I should be pleassed if the following be given the same prominence in your paper as was an article entitled "Geology Versus the Drill," which appeared under the name of L. C. Blakeslee in The Times, June 22.

It is unnecessary that any defense of the science of geology as applied to the industrial development of California oil resources be made. There are, however, in the article, a number of mis-statements of facts which I am sure have been made through ignorance on the part of Blakeslee. In justice, however, to a number of the men in my profession, who have furthered the developments in the petroleum fields, I must state the facts as they actually are.

With reference to the final sentence of the first paragraph, "Whether geologists' efforts have been of any real value in a industrial or commonsense way, in connection with the oil business in California, is doubtful," it must be remembered that had it not been for the location and study of the anticlinal domes in the vicinity of Santa Maria by W. W. Orcutt, it is quite doubtful whether the Union Oil Company would have ever reached the position which it now occupies, since at the time these first wells in Santa Maria were located, the finances of the company were in a precarious condition.

In the second paragraph of the article, repeated reference is made to "lines" as though certain geological or structural features were so designated. As far as I have ever been able to learn, the word "lines" alone has no geologic signficance whatever. Contour lines, township lines, fault lines, fence lines, contact lines carry their own meaning, but in the opening sentence of the paragraph referred to, Mr. Blakeslee's meaning is decidedly hazy.

With reference to the opening line of the third paragraph, "geological theories have amounted to very little in assisting the California operator in making his locations"—geologic theory where supported by actual observed field conditions, both in the croppings of the formations and the developments of the wells already drilled, has proved of the utmost value to the California operator who knows his business.

With reference to the opening sentence of the fifth paragraph, to the effect that no one, geologist or oil man would have had the nerve to declare that rich oil sands underlie the valley between the Sunset district and the Buena Vista Hills. I may state that because of their foresight in this particular, a number of oil operators, some of whom are now residents in Bakersfield and others in Los Angeles, have made themselves rich men. I have in mind at least five such who located lands in the valley before any developments upon them had been undertaken, and who have benefitted greatly as a result.

Further, Frank M. Anderson, now geologist for the Universal Oil Company, recognized and repeatedly expressed his belief in the strong probability of there being oil in the Midway Flat long before any wells were drilled away from the hillsides to the southwest of that section.

I am sure that had Blakeslee taken the trouble to consult L. A. Crandall he would have found a very different attitude on the part of that gentleman than the one ascribed to him. Having been acquainted with Crandall for a number of years, I know that he realizes the important part played in the location and development of any new oil district by competent geologists.

In regard to the location of the wells in La Habra Valley for the Amalgamated Oil Company, if Mr. Blakeslee will look over the records of reports upon that district before oil was discovered, he will find that Bernard Bienefeld emphatically expressed the opinion that wells drilled at or near the crest of the low hills stretching across La Habra Valley in this region would be productive of oil. Investigations by other geologists also bore out this contention.

Finally, because it is such a direct and unjustified mis-statement of facts I must quote the following sentences from Mr. Blakeslee's article: "The territory embraced in what is now known as the Lost Hills district was 'inspected' and 'experted' by two geologists who have been for several years closely identified with the oil business in this State. They both reported that there was possibly oil in these hills, but that the oil sands lay at a depth of between 5000 and 6000 feet, and it would be unprofitable to attempt drilling operations. The hills were 'out of line' with developments, etc., etc. Two farmers from Visalia used a line with tools on the end of it, and, drilling to a depth of less than 700 feet, opened up one of the best little oil fields in the State."

The two geologists referred to in this statement are unquestionably Ralph Arnold and myself, since it was upon the basis of our work in Lost Hills territory that the lands in question were withdrawn from entry by the Interior Department. Arnold and myself entered the field July 2, 1908, and began an investigation near Dudley, extending the work southeastward along the west side of the San Joaquin Valley to a point a few miles east of Sunset, where the work was concluded the latter part of October. The Lost Hills district was visited and examined in July of 1908, at which time, and for many months afterward, absolutely no oil wells had been drilled in this district, or, in fact, within a radius of twelve miles of the heart of Lost Hills.

Reference to page 204, paragraph 5, and page 206, under the heading "Lost Hills District," of Bulletin 406 of the United States Geological Survey, which deals with the results of Mr. Arnold's and my investigation, will indicate that it is our belief that oil existed within the Lost Hills, which we believed to be the southern continuation of the Kettleman Hills anticline, and would be developed in commercial quantities at a depth less than 5000 feet, and not, as Blakeslee expresses it, between 5000 and 6000 feet. Further the "Hills" not only were "not out of line" with developments, but absolutely a continuation of a controlling anticline, which in the Coalinga district has proven the source of practically all the oil production in the East Side field.

Finally, and to conclude my criticism of Blakeslee's article, I wish to call his attention to the fact that the wells drilled by Dudley & Martin in Lost Hills were—as both of these gentlemen are glad to admit—largely the result of the recommendations made by Orlando Barton, who for many years had studied the geologic conditions in Devils' Den and Lost Hills.

"EAST SIDE" IS IN LIMELIGHT.

OPERATORS WILL PROBABLY FOCUS WORK THERE.

Appropriation for Development of Kern Trading and Oil Is Expected to Be Large—American Petroleum Company Curtails Its Activities. Marian Well Is a Success.

COALINGA, July 18.—The outlook is generally very good in the Coalinga field, especially the East Side, and operators are looking forward to increased activities the latter part of the year.

Although the Southern Pacific company has not yet made its yearly appropriation for development work of the K. T. & O., it is believed that the amount charged off will be large, owing to activities in the East Side field. It is estimated that at least 75 per cent. of the work will be carried on in that section by the various companies.

It will probably require the operation of twelve to fourteen strings to keep the production of the K. T. & O. up to its present mark. The belief is that more wells than usual will be drilled this year by the company.

The California Oilfields, Ltd., the large English corporation, has contracted for the building of ten rigs on its East Side property, Rig Builder Bolton being in charge. Lumber for several of the new rigs has already arrived on the ground. It is expected that the California Oilfields, Ltd., will be very active this year, owing to the fact that it is constructing a large reservoir, capacity 750,000 barrels.

Rig Builder Bolton also has contracts for one rig on the Turner and one for the Claremont, the latter on the West Side.

Besides, a new rig is to be erected on the Premier and one has recently been constructed on the Confidence. As it is doubtful whether the K. T. & O. will do any large amount of development work on the West Side this year, that section will become secondary to the East Side. Possible new work by the smaller companies will be discounted by the curtailing of work on the American Petroleum properties. The American has already cut the number of operating strings from twelve to six.

The success of the Marian well on section 6, 21-15, is now practically assured, and it is expected to be on the pump with a good production in a few days. The cement was drilled out last week and the well put down to the oil sand with an open hole. Tests were made and the water is found to be successfully shut off in the eight-inch casing, and Clyde Martin, who is drilling the well, expects the production to go better than 150 barrels per day from the showing made on entering the oil sand. The 6¼-inch casing is now being placed in the hole, and the well will be put on the pump as soon as the tubing can be put in.

The Marian came in nearly three years ago with a splendid production, estimated at over 400 barrels per day. Water trouble ensued, however, and after expending a large amount of money in an endeavor to put the well again on a producing basis work was shut down and the hole allowed to remain idle.

Some time ago C. A. Martin, owner of a large block of stock in the company, made an offer to the directors to the effect that he would work on the well at his own expense. If he brings in a producer he is to receive 25,000 shares of the company's stock, according to a stated agreement.

As the directors saw no chance of doing anything with the abandoned hole they took Martin up on the proposition, and he is redrilling the well. He has been successful from the start and has encountered but little drilling trouble.

The Oil Industry.

REFINING BUSINESS MAKES RAPID STRI

[BY A SPECIAL CONTRIBUTOR.]

THE business of refining oil has undergone a rapid growth in California, the past twelve months, with great benefit to the entire industry. At present, it is estimated that the amount of oil worked up into by-products is about 150,000 barrels a day. All the large refinery concerns are increasing the capacity of their plants, and the demand for refining oil is growing accordingly.

Obviously the depression, which has existed in the oil industry, has been a heavy burden for the producer, but it has also resulted in good far outweighing the evils for all concerned in the industry, in that it has brought about a policy of conservation that means not only increased returns, but an extension of the life of the industry in this State.

Low prices forced the producer to effect every saving possible in order to "make ends meet." Everything that was in the oil of value was saved. Even the burning of pure crude as a fuel, is now recognized as a tremendous economic waste, and it is certain that it will not continue indefinitely.

The fact that California oil will produce large quantities of valuable byproducts and still leave a residuum fuel, almost as effective as pure crude, has been established. There are perhaps not yet "fifty-seven varieties" of products secured, but enough of lubricants of various grades, kerosenes, gasolines and distillates, to show the criminal extravagance involved in burning the oil before these are extracted.

Although the business in the United States is only about fifty years old, the Pennsylvania fields are practically down and out, with little prospect that more oil will be discovered. The California fields are nearly as new as years ago. But the idea that the California fields are inexhaustible and will produce for centuries to come, is fallacious.

It may be, however, that California will be called upon in the future years, to supply most of the lubricants, and illuminants in use. Animal and vegetable oils cannot, in all probability, take the place of the mineral products. If this is true, the use of crude oil for fuel should be curtailed to the minimum.

MANY REFINERIES.

Simply taken as a commercial proposition, it pays to treat California petroleum before it is marketed. There are now about forty refining plants of different capacity in operation in this State. The largest of these, of course, are the two Standard establishments—one at Point Richmond, and the other at El Segundo. The Union is the second largest refinery, but has adopted a different policy from the Standard in that its plants are of smaller capacity, but more scattered, being located nearer the raw material and also the markets.

The big Associated refinery at Avon is not yet in operation, but will, when running at full capacity, require large amounts of oil. These large refiners have their markets established both at home and abroad, and the latter business is growing rapidly.

There are about thirty small independent refineries scattered throughout the State, all running at full speed. Their output is marketed locally as a rule. Whether these small concerns will be eventually absorbed by the large ones, remains to be seen. It is only within the past few months that their business has cut into that of the large concerns to any extent and that only in the gasoline trade in the southern part of the State.

Government Figures.

TWO-MILLION-BARREL GAIN IN OIL YI

"THE great production of petroleum in 1911, which was 220,449,391 barrels, was equaled and passed in 1912, when the total reached 222,538,604 barrels. Higher prices were the rule in 1912 except in California, and even in that State there was no material decline," says the Bulletin on oil production in 1912, just issued by the United States Geological Survey. "The total value, therefore, increased markedly, reaching $164,087,342, or 22.41 per cent. above the value for 1911.

"The greatest increase in quantity was in California, where the total advanced from 81,134,391 to 86,450,767 barrels, a gain of 5,316,376 barrels, or 6.55 per cent. Wyoming showed the remarkable gain of 742 per cent., from 186,695 barrels to 1,572,306 barrels, owing to the increased activity of the Mid-West Oil Company and the Wyoming Oil Fields Company. Operations in Northern Texas also more than offset the usual decline in the Gulf region and resulted in a significant gain for that State.

"The volume of crude oil and of all the usual products exported from the United States increased, owing to the fact that foreign conditions were much more favorable to American exporters. Meanwhile, the importation of gasoline from the East Indies was a favorable element in relieving the growing demand for this product on the Pacific Coast.

"The improved conditions in the export trade and the increased capacity of the refiners to take care of the great yield of crude oil resulted in a marked decline in stocks in all fields except California, and even there the storage of petroleum was checked by an increase in consumption.

"The total stocks of all crude oils at the beginning of 1912 aggregated 138,000,000 barrels. By the close of the year they had declined to 125,000,000 barrels, a decrease of about 10 per cent. The decline was greatest

The North Fork company is capitalized at $200,000, and operates the property under lease. Reports that the company owns the mine outright are incorrect. Not a fraction of ground is owned, and the company was promoted and maintained on the chance of encountering pay ore in the leased territory.

The discovery is considered the most important event of the year at Forest, as the Uncle Sam vein when last worked in the Uncle Sam mine yielded splendid profits, and the proving of the ledge in new ground is confidently expected to stimulate activities on other properties in the vicinity. Considerable North Fork stock is held by Southern Californians, but the majority lies in the hands of Pacific Grove, San Francisco and Sierra county people.

The South Fork Mining and Milling Company, composed of Los Angeles people, is pressing vigorous work at the promising South Fork group. Several power drills were recently installed in the mine, and the long adit is advancing rapidly to intersect the main gravel channel. When this deposit has been opened the management will devote attention to the quartz veins cut by the tunnel.

Search for the main channel has been under way for years, and the company's operations are claiming much interest. The South Fork and several other companies in this district have been recently handicapped by accidents to the power line which supplies the district with electrical energy. It is reported the trouble has been caused by former employees of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, who are out on a strike. An independent company supplies the power to mines and mills at Alleghany and Forest, but considerable current is

MERGER MINE COMES BACK.

Large Tonnage Contracted by Halifax.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

TONOPAH (Nev.) July 17.—The past week has been pregnant with events of greater importance to Tonopah than any similar period for the past year. Merger came back after a most disheartening experience, which some seemed to think would sound the death knell of the property.

To understand the situation thoroughly one has to hark back to the beginning of that property when it was touted as the one best buy in camp. The stock was held more generally than that of any other company. Every miner and worker owned certificates which he acquired at about 20 cents. When the quotations "skyrocketed" on cutting the ledge in the shaft on the 980-foot level, there was no keeping track of the crowd which loaded up to the capacity of their bank accounts with more Merger.

This caused the price to advance suddenly to $1.87½, but the shock came when a bear attack engineered in the East hammered the quotation down to 87½ in a single day. Local holders were frozen out and the control of the company went to Pittsburgh, which had plunged at the low price established by the break. Tonopah put on mourning and then Merger fell into the doldrums.

On the 1170 level ore was found in fair quantities, but soon after it became apparent that something was going wrong. Shipments which had begun with the opening of ore on the 980 fell off, and it was admitted that values were far from those of "high grade." Then water broke into the workings and a long period was occupied in installing pumps.

When these got to work there was a sudden cessation of news from the favorite property and it was apparent that the management had troubles of its own underground. The fact was that a fault encountered in drifting on the vein had interposed a barrier to shipments and it was commonly understood that the outlook was rather forlorn.

As late as last week Tonopah holders began to unload and enter other investment fields, but they had scarcely got clear of their stock when, like a flash out of a clear sky, came the intelligence that the mine had developed better than the most optimistic could conjecture. The stock started on the upward grade.

Manager Kirchen, who is always chary about making statements or predictions, announced that the property had one of the largest and best paying veins of ore in the history of the camp. This is eight feet

The unquestioned profits that are to be made from investment in the lands of the Golden State are further increased by the remarkable development of the territory tributary to Los Angeles. Southern California is attracting the attention of the world and Gibraltar is the greatest co-operative horticultural and land development company upon the Pacific Coast. The co-partners in Gibraltar are sharers not only in the profits from the producing of millions of olive and citrus trees in the largest nurseries and propagating plants of their kind in the world, but in the certain profits from the developing and selling of rich acreage. Added to these operations are the profits realized from the economy affected through the growing of the trees and the planting and selling of the land by one direct and experienced management.

We are selling land faster than any company offering this class of acreage in Los Angeles today. One-quarter million dollars' worth of land was sold by this company to careful homeseekers during May and June. All the profits from the consolidated operations of producing the trees and selling the planted land, which means all the economy of careful and scientific business management based upon the knowledge of the nursery business and developing big tracts of rich acreage, are realized by the co-operative shareholders of Gibraltar. HEAVY ORDER FOR MACHINERY.

Globe Concern Will Start Up on Large Scale.

Work on Commonwealth Extension Is Pushed.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

GLOBE (Ariz.) July 17.—One of the largest single orders for machinery ever placed by an Arizona concern has just been closed by the Inspiration Consolidated Copper Company with the General Electric Company. Hoisting equipment with a normal capacity of 10,000 tons in fourteen hours, when lifting 630 feet, has been ordered. The new hoists are to be automatic and of the flywheel type.

Thirteen compressed-air locomotives, for underground hauling, have been ordered from the H. K. Porter Company. This order includes equipment necessary to connect with the high pressure system on the surface, near the collars of the main shafts.

Compressor equipment is to be ordered within a week. Preparations are being made to proceed with construction at much greater speed than formerly. Grading for the new concentrator is practically completed, and in about a week the work of laying foundations will start.

Much trouble is being experienced by the drillers at the Southwestern Miami. The loss of a string of holes caused hole No. 4 to be filled with cement and redrilled after the cement had set. No. 14A is still in schist No. 15 has been caving and 100 feet of casing has been withdrawn until the hole is reamed with a sixteen-inch bit to admit the reception of casting to a point blow the caving ground, 224 feet below the surface. The bottom of the hole is down 300 feet.

Much work is going on at the Captain shaft of the Miami group. A raise was made from the 430-foot level to connect with the bottom of the shaft 220 feet below the surface. Now the shaft is being timbered. The shaft will be used for the lifting of waste rock taken out in working the Captain ore body.

A forty-foot head frame and a hoist building have been built at the Inspiration Extension, adjoining the Inspiration Consolidated on the north and west. A twenty-five-horsepower gasoline engine has also been installed. The roadway from the hoist to the Inspiration ranch, where the shaft will secure its water supply, has been thoroughly repaired. Work on the shaft itself will begin in a few days.

At the Reymert mine, eight miles west of Superior, which was recently bonded to the Gunn-Thompson interests, an active campaign of development will commence at once. A forty-horse-power gasoline hoisting engine is being installed and a crew of shaft men has been employed Road building and other preliminary work has been finished and the water supply has been developed sufficiently for all present needs.

Gardner H. Smith and associates of Pasadena have resumed operations at the Kinselbach quartz mine, near Alleghany. The property is situated on the extreme eastern dyke of the serpentine belt, and was one of the first locations in the district. Numerous small pockets of bonanza ore were extracted from surface workings in the early days of the camp, and several short tunnels tapped the ledge at various points. However, no comprehensive effort has ever been made to work the Kinselbach to any depth, despite alluring surface prospects.

The main ledge ranges from two to five feet in width, with ore low grade. The property lies in the sulphide-ore belt, and conditions are deemed very favorable for the intersection of rich quartz at fair depth. A small crew is engaged at present, but the working force will be increased as developments warrant. Gardner H. Smith is manager.

Heavy shipments of steel, timber and other materials are made to Auburn, preparatory to the building of the new dredge for the Yukon Gold Company on the American River gravel deposits. The dredge will carry buckets of 7.5 cubic feet capacity, and will be one of the most powerful ever constructed in the State.

The Yukon Gold people recently purchased and bonded several thousand acres in this vicinity, as was reported in The Times. A thorough examination also is made of the Poverty Bar mine, and it is expected that the option on this property will be exercised.

AT BALAKLALA.

Preliminary work has started at the Balaklala smelter, with General Manager Frank M. Leland personally supervising affairs. Leland is manager of the Empire Copper Company at Mackay, Idaho, and only recently was appointed to a like position by the Balaklala Copper owners. As soon as the smelter has been placed in shape for activities, work will be resumed at the great Kimberley mines near Coram.

The Hall desulphurizing process will be used to eliminate noxious fumes and if the method proves as successful as anticipated the Balaklala mines and plant will be operated at full capacity. This means the production of over 15,000,000 pounds of copper per year, the output of an enormous quantity of yellow sulphur, and employment for upward of 1000 men. The demonstration of the merit of the process is also expected to result in resumption of smelting by the Mountain Copper and other large concerns.

One of the first things to be done at Coram will be the demolishing of the great furnace stack which cost over $34,000 and is 210 feet high. It has been practically ruined by the attacks of the sulphurous acids carried by the furnace fumes and from being struck by lightning. In its place a steel stack costing $4000 to $5000 will be erected. Several other changes must be made to the smelter before it can be placed in shape for active operations.

A new process for control of smelter fumes is soon to be given a trial near Redding. The method is a secret one, but sufficient money has been subscribed to defray costs of building an experimental plant, and trials will be made at an early date, according to assertions of the inventor. A large number of Redding people have contributed to the fund for building the plant, indicating the great interest taken in the fume situation by people of Shasta county. It is claimed the new process will be more economical than other methods now under consideration by the copper mining world.

MORE OIL EXCITEMENT.

The discovery of promising oil indications near Germantown, Glenn county, has generated torrid interest. Over 10,000 acres of prospective oil territory have been taken under option by L. N. Comstock and B. L. Dyer of Fresno, together with Dr. H. Hordorn of Willows. It is stated that these men represent a strong syndicate of Southern California people. Options on other tracts in the vicinity have been taken by J. T. Leland, said to represent the Standard Oil Company.

The first traces of oil in this section were found several months ago when a deep water well entered sands showing an oil seepage. It is asserted by some that these sands rather resemble those found near Bakersfield, but there appears little foundation for this claim as the people in this district are not familiar with formation structure in the Midway or other fields in the south. It is stated that work on a test well will be started in the near future, and this work alone will determine whether the oil indications presage anything of importance.

wide and values run all the way from $20 to $400 with an average of $200 across the face of the drift.

The significance of this strike can better be understood when it is known that "high grade" in Tonopah usually goes about $30 and anything above that figure is phenomenal. Some parcels of material on the side of the ledge run up to $1500, but, of course, that cannot be taken as any criterion of the entire value. Nevertheless the Merger has apparently turned out to be a good thing.

But the strangest part of the story is the accompaniment played by Tonopah Extension, located on the same side of the camp and in a new section that was almost untried. This property, is also under the management of John Kirchen. The new shaft designed for the main working outlet of the Extension entered ore two weeks ago, but the quality of the quartz was not calculated to arouse enthusiasm.

In drifting a ledge was opened that will not go less than $50 a ton and some of which will run close to fancy figures. This body has been cut for a distance of fourteen feet and careful sampling of the mass justifies the management in stating that the ore will yield not less than 40, and that the average will run close to 50 per cent. over that figure.

That there is no question about the extent of the strike is evident from the action of Kirchen in ordering preparations for handling the ore on a large scale at the present mill, which will be doubled in capacity so as to treat 300 tons daily instead of the 150 tons, which have been going through heretofore. A crusher will be installed at the mouth of the new working shaft and the rock will be carried on a conveyor belt 1000 feet long back to the mill, as soon as it is fitted with the new equipment for handling the increased output.

As stated in The Times when the new shaft entered the ore body two weeks ago, the importance of the discovery cannot be overestimated, as it means tha tthe ore belt of the west side of camp has been extended for a distance of at least 500 feet from the former boundaries. The ledge goes right through the center of Extension ground and off down the flat, where three years ago claims could not be given away for the assessment work.

In conjunction with the discovery came the announcement that A. D. Parker, vice-president of the Colorado and Southern Railway, had sold his holdings in the company to the Kirchen and Schwab interests, who have always held control from the time when the stock sold at $14 a share. Parker is retiring from mining and, according to report, he has also arranged to dispose of his holdings in Florence Goldfield, with which he has been associated as the dominant factor ever since the property was taken over from the original locators in 1893. He is going to retire from active business and establish himself in a country home in Maryland, his native State.

Thomas D. Lockhart, his mining partner, whom he grubstaked for twenty years, quit the mining game some three years ago for the oil fields of Southern California, and is now a resident of Los Angeles, where he has invested in real estate. Lockhart located the Tonopah Extension and made a fortune from that investment.

Developments on Merger stimulated buying of Midway, which is on the same side of the camp, especially in view of the fact that Midway has begun to show stringers of fair value in the bottom of the new shaft which was sunk for the purpose of reaching ore first found in the Merger. Midway has been distinguished by the erratic nature of the ore bodies encountered at all times since the palmy days of the boom, and it is hoped that the new shaft will open a territory more productive than was found in the old shaft. The ore has come and gone in a most vexatious manner and it has become a saying that there was a variation every morning and evening with each change of shifts. The stock is held locally to a large extent.

Next to these exploits ranks the record of Halifax, which has contracted with the old Belmont mill at Millers to treat 100 tons weekly until such time as it is able to take care of its own output. A test run at the mill of the West End Company has proved satisfactory. And it is now a mooted proposition whether the West End, which controls Halifax together with Senator Tom Kearns and David B. Keith of Salt Lake, will not find it more lucrative to erect a new mill better adapted to the requirements of the joint properties, than the present plant, which is a rebuilt affair handed down from the early days when the Midway was treating a large daily tonnage.

If a new mill is built it will most likely be put up in the vicinity of the Halifax, where water can be obtained by pumping, and a considerable saving effected in this item which is seen to run into money, when it is known that the consumption of water at such a mill runs between 30,000 and 50,000 gallons daily. Water on the desert comes high, and the State Utilities Commission say the charges at Tonopah are the highest of any camp or town in the world. The charge is officialy pronounced inexcusable and wholly unwarranted, and a reduction as high as 60 per cent. ordered, is only held in abeyance to permit the water company to bring further testimony to support its contention that any reduction will mean bankruptcy.

The North Star has placed two shifts in the mine and henceforth will ship at the rate of 800 tons weekly instead of 500, as it has been doing since it reached the rich ledge wherein extraction is going forward. The only change in the Star is an increase in values.

Based on the fact that the management of the North Star and Rescue are in the hands of the same men, the stock of the latter has been subject to several flurries emanating from New York, but so far as can be learned, there is no material advance in Rescue underground, and the flurries have failed to sustain prices established by unwise reports.

Monarch Pittsburgh Extension, formerly owned by Wingfield, has decided to reorganize to permit the levying of assessments, as it is found impossible to get any reasonable return from the sale of treasury stock. The company is now incorporated under the laws of South Dakota, and it is proposed to reincorporate under the laws of Nevada and exchange stock at the rate of eleven of the new company for ten of the old. An assessment of probably 1 cent a month will be levied to raise funds for sinking the present shaft and continue drifting and crosscutting.

Stop! Look! Listen! warning that means so much to automobile tourist at grade crossings.

In the Midst of Life.

STOP! LOOK! LISTEN! AT EVERY GRADE CROSSING.

Tragic Death of Huffman Family Calls National Agent Into a Campaign that May Mean the Safeguarding of Many Lives—Earle Y. Boothe Urges Autoists to Watch Carefully.

BY BERT C. SMITH.

STOP! Look! Listen!

Never was a sign more ominous and now it comes home to each motorist who is obliged to tour over a grade crossing. This means that the signal of warning is significant to each owner and driver of a machine in Los Angeles county.

The tragic death of the Huffman family only a few days ago has brought to the attention of every automobile dealer the need that exists not only for adequate signs, flagmen, crossing barricades and warning signals, but for instruction to automobile drivers in an effort to prevent such accidents. One little girl remains to emphasize the tragic end of an entire family.

Was it the fault of the driver? Did Huffman stall his motor on the railroad tracks, lose his head and allow his machine to remain in the track of the approaching train? Was it carelessness of the man who, with his loved ones, passed into eternity in such a shocking manner? These questions will never be answered.

From the testimony at the inquest over the bodies of the victims little was learned. The mangled remains were mute testimony to the need there is for better protection to the tourers who are driving over our Southern California highways.

BELL RINGING.

The warning bell was ringing, but Huffman did not heed the signal. Perhaps he was confused. He had a thirty-horse-power car. The engine was in excellent condition as far as can be learned. He had been driving for some time and was prepared to start on a long tour.

At the grade crossing, with his machine loaded with passengers, death came swiftly in the form of an engine backing down upon the automobile. Oh, how fragile that machine seemed as it was crushed beneath the powerful drive wheels of the locomotive.

Suggestions have been made. Of course, everyone who read of the accident was sorry. Now comes a man with a suggestion to all motorists. We at least may be able to help the owner of a machine to avoid the danger of a grade crossing while such grade crossings exist. There will come a time when we have no more such crossings, but because that time is distant the suggestions from an automobile dealer are to the point.

Earle Y. Boothe of the National, was the first man to take a keen interest in safeguarding the owners of automobiles, no matter whether they drive National or any other make of cars. Boothe would emphasize the need of care. He urges all autoists to stop, look and to listen when approaching a grade crossing.

Realizing fully the danger to which every owner of a machine is subjected from time to time, Boothe drove with his National to the Rose Hill crossing, and there timed the arrival of the trains, studied the conditions under which this crossing must be made, and then prepared a few suggestions, which will at least be helpful.

BOOTHE'S IDEAS.

Here is what Earle Boothe has to say about approaching a crossing over which trains are passing at from thirty to fifty miles an hour during eighteen of the twenty-four hours of each day.

"When nearing a crossing see that you have your car in perfect control. Note the speed of your motor. Be prepared to stop the car in its own length. Don't try to rush across ahead of some approaching train of cars.

"My infallible rule is to stop at least twenty feet from the nearest rails and look each way, before crossing. By doing this you are sure to be in low speed when you cross the rails and you need not stall your motor.

"Once on the rails keep moving, with your motor in shape, so that when you shift from low you are ready to speed away on the opposite side.

"Keep cool. This is so necessary. It is not idle or foolish to ask this of the driver. We should demand it of every man who sits at the wheel of a touring car.

"Remember that you have lives entrusted to your care. You must answer for the person or persons who have willingly placed themselves in your machine and who will be in dire peril if you fail to keep your wits about you.

"Then to the occupant of that machine. Never talk to the driver when you are near a grade crossing. Give him a chacne to act and think. Make no suggestions. He is the man who is responsible and he must keep that machine moving, or must stop at the critical fraction of a second.

"We can make touring far safer, and can help the man at the wheel, if we combine to make driving a pleasure for our chauffeurs or for the owners of our machines. Let's remember the Stop! Look! Listen! signs."

These suggestions, coming from a successful dealer who has toured in the East and over all of our roads in California come at a time when they strike directly home. We read of a tragedy and we soon forget its harrowing details. Now with the accident fresh in our minds it is an opportune time to begin to learn the valuable lessons which Boothe brings home to each of us.

TRAGIC DEATH.

Because a whole family was wiped out of existence, mercifully in a few seconds, shall we in the shadow of that sad affair decide to be more careful.

Before we drive onto a railroad crossing shall we be certain that there is no danger? Shall we look up and down that track and be sure the trains are not moving?

Let us determine to stop at each crossing, to get into our low gear and to cross the rails with our car in perfect control. We may help to save many lives. We may make the recurrence of such accidents impossible.

This campaign has been started. The National man is the first to take firm hold of the proposition. May it mean that we shall live to see the day, not far distant, when there shall be no more grade crossings, when it shall be possible to tour all over California without the danger of being crushed beneath the wheels of a trolley car or an engine and train of cars.

That time is coming. The number of automobile accidents have aroused us to a sense of duty. Let us make of ourselves a committee of one to help each auto driver to stop! look! and to listen! all of the time.

Too Much Class.

O'BRIEN BEATEN BY FREDDIE WELSH.

ENGLISH CHAMP GETS DECISION IN STRONG FINISH.

Eastern Boy Holds His Own in Early Part of Fight, but Evidently Found the Distance Too Long. Has the Edge in Almost Every Round Up to the Tenth.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.,) July 19.—"Young Philadelphia" Jack O'Brien for the first time in his brief ring career attempted the fifteen-round route at Bridge arena this afternoon against Freddie Welsh, the lightweight champion of the British Empire, and though he failed to lower the colors of the Britisher, he gave him a worthy argument.

Welsh received the decision at the end of the fifteenth round from Referee Jimmy Hewitt, and the fans indicated that the decision was a popular one.

O'Brien showed all the wonderful speed and elusiveness claimed for him but only in flashes.

O'Brien fought in a cautious manner the first five rounds, but began to make use of his speed in the sixth, and though Welsh had a shade on the round there was not much margin between the two. The next few rounds found O'Brien at his best. In the seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth O'Brien had a clear lead, and in the tenth the lead was a good one.

TIDE TURNS.

The tide began to turn after the tenth, however. In the eleventh Welsh began to work more vigorously and he gave O'Brien a busy session both in this and the succeeding rounds.

In the thirteenth Welsh began the strong finish which earned him the decision.

He forced O'Brien about the ring and the latter was compelled to hold continually to evade punishment. In the fourteenth round Welsh had a big margin till just before the bell, when O'Brien made a vigorous rally.

In the final round Welsh was on top of O'Brien all the way. Jack was tired and hung on desperately in every clinch, forcing the referee to pry them apart.

M'GRAW WANTS PITCHER RYAN.

The big leagues have their hooks out for Jack Ryan of the Los Angeles club.

Manager McGraw of the Giants wired Paul Armstrong yesterday requesting him to forward a report of Ryan's work and other information regarding the big fellow.

The Washington club has also asked President Berry to set a price on Ryan.

"Ryan is not for sale," said Berry. "He is worth $10,000 to the Los Angeles club, and I don't think that any of the big league managers would pay that much for him."

BOLES HURT, TIGERS WIN.

Angels' Backstop Dislocates Knee in the Third.

Feared that He Will Be Out for Several Weeks.

Is Most Severe Reverse Suffered by the Club.

BY HARRY A. WILLIAMS.

Walter Boles, writhing in agony, was picked up from the sod near the home plate yesterday and carried away to the club infirmary by his mates in the third inning.

With him went the brightest prospects of Los Angeles for the pennant, and gloom mantles the Berry barracks.

The catcher's right leg hung limp and useless. He threw a knee out of its socket in a collision with Elliott at the plate, and the tendons on both sides were torn. His leg is now in a plaster cast, and the mainstay of the Angel catching staff probably will be on the shelf for at least a month, if not all season.

With Clarence Brooks already holding down a hospital couch, the burden of catching now rests in the ancient shoulders of Jimmy Byrnes.

The crippling of Boles, coming just at this time, is regarded as the most serious blow yet suffered by the Angels.

Boles was felled during the Angels' heaviest assault in the bitterest battle of the season—a battle which went to the Tigers, 4 to 2. So persistent was the Angel attack and so dogged the Tiger defense that the game was in doubt until the last two innings.

GOOD PITCHING.

Crabb allowed nine hits while Baum held the Angels to seven. Roy was taken out to let Goodwin bat for him in the seventh, and Jackson finished the job.

The Angels seemed to have forgotten all the knowledge of base running that had been drilled into them and behaved bushlike on the paths.

Billy Page smacked the first one that Baum handed up to right center for three bases. With none out, to prevent Page from scoring seemed a task equal to that of damming Niagara Falls with strawberry shortcake.

Helps Sales.

PATHFINDER BUILDERS BOOSTING FOR THIS TOUR.

THE builders of the Pathfinder "40," in the Indiana-Pacific tour to the Coast, are thorough believers in touring as a generator of interest in sales. They cite the following example of how "old Daniel Boone" virtually "sold" himself to an ardent motor fan, E. A. Smathers of Asheville, N. C.

Bob Speigle, driver of the veteran A.A.A. Pathfinder, drove the car up to the entrance of the Hotel English at Indianapolis two days before the westward start of the Hoosier caravan. He left it standing there and a crowd soon collected because of the interest attached to the paraphernalia carried by the machine.

Smathers expressed more than ordinary interest in the car and its record, learning from Speigle that in 1912 it had been three times across the continent in 147 days, and was about to start on an even more strenuous trip this summer.

After riding in the car he was taken to the Pathfinder factory and soon placed in the hands of Speigle his order for a 1914 model. Smathers said it was his intention at first to go to Detroit to buy a car, but that he had been more than impressed with the number of quality cars that were built in Indianapolis. He changed his plans upon seeing the record-touring Pathfinder "40," and, learning of its phenomenal endurance record.

"Old Daniel Boone" is the official good roads car of the American Automobile Association and United States government. On the tour of Indiana makers it is in the charge of Bruce Daniels, Pathfinder advertising manager. On the return trip it will be under the direction of W. O. L. Westgard, field representative of the A.A.A.

Worth the Price.

COLE TO SHOW CAR HE MAKES.

JOHN GUY MONIHAN NOW AT THE HELM IN EARNEST.

Important Convention at Indianapolis Where the Inner and Outer Workings of the Factory Will Be Explained and the Building of the Cole Car Will Be Shown.

The automobile public today recognizes three types of motor car, the manufactured, the assembled and the standardized. J. J. Cole is the father of this last named, the standardized car.

Cole's standardized car is defined as any car built entirely of perfectly inter-related, standardized parts, and a standardized part is any part which has been built so well that it has become the standard whereby all other similar parts are measured.

Therefore, to firmly establish the authenticity of Cole's statements, and to put their full seal of approval on the project, this big, mammoth corps of engineers will assemble in Indianapolis, fortified with ammunition on sales arguments for their lines.

Representatives will be there from the Timken Axle Company, Detroit; the Northway Motor & Manufacturing Company, Detroit; the Mayo Radiator Company, New Haven, Ct.; Gemmer Manufacturing Company, Detroit; Timken Bearing Company, Canton, O.; Dayton Engine Laboratories Company, manufacturers of the Delco electric lighting, starting and ignition system, Dayton, O.; Detroit Steel Products Company, Detroit; Spicer Universal Joints Manufacturing Company, Plainfield, N. J.; Hydraulic Pressed Steel Company, automobile frame manufacturers, Cleveland, O.; Firestone Tire & Rubber Company, manufacturers of Firestone tires and Firestone demountable rims, Akron, O.; Warner Speedometer Company, Beloit, Wis.; Stromberg Motor Devices Company, Chicago; Janney-Steinmetz & Company, manufacturers of gasoline tanks, Philadelphia; Collins Curtain Company, Jackson, Mich., and the Taylor Tire Pump Company, Chicago.

Cole representatives from New York, Boston, Brooklyn, Newark, Sioux City, Spokane, Toronto, Winnipeg, Vancouver, Washington, El Paso, Butte, Baltimore, Atlanta, Birmington, Mobile, Buffalo, Chicago, Cleveland, Dallas, Denver, Des Moines, Detroit, Jacksonville, St. Louis, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Kansas City, Louisville, Little Rock, Memphis, Minneapolis, Omaha, Philadelphia, Portland, Me., Portland, Or., Seattle and San Antonio will attended the conferences.

The conference will be presided over by Director of Sales and Advertising Homer McKee, and Associate Director of Sales and Advertising John Guy Monihan.

WORLD RECORD ON GOODYEAR SHOES.

S. A. Falor and his aggregation of tire experts were on deck to watch "Fearless Balke" on Goodyear tires win over $100 an hour in the national motorcycle race for the V. Ray trophy, July 4. Balke finished the 254 miles in 4 hours, 6 minutes, 32 seconds, thus establishing the world's record for 254 miles.

Four out of five machines finishing first were equipped with Goodyear tires, and S. A. Falor left for Akron feeling particularly happy. For 254 miles at an average speed of fifty-seven miles an hour, Balke led the field of fifty contestants. In the duration of the race Balke's tires received harder usage than would be given them in two years of ordinary service. Yet no perceptible signs of wear were noticeable on his tires, according to the officials in charge of the technical [illegible]; nor was there a sign of tire trouble. During the entire race not a single tire of the first five machines to finish suffered the slightest trouble, which seems marvelous after seeing the frequent tire changes necessary at the automobile races at Indianapolis, May 30.

Fifteen, fifty, and the one hundred-mile marks were passed at the rate of sixty miles an hour and still the lightning speed continued. Both tires hard as a rock, never a trace of the looked-for signs of weakening. Two hundred miles were passed in less time than human being had ever covered the distance before. A short while later and the 225 miles point was passed; 250 miles was covered. The race was fast drawing to a close, with all records for the distance being utterly shattered. Two hundred fifty-one, two hundred fifty-two, two hundred fifty three.

AMERICANS MAKE GOOD OVER THE WORST OF ROADS.

Hoosier Tour Is Great and Underslung Cars Make Hit With Those Who Watch Their Work Where the Slush Is Deepest—No Mire Too Deep for These Cars on Long Tour.

"The American Underslung Sixes came into Ellis without a splutter, though the day's run was over 180 miles of typical Kansas gumbo. The thermometer showed 112 degrees in the shade and nearly 125 in the sun all day, and at times the pace hit was 50 miles an hour. Hot winds added to the discomfort and hardship of the ride, but we came through with colors flying."

The above telegram was received by the American Motors Company of Indianapolis, from E. I. Lewis, its special representative in the Indiana-Pacific Coast tour, when the Hoosier cavalcade reached Ellis, Kan. The American Underslungs have been acting nobly thus far on the tour, though the trip is said to be proving an extremely trying one for the cars. The tourists indulged in considerable worry before the start because of the highways of Kansas. The soil in many sections of that State is particularly difficult of navigation in wet weather and there were some doubts expressed as to the ability of all the cars to negotiate the famous gumbo.

Have You $1250 to Invest In a Motor Car?

If that is the limit of the amount you desire to expend every word of this advertisement is of vital importance to you.

You must realize that a new car at this price would not be recognized as a high-grade motor car.

Then the question is how to secure a high-grade motor car, with good construction, good material, long service, style and reliability?

We have solved that in the rebuilt Cadillac. We are now offering a few 1912 Cadillacs that have been rebuilt and completely overhauled in our shops. Every worn part has been replaced and the cars are fully guaranteed, and by a guarantee that means something in California.

Purchasing such a car is protection against inferior material and workmanship and gives you a motor car which you are proud to own.

You secure a car with the very latest electric starting and lighting system.

And another important point to you is that after 90 days your rebuilt Cadillac is just as new as your new $1250 car and will bring more in the open market. After two years of service, what then? Ask yourself which will be the most valuable, from either the standpoint of service or sale.

BUICK DRIVER TELLS HIS SIDE OF THE GREAT RACE.

EDDIE WATERMAN, who piloted the Buick to second place in the Panama-Pacific road race, says that this is the easiest race in which he has ever driven.

In talking of the event, Waterman said: "I bought the Buick which I used in the race from a stage company in Coalinga, about a year ago. The concern had driven the car approximately 70,000 miles. It looked pretty rough on the outside, but when I tore it down I found the motor, transmission and rear axles in excellent condition. In fact, the car finished the race with practically the same motor and transmission it had the day I purchased it.

"Naturally, I have a great deal of confidence in the performance of the Buick, for it was with this car that I won the match between the Buick and Mercer at Fresno on February 22, 1913, the Buick making 100 miles in 105m. on a wet mile circular dirt track, this being about three minutes under the world's record for that distance.

"While, of course, I was glad to know that I made the best time between Los Angeles and Bakersfield, still the thing that gave me the most satisfaction was the way the Buick performed between Fresno and Sacramento. We had been listening to stories for some time before the race about how the big cars would run away from the little Buick between these towns, and the fact that our time was twenty-two minutes faster than that made by any of the other cars, and the further fact that we gained forty minutes on the car that got first place along this stretch, cannot help but be gratifying to us. When we arrived at Fresno we were in ninth place, and when we reached Sacramento we were second, which fact speaks well for the speed of the Buick.

"The car never ran hot at any time during the race. We turned around after we reached Sacramento and drove right back to Fresno, and she is ready for another trip over the same course. I think I could make considerably better time on another run, as I had been over the entire course only once before the race."

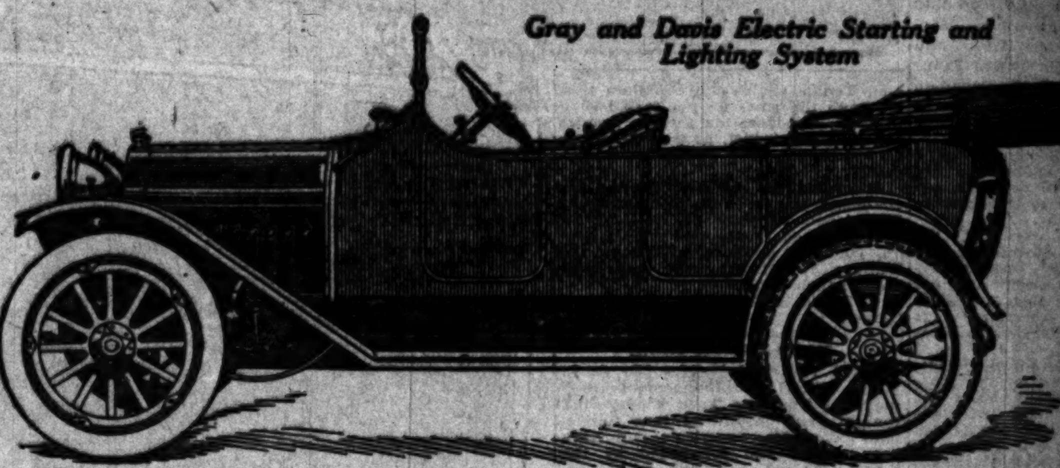
Gray and Davis Electric Starting and Lighting System



FOR the past season, the Paige "36" at $1275 has been recognized by everybody as such extra value that it has had no competition. Manufacturers and dealers with cars selling at similar prices have declared the Paige "36" "a gift" at the price. They haven't even hoped to compete with it. They have been content to get their share of the business that we couldn't handle.

The equipment of the Paige "36" is universally acknowledged to be of a character and completeness only found on the highest priced cars. But bear this in mind—it is the Paige car itself, not its equipment, that has demanded the consideration of the trade and public alike and that is responsible for its overwhelming popularity. Clothes don't make the man and neither does equipment make a motor car. It is the superior design, the unusual mechanical features, the power and flexibility of the wonderful Paige motor, the quality of materials and workmanship, and the splendid construction of the Paige "36" throughout that have kept the thousands of Paige owners, in all parts of the world, enthusiastic over their cars and made every one of them a Paige "booster." No amount of equipment could possibly accomplish this if the car itself was not right. When you come to look at the Paige car, if you are not an automobile expert bring one with you. You can judge the equipment yourself, but let him judge the Paige construction. He will tell you that entirely aside from the equipment, no other car has ever been produced at anywhere near the price that will give you as much in fine construction, size, power, economy, comfort and style as the Paige. These are the qualities on which it will pay you well to judge your motor car.

It is hard to realize that the price of the Paige "36" is only $1275. A really big, roomy car; 116-inch wheel base; left side drive and center control, a powerful, quiet 4x5-inch Paige motor; unit power plant; silent chain drive for cam shaft, pump and generator; deep tilted 10-inch cushions and a score of other features of design and construction which place this car beyond competition. As for equipment, in every detail, from starter to tail-lamp, it is all of the highest class.

Last year a lot of big men in the trade said we couldn't afford to sell the Paige "36" for $1275, and that we wouldn't continue that price. After three or four months the same big men in the trade—alarmed at our sweeping supremacy—said, "They're making a strong play for popularity now, but watch out for their 1914 price."

Well the 1914 price is $1275, just the same. Not a dollar added in cost to you, but look at the added equipment: [illegible] Horn, Jiffy Curtains, Combined Rain-Vision and Ventilating Windshield, Non-Skid Tires in the rear, and Ventilated Hood.

All of this is added on for 1914 and the price remains the same. If the Paige "36" has been sensational value this year—and for every car delivered there have been many purchasers waiting—what a value it is for the coming year! No other car approaches it in value at the price, and you would have to pay four or five hundred dollars more to find more value in any car.

This isn't "advertising talk." It is just the plain old-fashioned unvarnished truth and almost anybody that knows automobiles will tell you so.

Production has been increasing steadily in the factory and we are able to take care of more purchasers all the time now. The plant is working day and night. Deliveries of the 1914 models are being made as promptly as could be expected in the case of a success like the Paige "36." Our immense new factory is under construction and our removal to it will still further facilitate Paige production.

Above all things else, the Paige "36" deserves consideration first just as a car. But consider its equipment, too. [illegible] equipment includes the Gray & Davis electric starting and lighting system, Bosch magneto, rain-vision and ventilating windshield, genuine mohair top (tan lined) and boot, electric horn, Stewart revolving dial speedometer, 34 x 4-inch non-skid tires in rear, 12-inch electric headlights of parabolic design in black enamel and nickel, 5-inch electric side lights, flush in dash, crystal lens, 3-inch electric ruby light at rear, adjustable foot rest, nickel robe rail, demountable rims with extra rim, Jiffy curtains, extra tire irons, pump, jack, tools, tire repair outfit, etc., complete.

The 1914 season will be a distinctive Paige triumph. Keep that in mind. Just as the 1913 season has been a Paige triumph. Because in the Paige "36" and the Paige "25" the public finds extra value which no other car can give.

Electric Starting and Lighting System, $75 extra

From this date we will equip the Paige "25" with an electric starting and lighting system for $75 extra. The car is designed to take the equipment, and it will be added at request. Present owners can also have this system installed on their cars. Dealers will furnish prices and details. Think of this car, with electric starting and lighting for only $1025. Wheel base, 110 inches; [illegible] tires; sturdy, silent motor, 3¾x4 inches; unit power plant; cork insert multiple disc clutch; wide doors; roomy body.

Previous models of the Paige "25" laid the foundation for the high reputation of the Paige Car. For the past two years, especially, the "25" has been recognized as a splendid, reliable car at a low price. And all this time we have worked steadily on refinements and minor improvements, many of which are found in this year's model.

Equipment of Paige "25" is very complete, including genuine mohair top, side curtains and top boot; ventilating windshield, [illegible] speedometer; two black enamel and nickel gas headlights, three black enamel and nickel sidelights and tail light; demountable rims, [illegible] skid tires in rear; robe rail; linoleum covered running boards; tire irons; horn, pump, jack, tools and tire repair outfit. OHIO ELECTRIC CONTROL FEATURE

The double control of the Ohio electric is proving a very popular feature. The new models are now being shown and sales continue steadily.

Among the recent sales were double control cars to Mrs. E. B. Flint, Miss Winifred Maxom and Mrs. Modeni Wood.

"The tendency in electrics is running to the four-passenger cars," said Clarence Smith. "There was a time when the two-passenger electric was all the go, but those days are over and we seldom have a call for a two-passenger model. They, of course, still have their uses, but the popular buy is the four and five-passenger car.

"As this is the case our double control is an added feature as it enables the car to be driven from the front or rear seat. When only two passengers are in the car the driver can sit on the rear seat, but when there are four the revolving front seat can be used by the driver."

EAST READY FOR MORE BUSINESS.

G. L. Stokes, head of the Stokes Sales Company, controling the Barnard gas generator, returned from the East last week. He spent two months visiting the leading factories and reports a most flattering reception for the Los Angeles invention.

"I went direct to Detroit," said Stokes, "and there met the leading automobile engineers of the country. Of course I expected that any invention that would permit the burning of kerosene or distillate in the motor instead of gasoline would arouse some interest, but I was not prepared for such a hearty reception as I received from the heads of the factories. They were all anxious to try the generator and it is now being given thorough tests by sixteen factories. As soon as they saw my device work, cars were equipped and sent on the road. The drivers were given instructions to use nothing but kerosene and to test the motor under all kinds of conditions. This test is now going on and will continue for at least a month. Then we will have some announcements to make that will startle the motor world.

"I also visited the Standard Oil refinery at Whiting, Ind., and found the heads of that company are interested in any attachment that will permit the burning of kerosene in motors. I demonstrated the Barnard there and at the request of the chemists burned every grade of fuel offered."

Going Some.

REAL RECORD OF OVERLAND.

Victories in Race Meets Make Auto Men Happy.

Los Angeles-Sacramento Battle Shows Its Class.

Though they were not manufactured for racing cars, and were only hastily prepared for contest work by their individual owners, four model 69 Overlands, in widely-separated sections of the country, have recently shown considerable class in speed and endurance competitions. Two of the cars started in races in California, one in the first automobile race ever held in New Mexico and the fourth in an endurance run in Wisconsin.

The Cobb-Evans Auto Company of Fresno, Cal., has added two notable achievements to its string of racing honors since the national holiday. On July Fourth one of their stripped Overlands, with Thomas McKelvy at the wheel, took fourteenth place in the big Pacific Coast road race from Los Angeles to Sacramento. But nineteen of the forty-three starters in the race finished, the grueling pace set over 444 miles of good, bad and indifferent mountain and valley roads, through rivers and up and down hills having eliminated the twenty-four other contestants.

The showing of the little Overland in this contest is considered especially remarkable since the high-priced foreign and American cars, one of which had a 120-horse-power motor, were among the entrants. The strenuous nature of the run is shown in the fact that within eight miles, in the San Francisquito Canyon, the river of that name had to be forded no less than forty-three times.

On Sunday, July 6, Fred Wiseman, driving another little Overland belonging to the Cobb-Evans Company, took first prize in the free-for-all race held at Sacramento. Three American cars and one big foreign car were the other contenders for honors.

Another stock Overland, fitted with a racing body, took first prize and the prize in New Mexico's first motor car contest, an endurance run from Albuquerque to Santa Fe and return. Still another Overland, owned and driven by Dr. H. S. Roby, gave material assistance in the winning of the Wisconsin Motorist trophy, the prize in a Milwaukee interclub endurance run, for the Milwaukee Automobile Club. This organization met the Milwaukee Athletic Club on June 28, each entering eleven cars for the run of fifteen miles to Lake Geneva and return. Three cars in each team were penalized, the athletic club's entries having 171 black marks against them to their competitor's 81. The Overland was one of the cars to finish with a perfect score, standing the difficult run as well as did the higher-priced and higher-powered cars of which 't was a running mate.

DEFI DEATH.

To show their defiance of death, thirty-five French aviators brought out their machines recently at the Avor aviation ground and flew in spirals around the spot where one of their comrades had just met his death. This spontaneous act has been greatly appreciated by the military authorities and may become the customary salute to the heroes of aviation who lose their lives in the service of their country. Such flights, the authorities believe, would have a double use. They would be a fitting tribute to the dead and serve as a reacting tonic against the sudden blow of a comrade's death which might momentarily affect the courage of his associates.

REMARKABLE RECORD IN HIS REGAL UNDERSLUNG.

NINETEEN and seven-tenths miles to a gallon of gasoline is the record made by George R. Harmer of Ontario with a Regal underslung touring car. The run was made from Ontario to Oxnard and back, a distance of 225 miles, and Harmer carried, besides himself, his wife and two children.

Only three-fourths of a gallon of oil was used on this trip, and the run, while it was not made as an economy test, showed such good results that Harmer decided to explain the trip and the marks recorded to C. S. Anthony, local Regal agent and president of the Big Four Auto Company. Of course, Anthony was particularly pleased to hear of the run made under such pleasing conditions.

Not one cent has been spent for repairs by Harmer since purchasing the car. He says the more he rides in the underslung the better he likes the car. The motor is the same model as the car which Roscoe Anthony drove in the Santa Monica road race and with which he made such a remarkable record until he met with a mishap.

In commenting on the trip Harmer shows how the journey to Oxnard for four people was made for less than $5. He notes that the railroad fare for the company would have been $28.30. He figures that he saved with the Regal car that day the sum of $23.30 and at the same time enjoyed the trip. The four were in the outdoors for the entire time, and the journey was made profitable in many other ways.

Since purchasing the car Harmer says he has averaged at least thirty miles a day for the trips he has made. Now that he is the owner of a Regal underslung he says he would not be without an automobile, and, of course, he means by that a Regal.

CADILLACS FOR NEW YEAR.

With the 1914 season following so closely on the 1913, Don Lee's forces are finding it difficult to work in their annual vacations. Newton Gresser has ceased to work out sales problems and has gone to the beach. Don Lee has gone to San Francisco, and J. E. Brown, the superintendent, has gone to the mountains for ten days. Lester Pattee, the Pasadena manager, came over to take charge of the local branch. He spends part of his mornings at the Pasadena branch and then hurries over to his desk at the Los Angeles house. The forthcoming 1914 announcement is being looked forward to with the greatest of interest.

RAMBLER MEN ON PLEASANT OUTING.

Forty-eight employees of the Jeffrey organization, whose terms of service with the company aggregate 887 years, made up a party of old-time bicycle men and pioneers in the manufacture of automobiles which was banqueted in Kenosha, Wis., the other night.

The banquet was given in honor of Assistant Superintendent M. Mattson, who on July 1, after serving twenty-three years, severed his direct connection with the Jeffery organization to become a gentleman farmer and Jeffery dealer in South Central Texas.

While the aggregate term of service for the forty-eight employees present was 887 years, the added years of service of seven absent members and present employees would make the total exactly 1043 years.

The record of two employees dates back twenty-nine years; one each twenty-seven years and twenty-eight years; two, twenty-four years; four, twenty-three years; five, twenty-two years; three, twenty years; two, nineteen years; eight, eighteen years; four, seventeen years; one, sixteen years; four, fifteen years; two, each fourteen and thirteen years, and seven, twelve years.

This is a record seldom matched in present-day factory history.

A feature of the evening was the recital of the many unpublished acts of kindness and charity performed by the late Thomas B. Jeffery and a toast by the old-timers to the present head of the company, Charles T. Jeffery.

Just a Reminder.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA MECCA OF WORLD SPORT

BY OWEN R. BIRD.

IN THE days of ancient Rome, when that great empire was in its heyday of glory, the populace became so used to sensational exhibitions of athletic skill in the arena and spectacular affairs on the stage that the nation's entertainers finally were forced to spill much blood to arouse any interest at all.

Southern California, now in its heyday of prime and glory of progression, is fast becoming so accustomed to champions, championships and sensational sporting events on its calendar that we would have to smash five world's records at one meet to attract any undue amount of attention. Of course, we are not going in for any gladiatorial combats in the future, but on looking over the schedule for the coming years we find that the slate is full of great events in every field of sport.

UNUSUALLY FAVORED.

It is the intention of this article to show the local public that we are unusually favored, and it is hoped that in the future our great contests will be appreciated more fully by the fans that attend.

In the instance of the great national pastime, baseball, few realize that the standard of the game on the Coast has been raised steadily, until now the Pacific Coast League is a real class double A organization.

This fact is alone proved, when we glance over the roster of some of the big league clubs. There are many California boys working for the eastern public and getting by, and any of the great leaders of baseball will tell you that the Coast is an incubator for ball players of the big league type and our leagues, from the Coast circuit down, are always being visited by scouts from the among the higher-ups.

FAMOUS BALL TOSSERS.

Chase, Cravath, Johnson, Snodgrass, Shafer, Chance, Leverenz and Bodie are a few of our boys who are setting the eastern thousands wild every day.

We have become so familiar with the local league that any improvement is hard to notice, but a certain fan, who has been away for eight years, returned the other day and took a look at the stuff they pull off at Washington Park sward.

"This league has gone up at least 30 per cent. since I last looked 'em over," was his verdict. Compare our box scores with any in the country, and you will find that the Coast league figures at the head of the parade.

The next statement will probably bring a roar from some of my friends, but the western scorers are more strict than is the usual case in the East; yes, it is true, back there they made u pth eCincinnati base hit, you know, which is liberality in itself.

IN THE RING.

But enough of baseball. Even back on little old Broadway they admit that Los Angeles is one of the fight centers of the world. Come a little further West, and they will pass us the palm without a struggle.

Uncle Tom McCarey, the local promoter, while he has made a lot of money, also has made a lot of fighters from the paperweights to the heavies. The world has rung, many times, with the work of some Angel knight of the squared circle, and we have every reason to believe that the noise is due to continue for all time to come.

Besides developing a lot of champs here, we have seen all the good ones in action, and unless Uncle Tom stages some sort of championship battle on every holiday, they all begin to thing he is going back. Nothing but class gets by here, and now nothing but class is applying; they are learning the lesson.

COME WEST FOR TITLES.

When some eastern manager or promoter run across a pugilistic diamond in the rough, he at once begins to trim the edges, then announces that he is going to the Coast to get a reputation, money and some championship, a la Horace Greeley. This proves the fact that the fight game here is at the top of the wave.

Twelve years ago Solly Smith came out of Los Angeles, won the featherweight title from George Dixon at San Francisco, and ever since then we have been turning out the champs and the contenders.

Leach Cross never had nor would have had a chance at the title until he came West, now he is right in line for the top of the lightweight ladder. And Leach is some little scrapper. They cannot render decisions in the East, therefore cannot proclaim champions.

ONE of the genuine novelties of the great motor caravan now crossing the continent from Indianapolis to the Pacific is the picture show presented nightly by the Premier Motor Manufacturing Company. By a smartly conceived device a screen is placed across the hood of a regular Premier Six touring car. In the rear section of the car is carried a stereopticon of the most modern construction, and with this, and the use of a prestolite burner, an interesting and entertaining show is given, it being possible to bring hundreds of people within optical range of the screen.

Another series of slides will show views taken along the route of the great ocean-to-ocean tour—the first transcontinental tour extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific composed solely of amateur drivers [illegible] families in twelve Premier [illegible] this remarkable tour [illegible] longs the credit of the [illegible] wide agitation for greater [illegible] highways.

five people and one automobile to every three-quarters of a mile of road in the State.

"To be sure, France has most excellent roads. It has been building them for the last 150 years, and with the constant repair which has been given the more important roads since the time of the first Napoleon the foundations are deep and strong and solid as the rock of ages. But the multiplying traffic is wearing out the surface of the French roads just the same as it is the roads of heavy travel in this country. An official statement a year or two ago, stated that the annual maintenance cost on French roads is three times as great as it was ten years ago.

These facts ought to convince the people of this country of the absolute necessity of building main roads which will wear, even at a higher first cost. There is and can be no economy in constructing roads which will require constant and expensive repairs. The number of automobiles in use is constantly and rapidly growing. The usefulness of the motor truck is being further demonstrated every day. These factors of wear on roads emphasize the fact that roads must be built of materials and by methods which will stand the strain of an augmenting travel, not only today, but a decade hence."

OVER CASITAS THREE TIMES.

Charles H. Thompson drove to Santa Barbara in a Jackson last week, and, while making demonstrations for Santa Barbara and Ventura prospects, made the trip over the Casitas Mountains three times.

"The grade is in good shape," said the Jackson agent, "and from the top of the hill, near Shepards Inn, there is a perfect boulevard all the way into Santa Barbara with the exception of a few hundred feet.

"Work is being done on the State highway in the vicinity of Calabasas and there is a stretch of bad road. Beyond Calabasas the schoolhouse grade is being cut down until there will be only a 6 per cent. rise.

"I returned over the Chatsworth and found that road work was also being done on this grade. Beyond the hill the road is in fine shape all the way into Ventura.

"The new Rincon cut-off is full of chucks and dusty. Personally I would just as soon go over the Casitas."

RECORD PACKARD SHIPMENT SHOWS HIGH MARK.

SHIPMENTS of Packard vehicles during the last three months make the largest total for a fiscal quarter ever reached by a concern manufacturing high-grade motor vehicles.

In the period mentioned, motor carriages and trucks representing a value of $8,120,000, were delivered to purchasers. The shipments in May were the largest for any one month since the Packard company started in business. April of this year was the highest month up to that time.

The Packard also reports a heavy volume of truck sales during the month of June. Sales of the heavy-duty vehicles showed an increase of $270,000 over the same month of last year.

An innovation in progressive department store management has been started by the Elliott-Taylor-Woolfenden Company of Detroit, which has established a free motor bus line from the Campus Martius, the main traffic center of the city, to the store, half a mile distant, for the benefit of its patrons. Round trips are made on a fifteen-minute schedule during shopping hours.

The vehicle consists of a Packard two-ton truck chassis equipped with a special bus body. Two rows of seats with a center passage way provides accommodations for twenty-two persons. The interior finish is mahogany with dark green leather, upholstered seats. The special equipment includes interior electric lights and cushion tires.

PRACTICE HELPS IN DOWNFALL.

The defeat of Maurice E. McLoughlin by Anthony F. Wilding in the challenge round of the English single tennis championship again proves the value of years of practice and experience in the court game. Judging from the accounts of the final match between the young American and the veteran New Zealander, it was the finished all-around play of Wilding that gave him the edge over the Californian in the gruelling three sets won by scores of 8-6, 6-3, 10-8.

In the forty-one games that constituted the match Wilding won twenty-four to McLoughlin's seventeen, giving him a margin of seven games, three of which were picked up in the second set. Slight as this margin was, it proved that the player from the Antipodes held the reserve necessary to win at crucial points.

Wonderful tennis player that he is, McLoughlin met an opponent who in finish and finesse was his master. Despite his sizzling and powerful service and smashing, the young American found that Wilding was able not only to return his shots but to add to these returns the placement and pace which forced McLoughlin to a defensive rather than offensive attitude. He lacked consistency and failed on the ground shots which the New Zealander constantly fed him as a result of the carefully planned campaign based on Wilding's observations during McLoughlin's play through the title tournament.

There is in the defeat both honor and promise of greater excellence, however, so far as the American champion is concerned. A youth, for McLoughlin is scarcely out of his teens, a wonderful tennis career appears to be his future. In 1909 at Sydney he was defeated by Wilding, 3-6, 8-6, 6-2, 6-3.

Tennis players of the caliber of the Dohertys, Larned, Brookes and Wilding are not the development of a year, and few, if any of them, started with the natural ability and advantages possessed by McLoughlin. The Californian will some day be tennis champion of the world, barring accidents, but he will not wear the laurels until maturity and experience have steadied and rounded out his game.

* Safe and Sane.

No investment in the world is safer or more conservative than Los Angeles city or country real estate.

CHURCH BUYS STEVENS.

Norman W. Church, one of the big guns in the local automobile world, has purchased a Stevens-Duryea touring car. His first test run was made to Bear Valley, and, according to Norman, the Stevens behaved just as he expected. While Church is not the active agent for any line of cars, and is not even the factory representative for any automobile or product, he is generous in his praise of the Stevens-Duryea. He says the car is far better even than he thought it was when he purchased the tourer. That means a lot when Church makes such a statement.

KISSED FIRE FIGHTER.

Second Assistant Chief Charles Wilson of the Duluth (Minn.) fire department recently designed an automobile and had it built by the Kissel Motor Car Company. Utilizing a KisselKar "50" chassis Wilson had a platform built in the rear of a regular racing body, which carries a chemical apparatus and 200 feet of hose in a very sightly and compact manner. Wilson's speedy outfit outdistances the rest of the department every time and he has extinguished several blazes that a little more headway might have made serious.

REAL OLD KISSELKAR.

Here is further light upon the much mooted question: "Where do the old cars go?" Eugene Bunker of Duluth, Minn., owns a KisselKar "60" of the vintage of 1909 and is yet to be convinced that he needs a new one. Mr. Bunker's summer home is at Solar Springs, 42 miles from Duluth, and between the two points the roads are very rough. By rail it takes one hour and thirty minutes to make the run. Mr. Bunker started with the train the other night and it took him but five minutes longer to reach Solar Springs. He declares that he was not racing at that.

The 3rd Week of Our July Clearance Sale

The auto supply store has held the interest of hundreds of autoists during this big merchandising event, and now for the third week of the sale, only a short time before inventory, we have lowered prices still further to reduce stocks to the minimum—all remainders of lines must be closed out quickly. Read the following advertisement carefully—economy news in every item.

—75c is the price for this "always-in-demand" article.

—"Rex" gives a superior luster to metal with very little work. Just a few half-gallon cans to go at this notably reduced price.

FORD Master Vibrators Guaranteed, Price $8.75

—Ten dollars is the least this capable vibrator has been sold for until now—as a feature in the sale. Hamburger's, always in the lead, offers Ford owners this opportunity.

—Small, compact and with a neatness of design that makes it look well on any dashboard. Equipped with "kick" switch; a vibrator that will give your Ford just the governing touch it needs at all times.

Schebler Carburetors Prices 'way Down, Too

—Model "L" Schebler, 1-inch, $11.50, 1¼-inch $12.50 and 1½-inch $14.50.

—Schebler carburetors have been in use almost since the beginning of the automobile. They are as staple as the car itself. Take advantage of these prices this week and save. A July clearance feature.

Perfection Gas Savers are in the Sale at $2.00

—Why pay $8.75 to $5.00 for gas savers that are inferior to the Perfection?

—One reason in particular why this gas saver is so much better than any other is that it is not necessary to bore into the manifold pipe to attach it. Manifold pipes are thin and the jar soon makes a leak at the point where a connection is made. The Perfection Gas Saver is attached by lifting the carburetor a quarter of an inch. Simple and reliable.

Large Wool Auto Dusters at $1.00

—Equally as good for use around the home as the auto. Large size and well made. See them in the Auto Supply Store tomorrow.

2½ Gallon Desert Water Bag at $1.00

—Twenty-five cents less than the usual price—a saving in the July clearance.

—Made specially for Hamburger's, a bag of finest duck, guaranteed to hold water.

30x3 TIRES and TUBES One Small Price for Two $12.75

—At twelve-seventy-five you can buy this first-grade fresh tire and tube, size 30x3—that is less than the wholesale price.

An advantageous purchase by us and an advantageous price for you. Just think!—less than the retail price of the tire alone. A standard make that you would recognize at once were we not requested by the manufacturer not to mention the name. A fortunate purchase of a limited number, that Ford, Hupp and Flanders owners, and others who use 30x3 tires will be eager to profit by tomorrow.

$1.00 Can Tite-Wad It Repairs Tires, 40c

—Less than half for this needed article. You can apply it yourself to tires and tubes.

—Tite-Wad repairs cuts in tubes and casings, amalgamating and becoming part of the tire.

$9 and $10 Tire Trunks—An Unusual Out-clearing, $4.50

—Small sizes, made of the best of materials, grouped into one lot for a quick clearance.

—Painted black, with straps for attaching them to your running board. You'll find them handy for carrying many things—tools, clothing, extra tubes, etc.

Pint Thermos Bottles at $1.50

—Not a reduced price, but an improved bottle, in which you can put new fillers, at a low price. Pint size; a Thermos Bottle that will last indefinitely even though you break the glass.

McKinley Memorial May Mean Fine Boulevards.

[Special Correspondence of The Times.]

DETROIT, July 14.—The first practical results from the tour of the Indiana Automobile Manufacturers' Association from Indianapolis to the Pacific Coast to further the interests of the Lincoln highway, a national coast-to-coast undertaking as a permanent memorial to Abraham Lincoln, will be shown in Illinois.

At a conference between Gov. Edward F. Dunne of Illinois and Carl G. Fisher, who planned the Lincoln highway, as well as the present tour, the Governor enthusiastically approved the plans of the association, and urged that the Lincoln highway go through some section of Illinois and promised considerable financial aid. The State Legislature of Illinois has recently appropriated $1,000,000 toward the permanent improvement of some of its main thoroughfares through the State. The individual counties have also agreed to spend a similar amount. Gov. Dunne told Fisher that a substantial share of this would be expended on a section of the Lincoln highway if it passes through Illinois.

Gov. Dunne is to appoint a commissioner of highways to take up the road-building work. The Governor declared he would have his new appointee enter into a full and detailed investigation of cement highways of which much of the Lincoln highway is to be constructed, so that he may be fully advised as to the latest and most permanent form of modern road construction. Mr. Fisher says Gov. Dunne is just as keen as anyone for good roads because he realizes the benefits to the farmer, the merchant, the manufacturer and the tourist which come from them.

"I can see that the Lincoln highway means more to the country than the average good road," said Gov. Dunne to Fisher. "It stands for prosperity in every community through which the highway is located. The farmers will have easier access to their markets. The merchants will be enabled to make cheaper and quicker deliveries to their customers in the country. Tourists, traveling by automobiles, will number thousands and the supplying of their wants will mean much to every village and its merchants."

An organization has already been started at Springfield to build a road connecting the Lincoln highway with the old Lincoln farm near Springfield. This branch section is to be constructed when the actual route for the Lincoln highway is decided upon. Springfield wants the Lincoln highway, as does every other community, but until the association's engineers' report, it will be impossible to fix on the shortest and best road.

In this connection it is reported that Canton, O., where another martyred President, William McKinley, is laid to eternal rest, also wishes to be on the line of the Lincoln highway, and is willing to raise any necessary amount to obtain it.

At the meeting between Gov. Dunne and Fisher, which took place during the I.A.M.A. tour in the Capitol building at Springfield, the Governor assured Fisher that he would use his influence to insure the success of the Lincoln highway. The sum of $4,200,000 has been pledged to date, leaving but $5,800,000 to be obtained. Certificates of membership are now being distributed from the national offices of the Lincoln Highway Association in the Dime Savings Bank building, Detroit.

Tom Bundy,

Ping Pong.

LONG BEACH TENNIS MEET WILL DRAW MANY STARS.

THE biggest week of tennis that Southern California has ever seen is on tap for the week beginning July 28. Long Beach is to be the scene of this big festival of summer sport, and the Hotel Virginia courts are as good as can be found.

Every court star within traveling distance of Los Angeles is now making preparations for a trip here for the big meet, and it is safe to say that the entry list will surpass anything of its kind ever seen. Although several of the Coast tennis stars are missing, the bunch who will be here will be able to uphold the honor of this section of the country.

Maurice McLoughlin, national singles and doubles champion, is in England, playing for the international Davis trophy, now held by England. Willie Johnston, who won the Coast title through the absence of McLoughlin, is in the East to compete in all the big tourneys. Peck Griffin and Johnny Strachan, Coast doubles champions, are now on their way East to compete for the national title at Onwentsia.

However, even with these four champions and near-champions missing, there are enough classy players left to provide all the competition and classy tennis that the most rabid tennis fan could desire.

In the singles Tom Bundy will be one of the leading lights. Tom, with McLoughlin, holds the national doubles title, and ranked in the first ten among the American tennis players. Cliff Herd of Pasadena holds the national interscholastic championship, and ranked in the second ten.

Elia Fottrell was formerly a wonder at singles, and is said to have recovered his old-time form lately. Roberts is the sensational junior who played Willie Johnston a terrific five-set match in the finals of the Coast championship at Del Monte. Dedrick, former junior singles champion, of the Coast, is another who will compete.

Then among the southern stars there are innumerable champs and ex-champs. Ward Dawson formerly held the Southern California singles title; Lou Freeman held the Coast championship for many years. Hal Braly is one of the most dangerous singles players in the country, with his brilliant and dashing play.

Simpson Sinsabaugh, Nat Browne, Claude Wayne and Duncan are all present and former champions. The Rogers brothers, Charles and Harry, have always been famous for their teamwork in doubles. Marshall Ketchum, the sensational Santa Monica youngster, is probably the best High School player in this part of the State. Allan Barber is, with McCormick, the State interscholastic doubles champion.

Emory Rogers of Thatcher school is another former champion, having held the State interscholastic singles title last year. All of these men are entered in every event to which they are eligible, and it is a certainty that with so much class in one tournament the play is sure to be of the highest.

In the ladies' singles and doubles the same condition prevails. The finest bunch of lady players that ever appeared in a local tournament will compete. Mrs. Bruce, one of the famous Sutton sisters, will defend her title of Southern California tennis champion against the winner of the tournament.

With all these classy players lined up for the different events and the possibility of the dope being upset by some of the younger players, the tournament is certain to draw big crowds, and should prove by far the most successful in the history of local tennis.

to stand up under a day after day and the deadly accuracy of a rifle get a man but little unless he tops these things off with a hair-trigger intelligence, amounting almost to instinct or intuition.

The catcher is the cerebellum of the club—the center from which radiate the signals on innumerable defensive plays.

As a rule he is more familiar with the weak and strong points of the man at bat than the pitcher, and the latter is generally guided by his advice.

A catcher can make or unmake a pitcher. Many a man has been credited with twirling a great game, when the credit should have gone to the squat, sweating figure couched behind the bat.

Fielder Jones always has contended that the winning of the world's championship by the Chicago White Sox in 1906 was due more to Billy Sullivan's head than to Ed Walsh's arm.

The decline of Sullivan marked the passing of one of the smartest catchers that ever buckled on a harness. It was a pleasure to watch him outguess the opposing club. Sharing the front rank with Sullivan was Kling. The question of superiority between them never was settled.

Then there was George Gibson, who has never been quite the same since he made his record of 140 consecutive games in 1909.

Probably, in the minds of the majority Kling ranked first. The fact that he was generally with a championship club may explain this in a measure. However, those who place Sullivan as Kling's peer are legion.

The decline of these, undoubtedly the greatest of their time, threatened to leave the game without backstops of equal caliber. Archer and Meyers helped to relieve the stress. The development of the latter was slow and painful, but he was finally fashioned into a first-class catcher by the fine hand of McGraw.

Now come Schalk and Schang, the former of the White Sox and the latter of the Athletics, making a bid for a permanent place in the hall of fame.

Schalk has been the sensation of the season.

"He can claim distinction with the great and only Buck Ewing," said Comiskey recently in a burst of admiration.

Like claims are being made for Schang in Philadelphia.

As a rule each decade produces about two genuinely great catchers.

Possibly the young Dutchmen mentioned are destined to earn this distinction. Maybe this is to be their decade.

More Hard Luck.

field would put him across. But it wasn't produced, and Billy found himself as hopelessly marooned as if he had been the sole inhabitant of a desert isle. Ellis grounded to McDonnell, and Moore was flagged stealing after he had walked, Elliott making a daring and perfect threw to Hosp. Maggert retired the side with a feeble ground effort to Litschi.

TIGES IN FRONT.

The Tigers took the lead with one run in the second. Bayless beat out a slow one to Johnson with two down. Brashear cracked the left-field fence with one of his old-time two baggers, Richard ranting home. Hosp was subjugated on strikes.

Los Angeles tied the score in the third. Boles opened with a shot through the heart of the diamond, Baum diplomatically spraddling out his legs in order to permit the ball to pass between them. Otherwise, one or both of them would have been broken off just below the knee. Crabb's attempted sacrifice fizzled into a foul which Elliott nabbed. Page hit viciously over second. Kane, coming in fast, messed the ball momentarily, Boles going to third and Page to second.

Ellis rammed the ball to Hosp, who hurled the ball into Elliott's glove just as Boles crashed into the Tiger catcher. Boles fell to the ground, evidently badly hurt, but lay there unnoticed, as the plays were still breaking thick and fast.

BOLES FORGOTTEN.

Ellis started for second on the play on Boles at the plate, and Elliott shot to Brashear. The peg went low, and caromed away from the bulky second baseman. Page came down the line from third blazes bent. Brashear recovered and whizzed the ball to Elliott. Rowdy, having lost his mit in the collision with Boles, took the ball his his bare hands.

Bush ruled Page safe. Elliott braced up to his umps, and protested until he was red in the face. Through the turmoil at the plate, someone spied the prostrate Boles. This ended the controversy, umpires and players quickly gathering about the fallen catcher, who was plainly in agony. He was carried to the clubhouse, where an examination revealed the nature of his injury.

This took some of the zip out of the Angel attack, and Moore was retired on a grounder to McDonnell, Baum covering.

Byrnes buckled on the armor, and caught a brand of ball that would look good in any league.

The Tigers really took the game in the second half of the third, when they tucked away two runs. Baum hit cleanly to center. Carlisle bunted to Crabb. Roy's spikes failed to hold and he sat down. It is probable that Carlisle would have beaten the ball anyway. Kane walked, and the sacks were snugged. Bayless drove to Page, and Bill made a nice stop, forcing Baum at the plate. Brashear fanned, and was plainly displeased with himself.

Hosp bounced an equivocal bounder over second. It looked like an easy forceout of Bayless, but the ball took a sudden hop to one side, and the best that Page could do was to deflect it into left field. This is one of those things known in the refined nomenclature of the diamond as a "scratch hit."

That they count the same as the others was shown when Carlisle and Kane scurried across the plate Bayless was trapped between second and third on an attempted two-ply theft.

KENWORTHY BEATS OAKS WITH SHORT HOME RUN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Just one ball hit by Kenworthy, something of a cross between a drive and a tall fly, that dropped over the right field fence, instead of staying on the lot, stood between Oakland and victory this afternoon. On any healthy baseball lot, the right fielder would have closed in on that Kenworthy fly with no trouble at all. On Recreation Field, it disappeared from view and the Oakland team was compelled to stand by as the Sacramento second sacker made the circuit.

It was a game of few hits—just five apiece. Bud Pernoll pitched through to four sattered hits and Frank Arellanes did a job that was very much on a par. The Sacramentan was steady as clockwork and walked not a man. With Pernoll retired in the eighth to allow Bert Coy to bat for him, Lohman finished out the ninth for the Commuters. He allowed one hit so that the two clubs finished up on an even basis at the end of the engagement.

Considering the slim lead that he acquired, Arellanes was in danger on numberless occasions, although most of his troubles were in the last half. In the sixth, Pop Young nearly brought disaster to his team-mates by a double-edged error, a boot in handling the ball and then a bad throw in attempting to recover himself. That miscue alone, with one hit, put the Oaks on second and third, with no one down and still they failed to tally. Arellanes fanned the third man to face him, the next was forced at the plate and with the tension considerably relieved, the last out was a pop-up to second base.

A double play that could as easily have been a triple with any necessity for it put the Wolves out of harm's way in the ninth and Jimmy Lewis, who first of all misjudged a fly in the last of the ninth and finally ran back toward the fence to spear it with one hand, put on the finishing touches to a speed game and one that was chock-up with good fielding.

SOUTH COAST YACHTS AFTER CORONADO PRIZES.

THE fleet of fast racing yachts of the South Coast Yacht Club now racing for Commodore Hubbell's cup to San Diego, should arrive off Coronado in time to tune up for the big regatta, which begins on Tuesday, when the race for the Lipton cup will be sailed over a twelve-mile triangle on the ocean side off the Coronado Hotel.

The Lipton cup is a coveted prize and many of the enthusiasts around the South Coast Club feel sure that the old racing box, Columbine, will be able to wrest this trophy from the Aeoleus, which is the defender.

Sailing the Columbine is Carl Aspe and a picked crew. The Aeoleus, which is sailed by Frank Wyatt, rates 34.6 under the Boston Bay rule, and will get 6m. 42s., from Columbine, which figures 41.9 under this rule. The Columbine sails well under light winds and the prediction is made that she will be an easy winner.

FOR TIMES TROPHY.

On Wednesday the race for the Los Angeles Times cup will be sailed. Capt. H. N. Logan, with the Alert, is picked to make a good showing in this race as the Universal rule of measurements will apply, the Columbine being over thirty-five feet, will be ineligible. The Gretchen, owned by Ernest Shields, is the defender of this much-sought-after cup and will be expected to put up a good fight to keep the cup in San Diego. The Gretchen rates 25.2 and will give the Alert three minutes and thirty-six seconds.

The race for the California-Panama-Pacific gold cup will be sailed at the same time as the race for the Los Angeles Times cup, but, under the Boston Bay rule of measurement. It is possible for the same boat to win both cups. Any boat with a sail is eligible. The Aeoleus is also the defender of the gold cup.

FOR CORONADO CUP.

On Thursday all of the boats will sail for the Hotel del Coronado cup which will be raced for under the same restrictions governing the Lipton race. Here again the Columbine will have a chance, but no matter if local boys win or lose, they are down there for a good time and will make as good a showing as possible for the South Coast Yacht Club.

The rest of the programme outlined by the schedule for the regatta, calls for a ball at the Coronado Hotel on Tuesday evening, a moonlight regatta on the inner bay on Thursday night, a land sightseeing auto cruise on Friday, and a smoker at the San Diego Yacht Clubhouse on Saturday night.

AQUATIC SPORTS.

After the races the visiting fleet will be towed into the inner bay and will anchor off Tent City, where aquatic sports will be the order of the day when there is nothing else doing.

The Coronado Yacht Club, of which John J. Hernan is commodore, will assist the San Diego Yacht Club, Commodore Tom C. Hammond in the entertainment of the visitors, and the handling of the regatta which is officially scheduled in the programme of the San Diego Yacht Club.

A. J. Werner is chairman of the Regatta Committee of the latter club and will have charge of the racing being assisted by Roy L. De Camp and William R. Ruess, the other members of the committee.

Shake Up.

VICTORY OF SYRACUSE MEANS CHANGE IN 1914.

NEW YORK, July 19.—Although shells and sweeps are already collecting dust on boathouse racks, the sensational regattas which closed the varsity rowing season are still a topic of conversation and controversy where university men gather. Regardless of whether it is the races at New London or Poughkeepsie that are reviewed there appears to be more than the usual difference of opinion relative to the merits and methods of the various crews and coaches and the outlook for the seasons to come. Paradoxical as it may seem there is a complaint that there is not enough racing on the Thames and too much on the Hudson.

The keen rivalry at the intercollegiate regatta has led to several statements which in a roundabout way intimate that the best crew in the varsity race did not win. The explanations that Cornell and Columbia fought so bitterly for supremacy that they were not able to answer the challenge of Syracuse, Washington and Wisconsin, has stirred up considerable feeling among the graduates of these universities, and not without reason. In the usual course of sporting competition the winner of an event is supposed to represent the best individual or team in the contest.

In the case of the Poughkeepsie race, however, a lengthy explanation appears necessary to account for the defeat of Cornell and the fading away of Columbia. It is perfectly true that Columbia set a terrific pace and Cornell rowed at top speed in order to keep abreast, while three of the other four eights, pursuing a saner course, rowed some two lengths in the rear until time for the crucial spurt. It should not be overlooked, however, that Syracuse, Washington and Wisconsin were all within striking distance of the leaders and husbanded their strength until the proper time for the final effort.

POOR GENERALSHIP.

This generalship, which, in rowing, is equivalent to teamwork in football, baseball and lacrosse, is part of the scheme of the sport. Because the two crews representing universities which usually shine at Poughkeepsie, failed to follow these tactics and did not, on the other hand, have the stamina to finish under the sprinting campaign adopted, is no reflection on the victory of Syracuse. In the interests of amateur sport it is gratifying to note that Columbia and Cornell men closely connected with the crews and regatta, refrained from voicing these sentiments. Those forecasters whose selections were so badly upset should follow suit unless they can secure from the board of stewards the right to disqualify crews which occasionally break the monotony at Poughkeepsie by defeating Coach Courtney's great rowing combination.

Incidentally it can be stated that the 1914 regatta will witness a number of changes in both rowing tactics, methods and coaching. If the veteran oarsmen of the universities most interested are to be believed, there will be no four-mile sprint next year. In fact, it is likely that the first two miles of the varsity race will be more or less of a loaf, so explicit and forceful will the coaches' instructions be on this point. The elimination of the four-oared varsity crew in favor of junior eights will also find favor. This change provides places for four additional oarsmen, not quite varsity type, yet worthy of a place on the regatta programme. It will also do away with the racing shells without coxswain, which have caused accidents and disputes for years.

ONE NEW COACH.

At least one new coach will be seen on the Hudson, for Pennsylvania has secured Vivian Nichalls to succeed Ellis Ward as rowing coach. Nichalls, who has signed a three-year contract, will take charge of the Quaker crew candidates next autumn. He is one of England's most famous oarsmen, being a member of the Leander Rowing Club of London, an Oxford University graduate and former holder of the Diamond Sculls and Winfield Sculls. With his brother, Guy Nichalls, he won the Henley four-oared championship for several years and was a member of winning crews in grand challenge and steward's challenge cup races. As coach of the Detroit Rowing Club since 1909 he has been most successful in turning out winning crews which use a stroke combining the best features of English and American watermanship.

Also a Pacific Coast crew can be expected to cross the continent for the 1914 regatta, for Coach Conibear of Washington stated after the races that should the Seattle oarsmen win the Pacific Coast championship they would enter the Hudson race next year. Leland Stanford adopted the same plan in 1912, and the University of California stands ready to finance such a trip should the Berkeley oarsmen succeed in defeating both Washington and Stanford.

The outlook for rowing at New London is not so bright. Late reports from New Haven intimate that the English coaching system will be continued next season, and that Harcourt Gold, the Oxford University oarsman, will return to assist in the work. This report has not found favor with a number of old Yale grads, and Harvard men are beginning to grumble at the lack of competition afforded in recent years by Yale crews. The situation was summed up as follows by a Harvard alumnus after the sweep of the Thames on June 20: "I know it sounds like heresy," he said, "but I am getting tired of these one-sided races. For more than five years now I have been spending good money going to New London to witness a one-mile race followed by a three-mile procession.

NEVER HAD TO EXTEND.

"Harvard men never know the real caliber of their crew since it is an easy task to look like a winner when your opponents are wallowing hopelessly lengths in the rear. The Yale situation has not been clarified by the importing of English coaches, and it will take at least two years more to secure a satisfactory line on the rowing system now being tried at New Haven. Like all loyal Harvard men I like to see Harvard teams win, but I want to see them win in real contests where honor comes only after a real test and struggle. I have heard it whispered that Princeton is beginning to consider the possibility of entering a freshman crew at Poughkeepsie, and I should like to see what we could do in a four-mile row on the Hudson. I know that our crews are good crews, but the recent races at New London have been too easy to show them at their best."

HARD DAY AHEAD.

Auto Tourists Will Have Hot Sunday Trip in Crossing a Desert of Eighty-five Hot Miles.

SALT LAKE, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] This was a day of rest for the Indiana tourists en route to the Pacific Coast over the National Highway route. The day was spent in sight-seeing, an organ recital at the Mormon Tabernacle and late this afternoon the party was taken to Saltair for a plunge in the famous Salt Lake.

Tomorrow at 7:30 o'clock the nineteen cars will begin their trying journey across the alkali wastes of the great American desert, the first water hole being eighty-five miles distant. The heat is said to be equal to that of the famous Death Valley. Each car will carry a supply of water in bags provided for such emergencies. Kearney's ranch, 145 miles distant, will be the Sunday night stop.

Monday the desert will divide honors with the national forests of Nevada in "entertaining" the tourists.

TOURERS MAKE HIT WITH AUTO MAN.

That the present tour of the Indiana automobile makers from Indianapolis to Los Angeles and the Pacific Coast will be the biggest boost that has ever come to this line of industry in the Hoosier State is the prediction of Homer N. Motsinger, the Lafayette (Ind.) carburetor manufacturer, holder of the world's record for mile poundage using a gallon of gasoline. In addition to the trip to the Coast serving as a great impetus to the auto maker, Mr. Motsinger declares that the various accessory companies in Indiana will be helped by the big project, and that the time is not very far distant when the State will be one of the leading accessory centers for the automobile maker.

Discussing the present tour of the twenty automobiles, Motsinger said:

"Using the newspaper vernacular, the Indiana automobile makers are putting across a mighty big 'scoop' on the makers in the other States. It is an original idea which has the jump on the others and means a great deal more for the industry than people at first would think. With such cars as the Marmon, Premier, Marion, American, McFarlan, Empire, Apperson, Pathfinder, Stutz, Haynes and Henderson in the caravan carrying the Hoosier colors across the continent, the worth of the Indiana product will become a hundred times better known."

Motsinger is aiding materially in making the State one of the biggest accessory centers of the country by the manufacture of his new carburetor. His 1¼-inch models have been placed on the market with marked success, and the Motsinger plant is at present engaged in making the tools for the various sizes. Although he will continue the manufacture of the other products, including magnetos for stationary and marine engines, the carburetor will be the big end of the business.

HOME AGAIN AFTER SACRAMENTO TRIP.

M. Baldwin, president, and H. Taylor, general sales manager, of the Martin Shock Absorber Company, returned Sunday after a trip over the road from Los Angeles to Sacramento, followed by several of the drivers in the big race. The Martin Shock Absorber Company followed its usual practice of making careful observations not only of the course over which the race was run, but of the running of the numerous entries. The company had its general superintendent and Mr. Davis, who has general charge of the attachment of shock absorbers, on the course a couple of days before the race, for the purpose of studying the course and particularly with the object in view of observing the cars during the run.

Attention was paid to the manner in which the cars which had been equipped with shock absorbers took the rough spots in the road, and also with a view to ascertain how the cars equipped with shock absorbers acted in reference to consumption of tires. The officials of the company were very much pleased with the apparent good result obtained by the use of their shock absorber on the many cars which were equipped with them. For instance, the winning car, driven by Verbeck, went through without a tire change, as did also the No. 1 Cadillac driven by Charles Soules. The result of the race was particularly interesting because one of the drivers entered in the race had particularly stated that he liked shock absorbers all right, but he was afraid to use them in this race on account of the fact that they were so very severe on his tires, and no arguments which were advanced by the Martin people were sufficient to convince this driver that shock absorbers, instead of making the strain greater on tires, had the effect of saving the tires.

OILED ROADS ARE HARD TO BUILD.

To spread oil on roads for a distance of twenty miles or more from the starting point and to spread it at a heat of 200 deg. or more would seem to be an extremely difficult undertaking requiring a lot of apparatus and a lot of men. But by the ingenious use of a Peerless five-ton truck the road commissioners of Los Angeles county accomplish it with one man and one piece of mechanism.

The truck is fitted with a 1000-gallon oil tank, and this tank is covered with a coating of asbestos two inches thick to retain heat. Oil is run into the tank at 350 deg. Fahr. Thanks to the asbestos protection and the speed the truck can make, it is possible to make a trip of thirty-five to forty miles before the oil gets too cold for use.

Air pressure of sixty pounds to the square inch is maintained inside the tank by an air compressor operated by the same mechanism used to actuate a dumping body for sand and gravel.

Heat from the motor exhaust is used to keep the oil spreader warm so that the stuff will not thicken and clog up there. The truck travels fifty miles a day and the driver says that in 2000 miles only two involuntary stops were necessary on the road—both caused by dirty gasoline stopping up the fuel line.

Exclusive "More Mileage" advantages in Diamond Tires that cost no more

This is what we have demanded from our Chemists, our Engineers, our Tire Builders and factory experts—and here is their answer—

Diamond (No Clinch) Tires

Chemists: Vitalized Rubber—pure, lusty, young rubber put through a process that toughens and makes it road-resisting, with no loss of life or elasticity.

Engineers: Perfect 3-Point Rim Contact, that prevents all forms of rim troubles, such as cutting against the rim and breaking above the bead.

Then we protected the inner tube with a No-Pinch Safety Flap.

And, best of all, these exclusive Diamond advantages cost you no more. They insure liberal mileage and freedom from tire troubles.

So this time buy Diamond Vitalized Rubber Tires—you can get them to fit your rims from

THE AGE OF SPECIALISTS

The modern way has done away with "hit and miss" methods, and the demand of the times is for men, in every calling, whose training and experience have qualified them to do only a few things, but to do those few things better and quicker than any one else. This is especially true in the field of medicine. Treating only a few diseases over and over again, develops the "knack" of KNOWING HOW. This self-evident fact is amply demonstrated by the large number of patients who tried to cure themselves, or who took chances on a "Jack of all diseases," instead of coming to me for proper attention in the first place.

PILES, FISTULA AND VARICOSE VEINS CURED IN ONE TREATMENT

I have yet to see the case I cannot cure in one treatment. It may seem strange to you that I am able to cure these cases in one treatment. To the man who has been calling on his doctor for weeks and months and has not been cured I make a special appeal to lose no time in calling on me. I cheerfully explain my painless method of curing Piles, Fistula and Varicose Veins. It is so simple, so positive, so easily demonstrated, that you will be fully convinced that I will permanently cure you. Just think what it means to you. You save time and worry. Just one treatment and a permanent cure is effected. It is the greatest thing in the world.

Constipation

The clogging up of the bowels is the beginning; then comes depression, and indisposition to do anything; headache, backache and all other aches. Drug store remedies may give temporary relief; but why take medicine all your life just to get relief when my treatment cures constipation? Neglect gives birth to Piles, Fistula and many other diseases. My treatment is a blessing to suffering mankind.

Kidney and Bladder Diseases

The functions of these organs are most important, and their derangement is fraught with disastrous consequences. If you have reason to doubt or suspect that your kidneys or bladder are deranged, get the benefit of a searching examination at once. Too often these examinations are superficial, but when a patient comes to me I make a thorough chemical and microscopical test, to lay the basis for scientific treatment.

Hernia

Hernia or Rupture. This is a condition which does not permit neglect. You cannot afford to experiment, and yet you will unless you choose the right specialist. Neglect may cause strangulation (closing up of the opening.) If this occurs immediate surgical attention is absolutely necessary.

My treatment for hernia cures nine cases out of ten in comparatively short time. No fraud, no humbug, no pain. Investigate.

A Word of Advice

Depend upon it, if my cures were not quick and lasting, if my methods were not open and above board, and if I did not make it easy for every deserving afflicted man to get the benefit of my services, I certainly could NOT practice, as I do, year in and year out. Remember, I have practiced in Los Angeles for ten consecutive years. I am a TRUE SPECIALIST and treat only the diseases mentioned below.

VARICOSE VEINS, HERNIA, KIDNEY, BLADDER AND BLOOD TROUBLES, PILES, FISTULA, PROLAPSUS, FISSURES, ULCERATIONS and ALL CONDITIONS OF THE RECTUM AND BOWELS, SKIN and NERVOUS DISEASES.

Free Consultation and Advice

I will make a Careful Examination and Diagnosis without charge. Ailing persons should not neglect this opportunity to get expert opinion about their trouble. You are welcome, whether you take treatment or not. Write if unable to call. Hours, 9 to 4, 7 to 8; Sundays, 9 to 12.

THREE BOATS IN BIG RACE.

Columbine, Alert and Wasp Off for San Diego.

First Named Must Give the Others Big Handicap.

Local Yacht Racing Will Be Off for Two Weeks.

BY E. D. SEWARD.

In a strong westerly wind, three racing yachts of the South Coast Yacht Club got away soon after the starting gun at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon and headed S.E.¾E. for San Diego in a race for the Commodore's Cup and the regatta to be held this week by the San Diego and Coronado Yacht Clubs.

The start was a pretty one, Capt. H. N. Logan in the Alert leading the bunch across the line at 1:00:35, the others crossing in the following order:

Wasp (Capt. Jeffers,) 1:02:15; Columbine (Capt. Sepulveda,) 1:02:30.

Immediately on crossing the line balloon jibs were set on the contestants, and Capt. Jeffers on the Wasp broke out a spinnaker, as it was a straight run before the wind to the end of the government breakwater, from which point they would haul around on their course, headed for San Diego.

COLUMBINE GOES AHEAD.

As the end of the breakwater was neared the Columbine began to demonstrate her class and passed the fleet Wasp, in spite of the fact that Capt. Jeffers had every inch of the Wasp's canvas drawing perfectly.

With the start the Alert got across the line, she was able to maintain first position until the boats were past the breakwater, but steadily the Columbine drew down on her, at the same time keeping the windward berth, and finally passed the Alert a mile out.

Many predict that the Columbine will arrive at San Diego a winner, but with the large handicaps it is necessary for her to give to her two smaller rivals it will be necessary for her to perform at her best and even then it is questioned whether she can win.

The Alert has already shown what she can do this season by her several wins, and it may be that Capt. Logan will be able to again carry off the honors.

The Wasp, under the skillful handling of her owner and skipper, Paul Jeffers, has repeatedly beaten the Alert in previous years and in consequence cannot be overlooked in this race.

ARROW AS TENDER.

The racers were closely followed by Capt. Sepulveda's auxiliary yawl Arrow, which will act as a tender for the boats.

The boats will finish off the Coronado pier between the end of the pier and a stake flag, and a sharp lookout will be kept by the members of the San Diego Club for the first of the approaching boats.

The local anchorage is practically deserted, as only the smaller boats remain, their owners having shipped as crew on the larger boats, and not for two weeks will there be a gathering of the entire fleet again at the home anchorage.

Such boats as did not go to San Diego left yesterday and today for various harbors and coves among the islands.

GOOD HARNESS RACING.

Fair-Sized Crowd Witnesses Long Programme of Sport at Matinee of Local Driving Club.

A fair-sized crowd saw some good racing yesterday in the regular matinee of the Los Angeles Driving Club at Exposition Park, but no fast time was made. All the real live ones are being saved for the State Fair races.

However, the sport was very interesting and the crowd remained until the finish. Results:

TIGERS TO TRAVEL.

Occidental Swimming Team to Take Trip to San Diego Next Year. Many Good Men on Team.

Occidental College is out to boost swimming as an intercollegiate and interscholastic sport. The Tigers are planning to send their swimming team on a trip to San Diego next year to hold a dual swimming meet with the Army and Navy Military Academy. The Tigers will have a wealth of material next year and the prospect of some trips for the team will help matters considerably.

LOCKWOOD WILL PLAY.

Herb Lockwood, the sunny-haired southpaw, whose tennis playing was a sensation three years ago, has returned from Yale and will play in the Southern California tennis championships at Long Beach next week. Lockwood was a player of the dashing type when playing for Occidental and is said to have improved his game wonderfully during his stay in the east.

Easy Money.

RICH PURSES CONTESTED FOR AT PITTSBURGH.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH, July 19.—Getaway day for the Grand Circuit meet here today presented one of the most valuable cards ever presented on a Grand Circuit track. With only two racing days in the week, owing to rain, all the stake races were crowded in today's programme, and only stake races were run, with purses aggregating $19,000 to the winners.

The most hotly contested race that horsemen have witnessed in some time was the Pennsylvania stakes for 2:10 trotters, which went to six heats, and the money had to be divided because a decisive heat could not be run off before sundown, the Grand Circuit rule being that no heat may be run after sundown.

Tommy Horne had taken two heats but in the third he was observed to be in distress. Lady Grattan took the third heat, while Dago, that had been running in the ruck, came forward and took the fourth and fifth heats. With the necessary twenty minutes between the heats, the race was strung along tward dark and when Densmore took the fifth heat and not a horse had taken the necessary three out of five, the judges divided the money, giving Dago first, Tommy Horne second, Densmore third and Lady Grattan fourth money.

After the fourth heat only horses having a show for the money were permitted to run, with the result that Marigold, Derby Boy and Tenara were ruled out. It was a race where horse stamina counted and it was apparent that the field had run Tommy Horne off his feet. In succeeding heats he would hold the challenging position until the stretch, when he would be nosed out.

The professional drivers' stakes, the 2:15 trot, was taken easily by Judson Girl, a Cox entry. While Del Rey from the same string, took the 2:10 pace, a $5000 stake, and would have won in straight heats but for bad breaking in the stretch in the third heat, which left him fifth. He took the next heat and the race handily, however.

REFEREE IN WRONG.

San Diego Man Criticised for His Decision in Battle on Board United States Battleship.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN DIEGO, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Two clean knockouts and a crabbed decision featured the fight card staged before about 2000 fans on board the U. S. S. Iris, anchored in the bay here this afternoon.

Hundreds of invitations were sent out and the Mayor and some of the most prominent men of San Diego were at the ringside.

Billy Roache, the local sportsman, who refereed the bouts, held up the main event, a scheduled twelve-round go between Vic Barsente of Los Angeles and Banty Williams, pride of the navy, in the eighth and gave the decision to the sailor lad on a foul.

PIVOT SWING.

The foul which caused Roache's action was a pivot swing, but there was much crabbing and Lieut. Collins called all bets off. Many of the sailormen were supporting Barsente and claimed that the decision was the rawest ever put over. Many local fight critics remonstrated with the referee after Williams had left the ring amid a shower of shoots and cheers. At the moment Bersante hit Williams it is claimed that the sailor fighter was talking to the referee and it was a great shock to the crowd when he was picked up by Roache and given the decision.

Until the unsatisfactory ruling was made, both boys were fighting fast and giving the fans a taste of real ring sport. Barsente claimed after the bout that he was holding back for the last two rounds and was disappointed at the finish.

TWO KNOCKOUTS.

Both the other two bouts ended in the first round. Guy Griffith of the Iris put Young Sharkey of San Diego on the slab about twenty seconds after their four-round go opened. They fought at 160 pounds.

Lankey Smith, the pride of the torpedo flotilla, climbed Ray Neil's frame in the first round of an eight-sessioned fray and won on a knockout after flooring his man for the count of nine twice.

The ring was stretched on the deck of a lighter, lashed between the Iris and the U. S. S. Perry, officers and prominent visitors occupied seats on the lighter and the enlisted men and many civilians decorated the decks and rigging of both ships.

Officers of the Iris entertained Mayor O'Neil, Councilmen Schmidt and a number of San Diego business men at a luncheon between the bouts.

Among those at the ringside were: Commodore M. K. Metcalf, Capt. E. R. Shipp, Lieut. C. E. Smith, Capt. Symington, Lieut. R. W. Clark, of Los Angeles; Ensigns Weaver, Callahan, Gillette, Jack O'Brien, Sherman; H. K. Koebig of Los Angeles and M. R. Tipton, Lester Moon, A. L. Leitch, Frank M. Godfrey, George A. Moore, Jess Veal, also of Los Angeles; Frank Van Tasmer, Lieuts. Dodd, Kenyon, Briggs, George E. Link and J. S. Armstrong of Los Angeles; Monroe, Dale and A. E. Flowers.

KISSEL MAN WOULD OUST FARM HORSE.

Speaking of "showing 'em," Rube Oglesby looms up as one Missourian who is not asking outside promoters to do anything that he can't do himself. Rube recently took a KisselKar agency at Warrensburg, which is in Missouri, and has been specializing in trucks with such success that the horse in that territory promises to soon become extinct.

Rube goes to it in his own original but effective way, pulling off hauling "stunts" in the public square, well advertised in advance in the "Warrensburg Star." The consequence has been that these demonstrations have become something of an event that people go miles to see. Recently, Rube elected to haul a load of granite to Clinton, 38 miles distant, which he accomplished with entire success. Describing the start, the "Star" said:

"Several hundred people were at Baird & Townsend's marble works. During the process of loading three or four immense blocks of granite the crowd entertained itself at wondering and speculating whether or not Rube would ever reach Clinton over the Shanghai hills. Some even wondered if he could climb the hotel hill on Holden street. Rube said he expected to average 15 miles per hour with that load. One old hostler said 'be gosh, if he does it, we had all as well kiss our hosses good bye and shoot 'em.' "

Oglesby, during his few weeks connection with the Kissel Company, has disposed of four trucks and says he has "just started."

STRICKEN CITY RISES AGAIN.

MAXWELL MAN POINTS TO RAPID GROWTH SINCE FLOOD.

Labor Situation Has Improved and There Is Now No Need to Worry Over Conditions Which Prevail in Dayton, Where High Class Line of Cars Is Being Turned Out.

Normal conditions now prevail at Dayton, O., according to R. E. Baus, factory manager of the Maxell Motor Company's big plants in that city.

"A visitor to Dayton today would hardly recognize it as the stricken city of ninety days ago," says Mr. Baus, "nor, but for a few prominent buildings which act as landmarks, would he recognize the former Dayton.

"Always a beautiful city, the rebuilt Dayton, is a still more attractive city to live in. Nor do the people there have any fear of a recurrence of the flood. The extraordinary meteorological conditions that produced the flood, will not, according to the best authorities, be likely to occur again in the next 1000 years.

"The labor situation that confronted us a few weeks after the catastrophe, has improved, and we now have no difficulty in getting all the help we need, and of the class we need, for automobile building. Those skilled mechanics and body builders who fled in a panic, soon thought better of it, and returned to their homes. These homes were soon put into order, and with the streets cleared of debris, there is no sign of the water left.

"We are shipping twenty-five cars a day now, of the Maxwell "35-4," which is made in Dayton, and with normal conditions restored in the city and in our plants, the fifty-car days are in sight."

YANKEE SPORTS GIVE POINTERS.

The American and Canadian golf and tennis players, who have been playing the championships in England this summer, have given the Englishmen a few points in comfortable dressing for these games, and not always with unanimous approval. First came the golfers, who on the warmer days doffed their coats and played in their shirt sleeves. This led to a lot of criticism from certain quarters and approval from others. It was said that to play without a coat went against all the traditions of the royal and ancient game and that Americans and Colonials when in England should do as Englishmen do.

Those Englishmen, however, who believe in rational and comfortable dress, pointed out that most of the English golfers used their oldest clothes to play in and that some of the coats worn did not compare at all favorably with the clean shirts of the visitors.

Another convention was broken when one of the Canadian Davis cup team wore a pair of running shoes, heavily spiked, to play on the grass courts during one of the provincial championship matches. Like most of the over-seas players, he was not used to the grass, which was particularly slippery after a heavy rain. No objection was taken to his wearing spiked shoes, though in the championships at Wimbledon these are barred.

Other suggestions which have been more kindly received were the short sleeves of Mr. McLoughlin, the American tennis champion, and the knickers of an Australian tennis player.

SWIMMERS COMING.

Al Waddell of San Diego Will Bring Seven Ducks Here for Championship Meet.

Coach Al Waddell of the Army and Navy Academy of San Diego will be here for the Southern California championship swimming meet at Redondo, August 1 and 2. Waddell is boosting swimming in the southern city and will probably have seven swimmers with him when he gets here. All of them are dark horses and three of them are said to be ladies who will make Miss Dolly Mings hustle for her laurels.

STERRETT EN ROUTE.

Catcher Charley Sterrett is on his way West and will join the Venice team in Oakland next Tuesday, according to a telegram received by President Maier from Frank Farrell yesterday.

Tough Tussle.

M'CORMICK IS OREGON CHAMP.

Beats Wickersham for Title in Fierce Contest.

Battle Continues for Period of Three Hours.

Both Players Are Exhausted at the Finish.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PORTLAND, July 19.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In a five-game match today, E. R. McCormick, aged 18, of Los Angeles became Oregon State tennis champion when he defeated B. W. Wickersham, city champion, in the hardest five-set match seen here for two seasons. William Johnston, Pacific Coast champion, was former title holder but he did not defend this year. The scores were 9-7, 9-7, 3-6, 0-6, 6-2.

For nearly three long hours, Wickersham and McCormick battled, the sets for the most part running even with each player adding his own serve. Little did the fans expect the battle which was produced when McCormick dropped the first three games of the first set to the Portland champion without a halt.

MAC COMES TO.

If McCormick had seemed somewhat stupid in the opening games, he toward the last was what he had been all through the tourney—the alert, cool, calculating tennis player who won his games with his deliberate out-guessing of the opponent.

A seven-minute intermission was allowed after the third set and then followed the most furious playing on the part of Wickersham. He was everywhere and in rapid succession and had the southerner down without giving him one game.

However, the strain was too much and McCormick, spurring himself to the last, won the Oregon State cup, by turning the Portland man down, 6-2. The strain of that victory told on McCormick too, for he fell to the ground with the same impulse that he drove the winning ball.

CHICAGO GOLF SCORES.

CHICAGO, July 19.—[By A. P. Night Wire.] The Western Golf Association four easily won the Olympic cup today on the Homewood links with play that made the representatives favorites for the Western Amateur championship, which begins Monday. Warren K. Wood, of the winning quartette, made the best score of 150 for the 36 holes. The western team's score was 628. The intercollegiate team took second honors with 659. The trans-Mississippi team withdrew because of the withdrawal of Lemist. Afternoon scores and totals for the day:

Western Golf Association, 318; 628.

Kentucky Golf Association, 368; 730.

Wisconsin, 345; 680.

TOWNE OUT.

Capt. Pete Towne of the Los Angeles Athletic Club swimming team is out of the swimming tournaments for a while on account of bad eyes. The water aggravates Pete's eye trouble and as a result he has been forced to lay off for a few days. He will probably compete later in the summer.

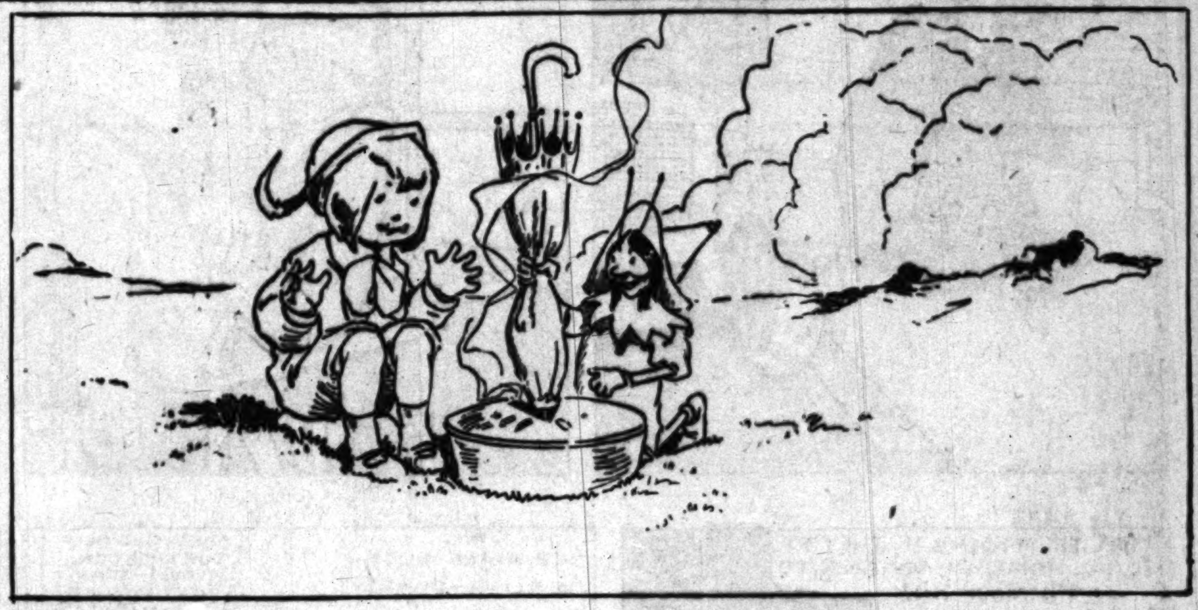
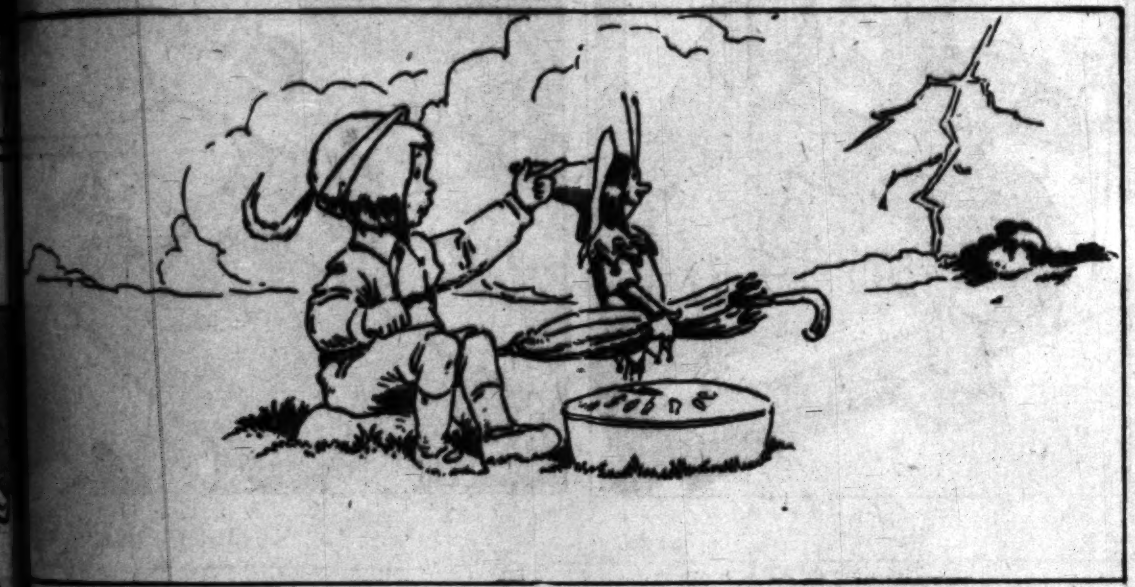
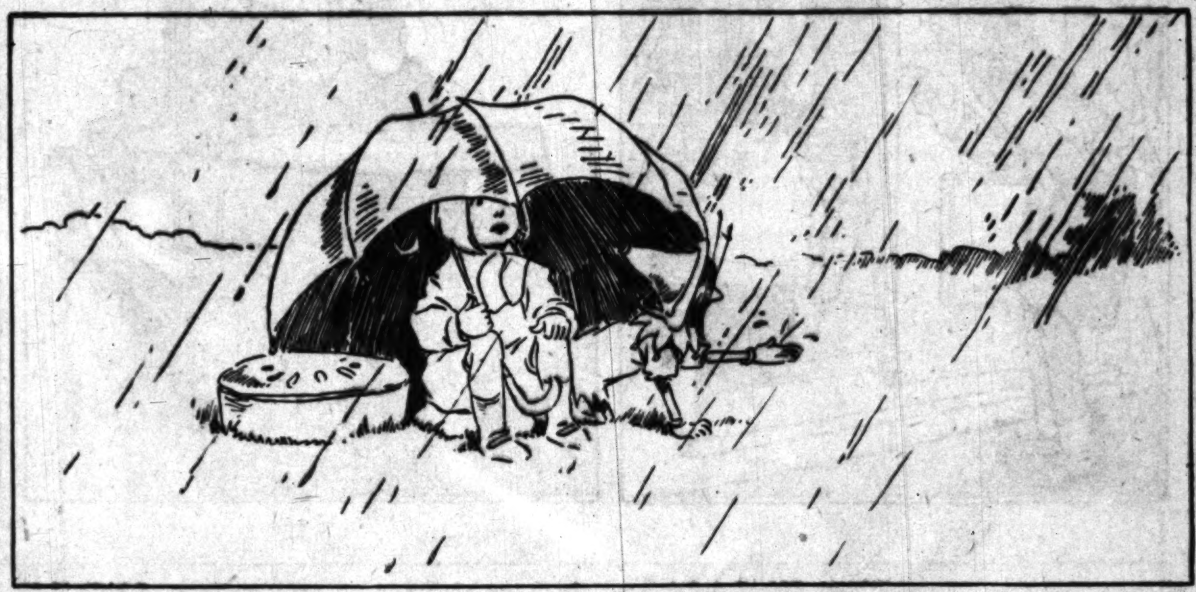
1—The tramp, who was given the scrubbing by the brush and soap which came from the magic pie presented by Dr Giggle to Dickie, was very sorry he had stolen the pie, so as soon as he could regain his feet he ran as hard as he could.



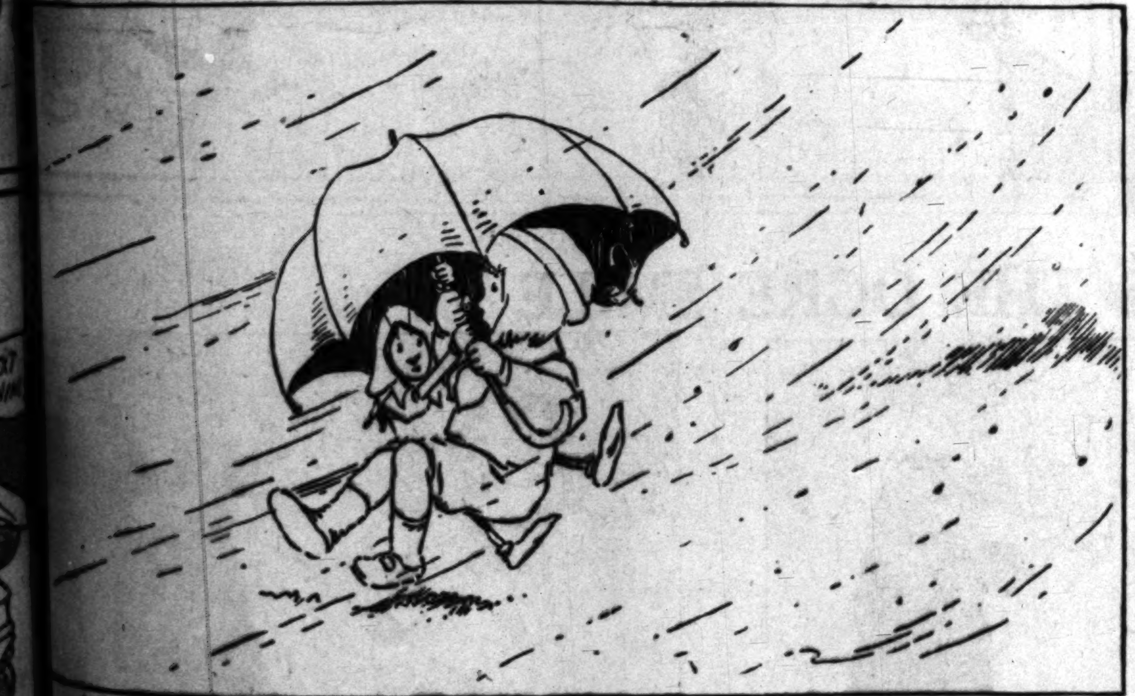
2—"Now," said Mr. Twee Deedle, "we will see what there is in the magic pie for us!" and he reached inside and pulled forth a large umbrella.



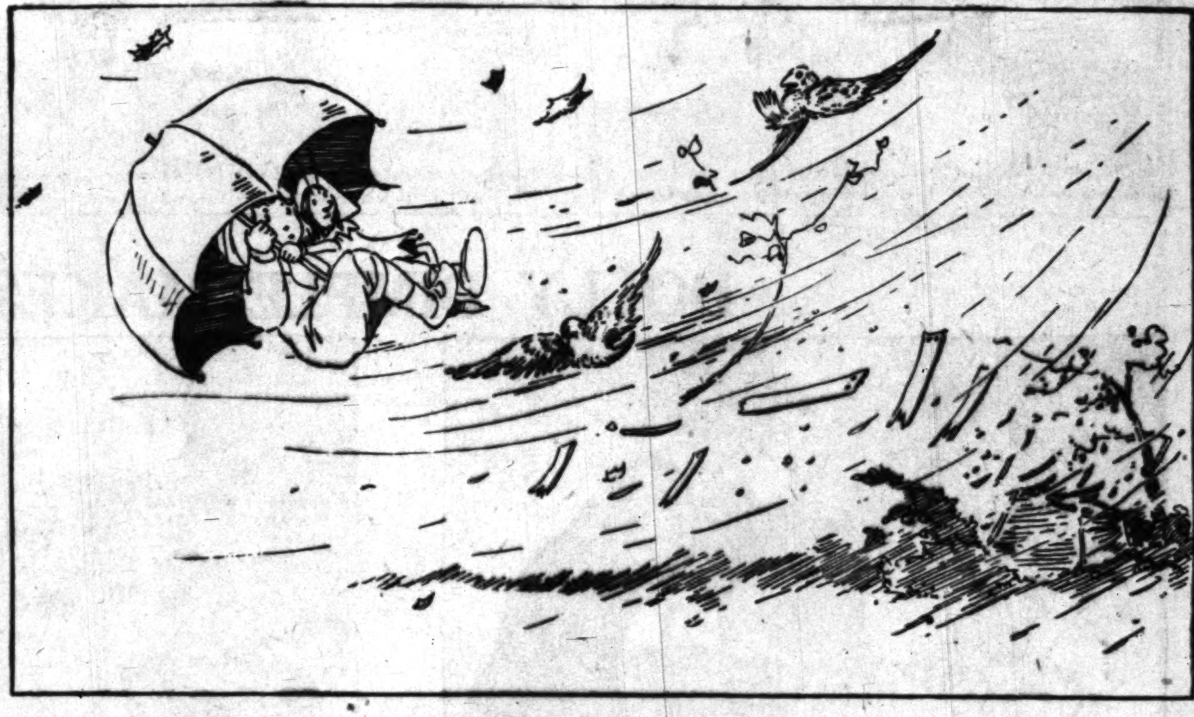
3—"The magic pie is supposed to give just what we need most, but I don't see what we need with an umbrella," said Mr. Twee Deedle, "for the sun is not very hot!"



4—"I guess the magic pie knows best," replied Dickie, "for here comes a thunder storm." "Yes, it is going to rain!" said Mr. Twee Deedle, "and we are lucky to have the umbrella."



5—"Perhaps it would have been better to have reached into the pie again," said Dickie, as the strong wind lifted them from the ground and carried them over the fields. "We might have found a cyclone cellar, which would have been better than an umbrella in this storm."



6—"One thing, though," Mr. Twee Deedle shouted so Dickie might hear, "we are travelling so fast hardly any rain hits us, and the cyclone cellar might fill with water."

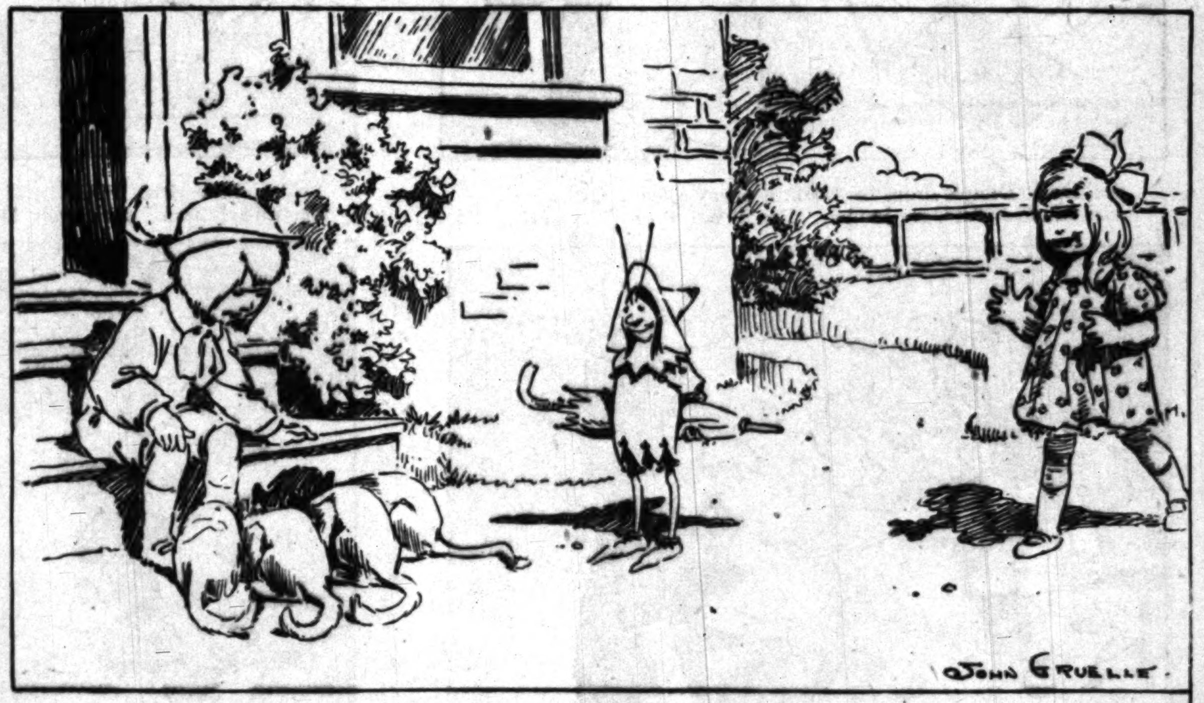
7—Finally the wind died down and left Mr Twee Deedle and Dickie perched on the top limb of a tree Then the rain fell in torrents. "It's actually raining cats and dogs!" cried Dickie.



JOHN GRUELLE

8—When the rain ceased and the sun again broke through the clouds, sure enough there were the cats, and Dickie coaxed some of them to follow him home and gave them a big pan of milk, for which they were very grateful.

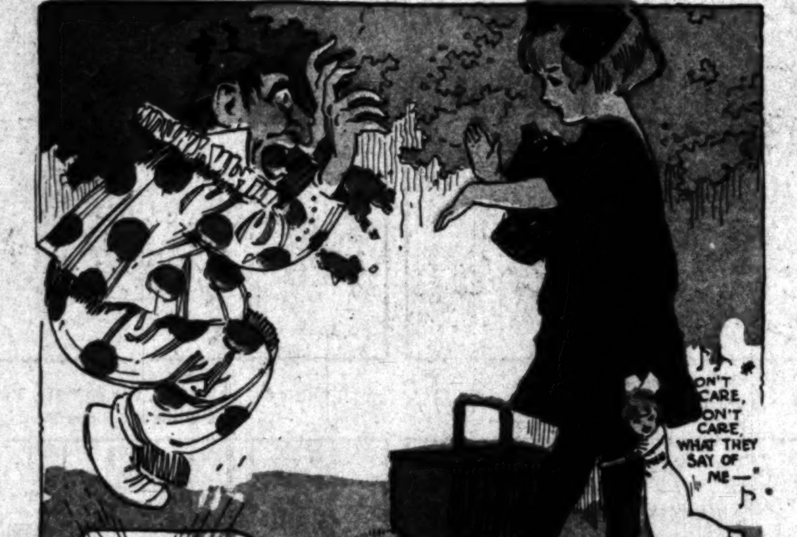
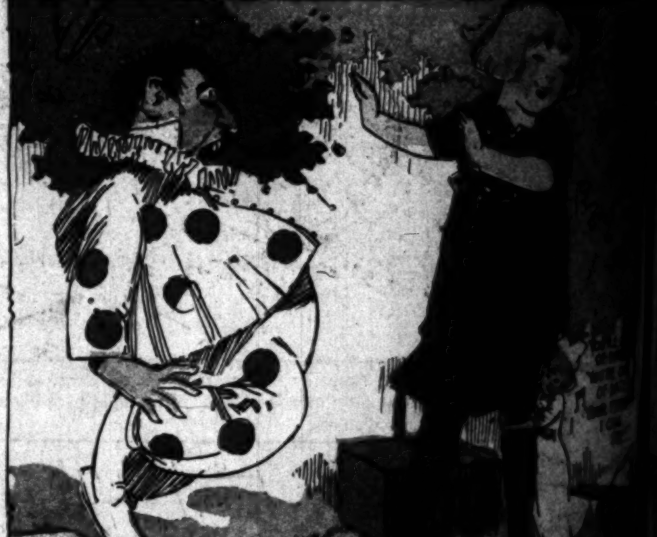
VOTES FOR WOMEN

See, Dolly Dimple drops her book; it opens when it falls,
And out an awful Ogre jumps. "I'm Bloody Bones!" he bawls.

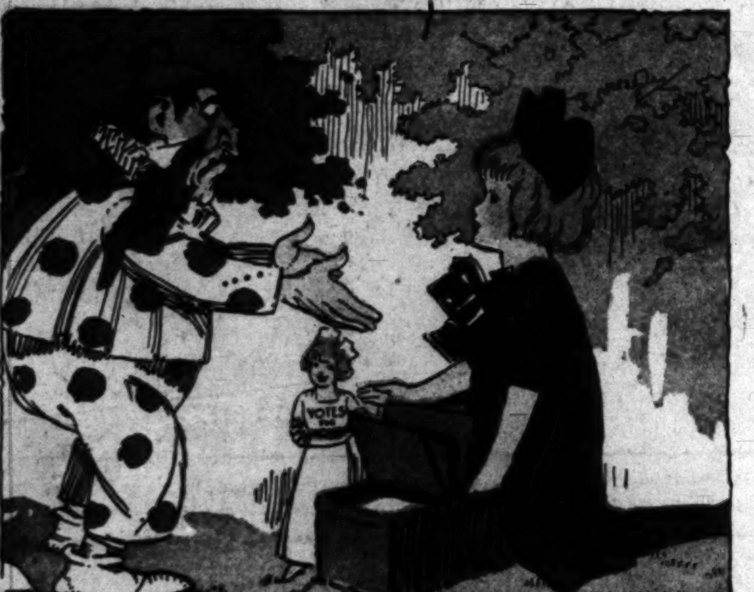


"DON'T CARE, DON'T CARE, WHAT THEY SAY OF ME—"

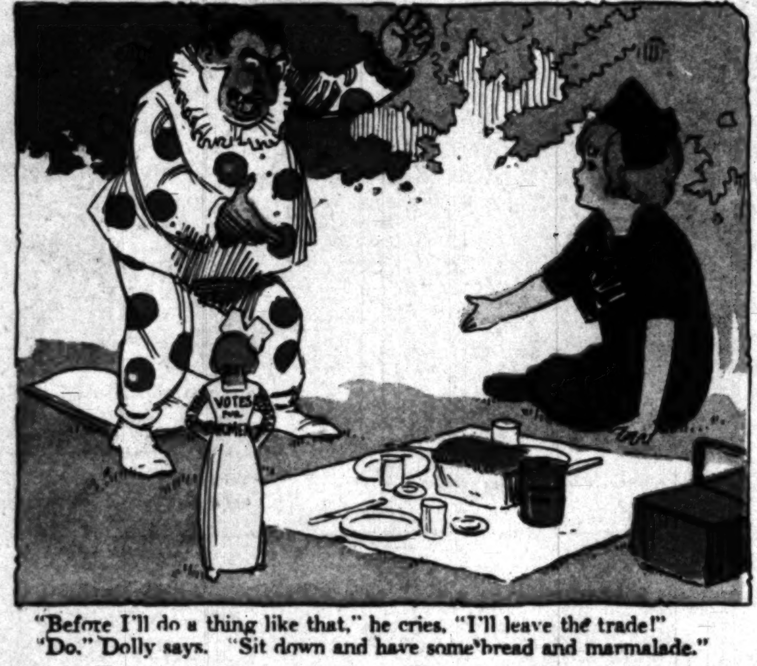
"I eat up little girls! FEE! FI! FO! FUM!" He claws the air.
"Particularly fum!" says Dolly Dimple. "I don't care!



"For Ogres nowadays don't eat up boys and girls like me,
They grind them up in factories—you're out of date, B. B."

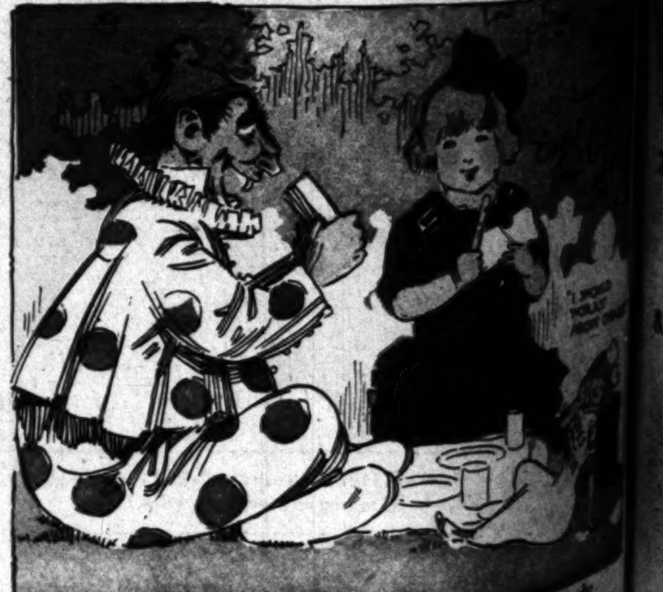


"Ho! labor laws!" grunts Bloody Bones; "I've heard of that there game
But even Ogres such as me—we has a sense of shame.



VOTES FOR WOMEN

"Before I'll do a thing like that," he cries, "I'll leave the trade!"
"Do," Dolly says. "Sit down and have some bread and marmalade."



"It's good of you," says Bloody Bones. "I'm sorry I was rude.
And after this I guess I'll stick to hygienic food."

But when she smashed a butcher's cart and nearly killed a cop,
Pa rose in his parental wrath and said, "Now this must stop!

—"Go! Send that Juggernaut away! No more such risks you'll take!
Another week and my poor purse, or else your neck, you'll break!"
"Boo-hoo!" cried Mazie. "Cruel Pa! So sad you make me feel!"
"There, there!" said Pa. "Restrain your tears; or—why not try a wheel?"

3.—"A wheel!" snapped Mazie. Then she stopped. A bright idea she had.
"All right, dear Pa," she said, "I will." Said Pa, "I'm very glad!
Go right downtown and pick one out." And Mazie said, "What kind?"
"Oh, any kind at all," said Pa; "the best that you can find."

COMMON SENSE in the HOME

EDITED by MARION HARLAND

GOOD VENTILATION IN THE KITCHEN.

HOW many housekeepers know anything of the proper ventilation of a kitchen? How many architects even, whose business it should be, allow for the free passage of air in the most constantly used, the most overheated, room in the house?

Stop and think about it a moment. Did you ever see a kitchen in an ordinary private dwelling in which requisite attention was paid to ventilation? Is there any way in which you can get the right amount of air into your kitchen without affecting the drafts of the stove or running the risk of becoming chilled yourself? Haven't some of the worst colds you have ever suffered from been caught when you threw open a window to change the air of the room when both you and it were too hot for endurance? You felt that, risk or not, you must have a breath from outside.

Now this is all wrong. Your kitchen is your workroom, your laboratory, the place where you pass a large number of your waking hours. You try to make it hygienic as well as attractive and comfortable. Doesn't it seem inconsistent to have painted walls that can be washed, the floor covered with linoleum or oilcloth, that can be scrubbed, zinc top tables, hardwood finishings, everything which speaks of sanitary conditions, and yet to ignore the state of the air you breathe while surrounded with all these things?

Effects of Poor Ventilation.

The lack of proper ventilation makes for your discomfort, and as a consequence interferes with your ability to do your best work without over fatigue, but it does more than that. Did you ever reflect what the discomfort resulting from insufficient ventilation indicates?

In the first place it means that you are breathing vitiated air. The heat of the room robs it of life, and when you take it into your lungs it does not invigorate you as it should. When you keep on with this process day after day the cooked air you inhale is bound to have an effect on your health and strength.

In the second place, your skin does not act in the right way in an ill ventilated room. Does this seem a matter of minor importance? Don't you believe it! Never underrate the work done by the skin in carrying off the waste of the body and keeping the blood in good condition.

Think a little of what happens to you when you become overheated in your kitchen, and then admit the cold air suddenly and fully. You are in a drenching perspiration, all your pores are open and relaxed. The abrupt drop in temperature seals the pores at once, and the waste which the warmth and exercise had brought to the surface is driven back into the system. Have you ever noticed an outbreak of pimples or of other skin eruption after you had undergone a violent check of perspiration? This is an outward illustration of what is accomplished in a measure all over your body by such irrational ventilation just described.

Fatigue Will Increase.

Another sign of the harm done the skin by poor ventilation manifests itself in the muddy complexion of many women who spend much of their time in hot kitchens. Perhaps there was no use in trying to keep a fresh color while you have cooking to do. You are mistaken. Some of the prettiest complexions are owned by women who do all the cooking for their families and have done it for years. If you take proper care of the sewerage of your body and keep your physical condition good in other respects, there is no reason why cookery should injure your skin, provided you work where there is plenty of fresh air. But do you get this in your kitchen?

I have spoken of the difficulty you have in doing your best work without over fatigue when there is a lack of proper ventilation. Such fatigue as this is cumulative. That means that it is worse each day than it was the day before; not much, perhaps, but when each morning finds you a trifle less fit for exertion than you were the morning before, it does not require a mathematician to discover that some time the supply of energy will be exhausted and you will be unable to keep up with your duties.

Say what one will, housework is a wearying occupation and should be pursued under the most favorable circumstances. You are depriving yourself of your chance of continued usefulness when you do not make the most of the recuperative properties of fresh air while you are busy.

Best Results with Least Effort.

You know what loss of energy means—that work becomes toil, that the occupations which meant pleasures turn into drudgery, that you lose your own zest in duties which were once a delight.

"Do you enjoy cooking?" I heard a young man ask his mother when he and she were engaged in getting together the miscellaneous items of a Sunday night supper. The maid was out and the housekeeper was struggling with a new and unfamiliar gas range.

"Yes, I like it when I know how things go," she said, with some emphasis, straightening herself up after a struggle with a refractory gas key. "I enjoy it very much. But it's no fun when I'm not sure of how to get the best results with the least trouble."

There is the matter in a nutshell. The best results with the least trouble! That 's what we are all striving for—not that we are afraid of trouble in the form of work, but that we see no use in expending our strength unnecessarily.

A well known writer on domestic topics illustrated the misdirected nervous force of some women by saying they use a pile-driver to stick a pin in a bow of ribbon! That is the sort of thing we do when we work under poor conditions. We make it impossible to do our best without a disproportioned expenditure of strength and nerve, and if you can tell me anything more likely to sap both than an insufficient supply of fresh air when we are engaged in our most taxing and trying occupations, I would like to know what it is!

But what are we going to do about it? I have already said our kitchens were not built with a thought of ventilation. How can we remedy their defects?

"We should have electric fans in our kitchens," said a man with whom I debated the question.

I repeated his suggestion to the most practical housekeeper of my acquaintance and she laughed me and him to scorn.

Some Partial Remedies.

"I can't afford an electric fan in my sewing room or in my bedroom, and I don't fancy there are many people who would feel they were justified in setting one up in a kitchen," she said. "Besides, how about the houses where they don't have electricity? Are you going to refuse proper ventilation to the housekeepers in homes where there are neither electric lights nor gas? One set of women needs fresh air just as much as the other."

"Build the kitchens with openings and sluices to admit the fresh air, as is done in office buildings, or drive the fresh air in as they do through the ventilators in ships," said another man, but I did not need to get the assurance of a housekeeper to convince me that this notion was absurd. We are not talking about the conditions of the future, but of those of today, in which we women have to work. What can be done about them?

Two or three things. One is to set a gyrating ventilator in the windowpane. You have doubtless seen them in factories and offices and noticed how the wind turns a pierced disk which admits the air. They are troublesome to put in, and not completely satisfactory.

Another expedient is the old method of placing a board beneath the lower sash. This board should be about six inches in MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

Because of the enormous number of letters sent to the department I must ask contributors to limit their communications to 100 words, except in cases of formulas or recipes which require greater space. I want all my correspondents to have a showing in the Corner, and if my request in this respect is complied with it will be possible to print many more letters.

Attention is called to the fact that Marion Harland cannot receive money for patterns, as she has no connection with any department that sells them.

Marion Harland.

"I HAVE just been reading what you have to say in your talk about a variety of foods for warm days, and I would like to express my thoughts on the matter. Often after reading advice as to what to have for breakfast or lunch and for making appetizing meals, I say, 'I wish I could let that writer know how little of all that I can use.'

"My husband and son, the latter aged 9, will not eat any but the plainest of meats, no 'fixings' at all. You speak of cheese, but they will not take it in any form except as it is cut and served alone, and they don't use gravy or macaroni in any form, or rice, except in a rice pudding with raisins, and they positively will not taste salads. They do like fresh vegetables raw, but they eat no scallops or anything with cream dressing or dressing with meat; no desserts but fresh or canned fruits, except that the boy likes apple pudding, and both like homemade cake and pie.

"There is one nice thing about it; if they don't care for what I have on the table they will eat plenty of bread and butter or jelly and be satisfied. The boy is not spoiled, for he has been taught to take what there is, as it is impossible to get him to try anything new. For ten years with my husband and eight years with my son have I tried to teach them to eat, but to no avail. Until a year ago I could not season anything with the least bit of onion, but now it does not seem to be noticed. B. R."

You have my full sympathy. I can imagine few minor trials more vexatious than to have to cater for a family who will insist on refusing novelties of any kind. Will you forgive me if I differ with you when you say that your son is not spoiled? If he were in full obedience he would not refuse to try anything new. He would at least taste it, even if he did not care for it.

I have had some experience with a small boy who was fussy and unreasonable about his eating. It would take me far less time to tell you what he would eat than what he would not. He disliked fish, he objected to soup, there were few vegetables he would tolerate, most desserts were displeasing to him—in short, he was as cranky a child about his eating as I have ever seen, and I have known many.

Now he is a grown man, and it is his boast that he can and does eat anything and everything. He was brought to this state by his mother's untiring insistence that he should eat what was set before him. Not a large amount, perhaps, but he was obliged to try a little of each article that would agree with him until, little by little, he overcame his objections to the various foods he had at first scorned. When there was soup for dinner he was told to eat a few spoonfuls of it; when there was fish, or liver, or something else he did not care for, he was made to take a little of it, and the pursuance of this plan for several years resulted in curing him of his whims and accustoming him to eat what others ate.

I have seen hostesses made uncomfortable too often—I have been too frequently made to suffer myself—by the unreasonableness of guests who would not eat this or that to permit myself or any one belonging to me to be guilty of the rudeness of declaring inability to eat any decent food. Try my plan with your boy and let me know how it turns out. Your husband may be too "set in his ways" to change, but there is room for reform in the boy. I wish you success.

Recipe for Sour Meat.

"I see that in a recent issue one of the Cornerites asks for a recipe for sour meat. I found the following in Farmers' Bulletin No. 391: 'Take a piece of beef from the rump or lower round, cover with vinegar or with a half and half mixture of vinegar and water, add a sliced onion, bay leaves, and a few mixed whole spices and salt. Allow to stand a week in winter or three or four days in summer; turn once a day and keep covered. When ready to cook, brown the meat in fat, using an enameled iron pan; strain the liquid over it, and cook until tender; thicken the gravy with flour or ginger snaps (which may be broken up first), strain it, and pour over the sliced meat. Some cooks add cream.

"This whole bulletin, 'The Economical Use of Meat in the Home,' is a most excellent article on different cuts of meat, their price, relative food value, etc., together with practical recipes.

"The 'sour rabbit' asked for is no doubt rabbit soaked or parboiled in the same vinegar mixture given above, but the vinegar is not used in the gravy; we use the vinegar on the rabbits here, as they eat the sage which gives them a strong flavor, then we throw the vinegar away, and cook the rabbit any way we choose.

"I am in a state where women vote and as I read of the effort to get the ballot for women in other states I would like to say this to them: Prepare yourselves for the ballot; you will undoubtedly get it some day, so be ready for it. The women of this state are awakening to that. In some of their clubs they have taken up a systematic study of state, county, and municipal government, also of the officers, from governor down to precinct constable, making themselves familiar with the duties, privileges, and salary of every one of the officers. Only in this way can we wield the ballot rightly and intelligently. G. H. F."

Thank you for your recipe. I know that Farmers' Bulletin to which you refer, and you are right when you say that the directions and advice it contains are excellent. I wish more women would write to Washington for these bulletins, which the government distributes free of charge to all who ask for them. You wisely counsel women to study government problems from those of the state down to those of the precinct. If women get the vote they surely will need this knowledge; if they do not get it they will be better fitted to be companions to their brothers and husbands and to train their sons in the duties of citizenship than if they had remained ignorant on these important topics.

Recipe for Apfelstrudel.

"The recipe printed recently for apfelstrudel is nothing like the real thing at all and so I send one which makes it as plain as possible:

"Put one egg and a piece of butter the size of a walnut into a baking bowl and set it in a dish of hot water on the table; beat hard for five minutes. Then work into it half a pound of flour and a level teaspoonful of salt, and mix well, cover with a warm plate and let it stand an hour. Spread a white tablecloth on the table, sift a little flour on it, and pull your dough out as thin as you can on the cloth, without tearing the dough. Sprinkle with apple, currants, small pieces of butter, and cinnamon; roll up like jelly cake and bake. This is the real thing. The bowl should be taken out of the hot water after being beaten. MRS. M."

My readers may recollect that when I gave the recipe for apfelstrudel—or rather the recipes, for there have been several of them printed—I said that I was not familiar with German cookery and that I would have to rely upon the directions given by those who understood it. Thus my only course was to give the recipes as they came to me, and this I have done. I hope this latest set of directions may give satisfaction to others who may not have found former recipes just what they wanted.

Made a Blind Man Happy.

"The communications sent by some of the readers of the Helping Hand to E. H., the wife of the blind colored man, were received and she said she and her husband were made so happy that they could not sleep that night for talking about it. She keeps the letters as her dearest treasures and she said: 'Just think. They know about my poor blind Will way off in the city and want to help him.' Please tell all the helpers she says she will never forget them and will remember them in her prayers. For myself I will never fail to see in my mind the lonely figure of the old darky sitting just outside my window on a seat in the sunshine with the big yellow cat curled up beside him, all day long, with nothing to amuse him. I called him in one day to turn the meat chopper for me during sausage making and he went to bed that night as delighted as a child over a new toy because he had found something he could do. I am glad to know there are so many kind hearted people in the world, and I thank them for him. MRS. C. G. S."

So many appeals for help of various sorts appear in our columns that it does me good to print such an acknowledgment as this of benefits received and appreciated. I am sure that the kind hearts which were moved by the loneliness of the old colored man in in his blindness and sent him help will rejoice to know of the happiness and comfort brought by their thoughtfulness.

Some Helpful Hints.

"If you wish to make a room private, or mellow the light without the use of shades, try prepared chalk and water, mixed to paste consistency. Rub on the glass, then pat with a pad just as thick or as thin as you choose. This is better for the purpose than paint, as it is more easily cleansed.

"For dress holders select pieces of kindling wood eight inches long and wrap each well with strips of your dresses, lawn, or muslin, or white goods, and tie strong cord in center. I use this method of hanging up my freshly laundered dresses and skirts in a closet, and the beauty of it is that you can have all of the hangers you wish. If you like, you can pad these hangers and brighten them with your favorite colored ribbons.

"Denim curtains are rather effectively decorated with white bundle cord. Double thread and draw through and tie in short, loose ends. Don't have knots too close together. This makes an effective border—about three or four rows and knots and a monogram of white braid on dark blue or green curtains. A dresser scarf of denim when thus decorated is pretty and washes beautifully.

"Stain an ordinary cheese box in cherry or any dark color and use the bottom part for a fancy work box. Stitch silk or ribbon around or gather cretonne and have pockets inside or out; pad bottom for needles and pins. Use the upper lid of the cheese box by turning it upside down for a tea tray; stain this, and if you do brass work a strip of decorated brass or silver around it is lovely. Both articles are strong and useful. A FRIEND."

More of the helpful hints sent to me by one of our Cornerites to benefit the others. Thank you again!

Boy Wants a Wheel.

"I write you in behalf of a good boy 12 years old who has for a long time wanted a wheel, but his father is a minister and gets a small salary. So he is not able to get the boy a wheel, and, living in a small place where there is no work for a boy of his age to do by which he can make money, the lad has become discouraged. He has tried to save his pennies and nickels to buy one, but this seems slow. I have thought that perhaps some one might have set aside a wheel needing some repairs that the boy's father could make, and the son could pay the expressage out of what he has saved. They would be grateful if this could be managed. MRS. D. B."

There seems to have been a number of boys wanting wheels of late—probably because the spring weather and the early summer lead them to long to make excursions off into the country. I hope that all the discarded bicycles have not been given away and that there is one left which can be sent to this boy. I shall be glad to receive an application for his address from

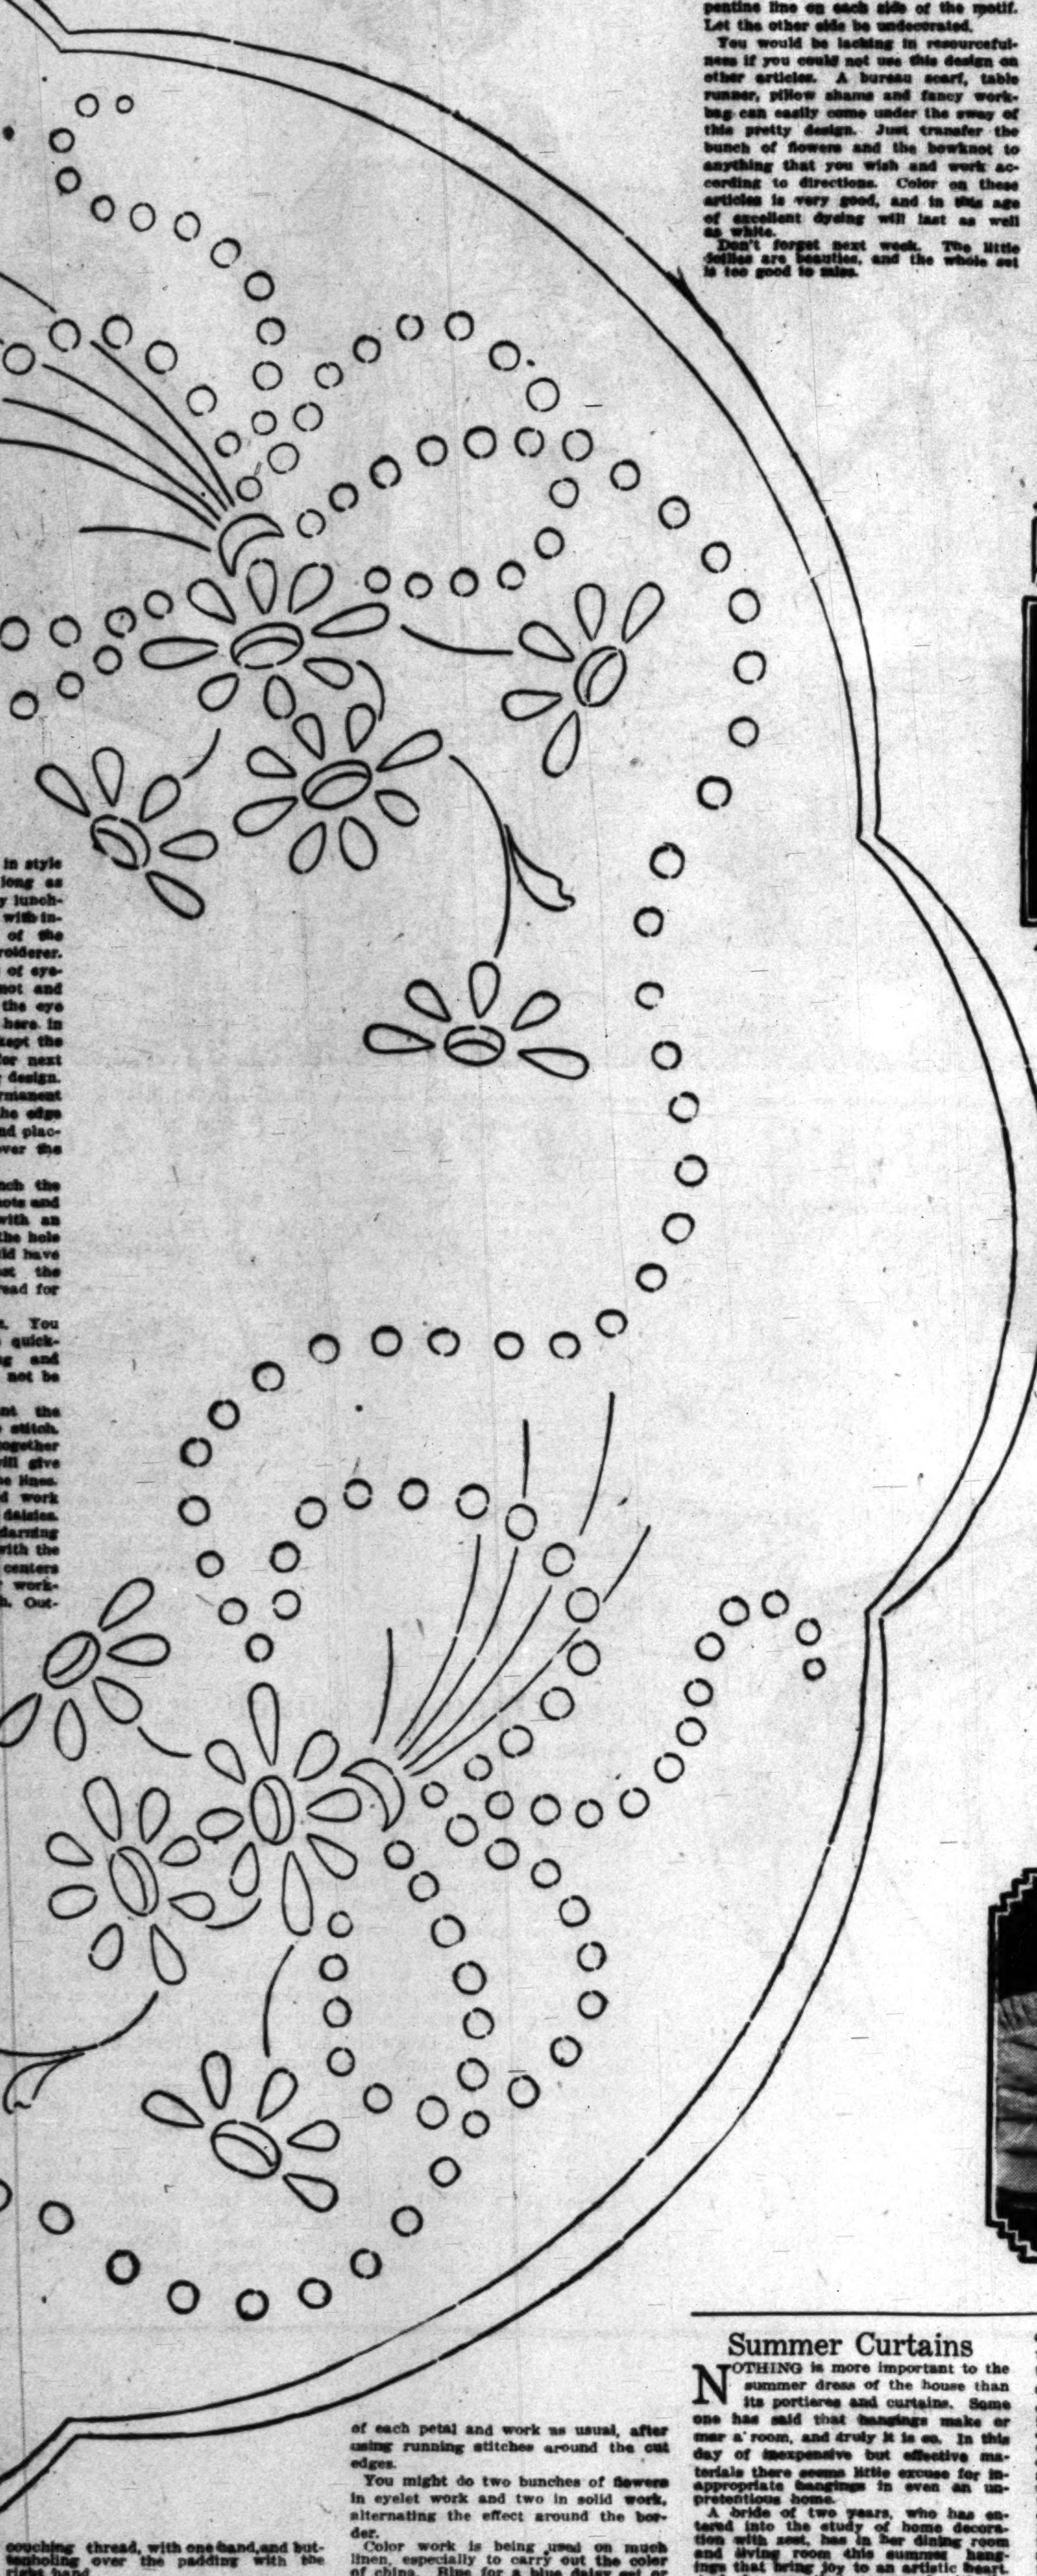
For An Eyelet Luncheon Set

Designed by Anna Loos



A LONG as luncheons are in style—and that will be as long as humanity eats—the pretty luncheon set, of a centerpiece with in[illegible] doilies, will be one of the [illegible] delights of the embroiderer. [illegible] is a beautiful combination of eyelet and solid work in a bowknot and [illegible] design that is a joy to the eye [illegible] hand. The centerpiece is here in [illegible] of its beauty. I have kept the [illegible] for plate and tumbler for next [illegible]. The design is a swinging design. [illegible] the dotted diagonal as a permanent [illegible] matching the scallops of the edge [illegible] you swing the half around, and placing the diagonal of one half over the [illegible] line of the other.

[illegible] now for the work. Punch the [illegible] which compose the bowknots and [illegible] line between the motifs with an [illegible] or steel puncher. Outline the hole [illegible] running stitches if you would have [illegible] eyelets, and then overcast the [illegible] using soft, mercerized thread for [illegible] work.

[illegible] work is very effective. You [illegible] find that you will require quickness and precision in working and [illegible] number of eyelets will not be [illegible] as at first.

[illegible] the lines that represent the [illegible] of the flowers in outline stitch. [illegible] the outlining, catching together [illegible] threads. This will give [illegible] appearance to the lines. [illegible] the little crescent in solid work [illegible] the solid stitch for the daisies. [illegible] petals lengthwise with darning [illegible] and work over and over with the [illegible] thread. Fill in the centers [illegible] French knots, after working [illegible] strip in solid stitch. [illegible] of Design

You can add lace to this simple edge with little difficulty, as the edge is very nearly straight. It can be set on underneath or shaped around the curves as usual.

I suggested the solid work for the daisies as a relief, but this design is beautiful if the petals are worked in eyelet work, giving a complete open effect.

Cut a straight line down the center of each petal and work as usual, after using running stitches around the cut edges.

You might do two bunches of flowers in eyelet work and two in solid work, alternating the effect around the border.

Color work is being used on much linen, especially to carry out the color of china. Blue for a blue daisy set or yellow for a cottage set would be charming. The eyelets should be in white and the flowers in color.

If you wish to experiment with this design, omit the daisies and work the bowknot with the lines between. You will find that the design is very simple, yet effective.

If you care to have a one-sided design, place a bunch of daisies with the bowknot and two ends, twining in serpentine line on each side of the motif. Let the other side be undecorated.

You would be lacking in resourcefulness if you could not use this design on other articles. A bureau scarf, table runner, pillow shams and fancy work-bag can easily come under the sway of this pretty design. Just transfer the bunch of flowers and the bowknot to anything that you wish and work according to directions. Color on these articles is very good, and in this age of excellent dyeing will last as well as white.

Don't forget next week. The little doilies are beauties, and the whole set is too good to miss.

Look in the Garden

THE other day a little woman opened her fancy-work bag, sighed long and wearily and said: "Well, here I go on my rose hunt again." It seems that everything in her hand-embroidered collection is built around the rose, wild or tamed, and she is growing tired. Yet this little needlewoman has a garden and can get all the inspiration that she needs if she will but use her eyes. Her fingers are clever enough to sketch or adapt any design that she wishes.

Forget-me-nots are delightful to the woman who likes the medium of French knots. The little petals are almost as small as the centers of the flowers, so one knot in the center and the rest surrounding it will give a flower. In white or color, this is especially effective, and when working on caps, dresses or carriage fittings for babies, these blossoms are particularly appropriate.

Spirea and wild carrots are also good for the "French knot fiend." The small flowers in white thread can be made of clusters of knots, some little, some large, and quickness will be soon acquired from practice.

How about nasturtiums? They can be worked in outline with the turned edges solid and the leaves filled in with seed stitches or darning stitches after being outlined.

Pansies, in outline, with radiating lines from a solid center are beautiful. Sweet peas in solid work, because the petals are small, and wistaria, worked the same way, make effective decorations.

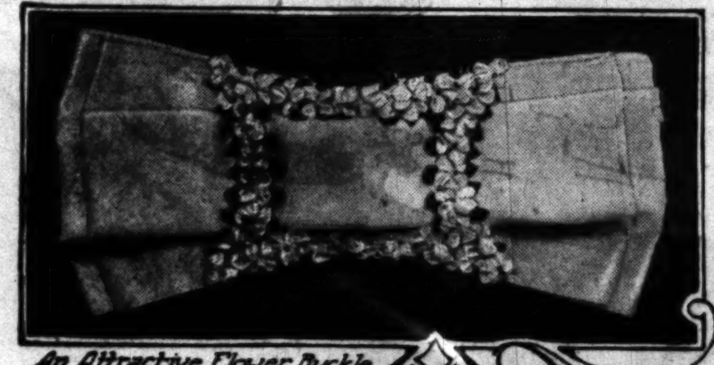
The wild daisies, asters and all flowers composed of many petals around a disk can be quickly worked with either straight lines of silk or coarse thread. The lazy-daisy stitch, which is a loop of thread held down by a little stitch at the outer end, is another aid to the woman who is striving for handwork without giving much time to the making.

Ragged robins in blue are made by lines of thread radiating along the petals, some longer than others. French knots form the centers.

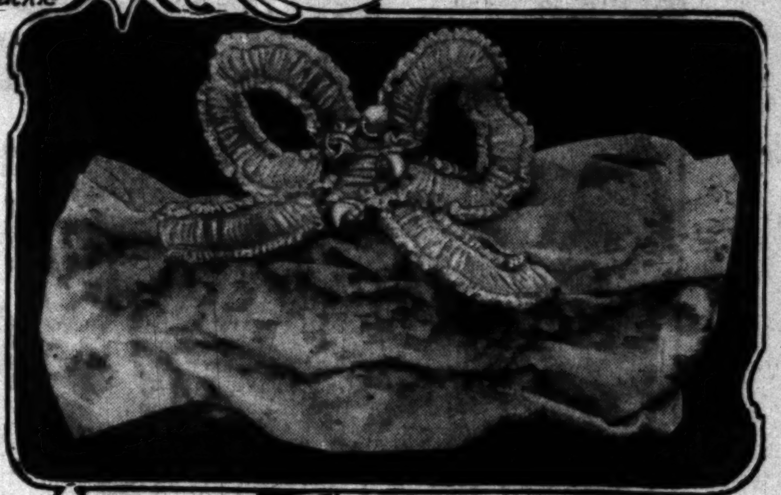
Peonies should be done in long-and-short stitches from the ends of the petals, the rest of the ovals being outlined.

There! Let these few flower hints lead you away from one blossom that will in oft-repeated form grow tiresome.

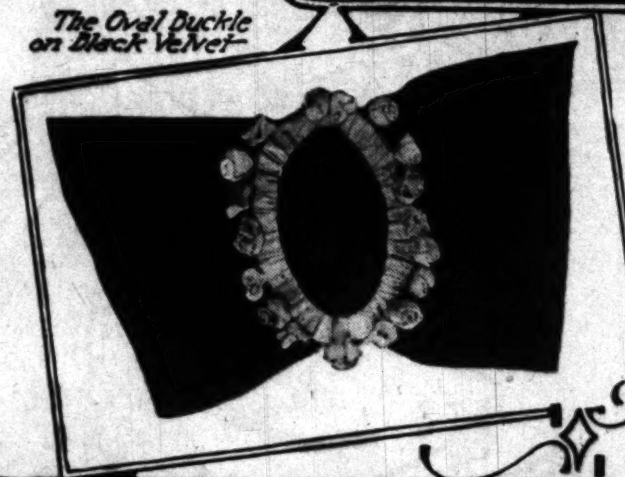
SASHES FOR THE SUMMER GIRL



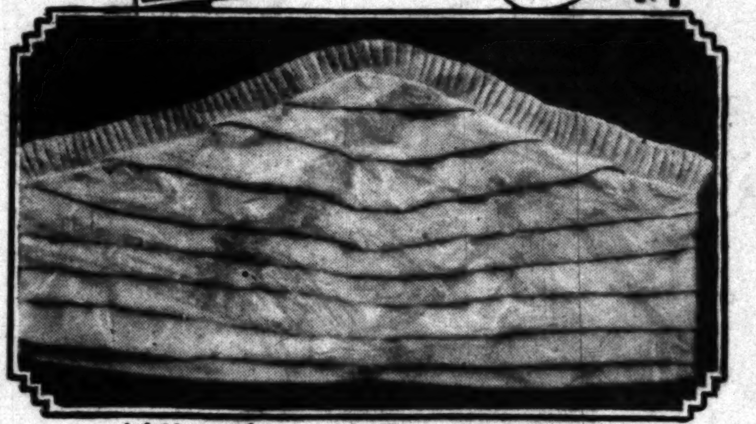
An Attractive Flower Buckle



Of Dresden Ribbon



The Oval Buckle on Black Velvet



With a Narrow Pleated Border

WHO can imagine a summer girl without a sash? This dainty accessory is always associated with girlish simplicity and fluttering muslins, for there are always three or four white frocks of sheerest muslin in the summer girl's wardrobe.

This season the girdle of black velvet is especially favored, and to duplicate the one pictured on this page, purchase a sufficient quantity of three-inch-wide black velvet to encircle the waist; tie in a flat bow at the back. If long ends are desired, purchase more velvet. From a piece of white buckram cut an oval buckle, and cover this with shirred pale-blue satin.

From small strips of pale blue, pink, yellow and violet satin fashion tiny swirled roses, violets and forget-me-nots. Attach these to a narrow green silk-covered wire and sew the garland thus formed about the border of the buckle.

An effective girdle for adorning a white lingerie frock is made of wide brocaded satin ribbon. The ribbon is folded in uniform pleats over a foundation of soft muslin, for no girdle dare be stiff this season.

The girdle is shaped to form a point at the front and back, and hooks and eyes are attached to the ends. Half-inch satin ribbon is finely knife-pleated and stitched to the top of the girdle and down the back, completing this charming sash.

There are always a few girls who prefer a white sash, and the one shown here has a flower buckle.

White satin ribbon six inches wide is folded about the waist and tied in a flat bow at the back. From white buckram cut an oblong buckle and cover it smoothly with white satin, and from narrow pale blue ribbon fashion forget-me-nots, gathering the half-inch ribbon at the lower edge to form each petal. Join four of these for each flower, and using dark green narrow ribbon make a loop at either side of the tiny flowers to represent leaves. Sew the forget-me-nots to the foundation until the buckle is completely covered.

The broad girdle of Dresden ribbon will appeal to many girls on account of its daintiness. Crush the wide rose-sprigged ribbon softly about the waist and stitch featherbone at the front, sides and back. Take a strip of inch-wide satin ribbon and gather it at each edge, drawing the thread as tightly as possible. From this shirred ribbon fashion a bowknot and adorn the center with a tiny wreath of miniature roses and forget-me-nots.

You will enjoy making these girdles, so do not hesitate to purchase the materials required and stitch at them during your idle moments.

THE LATEST YOKES

THE vogue of the yoke is amazing. Scarcely a gown appears without the transparent inset of net, lace or tulle, and it is a fashion becoming to every face, contributing a softness of line which is always desirable. The phases of the yoke are many, being round, square, U or V shaped, and it is fashioned of all transparent materials, from priceless lace to inexpensive maline. It is tucked, shirred, pleated or fitted smoothly over the neck, and seldom appears with a high collar.

Paris has sent over many handsome frocks whose dominant feature is the transparent yoke. Here are three examples of the smartest yokes from which to make your selection.

Shadow lace of an excellent quality is effectively used for the square yoke. Each side is softly folded and crossed fichu-like in front, passing beneath the high girdle. A pleated frill of lace starts at each side of the yoke, passes over the shoulder and terminates at the back.

This yoke can be successfully duplicated with point d'esprit, net, mousseline de soie or chiffon.

Artistic in the extremest sense of the word is the V-shaped yoke with revers of filet lace. The low-cut V has the hiatus filled in with a single thickness of the net smoothly fitted over the chest. This is finished at the top with a cording. Turning back from the neck line is a collar of net, bordered with a pleating of net, which produces a billowy softness about the neck.

The revers are formed of filet lace insertion joined to bands of sheer hemstitched linen. A scalloped edging of embroidered linen gives an effective finish to the revers.

When fashioning the revers, cluny or baby Irish crochet can be substituted for the filet lace.

On a dark blue gown of crepe charmeuse the V-shaped yoke of white chiffon is used to advantage. The yoke fits smoothly to the base of the neck and has a hemstitched band, bordered with narrow pleatings stitched through the center. A flat half-collar of the chiffon, the extreme edge finished with a pleated frill, turns back from the neck.

At the base of the collar is a flat bow of cerise ribbon with a picot edge, which contributes a charming touch of color. Covered buttons of the same color adorn the yoke.

Do not omit the yoke of transparent material from your new gowns if you desire to be in the advance guard of fashion's army.

This is an excellent suggestion for remodeling an old frock, so take it and conform it to your needs.

Summer Curtains

NOTHING is more important to the summer dress of the house than its portieres and curtains. Some one has said that hangings make or mar a room, and truly it is so. In this day of inexpensive but effective materials there seems little excuse for inappropriate hangings in even an unpretentious home.

A bride of two years, who has entered into the study of home decoration with zest, has in her dining room and living room this summer hangings that bring joy to an artistic heart. And she says that, compared with the result, the hangings cost her a mere song, besides bringing to her some pleasant afternoons spent in the company of some neighboring friends bent upon the same task.

The rather small dining room furnished in Jacobean oak, fashioned after the same period, is hung with curtains and portieres of blue linen, appliqued in a remarkably effective manner with another harmonizing shade of blue in the same material. Both shades blend beautifully with the Jacobean oak, and find a responsive note in my lady's quaint blue china. The applique in this instance is outlined with mercerized cotton. Silk, however, is sometimes used for the purpose. The bride used couching, but, if one prefers, the art stitch, satin stitch or cord may be used. Where no applique was used, the stems of the flowers on the bride's curtains were carried out in stemstitch. Material of lighter weight can be used for the hangings. Some think that thinner materials are daintiest for summer. An expert needlewoman who is fond of doing applique work says that if one is careful to blend the colors well and to keep in mind that the outlining serves the same purpose as the leaden outlining in a stained glass window, one is sure to obtain artistic results.

The living room of this same house is furnished in mission, and the bride, knowing the value of an appropriate background for her dark tresses and creamy skin, has here and there introduced a note of old rose. And the old rose, of course, contrasts beautifully with the greenish tint of the mission furniture. The color scheme has been carried out in the portieres and curtains of deep cream scrim, which the little woman has stenciled in old rose and green. She vouchsafed the information that scrim requires a lighter touch in stenciling than the heavy materials, and that dyes and not paints are the best for the amateur to use. Good dyes, when well set, will stand frequent washing and the glare of the sun.

And so, with a bit of delightful labor, a whole house can be well curtained at comparatively small expense. The housewife who hasn't the time needed has, perhaps, some young daughters who would only be too delighted to make anything for "mother" that would give such beautiful results, and daughter need not be very old to undertake the task. Boys are fond of stenciling, and should jump at the opportunity of making curtains. Materials and directions for stenciling can be obtained at any good art store.

How to Transfer

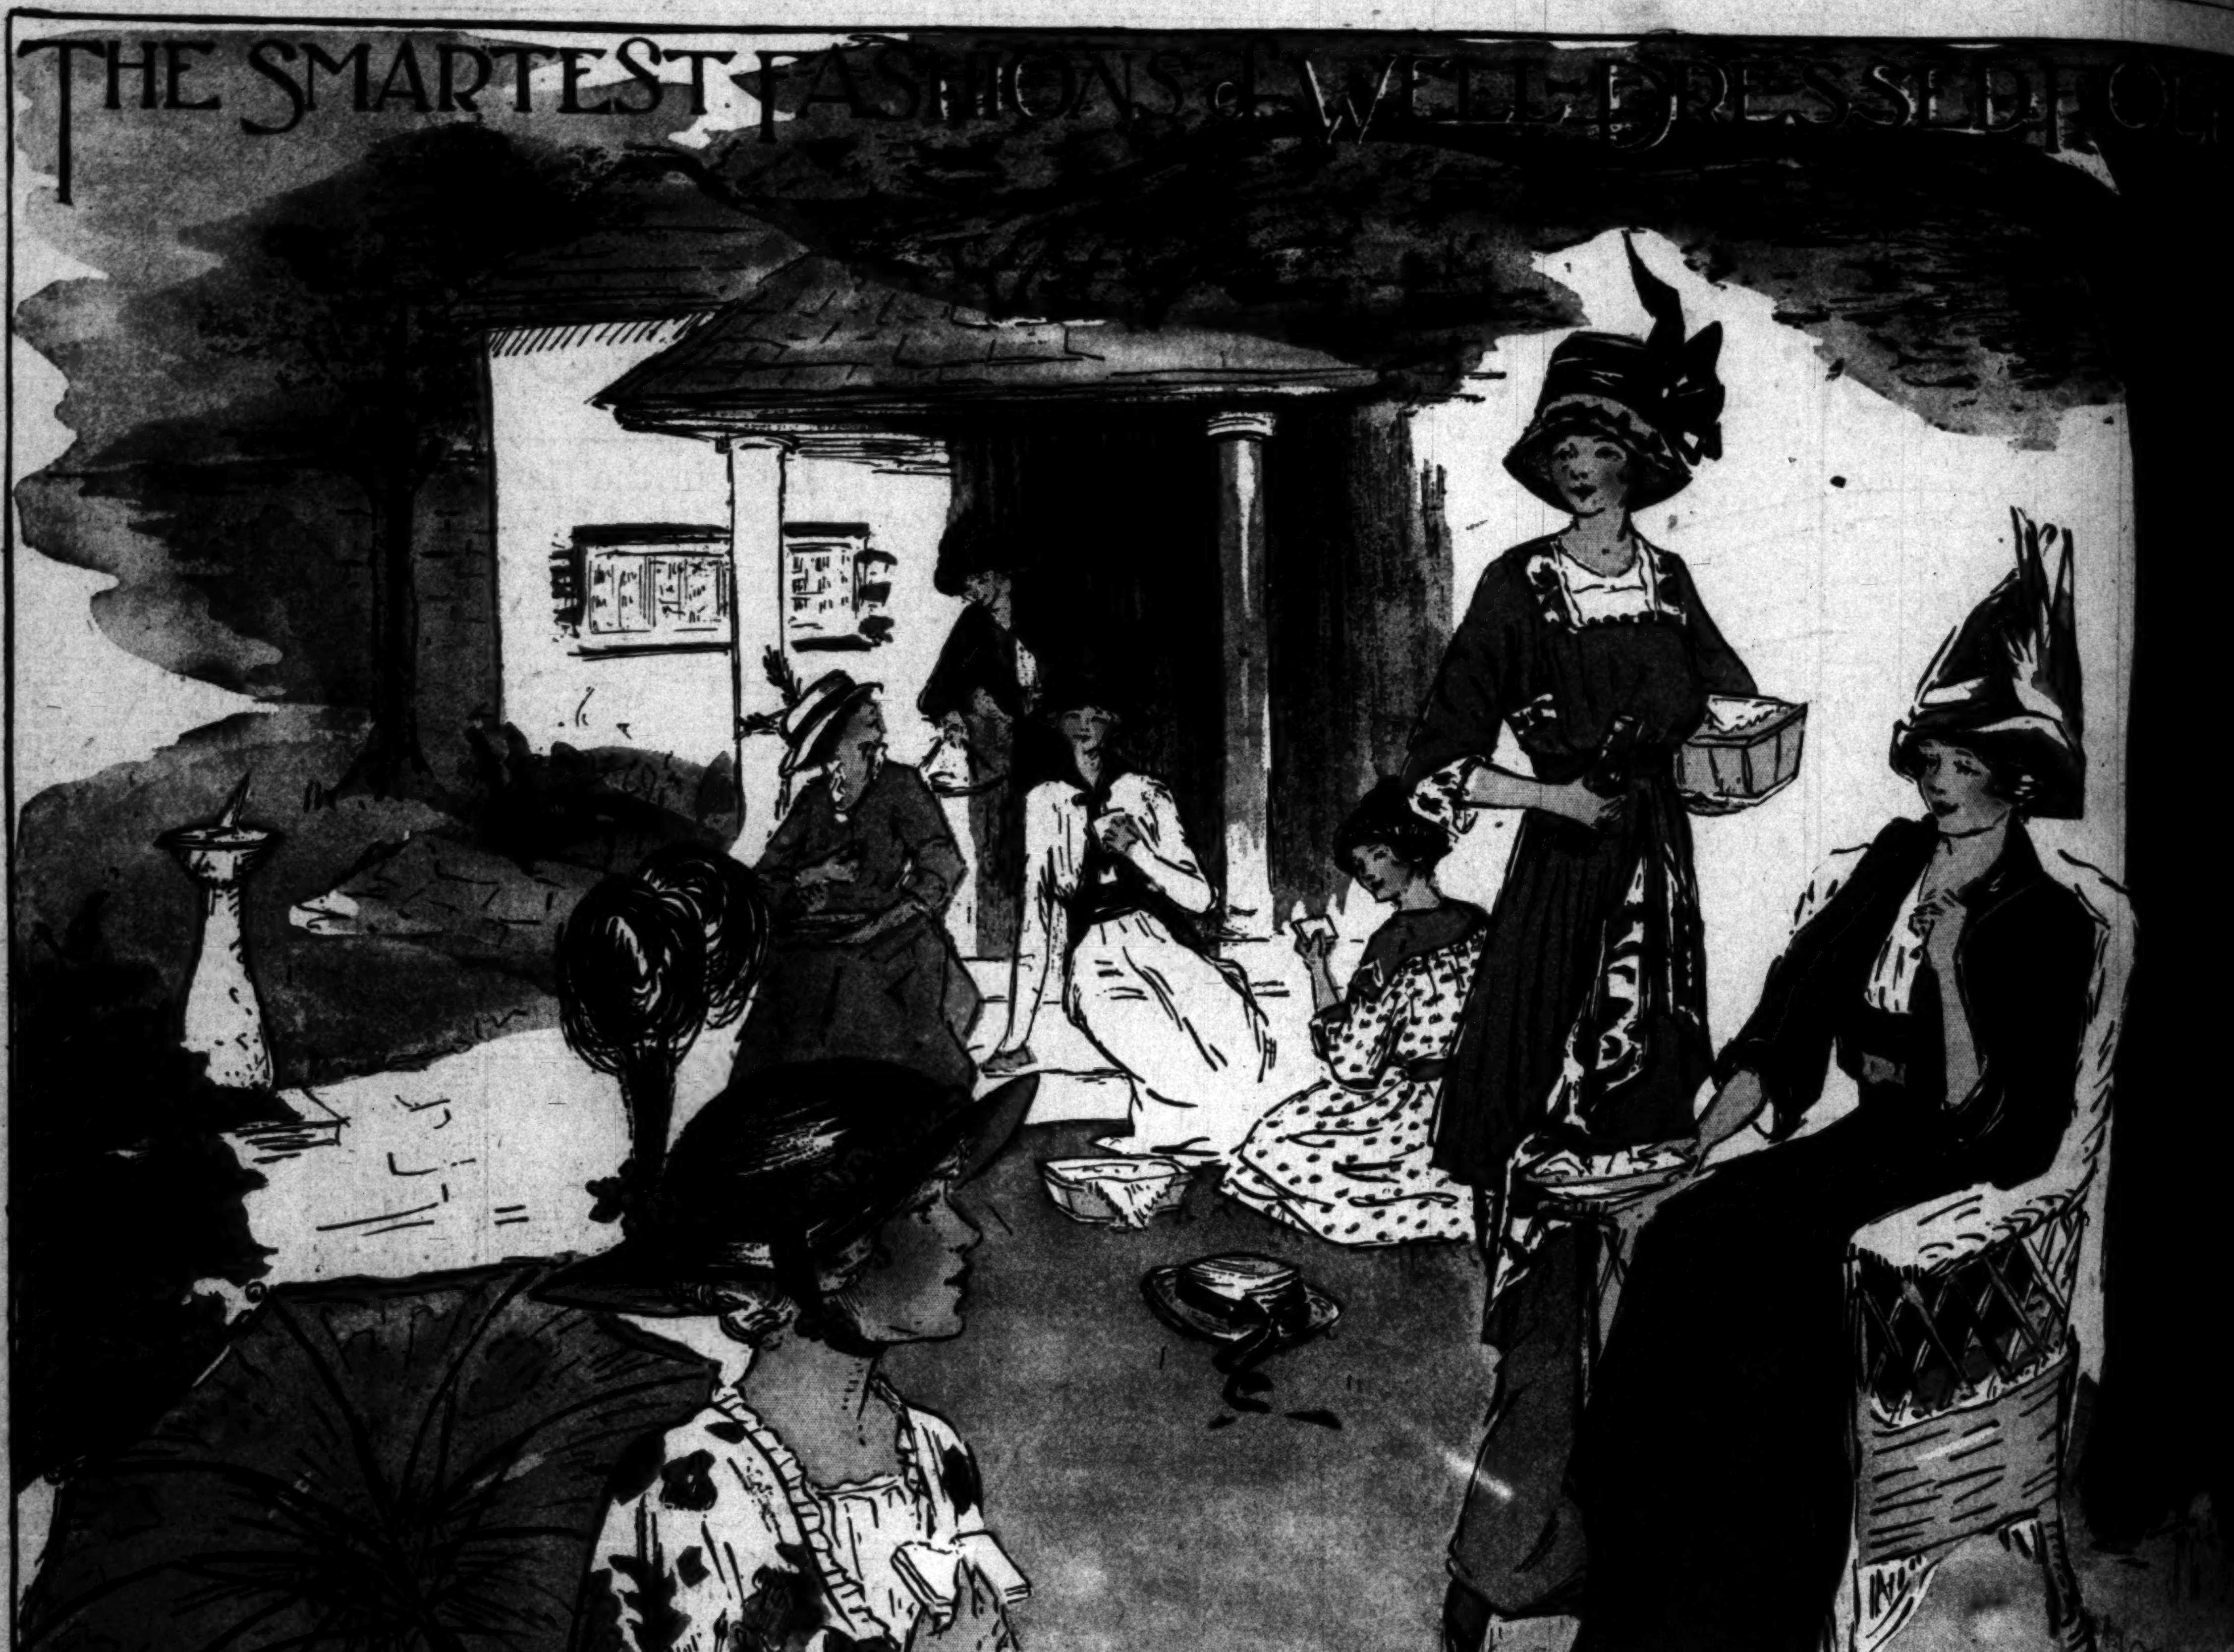
Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen through the goods. If one-half of the design only be given, unpin the paper and turn the other side to the fabric.

If you have carbon paper, you should place the sheet between your fabric and the newspaper. The latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in fine lines and will last until worked.

THE SMARTEST FASHIONS of WELL-DRESSED FO



An Open-Air Lunch

THE setting of a green lawn and a canopy of trees, with the blue sky peeping through, forms a summer idea for an outdoor luncheon which should be grasped by the hostess eager for "something different" and at the same time enjoyable. Luncheon can be served in individual boxes, and easy chairs and cushions will protect the afternoon dresses worn.

At a successful al fresco luncheon given recently some stunning styles were launched. Flowered frocks vied with dresses of voile, eponge and ratine. Styles in infinite variety, promising becomingness to all types, were the feature of the entertainment. Some of them are shown here.

The flowered voile is shown in a quaint style. It has a deep yoke of shirred net, with net ruffles outlining the sides. A bunch of pink roses holds the green crepe sash in a high point in front. Two fringed ends hang down in front. Cuffs of shirred net edge the sleeves, and an underskirt of [illegible] a pleated ruffle with a row of pink [illegible] buds. The black hat with a pink facing has curled aigrettes at the back and a chinband of velvet that is particularly becoming to a youthful face.

The use of color on white eponge [illegible] is shown in the figure on the steps. The collar and cuffs of lavender are of eponge. Long sleeves are shown.

Contrasts in coatees are very popular. The colored coat on the white skirt is an excellent expression of this style. Extended yokes are noticeable. In the flowered organdie dress of the black-haired guest this style is shown. Especially good, by the way, is the extended yoke for blouses of silk.

Graceful lines, soft fabrics and youthful silhouettes are the keynotes of successful summer styles. Choose the one most suited to your needs and fashion a frock after one of these models on the lawn.
